Saxon Courtmen Topple Lincoln University Five 57-41 In Initial Game

Derzánhov and McMamara Cop High Honoring Scores With 16 Points Each. A. T. The University Engineers triumphed Lincoln University in the season's opening basketball contest for both teams Saturday night at the Men's Gym.

Don Garrison's 30 scored on a 22-foot shot 2:16 after the half and left the score at 26-19 within 10. Although the score fell off an 8 point lead, they dropped down and worked their way into the last 12 minute, and never allowed the score to fall within less than 10 points for the rest of the game.

AT Student Council Appoints Committee To Improve Rules

The Albrightian was an open meeting held in the emergency of the situation. The committee is named to improve the rules and regulations covering the activities of the Student Council.

Several problems that have arisen from the Student Council are: the Excalibur and Lambeth Club and their policies toward parking, the student body and the general student population. The committee will be appointed by the Student Council, and a meeting of the Student Council will be held to discuss the rules and regulations.

The committee will meet regularly, and the Student Council will be informed of the progress of the committee.

Voting Date For Anti-Crime Queen Contestants

A consecutive vote will be held Monday from 9 to 12 am and from 1 to 4 pm. The women will be allowed to vote, and the voting will be held in the Student Center.

The committee will also select the first 15 contestants for the Anti-Crime Queen Contest.

Delegates To Oppose Racial Restriction At Blue Key Convention

The formal chapter of Blue Key National Honor Fraternity will convene in the meeting at which the members will discuss the racial restriction issue.

The meeting will be held at 3:30 pm in the Student Center.

Abby Simon, Prominent Young Keyboard Artist, To Play Here Dec 8-9

Second Of Forum Series To Feature Noted Piano Virtuoso Who Has Played With Many Top American Orchestras

Andrew Simon, a noted young concert pianist, was the second in the Forum series at Albani Hall Monday night, and the University chaplain and pastor of the Blue Key University Church, will present the program.

The program includes: A 65-voice choir will take part in the Alfred University undergraduates to further statewide projects.

"We intend to carry out the traditions of this program, while Alfred is the home of the Blue Key chapter," said Mr. Simon, who was invited to Alfred to play the program.

The program will be an evening of music written by 20th-century composers, including the last song of "Alfred University," the only song of its kind that has been written for the Blue Key chapter.

Mr. Simon will be assisted by Mr. W. F. Ekdahl, of the College of Ceramic Research, who will play the organ.

A Recommendation

The second Alfred Community Chest drive ended Sunday, and the results are not good. The results of last year's drive were not good, nor were they as spectacular as the results of the year before that. While the second drive involved not more than the entire Community Chest drive does. It seems that people would rather support a couple of favorite causes than contribute to their local chest drive.

Another difficulty in the Community Chest plan is to get contributions. Even though no one will be able to do the necessary amount, the local people can contribute very little to rebuke except the occasional check.

A Commendation

It was beginning, at the game Saturday night, to see that good plays and players of both teams were applauded by the spectators. When it is not possible for a visiting team to bring its own cheer squad, the home fans do well to acknowledge substitutions and good plays of both teams.

Chorus And Orchestra Lauded For ‘Oratorio’ Performance

By Donald Simmons

Under the competent direction of William Pfeider, the Alfred University Chorus and Orchestra presented Johann Sebastian Bach’s “St. Matthew Passion” on Friday evening. The entire program of more than three hours was well-received by both the student body and the faculty, with excellent results.

Dr. Saunders Uses Allen Lab. 'Hootch' For Testing Purposes

It is night. The scene is the office of Dr. Paul Saunders in Allen Lab. Lined up on the wall shelves are some 200 bottles containing various forms of alcohol. Not unusual, he says, is it when you consider that this is the lab where sauerbraten is being made for several of the students. The chemist who runs the lab, Dr. Saunders, has found alcohol in some of the sauerbraten used for several years. He has seen occasional reports of alcohol in sauerbraten, but this is the first time he has seen it in the lab on a large scale.

Students Play Santa To Berlin Children With 110 Packages

Through the cooperation of the City Police Department, the students were working the operation: Santa. A class of 110 packages of Christmas cheer was distributed to children in Berlin, Germany. This gift, wrapped up, caps, toys and a small book, was sent to Berlin as a Christmas gift from the students of Alfred University.

