

$1.8 Million Job

Construction Begins On New Men's Dormitories

Alfred University has begun construction of two men's dormitories and a dining hall which will cost $1,750,000 and are expected to reach completion by early 1963.

The dormitories are being erected on sites beside a new and still un-named road built during the past summer parallel to the main campus street and higher up the hillside. The dormitories will be built above the new road facing the valley and the dining hall will be built at the far end of the men's residence quadrangle overlooking the football and track fields. The dining hall linking the new road to State will be located within the curve Street, which runs in front of three existing men's dormitories.

The University originally had expected to start construction early in the summer but expanded its building plans after receiving a loan of $1,084,000 from the federal Housing and Home Finance agency.

After opening bids on the triple construction project, the University sought and won a supplemental loan of $311,000. Available funds will make up the difference in total cost, including equipment.

The Men's dormitories will be of Georgian architecture similar to the present residence halls. Each will be of reinforced concrete and brick construction four and one-half stories high and will house 96 men in 48 rooms on the top three floors. The first floor will include an office, the house mother's suite, student lounge, card room, laundry room equipped with automatic washers and dryers and storage space as do the present buildings. Additional features will include a large typing room on each residence floor, a TV room, ping pong room, and canteen room equipped with soft drink, coffee, sandwich and candy vending machines on the first floor.

The dining hall also will be of Georgian architecture fronted with a broad flagstone terrace bordered by a low railing. The main part of the building will be two stories high and a smaller section at the back will contain three floors. The front entrance will open into a large lounge three steps below the level of a long lobby leading to entrances at each end of the building.

At either side of the main lounge, smaller lounges will open onto stairways to the second floor dining area which will accommodate (See Men's Dorms Page 4)

Craig Speaks To Ceramic Society On Refractories

Mr. James Craig, vice-president of Canadian Refractories, Ltd., gave a lecture on basic refractories last Wednesday evening to the Student Branch of the American Ceramic Society.

Mr. Craig explained briefly what basic refractories are, their uses, and what their compositions entail.

Basic refractory materials are ceramic products resistant to thermal shock and are highly resistant to corrosion. They are used in the manufacture of kilns and hearths for production of steel, glass, nickel and several other products.

A series of slides were shown illustrating the various uses of refractory materials in industry. Several slides were concerned with the construction of kilns in a nickel plant in upper Manitoba. Others showed the laying of magnesia brick in a rotary kiln of another Canadian plant.

A second series of slides centered about the microscopic study of refractory materials and the effect of corrosion upon brick. The slides showed the attack of high temperatures on iron and other corrosive material of brick.

One of the best refractory materials now on the market is a chromium - magnesium brick, Mr. Craig explained.

Mr. Craig is a graduate of the University of Saskatchewan and is prominent in ceramics. His research was instrumental in developing the world's finest non-spalling brick. He is a member of the Canadian Ceramic Society of which he served as vice-president in 1948.

At the beginning of the program, the Varsity Seven sang a selection of songs. After Mr. Craig's lecture, coffee was served.

Dean Approves Rules Revision

The Women's Student Government passed a motion on Oct. 31, granting senior permission hours to those women who have completed six semesters of college or 90 academic hours of Liberal Arts or 110 hour of Ceramics.

It was stipulated that two main summer sessions are equivalent to one semester. The motion, approved by the Dean of Women Miss Barbara A. Bechtell is retroactive to this past September.

This regulation replaces the one stated in the 1961 62 W.S.G. Handbook.

Controversial Film Criticized As An "Insult To Intelligence"

"Crude," "Inept," and "a bar-room brawl" are a few of the opinions expressed about the film "Operation Abolition" after it was shown at last Thursday's assembly program.

The film, which was produced by the House Committee on Un-American Activities to point out the dangers of the communist "conspiracy", is billed as documentary proof that the communists inspired the student riots in San Francisco in May, 1960, and also that the communists are behind a big campaign to abolish the Committee.

Many people and organizations have claimed that the film is really a misrepresentation of the facts because it is not all inclusive and is not the correct time sequence. The film was edited, but that it still portrays the facts as they happened.

TWO VIEWPOINTS

National Student Association Coordinator John Gutierrez introduced the film to the assembly. He noted that all the controversy surrounding the film boiled down to two viewpoints, the "communist" viewpoint and the "American (HUAC)" viewpoint. He reported that the N.S.A. feels a student should ask himself two questions after seeing the picture. These are, should we be forced to answer questions about our political beliefs, and aren't we old enough to decide for ourselves what our political beliefs should be and if we are or aren't being duped by the communist.

The faculty members who viewed the film all seemed to agree on one point: the film was an insult to the intelligence of the viewer and probably tended to perjure him against the Committee.

