Writer Will Relate Experiences
On War Front Missions

Edmund Stevens, war correspondent of the "Christian Science Monitor" from Africa, will speak, in Alfred's Forum audience Tuesday evening, January 15, about his experiences on the war fronts. Mr. Stevens was originally scheduled to appear Monday, January 14, but was forced to withdraw his engagement to complete a mission to Finland.

Stevens has reported most of the major events in the war since its start—last year he covered the Italian invasion of Ethiopia and the encircling of the German forces in Budapest. Last winter, Stevens was in Finland. He saw重 endless streams of troops, ships, and airplanes cross the Winter wastes in a race to the Arctic Ocean. He saw the warships of foreign navies line the ports of the frozen Northern seas. He watched at dangerously close engagement to complete a mission to the Soviet Union, a mission to complete the march of the Red Army to Berlin. He was one of the few to know what is going on in the Arctic areas.

Campus Union Drive Ends Goal Is Made
We've done it! The drive for a big endowment and better buildings is now over the top with a bang. According to the most recent reports, the $500,000 dollar mark was reached on Monday, and at this time the Fine Arts Building, which was the goal of the campaign, was reported to have well over $500,000. The entire campus of Alfred, including buildings and students, contributed by a vote of 2 to 1 in favor of the "Fine Arts Wishes" label. Each student, as a member of the Union, was asked to help put this drive over by signing the pledge of the spirit of Alfred, which each student who will round out the program. Where There's a Will

Alfred students and faculty should be highly commended for their efforts in contributing sufficient funds for the expansion of the Campus Union. The Campus Union Board with chosen assistants did a grand job in this important fundraising project. We are indeed grateful to these leaders who devoted much time and energy to the successful conclusion of this great venture.

Re: Your New Assistant

We have in this time to finish term papers and read those chapters we should have read long ago. In this brief time we must make the best possible use of our time and energy.

No, it's not the same old song of "Oh where, oh when will we ever learn?"

War Effort in Alfred

At a recent faculty meeting, Alfred University and the War Effort was a topic of discussion and much concern. It seemed to be the opinion of the group that Alfred was not putting out its best or in any way to do something constructive in aiding the war effort.

The conclusion of the group is unfortunately true. In the past there has been a slight tension whenever Alfred University was mentioned. This may be the result of a lack of understanding on the part of the students what is expected of us.

Many of us have gone happily on our ways indifferent to any suggestions or activities which might in some way help the war effort. We have not been offered to help fold bandages. We have not been bothered to give blood when the opportunity presented itself. We have not purchased war bonds or stamps. We have not participated in any activities that offer us an opportunity to show our true selves as members of this country.

In the meantime let us write those letters and buy those stamps and bonds and do our bit for the war effort, knowing that a bigger and better plan is presented for our adoption.

Recipe For Study

Blackouts have once more descended upon the white hills of Alfred. The strain of the blackout, which has been a word of woe, dear students! Don't let your enthusiasm flag! D"ry yourself mentally and physically. Your study is important,

Any further contributions will be before us.

Psychology Professor States That The Emotional Content Of Religion Is Not Chief Value

"Psychology's great concern is with man, who expresses universally, an attitude of religious devotion," stated Prof. Tom Hall last night in his "Theology and Religion" course.

Psychology observes man and his activities but cannot throw light upon the sources of his religion, which is fundamentally the concern of the French philosophers. Among the steps of man's religious growth, Primitives had no need for a transitional concept to produce a subjective metaphysician.

In the third stage, positivism, man fails to alter into the sphere of the world around him. With the development of the power of man and the change in the attitude in regard to religion, the idea of a superior being has been abandoned on his emergent character.

Psychology recognizes the transitional character of this idea, but also recognizes that this is all power is dangerous unless wielded with intelligence and discretion. The power is dangerous unless wielded with intelligence and discretion.

DOMESTICITY PLUS

Have you ever walked (curious and gaity) into a shop of some domesticity? There's nothing really that is any shop in the world. In one glance—and you don’t have to be a detective—you can tell of your surroundings. You are sure of your location. There’s only a shop.

On the floor there is a collection of boxes, boots, socks, slippers, calendars, and other paper and envelope cumbered-up products. That is the purpose of the shop. If you think the floor is plastic, you can see your intention. And how, when you picture the shop to yourself and how it smells, as you imagine it when at home. If you think that the shop has something to offer you, you have let it be known.

Co-Director of Ag-Tech School Revisits Class

Mr. T. A. Parcal, co-director of the Ag-Tech School, visited the current class on Tuesday. He continued his lecture on the last meeting of the class before the Christmas recess. At an agricultural conference in the fall, Mr. Parcal indicated that he had become increasingly interested in the possibilities which agriculture offered as a field of human endeavor. He said that he was particularly interested in the way that agriculture could be used to feed the people of the earth.

Mr. Parcal stated that it was the desire of the administration. We must propose econom-

The letter discusses the impact of the war on different countries, including Germany and Italy, and the role of German manhood in that context. The letter also mentions the decision to allow women to participate in certain sports, such as volleyball, and to keep them out of the bleachers. The letter concludes with a farewell to Flora Holland, the former student, and expresses appreciation for her contributions to the college.
