LaFollette First Speaker

Wisconsin Governor Comes Oct. 30—Other Speakers Also Prominent In Fields of Science and Art

Governor Phillip LaFollette of Wisconsin, one of the foremost American statesmen and political economists of this era, will be the first of a series of national leaders who will appear before audiences at Alfred University this year.

Five celebrities will address gatherings at Alumni Hall during the fall and winter in the newly organized "Forum" which is being conducted by a committee of students and faculty members for the purpose of presenting an opportunity to students and outsiders to hear outstanding American speakers.

On October 30, the Wisconsin governor will address the "Forum" here. His address will concern the present day political and economic scene.

Under the chairmanship of Bernard Alexander, a committee has arranged for four other speakers. Dr. William Beebe, explorer, scientist and author, will tell of his experiences 3000 feet beneath the sea on November 20.

Elsie Mae Gordon, radio star, actress and comedienne will offer a repertoire of radio roles and dramatic skits on January 8.

The creator of the famous cartoon, "Old Bill," Bruce Bainsfather, will tell of his adventures in Russia, giving one of his famous "laughalogs." Mr. Bainsfather is credited with having laughed his way through more countries than any other explorer. His address will be February 19.

As a final program, Sigmund Spaeth, internationally known as the "Tune Detective" and the "Song Sleuth" of the radio, will address the "Forum." He is a leading musician and music critic. His address will be given March 25.

Mr. Alexander has organized a large committee to handle the program and the preparations. Tickets will be on sale for all students at the library during registration, or from Mr. Alexander. A capacity audience is expected to fill the auditorium since both the local faculty and many outside organizations have given enthusiastic endorsement of the educational series.

Rochester Executive Praises Alfred Campus

R. E. Myers, president of the R. M. Myers & Co., paper merchants of Rochester, was an Alfred visitor Thursday. After returning to Rochester he wrote the following to the editor concerning Alfred and the campus:

"I had no idea that this was as extensive and beautiful as it is. As a matter of fact, I think you folks are to be congratulated on the beauty of Alfred itself. It is more like a New England college town than any place I have seen in New York State."

Marriage Must Change For Better Service To God And Man—Spencer

Delegates to the Episcopalian young people's summer conference at Alfred University during the summer session were advised by the Very Rev. John Gilbert Spencer of Hornell to "retain all that is good in the old order for the new" in determining how marriage and the home must change in keeping with modern conditions.

"Marriage and the family are not inelastic but are alive and growing institutions," the Rev. Spencer said. "Our task is to find out how they must change for better service to humanity according to the will of God."

Alternatives to the home, under present economic stress, are the club and the restaurant or living together without legal marriage for purely economic reasons, the speaker continued.

As symptoms of the altered status of marriage he listed the increased freedom of women, necessity for the wife to work after marriage, and widened knowledge of sex matters, "so that it is now impossible and undesirable to keep children ignorant of the realities of life."

Two papers were delivered by delegates, one mentioning qualities usually considered in picking a marriage partner, and the other telling what qualities Christians should consider in their partners.

As listed by Otto Mannhardt of Rochester, couples usually consider "falling in love" first, then personal gain, common interests, social position, personal attractiveness, education and physical well-being.

Miss Vara Darrow of Hornell wrote that Christian couples should require trustworthiness, co-operation, friendliness, reverence, courage, health, and family background.

Entertain Men At Bartlett Smoker

Under the auspices of the A. U. C. A. the freshmen were entertained at Bartlett Dormitory, Wednesday evening. President J. Nelson Norwood, Deans Drake, Holmes and Whitford, attended as did all other male members of the faculty.

An atmosphere of informality was prevalent throughout the evening. Freshmen became acquainted with faculty members, played bridge with them, took part in the customary "bull sessions" enveloped in clouds of smoke.

Short talks were given by leading upperclassmen on the campus. They told of what awaited the incoming student and urged all to take an active part in activities. This was followed by the singing of college songs, cheers, then the serving of refreshments.

The committee on Freshman Activity under the A. U. C. A. consisted of Chaplain J. C. McLeod, Elmer Rosenberg, chairman, Stuart Schatz, and Russell Buchholz.

