Cosmopolitan Club

The regular meeting of the Cosmopolitan Club, held last Sunday evening at Kegel Hall, proved to be of an unusually interesting and instructive nature. After a short business session three speakers gave talks on different phases of cosmopolitanism.

Dean Titterworth addressed the club, speaking "What being an American means to an immigrant." He first enumerated several of the fine characteristics which the American people have gained through the influence of foreign immigrants who have settled here. Then he pointed out a benefit of student immigration which is seldom realized. There is no doubt that the foreign students in American colleges are setting the scholastic pace, thus provoking native students to greater effort.

Mr. Fred Gorab, in his short speech on "Syria," gave a comprehensive historical and economic sketch of his native land. The final number of the immigrant. He first enumerated the immigrant who have settled here. Mr. Fred Gorab, in his short speech on "Syria," gave a comprehensive historical and economic sketch of his native land. Yang expressed his regret at leaving Alfred soon. The members adopted three speakers gave talks on different phases of cosmopolitanism.

The VALUE of an A. B.

In looking through the catalogues of different colleges and universities it is surprising to see that little attention is given to the A. B. course. There are large enrollments in every other course; but the A. B. course is neglected. From this neglect it is evident that the A. B. course is very little in American student's mind. He is not willing to spend his money on an education that may be of no use to him in the future. He must rush through school, get his diploma, and become rich. The thought uppermost in his mind is, "I will try and get what I can get in the minimum time." This is very possible, but, "I wonder how fast and with how little I can get through?"

Most students are familiar with the college course only from a narrow, mercenary angle, and consequently the idea of an A. B. cannot be tolerated. The people of today are too practical. They think and reason in terms of money, and of money only. Now-a-days a man can see the immediate value of a thing in dollars and cents and he will not even see the immediate value of a thing in dollars and cents he will not even see the immediate value of a thing. He wants to get a good education in any course that will be of immediate and direct value to him.

Field goals: Smith 5, Holmes, Eagle 1, Sanford Chipman 1, total 7. FRESHMEN 30, SENIORS 13

The Freshman battalion held in order to secure their recent victory over the Seniors. This was accomplished by the end of the day. The game was played on a rather even basis, especially during the early stages. The Freshmen showed the more reserve power and handled the ball much better than the Sophomores.

PROOF OF TRUE FRIENDSHIP

What More Could Be Asked of Any Man Than the Sacrifice That Is Here Recorded?

There are various ways of evidencing true friendship. Sorrow and suffering bring out the best in us when we are united. It is our habit to express it hypothetically and not always does it prove that sympathy and friendship are skin. When a man will lend you money without consideration he is indeed a friend. But we find our true friends in other ways. The other day we were in a hurry and we needed a hair cut. So we went into our favorite barber shop to find our favorite barber busy, and a man ahead of us.

"You always have the same barber, don't you?"

"Yep," we replied.

"Well, I'm next for his chair, but I'm in no hurry. You just go ahead and take your cut right now.

There was friendship for you, and as we thanked him for his kindness we couldn't help remarking that:

"Great hair has no name; thus this, that he will give up his place in a barber shop for another."—Exchange.

SPIDER REAIIY HAS BRAINS

Are Possessed of Degree of Intelligence That Has Been Recognized by Scientists.

Spiders are commonly spoken of as insects, but they aren't. They belong to a very different order of animals, being "arthropods." Theyget this name, we have found, from a mythological maiden named Arachne, who was so proud of her weaving that she challenged Minerva to a trial of skill. The goddess accepted the challenge, but finding herself in danger of defeat, lost her composure, struck her presumptuous rival and turned her into a spider.

The spider is incomparably more intelligent than any insect, and its vision is a marvel of nature obtained for it a well-warranted admiration. It is the female that does this work, the male being only a feebler of her site and of no account except for contesting the nests.

A spider has what may be called a reproducible brain. But so, for the matter of that, has a cat. Moreover, the nervous system of the latter has merited a rousing of kudos from every species (ganglia) at intervals along it.

To Well Without Meat.

Less than a third of the world's population gets what we ought not to these good meats a day, yet the working capabilities of the, from our point of view, underdeveloped peoples of Asia and Africa can option with very little Europe or America. The average annual consumption of the world is 39 pounds a head, yet both the Australians and the Americans eat nearly 190 pounds per head, and the Englishman is far behind with about 130 pounds.
