Bias Response Team Letter to the Community

To the Alfred University Community,
 As members of the Bias Response Team (BRT), we wish to take this opportunity to address a recent incident on campus and the BRT's actions taken in consequence. If you are unaware of the BRT, we function as volunteers who work collaboratively to create appropriate and educational responses to incidents of bias, hate, and discrimination on campus. Members of the BRT represent all spheres of the AU community, including students, staff, administration, and faculty. Incidents are brought to the attention of the team by the Dean of Students, Dr. Norm Pollard, who receives reports directly through various mechanisms, including AU Report It, an online form available at the MyAU Web site. On April 5, the BRT received a report about a noose hanging from a tree by Barresi Hall. The BRT took this report, and subsequent communications about the noose, extremely seriously. Within a few days, the person responsible for the incident came forward and the Dean of Students determined that no malice or prejudice was motivating the incident. Tolerance, equality, and human dignity are dear to Alfred and the BRT immediately plotted a course of effective action. We will continue our efforts to fight ignorance on our campus.
 We offer this information as a way to reassure our community that the Bias Response Team is an effective mechanism for redressing incidents of bias, hate, or discrimination. In our deliberations, we surfaced several realizations which we want to call to your attention.
 The idea of context permeates everything that we, as human beings, do. Our personal world-views are affected, shaped, and changed by historical, sociological, cultural, economic, religious, gender and many other factors. In this particular incident, the historical and cultural context of lynching was horribly and irrepressibly resonant, and yet, the person who hung the noose did not intend that contextual interpretation. The unintended consequences of the act were detrimental and hurtful. While the intention was not to offend, terrorize, or harm, because of the historical and racial context association with nooses, such were the consequences.

In our community, in Alfred, with our rich heritage of openness and tolerance, we are obligated to explore, with civility, the various contexts which affect how we view our world and the ways in which context affects our responses to the world. While the incident itself is deeply regrettable, it provides us, as members of the Alfred University community, an urgent call to engage in open dialogue that unpacks the mysteries of personal contexts. At AU, we share a common value here of open dialogue in the spirit of education and respect. We, as members of the BRT, strongly urge the campus to consider the importance of context, unintended consequences, and what we, as individuals can do to ensure an atmosphere of respect.

Sincerely,
Members of the Bias Response Team

Washington Semester Program for Fall 2010

Dr. Heineman of the Social Sciences Division is now taking applications for the Washington Semester Program for Fall 2010.

The Washington Semester Program is sponsored by American University and enables students to spend a semester in Washington, D.C. studying public policy in a variety of areas.

Students who have participated in the program have used their experience and contacts to obtain excellent positions in Washington and elsewhere.

In addition to taking coursework, students will meet with government officials and political leaders in seminar sessions and will participate in an internship of their choosing.

In addition to its major focus on American national government, the program also has a number of options utilizing non-governmental resources in the Washington area, including working with interest groups and art and cultural institutions. Some of these are: journalism, law enforcement, public law, economics, international business, international organizations, and women and politics.

Course credits and grades are fully transferable to the student's transcript. Students can obtain additional information on the program at www.washingtonsemester.co... Juniors or seniors are eligible to participate and scholarships are available.

Over the past year, Kalyn Follmer and Kristin Rubisch attended the program. Those interested should contact Dr. Heineman in room 209 of the Olin Building. Applications should be completed by Thursday, April 22, 2010.

AU/ASC 'Jar Wars' Raises Money for Haiti Trip

Nine Alfred University and Alfred State College students are raising money to fund an early June relief trip to Haiti. The students are connected through their faith, more specifically BASIC (Brothers and Sisters in Christ), the college organization affiliated with Alfred's Lighthouse Ministries.

Their "Jar War" program will help raise funds to build medical facilities in a community outside of Port a Prince, Haiti.

Jar Wars is a competitive twist on the often-seen loose-change jar collection. By tapping into school pride, BASIC students hope to inspire a friendly competition to see which school's jars can earn the highest "score." The scoring is where it gets creative; the program awards "positive points" for pennies and negative points for silver and cash. Therefore, depositing large sums of cash into a jar marked "AU" will actually help ASC have a higher score. Jars will be located at both Powell Center and Central Dining Hall from Sunday, April 11 through Saturday, April 24.

In a related note, Alfred University student and BASIC member Walner Edmond will also be joining the relief effort to his home country. Walner has received funding support through the highly successful Pour for Haiti, the Alfred University Foundry Guild's fundraiser which raised several thousand dollars earlier this year.