Many Activities Invite Freshmen

Opportunity Open For New Students To Enter College Life

Suggestions Offered Recreation and Knowledge Combined in Clubs

Incoming students have heard much of the traditions of Alfred University. The Freshman Handbook has given a resume of the extra-curricula activities but the following additional facts are given for the benefit of everyone:

Debate
Alfred Forensic Society is a club to sponsor inter-collegiate debates, and to represent Alfred in State and National Forensic Conferences. It will hold its first meeting Wednesday, September 25, in Room 2 of the Greene Block, at 7:00 p. m.

Membership is open to those who are interested in debate, whether formal or informal. Plans are being made for additional programs.

Miss Mary Rogers, new debate and dramatic instructor, will take an active interest in the club and cooperate with Mrs. Warren P. Cortelyou in furthering the ideals of the organization.

International Relations
International Relations' Club of Alfred is sponsored by the Carnegie Foundation, which submits choice books, pamphlets, and fortnightly summaries of current happenings. Dean M. Ellis Drake is faculty advisor. Present plans include attendance at the National Convention to be held at Syracuse University on November 11 and 12. The officers anticipate having prominent speakers at Alfred this year. Other plans call for an International Game Evening, Ball and Dinner.

Attendance at special meetings is open to all. Those showing interest will be afforded an opportunity to join upon recommendation. President Leonard Lernowitz announces the first meeting to be held on Tuesday, Sept. 24, and asks all interested to watch for announcements as to program.

Government
Miss Barbara Bastow, president of the Woman's Student Government, whose membership consists of all women on the campus, has announced that the first meeting will be held Monday afternoon, Sept. 30, at 5:15 in the Gothic. All members are to be present. Freshmen girls are advised to consult their handbook and their "big-sister".

Newman Club
The Newman Club, which is an organization for Catholic students, meets regularly each week. Students who are interested may see William Hughes and watch for notices to be posted on the bulletin board. In the past this organization has made itself felt among the Alfred students through the many fine speakers it has brought to the campus. In addition to its many outside activities it also cares for the spiritual welfare of the Catholic students. All incoming Catholic students are urged to speak to their friends regarding membership.

Alfred Faculty Attend Glass Division Meeting

The Glass Division of the American Ceramic Society of which Dr. Scholes is secretary, held a meeting at Willow Point, Hammondsport on Friday and Saturday of last week. Among those from Alfred who attended some of the sessions were Dr. and Mrs. S. R. Scholes, Dean M. E. Holmes, and Mr. Schreckengost. Mrs. S. R. Scholes was chairman of the Women's Entertainment committee. On Saturday night at a beach picnic, a double quartet from Alfred sang around the campfire. Members of the quartet were: Mrs. S. R. Scholes and Mrs. Charles Amberg, sopranos; Mrs. C. Myrvaagnes and Mrs. Frank Lobaugh, altos; Henry Pieters and E. Ringo, tenors; A. E. Whitford and S. R. Scholes, basses. Among the Alfred alumni who attended the meeting were: Ralph Klinger of Corning, Richard Ricker of Toledo, Haskill DuBois of the Consolidated Feldspar Co., Raymond Schlehr of the Carl Lowrey Glass Co., Baltimore, Md., and F. J. Williams of Penn State College.

Freshman Registration 172 With Several More Coming; "Play Day" This Afternoon

Social Events Included on Orientation Program—President Norwood and Four Deans Welcome Large Class—Urge Observance of Alfred's Traditions

DIRECTS FRESHMEN

Dean A. E. Whitford

Freshman registration was 172 this morning according to the latest tabulation by Registrar Waldo A. Titsworth. Several other students are known to be coming. This compares with approximately 165 for the first week of the 1934-35 session.

Opening with chapel conducted by Chaplain James C. McLeod on Monday afternoon, an orientation program for the new students was conducted under direction of Dean A. E. Whitford.

In the opening address, President J. Nelson Norwood called attention of the freshman to the spiritual rather than the material side of Alfred, but he also gave a brief history of the principal buildings on the campus.

