Upon completion of the Army Achievement Tests this week, and the final School Examinations, on Thursday and Friday, April 27th and 28th, the Army Specialized Training Program will be officially terminated at the close of the current semester on April the 29th.

It is contemplated that those of the Enlisted Reservists who have reached their eighteenth birthday by that date, will be ordered to active duty with the Army, while those who are not yet eighteen, and have maintained passing grades, will be sent to some University, where the Program is still in effect, to continue their studies.

The personnel remaining after the end of the month will consist of two Officers and nine Enlisted Men of the permanent party who will remain until such time as all administrative details, reports, property turn-in, etc. are accomplished.

The members of the Trainee Company and the permanent party wish to express their sincere appreciation to the Faculty, Students and various organizations, who, by their spontaneous endeavor, have made the stay of each individual soldier and E. R. C. an exceedingly pleasant interlude in the otherwise hum-drum existence of military life.

Three students have accepted positions to teach in Griffith Institute in Springville, New York. Elaine Beckstrand, Nellie Haehn and Margaret Lord will teach English, social studies, and commercial subjects, respectively.

Unique History Course Planned For Next Fall

The Department of History and Political Science announces a new course for the fall semester of next year under the title "Our Changing World."

This course devoted to post-war planning will be unique in content and method. Each meeting of the class will be devoted to the discussion of a particular topic and during the semester subjects covering many phases of life and interest will be considered.

The topic assigned for discussion at each meeting will be introduced with brief statements by a panel of faculty members and then the subject will be thrown open for discussion by the class. Each session will become a "town meeting" in miniature.

The course will be cooperative in the sense that faculty leadership will be drawn from a wide variety of departments in the University. It is hoped also that it will be possible occasionally to have experts from outside the University to participate.

Some of the topics suggested for discussion are the following: World Organization, Trends in Government, The Elimination of War, The Negro Problem in the United States, Post-War Housing, Post-War Education, Religion and the Church in the Post War World, International Trade, Access to Raw Materials, Population Trends, The United States and Latin-America, The United States and the Far East, The Agricultural Problem, Frontiers in Science and Medicine, Trends in Business, Aviation and its Social Implications, etc.

We are living in a revolutionary age and the world of tomorrow will be different in many respects from that of today. It will be the purpose of this course to stimulate constructive thought regarding the future as well as to assist students in preparing themselves for intelligent citizenship.

This is the first time in Alfred's history that a course of this nature has been offered. It is expected that many students will wish to register for it. It will probably be offered for two hours of credit and it is hoped that a time during the week can be found when it can meet for a double period. The course will be open as an elective to all students above the freshman class.

These amendments will be submitted to the Senate for approval.

This Past Year

As another college year is about to end and another Senior Class is about to graduate, the Seniors, as well as the rest of us, are thinking about the many things which we have done and the things which have happened during the past school year.

We think about those long hours we spent studying our history; the night before our term papers were due when we didn't get any sleep; the A. S. T. P. units which came and went, the new WSG rules and regulations which give us greater freedom, the new constitution of the Student Senate which makes for a better organized, more efficient form of student government; the nights we stayed up 'til the wee hours talking about social problems; the new acquaintances we have made; the Inter-Sorority Ball; the different type of Christmas which we celebrated; the glorious New Year's Eve we will never forget, the faux pas we committed when we were invited out to dinner; those heated discussions we had about so-and-so's new love affair; the flowers we received on Valentine's Day and Easter; the big stir Reverend Turner's speech caused on campus; the enlightening talk newspaper correspondent Leland Stowe gave at Forum; the moving-up-day exercises, the midnight snacks which we never missed; the Collegiate coffee which we drank just to keep warm; those three drawn-out days when we didn't receive a letter; those precious hours we wasted playing cards; those long nights we spent working at the Ceramic School; those interesting discussions we had in class when we managed to get our profs off the subject; that hectic painting job we did on our good furniture; the things we really learned in class; those wonderful post-war ideals we always talked about; the afternoons we spent at the Ag School; the teas we attended just to be polite; the night we composed silly songs; the many hours we spent typing at the business school; those smelly experiments we performed which nearly blew up Allen Lab; those times we were caught between Army divisions; the Guild Sale; the basketball game between the fellows and girls; the Houghton Choir; that important archery tournament during which we just couldn't find our right point of aim; those afternoons we spent in Hornell; the mornings when we just couldn't make our 8 o'clock; the fun we had just being there in Alfred; the unexplainable attachment we have acquired for the place.

