

MANSFIELD WINS OVER VARSITY

Poor Game Results in 8-3 Victory

With that persistent jink which has trailed the Varsity Athletic teams in all their relations with Mansfield Normal during the past year, the Varsity baseball team, weakened by the loss of Bliss from the infield, hopelessly outlucked, and at times outplayed, lost the final game of the season at Alfred Field last Thursday by a score of 8-3.

King pitched a good game, allowing but two hits, but there were many errors of omission and commission behind him which accounted for the eight unearned runs which Mansfield chased across the plate. The disaster began in the second inning when five runs were scored, and Alfred was unable to gain the lead throughout the remainder of the contest.

It is unnecessary to give any detailed account of the game, except to say—and with a true alibi spirit this time—that due to afternoon laboratory periods, track activities, etc., the Varsity has been unable during the past two weeks to get in many afternoons of practice, and the loose way in which the ball was handled bears out the testimony, as, at the beginning of the season, the purple and gold played real baseball. With the staging of any other activities, interest in baseball at Alfred has been considerably diminished, and with a weakened team, Alfred simply could not hold out, even against an outfit as mediocre as that of Mansfield.

This game marks the passing from Alfred athletics of Walter King and Frank Lobaugh, both men who have been among the best all around athletes that the college has ever turned out.

A special meeting was called at 10 o'clock Tuesday morning at which Miss Crandall was present. Case was discussed and a motion was passed that she be advised to apologize before the Student body, Wednesday, May 26th. Also that she wear her Freshman cap from May 26th until sundown June 4th.

At a Student body meeting called after Assembly Wednesday, the case of Helena Crandall was brought up before the students. Her refusal to comply with the decision of the Senate was discussed and it was voted that she be instructed to wear her cap for the remainder of the year.

FIAT ENTERTAINMENT COMMENDABLE

Frosh Render Play To Juvenile Audience

The little Irish play, Rose of the Wind, was presented by four members of the Freshman Class, Saturday night in Firemens Hall, for the benefit of the Fiat Lux, and taking the place of the annual Fiat Fair.

The story is briefly the tale of an elemental, who chooses to burn her magic slippers, thus severing all relations with the fairy-kingdom to which she had hitherto belonged, for the sake of a mortal whom she loves, and, who loves another that has been saved from becoming a fairy by Rose of the Wind's unselfish act. Rose of the Wind finds happiness in the Cross and service to those she loves.

The cast was as follows:

Rose of the Wind Dorothy Ashforth
Sebastian—the cobbler Irwin Conroe
Nora—betrothed to Sebastian Ethel Hayward
A Minstrel—from Fairyland Eugene Eagle

The play was followed by a dance, the receipts of which likewise, went for the benefit of the college paper. Kenyon and Volk furnished the music.

There are more women in Boston University than in any woman's college in the country. This year there were 2,254 women enrolled at Boston University.

In Sweden, from 1889 to 1908, 65% of all the state prisoners had been brought, directly or indirectly, to that condition by alcohol.

GREEK PLAY PRESENTED

The Hippolytus of Euripides as given by an Alfred caste in front of Kenyon Memorial Hall on the evening of May 28, was a distinct success. The audience was enthusiastic and included not only a representative Alfred crowd, but several parties of out of town people. The features which deserve special mention, aside from the interest always evinced in an initial production, is the exceptional work of the players in all the roles, the beautiful costuming, the lighting, and the appropriate music. The plot of the Hippolytus is one which was well known to the audiences of ancient Athens but not as familiar to the modern playgoer, so that it was quite necessary for the actors last Wednesday evening to speak slowly and distinctly, a fact which they realized. The proceeds of this presentation will probably be devoted to a fund for making possible the frequent production of similar plays at Alfred in the future. The producers of the play have been requested to repeat at Hornell and hope to be able to conclude satisfactory arrangements for a second performance there next week.