Dean Whitford and Dean Holmes, of the College of Liberal Arts and the Ceramics College respectively, told what their colleges expect of incoming freshmen, stressing the necessity of a nice balance between scholarship and fellowship.

Talking on "How to Study", Dr. Joseph Seidlin, professor of mathematics, pointed out that "two hours of passive resistance to study is not two hours' studying". He advised freshmen not to become "rail-sitters" of either the post-office or hitch-hiking variety.

Participations in Alfred's social life is open to all students, Deans M. Ellis Drake and Dora K. Degen told men and women freshmen separately. Both told how college life should develop socially as well as intellectually.

Activities which are open to freshmen were described by Patrick J. Tisi, president of the student senate, Miss Dorothy L. Saunders, editor of the Fiat Lux, and Miss Mary Rogers, instructor in dramatics and forensics.

Throughout the week placement tests were given to determine which sections the individual freshmen will be assigned.

Last night men were invited to a faculty-smoker in Bartlett Dormitory, while women met their faculty members in an informal get-together at the Brick.

This afternoon at 2:30 o'clock a recreational program under supervision of the men's and women's Christian Associations is scheduled. Men will have their activities at Merrill Field while women's sport will be at the Women's Athletic Field beside the gymnasium.

Following is a list of freshmen who have already registered:

Alfred Summer Classes Attract Many Students

Summer session of Alfred University attracted 124 students this year, according to figures compiled by Director Waldo A. Titsworth. Following are those from Western New York who attended:

Urges Military Training For Both Men And Women

An instructor in the summer session aroused widespread comment by advocating military training for men and women and flaying the Roosevelt administration in the first interview he had granted in 23 years. He was Dr. Charles Hartshorn Maxson, retired professor of political science at the University of Pennsylvania.

"In time of acute depression," he said, "there is danger that people who normally act from sound motive may be led into irrational action and ill-considered emergency legislation. That the United States has been so led is demonstrated by the fact that this country, with its wealth of natural resources, is far behind other nations in the world-wide march toward recovery."

"Turning From Truth"
"Temporarily in control of the situation is a man of magnetic personality, a genial, convincing orator whose conduct has regrettably been a consistent turning away from truth, and abandonment of expressed intentions, and an acceptance of the latest attractive scheme."

Dr. Maxson remembers a leading "brain trust" as one of his students. "He was a 'campus politician,' a bright enough lad but not in the least scholarly. Mr. Roosevelt draws this type of attractive, superficial young man because he is of the same nature himself."

Puzzled, he said, by the current youth movement which encourages (Continued on page three)

To The Class Of 1939

Welcome:

It is, indeed, a pleasant task as the years roll by to welcome new classes to Alfred University. Your high school days are over and you are undertaking the adventure of college. You are undertaking this adventure, too, in Alfred's centennial year. I am glad that you have chosen Alfred as your school. I hope that you will like us and that Alfred will like you. In other words, I hope that you are the type of persons which this school can successfully lead in the attainment of real education.

I hope that you will have an enjoyable time here. Most students do. A touch of homesickness occasionally bothers one during these first weeks, but it is a disease never fatal and requiring the attention of no graduate of a medical college. I hope that the social life, the sports, the dramatics, the journalistic opportunities and other extra-classroom activities will claim their proper share of your time and interest. They are a real part of a well-rounded education.

I hope that you are getting into the right courses. If you are planning on engineering, art, teaching, business, social work, medicine, dentistry, law, or what-not, I hope you are fairly sure you are after what you really want. Now is the time to expend gray-matter on that issue. I welcome you to a lot of hard study and real intellectual growth.

I hope you will find many congenial spirits, and a very small circle of cronies. These cronies should be a very select group. They will largely determine certain types of your growth in college. If possible have a few who are a notch above you in standards and ideals. Remember that these friendships will in some cases last a lifetime. One of these friends may become your wife (or husband).