BAR ROOM BRAWL

Dr. Engelmann said that, "There is no reason to disbelieve that the real riotous aspects of the film were sparked by real Communists however, the struggle against Communism is ill-served by presenting a picture of a bar-room brawl between Congress and Communists."

When asked whether the Committee might be in violation of the First Amendment to the Constitution, Mr. Pearce replied, "There is a real Communist threat because by definition a Communist is a person who wants to undermine the country. We must give up part of our freedom at a certain time in order to retain it and this time starts when the freedom we enjoy becomes a threat to itself.

Dr. Bernstein stated in summing up his views, "The picture was inept as a report crude as a film, bold propagandist in its points of view and tends to defame the proper role of protest in a democratic society by students who are learning to be citizens." He argued that in essence the film said if you do not protest you are "all American" and if you do protest you are either a Communist or you are being duped by the Communists. He feels that the country should and must protect itself but that it must also protect the innocent and if the HUAC does not do this it is wrong.

"Guilty until proven innocent as in the Inquisition" was one of Dr. Cox's main objections. He does not oppose the Committee being empowered but until the time that they are empowered they are violating our traditions.

"If the CIA cannot handle the Communists in America then we should replace them with a group which can."

A more elaborate discussion of "Operation Abolition" along with another showing of the film will be conducted at the Campus Center, Tuesday night at 7:30.

Hallowe'en Hubbub

Tech Students Riot in Alfred Deans, Police Prevent Trouble

Last Tuesday night, October 31, approximately two hundred men students from the State Agricultural and Technical Institute created a disturbance in the village of Alfred. The disturbance which broke out at about 11 p.m., seems to have originated in the Ag-Tech freshman men's dormitory, Robinson-Champlain, where a room jamming contest was taking place. The room-jamming broke up when one of the men fainted. Still in high spirits the men left the dormitory and proceeded to Brookside, one of the women's dormitories at the Ag-Tech, where the action began.

The pranksters did the following:

Illegally entered two women's dormitories on the Ag-Tech campus

Brought a sheep, a rooster, and a chicken into these dormitories

Made a human ladder up the side of Alpha Beta Chi, an Ag-Tech sorority, and hung from the rooftop

Surrounded the men's dormitories at the University, but left when asked to do so

Started out for the women's dormitories at the University, but were sent back to their own campus by the Alfred Police

Rocked the police car

Proceeded to Pi Nu Epsilon, an Ag-Tech sorority, but were discouraged from entering the house by a group of Delta Sigma men Serious trouble was prevented from occurring by Mr. Vincent Trotta Dean of Men at the Ag-Tech, Mr. Paul F. Powers, Dean of Men at the University and the Alfred Police all of whom were on the scene.

Several of the women's residences at the University were immediately informed of the situation. The two dormitory head residents along with the counselors, remained on duty until the village returned to normalcy.

The following day, Dean Powers sent letters to the men's residences at the University, complimenting the men on their mature behavior during the disturbance.

Housemom Says Nix To Elections

Freshman class elections were not held in Bartlett Dormitory on Friday Nov. 3, as scheduled. Mrs. Elizabeth Houghton, Head Resident of Bartlett refused to permit Steve Gordon Vice-President of the Student Senate, to conduct the elections during the lunch hour because there was too much confusion in the dining room.

After both parties had consulted Mr. Paul F. Powers, Dean of Men, it was decided that the elections would be held at noon on Monday Nov. 6.

Bulletin

An Editorial . . .

If nothing else, "Operation Abolition" has succeeded in making people talk. Our campus "sleepers" have, to a certain degree, come out of their slumbers long enough to acknowledge the existence of a controversial issue; an issue that, for a change, is not confined to the University surroundings. Heads perk up at the mention of "Operation Abolition." "HUAC" is no longer thought of as a foreign expression (or to the semi-sophisticated, a cousin of UNIVAC).

Relatively speaking, the campus is alive; a new awareness has come over us. We now share something with the outside world. Yes, Alfred has at last joined ranks with the other institution of higher learning; Alfred has seen "Operation Abolition."

But there is a more basic reason for this new interest than just the satisfaction that comes with the knowledge that we're doing what other colleges do. That lies in the nature of the film itself.

Certainly, "Operation Abolition" isn't a good movie, there is no plot, no continuity, no order. Technically, the splicing is a hodge podge job, the sound is warbled, and often the characters are blurred. The narrator sometimes gets a scene or two ahead of itself.

Yet the film makes use of the most basic principle of propaganda technique — appeal to the emotions. And there are very few among us who can resist such an appeal. The movie leans so far to one side, however that it drives as many people to the opposite extreme as it enlists in its cause, much to the probable chagrin of Representative Walter.