The members of the caste were as follows:
Aphrodite—The Cyprian, Queen of Love Isabela Mack
Hippolytus—son of Theseus, the King Marius Felicetti
Huntsmen—companions of Hippolytus Irwin Conroe, Wardner Randolph
Nurse of Phaedra Iola Lanphere
Phaedra—wife of Theseus Muriel Earley

Attendants of Phaedra and Chorus Ada Walsh, Hazel Croxford, Helen Smalley, Fredericka Vossler
Theseus—King of Athens and Troezen Harry Smith
Messenger Irwin Conroe
Artemis—Goddess of the Chase Elsie Binns

FACULTY CHANGES FOR NEXT YEAR

After a successful year as temporary head of the Department of Philosophy and Education, Mrs. Helena Piotrowska relinquishes the position at the end of this year. Dr. A. L. Ide, instructor in Psychology in the University of Pennsylvania, has been appointed Professor of Philosophy and Education and head of the department.

Dr. Ide is a graduate of Hamline University with the A. B. degree. He received his A. M. degree from the University of Washington and his Ph. D. degree in Psychology and Philosophy from the University of Pennsylvania in 1919. He has also taken courses in Washington State College and the Washington State Normal. He has had considerable experience as a teacher, having taught in high schools, normal schools and universities in different sections of the country. Dr. Ide comes to us very highly recommended as a teacher of unusual ability and as a man of high character and ideals.

Miss Florence R. Kelly, instructor in Philosophy and Education, has asked for a leave of absence in order to accept a very desirable fellowship in Psychology at Syracuse University for the coming year. The vacancy has not yet been filled.

Morton E. Mix, who has been absent on leave for two years at the University of Wisconsin pursuing graduate work and who is a candidate this year for the Ph. D. degree, will return to Alfred as Professor of Modern Languages with Miss Margaret Landwehr, who has been graduate fellow for the A. M. degree in the University of Wisconsin, as assistant.

Both Miss Elsie Thrall and Mrs. Marie de Liminana, who have ably substituted as head of the department and assistant respectively, will therefore not return. Miss Thrall will study abroad.

Mrs. Arlotta B. Mix, who received A. M. degree from the University of Wisconsin in February and who has since been instructing in Freshman English in that university, will become instructor in English and Public Speaking as assistant in the Department of English.

Miss Elsie Binns of the Department of Modeling in the Ceramic School, has resigned her position to specialize in sculpture. Miss Marion L. Fosdick, now Professor of Drawing and Design, will be transferred to the Professorship of Modeling and Pottery.

Miss Clara K. Nelson, now instructor in art at the Carnegie Institute of Technology, Pittsburgh, and who has taught art during the past summer session at Alfred, will become Professor of Drawing and Design for the coming year. Miss Nelson's excellent work and pleasing personality are already well known in Alfred by her successful work in the summer session.

Jacob Trefz, Morningside College, won the Iowa State Prohibition Oratorical Contest, held at Simpson College, some days ago. Fremont Hendrickson of Iowa Wesleyan placed second and G. M. Ludwig, Western Union, third. The winners received in prizes $100, $35, and $15 respectively. This is the last I. P. A. oratorical contest to be held in Iowa.

HON. HORACE B. PACKER TO DELIVER DOCTOR'S ORATION

Will Act as Commencement Speaker

Alfred is very fortunate this year in securing the Hon. Horace B. Packer to deliver the Doctor's oration. Mr. Packer is an old friend of Alfred's, being a member of the class of '74, the same class of which Dean Kenyon was a member.

After leaving Alfred, Mr. Packer studied law for several years in Wellsboro, Pa., where he established a very successful practice. Mr. Packer soon left this practice and went to the United States Congress. He was a member of congress for ten years, during which time he was prominent in the affairs of the nation as committeeman, authority on United States territories and Government Finance.

Mr. Packer was the chairman of the Commission sent to Hawaii to investigate that country's request to become a territory of the United States. It was on the strength of this report that Hawaii was annexed by the United States.

Since retiring from public life Mr. Packer has been connected with large lumber interests in West Virginia. He has always been a loyal Alfred man and a most successful one. Only recently he made a donation of $100,000 to the Improvement Fund. We welcome Mr. Packer most heartily as he returns to deliver a Doctor's Oration at his Alma Mater.

The Ceramic Society held the final meeting of the year last Tuesday night when the losing teams of the Freshmen and Sophomores entertained the society to a smoker.