I hope you will plan to grow in right directions. You will grow, that is inevitable; that you cannot control. But how and toward what you grow is partly your business. I welcome you to the opportunity to grow into bigger and more worthwhile men and women. After all, whatever profession we may be studying to fill, we all have another supremely important job on our hands. We must not only know our business and acquire our needed skills to do something in life, but we must grow to be somebody. I welcome you to that task in this fine, old institution.

J. Nelson Norwood, Pres.
 (Freshman Handbook)

Not A Single Cent

Padlock your pocket book! Don't spend a cent!

All students realize that it is necessary to keep close tabs on every nickel which finds its way into the deep, dark corners of their pocket books.

Tie a string to every penny and don't let it out of your sight! (You've heard it before, but it's still good advice.)

But if you can invest your

Dr. A. J. C. Bond New Dean Of Theological Seminary

Men of wide vision are needed in the ministry if Christianity is to assume a fitting role in contemporary civilization, says Dr. Ahva J. C. Bond, new dean of the Department of Theology and Religious Education, Alfred University.

Dr. Bond moved to Alfred with his family late in July. He had been pastor of the Plainfield, N. J., Seventh Day Baptist church, where his work in religious education brought him favorably to the attention of the trustees of Alfred.

While he has made few plans for the coming term, being new to administration work in higher education, Dr. Bond says he will introduce and teach two new courses in the theological seminary.

For his course in "Co-operative Christianity" Dr. Bond will draw on his experiences in inter-church work. He is an active member of the Federal Council of the Churches of America and other interdenominational societies, and in 1927 was a delegate to the World Conference on Faith and Order, Lausanne, Switzerland.

The new dean is convinced that narrow fundamentalism must be abandoned. He advocates common effort among churches, not with a view toward reconciling doctrine, but with the purpose of working toward a universal goal.

Plans Philosophy Course

Another course which Dr. Bond will introduce is "History and Philosophy of Sabbath Keeping". He believes that giving over one day a week to rest and worship would be a considerable factor in relieving the tenseness that characterizes modern existence.

Admitting that the world is now a spiritual as well as an economic depression, Dr. Bond says that in his opinion both lapses result from the World War, and that the war in turn was caused by men's godlessness.

"Carlyle said that if it had not been for the French Revolution he wouldn't have known what to think of God," Dr. Bond says. "It is not my belief that God caused the war as a direct punishment of man's disobedience, but that the war was the answer to man's notion that he could live without God."

"Christ or Chaos"

"In truth the alternative today is Christ or chaos. Sometimes religion money in something worthwhile, by all means, DO IT! If you want to buy something which will contribute to your education, buy it.

For this reason, the Fiat Lux advises that all students invest in a ticket for the Forum speakers. By buying a ticket, one has the opportunity to hear five history-making speakers, an opportunity which will contribute materially to the education of every student.

The Forum is not a money-making proposition. If the entire student body attends, the committee will only make slightly more than the minimum expenses.

Freshmen, start out your college career right by showing interest in learning more than just classwork. Make an investment which will give you entertainment, thrills and information.

has been so administered that men have recoiled from it by nature. In Russia the church over-stepped its bounds, and so the Soviet is atheistic. But this is, to my mind, a passing stage. Russia will return to God."

As soon as he becomes accustomed to his new work as dean, Dr. Bond expects to organize a course in philosophy of religion. He believes that all college students should have an understanding of this phase of humanity, from the cultural standpoint as well as from the personal angle.

Such atheism as exists among college students, he thinks, is the result of their lazy upbringing at the hands of their parents. "Part of the blame for our unrest is traceable to the middle-aged people in America, with their mild dissipation—relatively harmless in themselves, but turning all the while away from God."

Radical Ideas Useful

Radical ideas in religion and politics serve some useful purpose in colleges and in nations, Dr. Bond thinks.

"Granted that certain 'Reds' endanger the safety of the community, and that certain rampant pacifists are treading on most uncertain ground. Most of them will do little harm and will soon outgrow their wild theories. In the meantime they cause more stolid people to think even against their will," he explains.

"No one denies that there are evils in our present system. We do not think the Communist has the right solution, nor can we accept materialistic socialism. But a Christianized socialism, a philosophy of fair treatment for all, is pleasant to most of our minds."