These thoughts leave us a little happy and yet, a little sad. We feel glad to know that no more things like term papers will be due for quite some time, but we feel a rather nostalgic feeling when we realize that we can never relive some of the wonderful times we have had. Though some of us will go on to a new phase of life, the rest of us will return to profit by another year here at Alfred. Whatever we do and wherever we are, we will never forget this past year here. We are already looking forward to next year and the things in store for us then.

A Social Center

The long-felt need for a recreation center for students—Liberal Arts, Ceramic Arts, Ag-Tech—faculty, administration and townspeople was recognized last Thursday evening at the Independents' open meeting.

For a long time many of us have been talking about such a program, but few of us have ventured to do anything really constructive along these lines. As we recall the suggestions made, we realize that they were of two main ideas—one, immediate, the other, potential. We are agreed nevertheless, that such a center should be a place of relaxation; a place where we may sit around in clean, comfortable chairs, a place where we may listen to the type of music we enjoy at any time during the day; a place where we may sit and smoke between classes, a place where we may play a couple of rubbers of bridge during the evening, a place where we may gather to talk with our friends.

A big problem, however, exists in securing a location for the undertaking. In a project such as this and in times such as these, we must realize that not everything is possible—that some compromises must be made. Since it is uncertain whether a military unit will be here in the fall, it would seem advisable to plan for some building other than Burdick Hall for the duration. Social Hall seems to be available and if, perhaps, certain restrictions concerning its use were lifted, it would be a step in the right direction.

In projects such as these one must first think, then talk, and finally, act. We have thought a lot about a social center. We have talked a lot about a social center. Now we must organize and act wisely to get this social center. Those in charge will need our cooperation. Let us help them help us get what we want.

... Of Cabbages And Kings

By Stuart H. Pomerantz

In a speech which he recently delivered to Parliament, Winston Churchill criticized the United States for its isolationist attitude. He said that, because we failed to become members of the League of Nations, we were to a large degree responsible for the present World War.

The veracity of the statement by the Prime Minister cannot be denied. In the world of tomorrow the economic interdependence of different parts of the world will render unfeasible and untenable any policy resembling isolationism. We must cooperate with other parts of the world or lose our position as one of the major powers.

There has been much talk and some action taken in the planning of a post-war international organization. This organization will be a good thing, for it will bring to one place all problems which are of such magnitude that they affect the whole of international society. There is to be an international police force which will quell any conflict which threatens the peace of the world. It is hoped that through such measures as these, the necessity for war will be eliminated.

Let us briefly consider the last statement. If we look at what seems to be a logical theory for explaining the origin of war we will see that, because of certain characteristics present in man, it is inevitable that there shall always be conflict. These characteristic traits are part of what is summarily called human nature. Man is gregarious. He is also selfish. When these two traits are present simultaneously, a war is the probable end product of their combination.

Society is rapidly changing in modern times. War is a law of change. Human nature cannot be changed. War stems from human nature. For these and other reasons I fail to see how it is possible to completely eradicate wars in the future.

If an international organization is set up it should have the support of the American public. Politics should not be allowed to keep this nation out of the endeavor. The organization must be a union of cabbages rather than a union of kings. The masses must be educated to the role they are to play, for the cabbages have it in their power to control the destiny of the world. However, altruism and idealism must not be allowed to run rampant. If such an international organization is able to keep the world peaceful for fifty years, I shall feel, personally, that it is more than successful.

"On Our Way"

By Genevieve Mezey

"Hurray! Today I am a senior." That was a familiar cry around campus this past week. Everybody was happy because they had moved up one step in their ladder of success.

But what had happened to the poor seniors of this year? They were just nobodies, outcasts. Of course, you might call them alumni, but they didn't even have any diplomas and they still have those awful final exams to go through—a torture to which alumni are seldom, if ever, subjected.

You didn't hear them yelling "hurray". They might have been happy but they were a little sad, too. Happy in the thought that now at last they were going to use the wonderful knowledge they had accumulated over a period of sixteen years; they were going to make a stab at life on their own; they were going to be a help to somebody. Sad at the thought of leaving Alfred and all its traditions, customs and fun, sad at the thought of leaving so many friends who have grown so dear to them; sad at the thought of leaving school days behind them. Maybe they even felt a little fear of the road ahead. But the world is theirs, the road to success is right over the hill and they will soon conquer their fear.

Capt. Arkin Visits Alfred

Wearing the Distinguished Flying Cross and Oak Leaf Cluster, Captain Sanford Arkin, one of the most outstanding graduates of the Class of 1940, recently paid his friends on the Alfred faculty a visit. Since his induction into the army in 1941, Captain Arkin has been in three major engagements. He is now instructing cadets in combat flying at a field in Oklahoma.

