

Napolitano 93 speaks out on campus comedy

6/11/15

Dan Napolitano, AU director of student activities and Class of 1993, has a front-row seat to budding comics in his role. Dan is responsible for helping student leadership bring comics to campus throughout the academic year. His closeness and understanding of the topic prompted him to write down his thoughts regarding comedian Jerry Seinfeld's remarks on the future of stand-up comedy and in particular students and comedy on the college campus.

See Dan's thoughts by visiting: any of your comic colleagues though.