Mysterious Number 9 Is

One That Seems to Stick

The most mysterious of all numerals is the number nine, declares a writer in the Washington Post.

Try to get rid of it and you can't. Somehow or other, it always bobs back. Take two times nine, for example. The total is 18, and one plus eight—the two digits in 18—make nine.

Take six times nine. You get 54. All right; add the five and the four, and what do you have? Nine again.

Suppose you try a whopper—330 times 9. The total is 3,051. Add up these individual numbers—three, zero, five and one—and there's old number nine staring you in the face.

Here's another one of nine's frills. Take any number, reverse it, then subtract it, and once more you'll have number nine. Here's how: Take 6,383 as the basic number. Reverse it and you have 3,836. Subtract 3,836 from 6,383 and you have 2,547. Add up two, five, four and seven, and you have 18. Add one and eight and you have—well, if it isn't our old friend back again!

ANOTHER LINCOLN STORY

Abraham Lincoln was one day walking along a road in his circuit days, when he was overtaken by a stranger driving to town.

"Will you have the goodness to take my overcoat to town for me?" asked Lincoln.

Sure. But how will you get it again?"

"Oh, I intend to remain in it," was Lincoln's prompt reply.

Attention is called to the announcement in another column of the opening of the Collegiate Restaurant, on next Sunday with a turkey dinner, served from 11:30 to 3:00 o'clock. The price is only 50 cents, which should ensure a large attendance.

"Call Of The Wild" Is Movie At Majestic

America's last frontier is gone—but not forgotten. A vital, moving record of its two-fisted heroics, its wild turmoil, is preserved for posterity in celluloid. The Klondike—Skagway—Dawson—the last geographical landmarks of a vanishing frontier live again on the screen in 20th Century's "Call of the Wild," which begins Saturday, midnight for three day engagement at the Majestic Theatre with Clark Gable, Loretta Young and Jack Oakie in the leading roles.

Gable is seen as a swashbuckling prospector who meets a young San Francisco society beauty, played by Loretta Young, on the trail. Thrown together, their codes conflict. However, with life stripped of all the artifices of civilization, their differences vanish and they fall in love.

Jack Oakie supplies the comedy relief as Gable's wise-cracking buddy, while also prominently cast are Frank Conroy, Reginald Owen, Katherine deMille, Sidney Toler and "Buck," the new dog star.

Young, Stark—Feliciana.

Short stories and sketches, practically all of them about the South—new and old—and Southerners, by the author of "So Red the Rose".

The Current Fiction

The flood of new fall novels has swept over the shelves surrounding the librarian's desk. She is completely inundated with them, and is tossed about by the throng which comes unceasingly to dip into the flood. One can't help wondering how many of these thirsty readers mistake pretty froth for the real depths.

Formulae are invariably misleading. And a rule-of-thumb method of gauging books is eternally to be deplored. There is no simple criterion for measuring a great novel. But a critic can perhaps indicate the spirit in which a great novel must be written.

We happened upon a paragraph the other day, part of one of the letters of Joseph Conrad to Edward Noble, published in a limited edition, which very nearly sums up his conception of the spirit of the ideal novelist. Edward Noble had been seeking for "the beautiful bridge to freedom which would result from success in literatur" and Conrad advising him, wrote:

"You must treat events only as illustrative of human sensation—as the

Ceramic Art Course Changed; New Drawing Instructor Here

Dean Major E. Holmes

Dr. Major E. Holmes, dean of the Ceramic College, today announced complete revision of the industrial art curriculum and said that Donald Schreckengost of Cleveland, Ohio, had been engaged as assistant professor of drawing in place of Charles Harder, who will study for a year at the Chicago Art Institute.

Descendent of generations of German potters, Mr. Schreckengost received special honors in sculpture at the Cleveland School of Art, and studied under Julius Mihalik, master of decorative design, and Alexander Blazys, master in sculpture, two of the best-known men in American art.

Instructor in Design

After graduation from the Cleveland School of Art, Mr. Schreckengost was employed as art director and special designer by ceramic plants. In 1934-1935 he was assistant instructor in design and lettering at the Cleveland School of Art. This summer he modeled marionette heads for the Playfellow Shop in Cleveland.

