"Since when did minimalism come in bubblegum pink, jump high, and strut its stuff?" writes Deborah Jowitt of the Village Voice in her critique of Brian Brooks Moving Company's dance piece "Dance-O-Matic," which will be performed at 7 p.m. Friday, Sept. 3, in the CD Smith Theater in the Miller Performing Arts Center on the Alfred University campus.The performance is open to the public, free of charge, and is made possible by the Marlin and Ginger Miller Dance Residency Program at Alfred University. "Dance-O-Matic" is a critically acclaimed, all-pink performance extravaganza has been presented internationally for three years and was just performed at SummerStage in Central Park in New York City, said D. Chase Angier, assistant professor of dance in AU's Division of Performing Arts. Jennifer Dunning of the New York Times called "Dance-O-Matic" "thought-provoking physical counterpoint to evocative music."