"Sandy" hails from Brooklyn, N. Y. He was active in almost every campus organization and sport, including the Independents, the Ceramic Guild, Student Senate, Phi Psi Omega, Frosh Plays, Spiked Shoe and Varsity A. In his senior year he was elected to Who's Who in America Universities and Colleges and was Editor-in-Chief of the Kanakadea. Captain Arkin was Captain of the Track team in his junior year, was on the basketball team, and held the discus and shot-put record until Mike Green broke it two years ago.

Congratulations, Captain Arkin. Our best wishes for your continued success.

"I Am The Sign"

by Stewart Richardson, ERC
Shining brightly in the half-light of an October eve, snugly locked to its billboard, stood the sign. The gaslight cast flickering shadows across its large red block letters: It had been tacked into place this afternoon by a tall, mustached man, clad in a loud hounds-tooth check suit. The small hammer had rapped four times, then the man with the mustache had stepped backwards to admire his handiwork. Smiling, he had tucked the roll of posters under his arm and drifted down the street, scanning the byways for likely crannies to display his pictorial criterion.

The sign intrigued me, I knew not why. Just those large block serifed letters, simply, but forcefully stating: "Cornelius Ordway; the People's Choice." I stood for a long time, studying the sign. It has beauty, in its callous way, for it says so many things that so many people take for granted. My sign tells me many things; my piece of pulp and printer's ink conveys thoughts that words cannot. Where else could I see one like it; where else: "The People's Choice"?

Perhaps the days of the great are gone; the Calhouns, the Websters, the Clays—they have gone, their equals hidden in the factionalism of our new democracy, their ideals blossoming forth, and living on. It may be a dark age for democracy; some say it is; yet I have faith—I have my sign.

I glance over my shoulder as I walk away, and my sign speaks to me; I can hear it. "I am a sign. I am a part of democracy; I represent your desire to follow my advice; I desire that you follow what I represent because you have the right to do so. I am a part, not the whole. I am a section, a section that completes the whole. I am democracy; I grant you the right to believe or disbelieve me. I am democracy's way of presenting itself to you. I am the sign..."

SPORTSBULLETIN

By Renee Suchora
The regular college year is at its end and although many of the regular campus activities have been curtailed, because of this war, the Girls Sports have been as active as they have been in past years. We have Miss Creighton and the W.A.G.B. to thank, because it was through their efforts that the girls have been able to enjoy so many sports and tournaments even though intercollegiate games were denied to us.

Hats off to Hammy, Jeff and Marty Gibbo, they are the lucky girls who are now sporting the traditional white blazers every A. U. sports enthusiast dreams of possessing, not for the style but for the things it represents.

We'll be singing "Auld Lang Syne," to the class of '44 in about two weeks but I'm pretty sure they will not be easily "forgot" because they have set the greatest record in Girls Basketball at A. U. and have been known as the undefeatable team ever since they have arrived here as "Greenies".

We'll be looking forward to next year at Alfred and who knows we may get a group of Freshman girls who will vie with the class of '44 for honors in basketball and perhaps in some other sorts too.

Kanakadeas Will Arrive About May 1

The Kanakadeas are expected to arrive from the publishers about May 1. They will be distributed on the day of their arrival, announced Margaret Gibbo '44, Editor-in-Chief.

At a meeting of the Kanakadea staff in the Ceramic building Friday evening at 7:00 o'clock, editorial board members for next year's Kanakadea were elected.

The following members were chosen: Harriet Norton '45, Editor-in-Chief; Sydelle Fisher '46, business manager; Isabel Smith '44, senior editor; and Doris Hill '45, organization editor.

Carolyn Torrey '46 was elected associate editor; Donald Niemeth '47, photography editor; and Marjory Muenzenmaier '45, art editor.

Executive Committee Election On April 30

Members of the Executive Committee of the University Church will be elected Sunday, April 30, during the regular service. These include two adults who will have a two year term and three students who will serve for one year.

Nominees are Miss Hazel Humphrey, Mrs. K. O. Myrvaagnes, Mr. Harold Reid and Mr. E. M. Myers; for the students, Doris Coutant '45, Helen Dreher '45, Carolyn Torrey '46, Paul Cook '45, Paul Meissner '47, and Herbert McKinstry '47.

E. F. Hildebrand Serves On CSC In This County

Prof. E. Fritjof Hildebrand of the Department of Industrial Mechanics, has completed over one and one-half years of service with the Civil Service Commission of Allegany County.

Professor Hildebrand was appointed in October, 1942, to fill the vacancy left by the induction into service of Prof. J. Whitney Shea of Houghton College, Houghton, New York. The other members of the Commission are: Mr. M. Carey Drake of Friendship, New York, chairman; Mr. John J. Powers of Wellsville, New York, and Mrs. Hazel M. C. Saunders, Belmont, New York, Executive Secretary.