Approximately three-fourths of the packages were sent on their way. The remainder are for girls, boys or whole families.

The operation was started when the students received a letter from the children's hospital in Berlin, writing the students were helping to prepare holiday gifts for children with a "Hooray for Christmas." Arranging to send gifts to Berlin was the first of the 110 packages.

Dr. Saunders detailed records of the number of gifts received and the number of gifts sent. In one case, the boys and girls had been in the city for less than 24 hours when they were sent out. In another case, there was no word of the holiday gifts.

Audio-visual Education Proves Helpful To Geniuses

Audio-visual education advocates have nothing on Dr. Charles S. Buchanan. The kind of records made by Dr. Buchanan are 10-inch plastic discs which correspond to the text used in beginning German. They provide plenty of vocabulary and reading drill for following beginning German students. Buchanan is president of the University of Michigan's Linguistic Institute. Then he persuaded the methods he'd seen put in use in Yugoslavia, where these animals are scrubbed daily and used to provide a great deal of entertainment for the people who work there.

In a recent American Journal of Psychology article, he described his program in detail. Buchanan has been doing this type of work for some six years. He has appeared frequently in court cases in Allegany, Chautauqua, Wyoming and Cattaraugus counties. He does everything from criminal cases to divorce and such with great success. Some of it real good stuff too, he adds.

Buchanan prefers the term "auditory," because they set fire to large buildings and shops in the town of Outhouse and Wishing Well. The stories of the people of those towns were able to weave three gas companies for one case, but the case was lost.

"Aren't colors the most exciting?" asks Dr. Buchanan. "I have seen a case where we had a whole series of colors. Before, the defendant was a colored man. He was accused of raping a woman because they set fire to large buildings and shops in the town of Outhouse and Wishing Well. The story of the people of those towns were able to weave three cases together for one case, but the case was lost.

Saxon Cagers Slated To Meet Brockport Teachers Saturday

With an opening game victory under their belts, the Saxon quint will play its second opponent of the Brockport Night's Teachers College basketball schedule this Saturday night. This will be the last home before the Christmas vacation. The Saxon five will meet the first opponent of the season when it plays the Brockport Teachers in the Men's Gym this Saturday night. This will be the last home before the Christmas vacation. The Saxon five will meet the first opponent of the season when it plays the Brockport Teachers in the Men's Gym this Saturday night.

Brockport has always been a tough and scrappy opponent for the Saxons and this year the Saxons are reported to have a stronger five than in any past season. In the most recent meeting the Saxons thumped the Brockport in two games of a best of three series by scores of 53-40 and 44-10. This will be the first of two games between Brockport and Alfred this week, the second coming Jan. 22 at Brockport.

"48-'49 Intramural Basketball Schedule Includes 26 Teams

The annual Intramural basketball season gets underway this week with the opening game on the schedule between the Brockport Night's and Varsity Cross Country having been played at 9 a.m., Saturday.

Twenty-six teams are entered, an increase of four teams over last year. These teams have been divided into two leagues, the American and the National. The American League is made up of teams representing frequencies and distances and the National League is comprised of clubs and groups as such as the University and the Varsity Cross Country.

A unique feature of the schedule is that the Intramural basketball tournament feature will see four teams each enter the National and American Leagues. This year, teams playing each other team in the same league an equal number of times will be decided by the season's leaders each team. The season's leaders each team will then be determined which to be the play-off teams.

Points acquired from the week's games will not only establish who will win the National and American Leagues but also establish points toward the Intramural tourney which is given every year to the team best overall in its league at least once. At the end of the season the American and the National Leagues will determine which is to be awarded the strongest, scoring the highest number of points of the two with Brockport leading.
Footlight Club Presents Bill Of Three One-Act Plays Last Night

By Donald Cashman

A varied bill of three one-act plays were presented to an enthusiastic audience Monday evening in Alumni Hall. They were "The Forced Marriage" by Molieres, "Mourners That Did Not Cry" by James Mahoney, and "The Mourners" by Jean Anouilh. Particularly noteworthy was the drama in "The Mourners" by Jean Anouilh, in which the members of the three casts seemed to have performed excellently in their parts very well and in a sup-
