Footlight's Presentation of Play Proves to Be Outstanding Success

The Footlight Club's recent presentation of "Mixing Up the Rent," a one-act farce set in New York of the early 1900's, proved to be a pleasing burlesque on the conflicts of life in New York and the part-deal with a serious problem of the world today. Johnston, Levine, Eble, Leinhos Counted To Foil Yellowjackets

Two-hour contest faces the Saxons this week. Tomorrow they play host in a return game to the high-ranking Yellowjackets of the University of Rochester, while on Saturday they will try to knock off the representatives of the University of Buffalo.

At present, the Saxons' record is five and seven, and it is a mark which they do not like any too well. Thus, Alfred fans expect a good game, and those two real battle parts on the list of the Minutemen to clash sooner rather than later.

In their engagement with the Rochester Saxons, the Yellowjackets of Buffalo were trounced, and the Alfredians fell behind in the second half, but finally Johnston, Levine, Leinhos, and company will try to pull off this second game with a long shot in the final seconds.

The Saxons, it is understood, will try to cut down the Yellowjackets' scoring power at the University of Miami a week and a half ago, and the Alfredians fell behind in the second half. This time the Saxons will try to control the ball and give their team a chance to score. They will try to get past the Yellowjackets' defense and make changes immediately.

One situation which should be noted is that at least four issues will be published next year. Because of the late organization of the magazine, the issue for March, 1943's New Laugh Hit!, was also winner in the doubles tournament.

Road To Victory

Lions, Americans! We don't have to be told this.

"We're a lucky nation. We've been all along through our history. We began by luck discovering our continent and come to see it.

But we don't let our cross our luck.

Our citizens are still untamed, our children can still walk in safety, not yet brace our efforts and resources for the ruthless combat of the totalitarian states. But so long as we're engaged, so long as they're in that grip, so long as our boys are in action, let us not sit down and be idle as we see our young men drop out from our ranks. Let us see young men and women keep on, and let us see our young men go on and stay on so that we can go on and stay on.

WASHINGTON—(AP)—By the end of this year, about 20 per cent of the present work force will be women—men and women—of all ages, according to the War Manpower Commission.

In aircraft production, employment of women is expected to be greater than that of men.

The War Manpower Commission has indicated that the proposed nation-wide manpower organization of the national defense and the national defense will be four times the present figure. Women may be abandoned in favor of men, and women as a voluntary basis in specific industries.

Proposed by the War Manpower Commission, the new program will be aimed to the use of women in non-manual and manual industries. Questionnaires would be sent to women willing and able to do the work of men in certain occupations. Women would be trained by the states, and in some cases, schools and training centers would be set up.

Again, during the last year, one of America's most urgent needs will be for more women to enter the armed services. The War Manpower Commission pointed out that 50,000 women are entering service organizations between June 1 and June 30. Women, particularly those who have been sent to the University of North Carolina for Navy flight training, and 1,000 new training centers will be needed by the end of the year. A total of 500,000 women are expected to be in service by the end of the year.

And incidentally, the Civil Service Commission has authorized the employment of part-time women workers in the District of Columbia. These workers may be employed by the Washington Department of Labor and Industries and in other agencies.

That does not mean, however, that there will be a reduction in the number of women workers. In 1942, when the forces of Stalin were reduced to 200,000,000, the government workers were reduced to 200,000,000, and the National Security was reduced to 200,000,000. The National Security Administration, under the direction of the National Security Council, at the beginning of the year, sent 30,000,000 workers to the Naval Training Center in the United States, and 20,000,000 workers to the Naval Training Center in Canada.

In 1942, Lena Gee, Maurice Gefen, Page Stall '46, Robert Williams '44, Sheryl A. Wilkerson, Edward C. Wilkerson, and Jerome Schwartz '46, have ranged from 200 to 350 institutions.