The project of the Commission has been to classify, according to type of work done, the position of every person in the county who receives tax money. These are divided into Unclassified, which includes elective offices, and Classified, which are appointed. The classified group is subdivided into the Exempt, which includes clerks, deputies, etc., Non-Competitive, which are jobs requiring high technical skill but involving small salary, and Competitive, which includes all others. The Commission has no authority over the Unclassified group, full authority over the competitive, and partial authority over the others.

Pres. Norwood Offers Services

President J. Nelson Norwood has offered to the Commission the use, free of charge, of Alfred University, its plant and personnel. Already, Prof. J. E. Whitcraft, of the Commercial, has done considerable work in making a study of jobs, such as typists, and secretaries, and has made up some tentative competitive examinations, which may be used by the Commission after the war. At present the Commission makes war appointments, which are effective for the duration and six months.

The work of the Commission from now on is to classify and govern the appointment of each new position filled under the Civil Service Act.

Tomorrow afternoon, Professor Hildebrand will attend a discussion meeting with the Commission of Cattaraugus County at Ellicottville. Thursday, he will meet with the Commission with Mr. McFarland of the State Civil Service Department at Wellsville.

Phyllis Little Is Elected President of Newman Club

Phyllis A. Little '45 was elected president of the Newman Club at a short meeting after Mass, Sunday.

It was decided that other officers will be chosen after the beginning of classes next September, because of the uncertainty as to whether present club members will be returning to school next year.

Opportunities In Land Army Offered

Opportunities for work in the Women's Land Army are now being offered to college women by the U. S. Corp Corps Organization.

These positions are open to all town and city women—the only requirement being a physician's certificate stating their fitness to do strenuous farm work. Women who want to, may participate in the war effort and at the same time enjoy an interesting experience in nearby out-door atmosphere with all expenses earned.

Recruits for two or more weeks are enrolled to live in camps from which they are assigned to work daily on nearby farms. Transportation to the camps is provided if the recruit works two weeks, or more. Return transportation is provided for those who work one or more months.

Women's Land Army recruits receive the prevailing wages and rates paid in the locality where they are employed.

An officer representing this service was in Alfred this last week-end trying to interest college women in joining and helping out in this way. Those interested in this important and essential work should contact Mrs. Degen.

"On Our Way"

(Continued from page two) thinking about is the fun you can have in your last year, and how important you're going to seem to the little freshmen coming in. You've got something else to think about, too. Yours is a great responsibility. Everyone on campus looks to you for advice and help. You hold the major offices on campus. What are you going to do with them? You're not just going to be officer-in-name-only, are you? It's up to you to pick up the reins and guide our organizations so they may remain important institutions on campus. It is up to you to set a good example to all other students on campus. After all, you're in your fourth year here, you ought to know what is right and wrong. At least, that's what the other students think and it's up to you to prove to them that they are right. Only one more year and you'll be going out into the world to join your friends who graduated this year. You wouldn't want them to think you've failed in the trust they gave you, would you? Moving-Up Day is part of Alfred, one which every student would hate to give up, but it certainly is with mixed emotions that we enter the assembly every year because we are one more step "on our way".

Dean Drake Wishes Summer Students To Contact Him Soon

Dean M. Ellis Drake announced this week that all students who plan to do summer work at Alfred, other than in the summer ceramic semester, surveying or the nursing program, should contact him immediately.

This year, for the first time in many years it is necessary to arrange courses in accordance with the demand. Almost any course in the curriculum can be taught if a sufficient number of students are interested. However the approximate number of students who are interested must be known before a course is scheduled.

Dean Drake urges any students who contemplates summer work to indicate his interest at once to avoid being disappointed later on.

Niagara Falls Concern Offers Students Work

The Carborundum Company of Niagara Falls is offering positions to college students—both men and women, during the summer vacation.

Graduates may obtain permanent positions in the engineering line. For further information contact Dean Dora K. Degan.

Infirmary Sums Up Activities

Patients who are being treated at the infirmary this week for colds and intestinal upsets are Richard Betts '46, Doris Coutant '45, Virginia McGowan, NC, Donald Niemeth '47, and Marilyn Timm, NC.

The infirmary has been very active this year. Under the able direction of Mrs. Alice C. McDermott, Superintendent, and with the aid and care of Mrs. Clara Mann, RN, and Drs. R. O. Hitchcock and E. H. Sutton, 104 bed patients have recuperated from various illnesses. During the year, there have been 2700 office calls for treatment and medication by the nurses.
