AU Wing Fest will 'rate the best'
2/14/05

One of Alfred University's newest student organizations, the Tastebuds, will be having its first big event of the semester Feb. 18. The Wing Fest, which will be held at 7 p.m., Friday in Powell Campus Center's Knight Club, will be a friendly competition among local food service establishments to see which one has the best tasting wings in the area. "The Wing Fest is basically a showcase of all the local businesses' best chicken wings," says Jessica Cabrera, a freshman communication studies major who is the president and founder of Tastebuds.The Wing Fest will work like this: People are required to purchase an advance ticket for $5, which entitles them to a maximum of 16 wings. Their ticket will also serve as their rating card, where they will rate the wings from each restaurant. The taste-testers will not know right which restaurant the wings are coming from, however."The name of the restaurant will not be placed near the wings because we don't want people to have preconceived ideas about which one tastes the best, "Cabrera explains.The restaurant that made the wings with the highest overall rating by the end of the night will be crowned the "Wing King" of Alfred.Tickets for this event are being sold all week long, in Powell Campus Center. There is a limit on the number of people that can enter, so tickets should be bought as soon as possible. Tickets cannot be purchased at the door.For more information on this event, email the Tastebuds at tb5@alfred.edu