In the early part of the year it was decided to divide the classes into teams and hold debates. The losing teams were to entertain the society. After some time the losers planned to hold a smoker which came as the final meeting of the year. There were about thirty men present to enjoy the evening and to discuss the problems of the ceramist. Thus the most successful year that the Ceramic Society has ever known was brought to a close.

Last week occurred an incident which put our much cherished, democratic organization of student government to the extreme test. A problem, such as is not accounted for in so thoroughly idealistic a machine, was born and presented to the thinking apparatus of the students. A student, not having time to be bothered with the tiresome duty of procuring a Frosh cap for Track Day, was advised that she wear one until exam week. When asked to appear before the Senate in answer to the charge, she gave the impression she would, if it were real important, spare that Committee a little of her time. And in behalf of her fairy-like attitude toward the student organization, she was asked to apologize to the student-body, which she refused to do. And she didn't. To her the respect of the students is as yet a dream. The matter was placed before the students. It was discussed and decided that she be requested to wear the Freshman emblem until school was out,—a week longer than at first suggested. But the reel is as yet unsolved. This apology for a student outwardly revolts even to the cap measure and wears the said insignia when she pleases. And we have no law, no force which could be applied to a girl, to change the violator's views. There remains but one resource on which to draw. Without a question, student government, if practiced efficiently, is the best policy for any school. Our older advisors have recognized it as such and have sacrificed that we may enjoy its privileges. Now that we are confronted with this seemingly insoluble problem, the time has come for the Fates which control our college career to act, to display their esteem for an organization which we all honor.

ASSOCIATIONS Y. M. C. A.

Harry Kadlebowky gave an interesting talk on "The Burden of the Ballot Box." In discussing politicians, he said that ward bosses try to disintegrate our state and city governments by decentralizing them. When the voter is confronted with so many names on the ballot as the present system allows, he is likely to become confused and either fail to vote or mark a straight ticket. While the average man does not have the time to look into each candidate's records, the politician takes the trouble to learn which candidate will do the most for him. The result is that one boss or a group often control a city's election. Kadlebowky believed that the voter was now overburdened with candidates, especially those for State officers. In the discussion it developed that the leader's conviction, that State and city governments should be more centralized, was not the unanimous view of the group, and a snappy discussion followed.

During the meeting the arrangements for the Silver Bay Convention and our delegates there were described and the men present agreed to keep working to get strong men to represent us there.

Although only a few are turning out for Association meetings, those few feel that the topics and the fellowship are well worth while. The last meeting of the year will be held in the Gothic at 7 next Sunday night, and every man in College is urged to come and discuss "The Negro Problem." The topic will be outlined by Mr. Carter.

Y. W. C. A.

Jeanie B. was the chairman of the Senior meeting. She strove bravely to have her program an interesting and instructive one. The topic was: What my religion was when I was a Freshman, and what it is now.

She has seen all the Senior girls about the topic and urged upon them the desirability of their furnishing a share of the material to be presented.

Ordinarily, this might have been a wise procedure, but baffled by an examination of their present views (many even had difficulty in discovering just what their present views are as contrasted with those of four years ago)

PERSONAL

Julia O'Brien attended church in Andover, Sunday.

Mrs. Middaugh was in Belmont, over the week-end.

Charles Lake and George Ford spent the week-end at Hornell.

Eloise Clarke and Muriel Earley spent the week-end in Andover.

Bob and Dick Lyman spent the week-end at their home in Fillmore.

Anna Lown and Isabel Emerson were in Hornell, Saturday and Sunday.

Burtie Bliss is taking a vacation on crutches, we are sorry to learn.

Vassar Lowe spent the past week-end with his parents at Belmont.

Anna Crofoot and Marion Campbell accompanied Mr. and Mrs. E. O. Reynolds to Niagara, Saturday, returning Monday night.

George Blumenthal and Robert Clark pursued the elusive pill around the Hornell links last Sunday.

Martin Larrabee, Thomas Walker, Robert Boyd and John Slough were at their homes in Wellsville over the week-end.

Several of our grads were in town to spend the week-end with friends. We were glad to welcome Don Hagar, Dotty Baxter, Elizabeth Davis '19, and Horace Stone, ex-'17.

