

Sheep, dogs, and AU Professor Diane Cox star in 'Doggie Hamlet,' now on tour
7/07/17

'Doggie Hamlet,' choreographed by Jane Carlson, was recently produced at Dartmouth College.

Alfred University Associate Professor of Sculpture Diane Cox — together with her sheep herding dogs — recently joined choreographer Ann Carlson in Carlson's production of Doggie Hamlet, performed at Dartmouth College and featuring human performers along with Cox's dogs and a small herd of sheep.

Following a performance in Hanover, N.H., the production moved to Jackson Hole, Wyo. for additional performances.

Read more about Cox's contributions to the performance at: <http://www.thedartmouth.com/article/2017/06/first-performance-of-doggie-hamlet-held-on-the-green>

A video excerpt of the production is also available at <https://vimeo.com/208547446>.