DONALD SCHRECKENGOST

Raps "Futuristic" Art

"This understanding has not been helped by exhibitions of futuristic art, which may be understood by specialists but never by the public. Queer-looking statues which make their appeal to the ear rather than to the eye are typical of this movement. They will not last.

"Art appreciation should be taught in high school. An understanding of art should be as fundamental as reading and arithmetic. Such instruction can be given indirectly through the elimination of ugly classrooms and continued emphasis on properly arranged book pages and bulletin boards."

Mr. Schreckengost hopes to have frequent public exhibitions of original and reprinted water colors and paintings at the Ceramic College.

Give Schedule Of Church Services

Religious life at Alfred plays a prominent part in the life of every student. Under the direction of Chaplain James McLeod the work has gone forward each year with renewed interest.

The traditional attendance of daily chapel is held up by the loyal support of the students. This year will be no exception and many are expected to be on hand at 10 a. m. as usual.

The weekly service of the University Union church is held each Sunday morning in the village church at 11, Chaplain McLeod officiating.

The Seventh Day Baptist church holds its weekly service at 11 a. m. on the Sabbath (Saturday). Rev. A. Clyde Ehret is pastor.

Women Mingle At Informal Reception

University faculty women and freshman women mingled at an informal gathering last evening at Social Hall during the annual reception sponsored by the Y. W. C. A.

Chaplain James C. McLeod spoke concerning the religious life of the campus. Miss Elizabeth Hallenbeck of the Student Life Committee pointed out the value of extra-curricular activities. Miss Barbara Bastow, president of the Women's Student Government, emphasized the importance of freshman rules. Miss Irene Gage explained the significance of the honorary organizations.

Buffet lunch was served and Miss Betty Jane Crandall led the group in a song-fest.

MARRIAGE MUST CHANGE

(Continued from page one) college men to pledge themselves never to support their country in a war, Doctor Maxson explained that there are times when a nation must fight.

"If we had not entered the World War the Central Powers might have triumphed and swept democracy completely from the earth," he said.

Wants Women Trained

"I believe in military training for both men and women, in separate regiments, for the physical good of the people as well as to provide an enormous potential militia. This is the way to gain first the respect, then the friendship of other countries.

"None of us wants war. The President, to be sure, is a navy man and would like to build ships to the limit of the treaty. But the practical way of insuring peace is reciprocal reduction of armaments among mutually respecting nations.

"When Mr. Roosevelt took office he had the chance to carry out the plans of Woodrow Wilson. While I believe Wilson's announcement that America was 'too proud to fight' helped start the World War, I am convinced his peace proposals were among the most practical.

"Yet President Roosevelt made only a half-hearted effort to secure our entry into the World Court and declined absolutely to urge our joining the League of Nations. Membership in these organizations would place us on a footing to negotiate with other countries for actual reduction of armaments."

Bulletin Suggests Steinheim Museum To Visitors As Unusual Attraction

The Sept. 15th issue of the Socony Tours and Detours, has the following recommendation to tourists:

Fuerstenburg Castle in Germany was the architect's model for Steinheim Museum on the campus of Alfred University, Alfred, N. Y. In its walls are set granites, flints, gneiss, and fossil coral, ground and crushed by glaciers until deposited in a moraine 25,000 years ago.

Trees that shook with the weight of elephant herds in Kenya Colony, trees whose branches swayed in the Monsoons of India, trees that shaded pandanus-thatched huts of Moorea were cut and polished for the paneling in the Steinheim.

Don't Miss the Museum

The varied exhibits in the museum are just as interesting as the details of construction. There is an excellent shell collection, a group of birds including the now extinct passenger pigeon, a small collection of mammals, exhibits showing the culture of the Senecas, of the ancient Greeks and Egyptians.

Antique china is represented by many fine examples of early American pottery. Steigel and Sandwich glass also are shown.

One of the oddest pieces is the exquisitely carved figurine, less than half an inch tall, which was carved with sharpened umbrella ribs.