Owing to the festive co-operation exercised in the furnishing of material, the Fiat is two days late this week. It is perhaps better thus, inasmuch as there will not be another issue until the Thursday of Commencement week.

The past week of perfect summer weather has not noticeably increased the percentage of "grinds" in our student body. In fact, most of us have answered the call of the great outdoors, when we should have listened to that "still small voice" urging study.

Henry Stryker and Sanford Cole spent Saturday and Sunday at Buffalo and Niagara Falls. They report that water is still pouring over the Falls in spite of the dry spell, and that some stronger liquids are leaking over the International Bridge in spite of Revenue officers and cops.

The lack of excitement and "pep," so obvious at our Interclass Track Meet, was due largely to those who failed to attend, both athletes and spectators. Many of us got up in time for the Tennis Tournament, and were interested enough to stay at the courts, while many others were using the day for visits to nearby towns.

and wrought upon by the glorious weather, the majority of Jean's helpers followed the line of least resistance scattering themselves about the hills and valleys, in order to elude pursuit. Jean called the meeting off, till next Sunday.

ASSEMBLY

Prof. Kelly Speaks On Whittier-Land

Professor Florence B. Kelly spoke on Whittier-Land in Assembly last Wednesday giving the assemblage glimpses of the surroundings and friends of New England's well-loved poet, John Greenleaf Whittier. Her address was supplemented by stereopticon slides.

The speaker portrayed the many and beautiful scenes in and near Haverhill, Mass., the birthplace of Whittier. When we view the pictures or slides showing the brook, the tall sycamores, the old fashioned farm-home and its surroundings, the little shack that served as a school house we can easily understand why Whittier as a poet and lover of nature immortalized those home surroundings and why they appealed to him.

A brief sketch of Whittier's life added a touch of color to the address and when the portraits of Whittier, his mother, and his sister were shown one had but to let his imagination play in order to picture that early home life and the life of later years. Whittier has clearly described his home and family in his most beautiful poem "Snowbound." William Lloyd Garrison, the man who did most to start Whittier on his career as a poet, was also pictured. It was to Garrison that Whittier's sister first sent his poems for publication. The publication of these poems began a life-long friendship between these two men.

The houses in which Whittier was born and lived are still preserved with the furniture left as it was in Whittier's day. About them still cling the old Quaker atmosphere which takes the visitor back to the early days.

The address was particularly interesting in that it was a description of Miss Kelly's home town, Haverhill. It was easy for her to portray to us the old scenes and buildings so familiar to all New Englanders and Whittier has always been appreciated by them because he sang of the home land. He did not care for the excitement of travel, nor the landing of strange places. His was a love for the old scenes and home of his ancestors.

A NEW FLOORING MATERIAL

Two Alfred Professors Bring Out A Flooring That Has Great Possibilities

Profs. Shaw and Bole of the Ceramic School have been carrying out investigations during the past few years on a flooring material which will have the resistance of the cork flooring materials on the market at the present time and at the same time the wearing properties of portland cement—it is also desirable to have a material that can be oiled as hard wood floors are, thus reducing dust to a minimum.

There are materials on the market at the present time that answer these requirements fairly well, but the price at which they must be sold, due to the high cost of the raw materials, makes their application very limited.

Messrs. Shaw & Bole have, however, been able to produce a flooring material of identical character from materials found in all parts of the country and obtainable at a low cost.

A patent has been obtained on the product and other patents are pending covering the method of manufacture. Several large flooring materials concerns are anxious to handle the product, but the method of marketing the material is as yet undecided.

An experimental plant will be started in Alfred in the immediate future with a capacity of from one to two tons a day, which quantity will lay from 500 to 1000 square feet of floor.

A floor of this material is being laid in the University Bank, but due to the freight tie up some of the material failed to arrive in time to complete the job last week-end as had been intended.

The superiority of a similar flooring material has long been proven as it has been used in Pulman coaches, rail road stations and public buildings, but, as above stated, due to its high cost has never come into universal use.

The developments above referred to will doubtless bring this excellent flooring material within the reach of all builders.
