Please Check Your Quarantined E-mail Box

Recently, campus community members have been reporting that legitimate e-mails from off-campus e-mail addresses have increasingly been bounced back to the sender and not being received on campus.

This observation coincides with an increase in the number of blacklisted Yahoo, Hotmail, AOL, and Road Runner e-mail servers.

ITS is continuing to look at e-mail solutions that will best serve the campus community. In those efforts, we have recently made changes that will allow more e-mails to be quarantined at <http://antispam.alfred.ed...> We are hopeful that these changes will ultimately allow more legitimate e-mails to be delivered to our campus users, while providing some level of protection from spam and scam e-mails.

With this in mind, it is very important to frequently check your quarantined e-mail. Please follow the directions on the attached sheet. This informational attachment also provides details on how to permanently "whitelist" an e-mail address so that it can be delivered without going through quarantine.

A general note about spam

Spam is not only an inconvenience, but also poses an information security risk. Increasingly sophisticated phishing scams have been successful in deceiving users (both on and off-campus) to provide login credentials to remote hackers. Please, never provide your login credentials regardless of how legitimate an e-mail request appears.

Spam is a resource-intensive problem for institutions of higher education, in that 8 out of 10 e-mails that hit our campus servers are spam. It is important to understand that the recent Epsilon security breach <<http://searchsecurity.tec...>> (which affected a number of very large banking and financial institutions, including TIAA-CREF) may place more importance on our ability to filter spam from legitimate e-mails.

If you have further questions please contact the ITS Helpdesk at 871.2222.

Samuel R. Scholes Jr. Lecture

The College of Liberal Arts and Sciences
Chemistry Department presents the 13th Annual Samuel R. Scholes Jr. Lecture

Tuesday, April 12
8 p.m.
Nevins Theater in the Powell Campus Center

Speaker: Roy Gephart
Environmental Scientist, Pacific Northwest National Laboratory, Richland, WA

"Across Generations: The Environmental Legacy of the Hanford Site"

The Hanford Site located in Washington State once produced plutonium for nuclear weapons. It was the first site in the world to release large amounts of radioactive contamination into the environment, thus exposing those who lived downwind and downriver.

Hanford now contains the largest accumulation of nuclear waste and materials in the western hemisphere. Generations will face this legacy. Today, Hanford's sole mission is environmental cleanup.

Although the site played a critical role in securing the military strength of the United States, Hanford is now judged by a new social consciousness - one critical of how waste was handled after the first concerns were voiced. However, therein lies a lesson: no generation is immune to pretense.