Crude Toys of Long Ago

There are antique toys, crude affairs which delighted some child long ago. There are dolls' shoes characteristic of various countries, and samples of the finest workmanship in the ceramic arts. There is the touching little story of the urn which was made larger—the curator will tell you why.

Before leaving the campus, go over to the New York State College of Ceramics and have one of the students take you around. He will point out interesting experiments on china, porcelain, or tile which demonstrate the latest technique of the ceramics industry.

A tendency or power of a substance to absorb moisture, dissolve and become liquid is known as deliquescence. Salt is deliquescent to such a high degree that moisture is readily attracted from the air.

SPOTLIGHTS

—Thursday and Friday this week—no Saturday show on account of football—"Old Man Rhythm" is the feature. Buddy Rogers as the son falls into the clutches of a college girl "gold-digger" and to rescue him his father goes to college, enrolls as a Freshman, where he takes the knocks which the sophomores and upper classmen administer. Dancing, singing, tom-foolery such as you might expect make an enjoyable program. "Sing, Sister, Sing" is a Todd-Kelly funny with the two assigned as roommates at the beginning of college, both determined to sing when anything goes crosswise. "Nerve Control" is a reel in the athletic line, while the cartoon is "Calice Dragon" in the delightful color series.

—Tuesday, September 24th, the feature at Alumni Hall is "Every Night at Eight" (George Raft, Patsy Kelly and others) which is a burlesque of the ideas employed by crooners, orchestras and others to get a sponsor on a radio program. Some like this very much. "Popular Science" is a new series.

Pictorial News To Be Feature Of Fiat Lux

A regular pictorial review of the news of the college world will be featured each week in The Collegiate Digest section of The Fiat Lux, the first issue of which will appear with the next edition.

Featuring exclusive lively features written especially for its wide collegiate audience in addition to the regular news of the week "in picture and paragraph", Collegiate Digest brings to the readers of The Fiat Lux the most complete pictorial review of college news available.

A new and outstanding feature of the issues this year will be the unusual Speed Graph photos taken with the "Magic Eye" camera and depicting the continuous motions of athletes in action. The remarkable photos have been made possible recently by the invention of a camera which "stops" the various movements of people in action.

Then, too, Collegiate Digest will continue in The Spotlights, its bright and lively stories of the great and near great who graduated from or attended college. The first issue features the biography of America's greatest humorist, Will Rogers, presenting many heretofore unpublished facts about his life.

GRID SEASON OPENS AGAINST ADRIAN SATURDAY

COX HOLDING NIGHT DRILLS ON GRIDIRON

Small Squad Preparing For Tough Season—Face Many Obstacles—Adrian Reported To Be Strong

Out of the mothballs comes the football as the pigskin spheroid once more is being kicked by Alfred gridsters.

The Saxon warriors will face their first opponents Saturday night beneath the floodlights of Merrill field here, defending against Adrian college.

Coach John K. Cox, new varsity athletic mentor, is guiding the destiny of the Saxons on the grid this year and has incorporated many effective and complex plays into the Saxons' bag of tricks.

The game against Adrian is the team's first encounter, and also the first contest for Johnny Cox as varsity coach at Alfred.

A great number of obstacles have made pre-season training difficult. Until a few days ago, there were not enough men to have a scrimmage. A flood here this summer ripped the field in pieces and has been repaired partially.

Nevertheless, Coach Cox expects a fighting team on the field Saturday night. His knowledge of football tactics and his understanding of men has won him the admiration of the team which is evident in comments on the field and about the campus.

Adrian will be a tough opponent. Coach Cox, formerly a student at the school, testifies to that. Coach Dale Sprankle of Adrian coached Johnny Cox when he went out for football there several years ago.

Now Coach Sprankle will bring his men here to battle the team of his former understudy.

Adrian has been the title holder in the Michigan-Ontario Conference every year since its founding in 1930. On its squad are numbered an All-Conference tackle, an All-Conference Guard and an All-Conference back.

The Purple and Gold ball toters have a limited number of men on the roster. Of the 24 men, several are veterans, although many were lost to the team by graduation last June.

