

Zweygardt's work featured in sculpture park

8/31/06

- Two sculptures by an Alfred University art school professor are included in an outdoor exhibition at Somerby's Landing Sculpture Park in Newburyport, MA. Two pieces by Glenn Zweygardt, professor of sculpture in the School of Art & Design, New York State College of Ceramics at Alfred University, are among the seven sculptures now on display; three pieces are permanent and four, including Zweygardt's, are being exhibited for the next year. Zweygardt's pieces include "Origins Passage," a nine-foot-tall bronze, glass and marble sculpture, and "Keeper of the Oval," a curved bluestone and bronze sculpture. Somerby's Landing Sculpture Park is located on the bank of the Merrimack River in Newburyport.