From the ranks of last year's freshman team come several young players who are showing much promise. An enthusiastic student body will be on hand Saturday night with cheers and songs to support the Saxons in their first 1935 grid struggle.

This season's schedule includes some teams which will give the Saxons stiff opposition. The schedule consists of Adrian college here September 21; Defiance here September 28; Northeastern at Boston October 5; Buffalo at Buffalo October 19; Clarkson at Potsdam October 26; and Niagara here November 2.

The coach defies the standard systems of formations and is using his own innovation—the "Cox System." He is adapting his plays to the material, taking advantage of every muscle. He refuses to comment on the probability of using lateral passes.

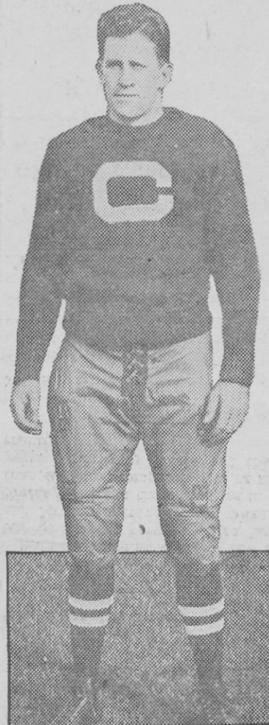

According to mentor Andy Kerr of Colgate, the lateral pass is going to take a major part on the American gridiron this year. Coach Cox, who was in outstanding player at Colgate under Andy Kerr, may emphasize the sidetossing attack, but refuses comment on his plans.

For three weeks he has been pushing his men in daily drills. While avoiding overworking them, he believes that lots of practice in the fundamentals is necessary for good football.

Coach Cox, now tapering off practices to allow the men an opportunity to rest before the opening fray, has announced the probable lineup for Saturday.

The eleven men, subject to change, are Mike Fargione of Woodhaven,

Feeble-Minded Lack Judgment

The feeble-minded may have good memories, but they are invariably lacking in judgment; while those with a hereditary trait of insanity have generally poor memories, but only in marked cases is the judgment impaired. From this, says an authority, comes the working formula that the feeble-minded have good memories, but are lacking in judgment, and that the insane reason well, but have poor memories.

Bee an Air-Conditioner

The ordinary worker bee was the first of all air-conditioning experts, it is said by an attache of the Chicago Academy of Sciences. In warm, close weather, a bee often is especially detailed to hover outside the entrance to the hive, vibrating its wings so as to keep a current of air constantly fanning the labyrinth of corridors. Thus air-conditioning probably antedates human history.

Syndicated Sermons

To within living memory in England, such a large number of ministers were unable to prepare a sermon that the secret writing and syndication of these discourses by professional writers was quite a business, writes John Duerr, Oxford, Ohio, in Collier's Weekly. In 1870 London still had 12 concerns that weekly supplied sermons to about 1,500 preachers, the copies being printed "in imitation of handwriting" in order to fool the congregations.

Motor Highway in Egypt

With the completion of the new $10,000,000 highway between Cairo, Egypt, and Jerusalem, travelers can make the journey between the two cities in less than 40 hours, compared with as many years required by Moses and the Israelites.

—Dr. and Mrs. Beals E. L. Franch and Howard K. Morse left Alfred last Thursday to resume their work in Chicago. They were accompanied by Prof. and Mrs. Charles Harder and Gayle. Prof Harder will do graduate work at the Art Institute of Chicago.

Coaches Issue Call For Frosh Practice

With registration and preliminary instructions out of the way, the first call has been issued for freshman football and cross country. Coach Frank Lobaugh has posted a notice that football candidates from the freshmen, should report to the gym in old clothes Thursday afternoon, Sept. 19.

Coach James C. McLeod has instructed candidates for the yearling cross country team to report to the gym at 3 o'clock Monday, Sept. 23, wearing old clothes and comfortable shoes. Practice in both sports will be started immediately to get ready for the season.

Here's now JOHNNY BESELY, plunging fullback, tears up the turf on the offensive.