What does the movie consist of? It starts out with a dire warning from Chairman Walter, and rapidly proceeds to a maze of unrelated scenes that include the singing of the "Star Spangled Banner", the forcible rejection of witnesses from the hearing room, spraying of student demonstrators with fire hoses and dragging them down a flight of wet stairs, and the taut form of an elderly police officer who suffered a "stroke".

The failure of the "known communist" leaders to cooperate on the witness stand was dramatically embellished in the movie; the viewers were able to see Archie Brown removed from the hearing room not once, but three times. And every now and then the southern drawl of the S.F. sub-committee chairman was rudely interrupted by Brown's pleas for his "threatened" family, which in turn were interrupted by the sub-committee counsel, who was then drowned out by the crowd. The merry-go-round kept going around, too.

The narrator turned in a creditable performance. His voice, always a step ahead of the scene, was keyed to the wild excitement, and his solemn advice to listen to and watch the communists in action was omnipresent. Who once forgot of the "communist conspiracy" while viewing the film? The background music was also typical of the turmoil — TV melodrama couldn't have done better.

How many viewers left the assembly convinced that several hundred California students were agitating for the Communist Cause is not known. How many left feeling that the communist danger is a terribly real danger to our existence, and how many left believing that HUAC ought to be abolished is equally unknown. It is just unfortunate that it took a sloppy, sprawling, base, anti-intellectual collection of flies to bring about the thinking and discussion that, at least temporarily, are now flourishing on campus.

"I'm Alfred Sophomore and I'd be glad to show you around. I'm very worldly. I've been here for a year already and I know everything there is to know about this place. That's Alumni Hall over there."

"It's pretty old, isn't it?"
"Yeah. You'll be having Civ. lectures there at eight o'clock if you decide to come here."

"The catalog didn't say anything about evening classes."

"No, it's eight o'clock in the morning."

"Eight o'clock?"

"Yeah, eight o'clock. It's not so bad. Once you get up there you can go back to sleep."

"Oh. Why are you looking through those binoculars?"

"I'm looking for South Hall. There it is! You wanna see it?"

"Yeah, pretty far."

"That's the Steinheim over there."

"Gee, it looks pretty old too. What do they teach there?"

"Oh, all sorts of interesting things."

"The new building is the Campus Center. I eat there most of the time."

"Don't you eat in the dorm?"

"Once in a while. Let's walk toward the dorm."

. . . later . . .

"This is Allen Lab, the bio building."

"What's that thing in back of it?"

"Allen Lab Annex."

"They teach in that cheesebox?"

"Yes, believe it or not."

"The big building on the right belongs to the State Tech and up there's Cannon Hall. That's where I live. Come on, I'll show you my room."

. . . later . . .

"Say, this goes pretty cool."

"Yeah, it's pretty good as dorms go. All the rooms are the same so you can get a pretty good idea of what to expect."

Be Silent, Or Be Communist?

by Robert Johnson

Free speech and the right to criticize always have been ideals basic to American life, yet the reaction to criticism adopted by the House Committee on Un-American Activities is in direct conflict with these ideals. Its reaction to criticism of the film "Operation Abolition" demonstrates this fact.

The supposedly unbiased introduction to "Abolition" by John Gutierrez at last Thursday's Assembly was a typical example of the HCUA's reasoning. Mr. Gutierrez, like the HCUA, admitted the existence of only two viewpoints — that of the Communists and that of the Committee. These, however, are not two viewpoints, as the latter is merely the way in which the HCUA regards all criticism of its operations. As Mr. Gutierrez's introduction presented only this viewpoint, it was hardly unbiased. If Mr. Gutierrez will please note: many people do not approve of the Committee's over-extension of power, its development into an extra-legal body, its opinion that all opponents are Communists — these people are not Communists, or at least are not aware of the fact. Think Mr. Gutierrez — by your introductory remarks you have labelled as Communists many Alfred University faculty members and students. There is another position on the HCUA and "Abolition", one which you should be informed exists.

Many people, as firmly American as any supporters of the Committee, believe it has generated a wrong atmosphere — one that automatically envelops all called before it in a Red mist. This is in direct contradiction to American tradition of "innocent until proven guilty." The HCUA cannot, by the nature of its members, distinguish between those using the Fifth Amendment to hide real Communist affiliations, and those doing so because they believe that no Americans should be forced to admit personal political beliefs. The Committee fails to admit that defense of a principle can exist. In pursuit of a few elusive Communists, the HCUA disregards the many innocents that fall victim to its operations.

"Operation Abolition," itself, is a propaganda success — vivid scenes of rioting students in conflict with officers of the law convey to many viewers the belief that all students opposed to the HCUA have been duped by Communist infiltrators. Viewing "Abolition" in the vacuum that many do, this is the normal conclusion people draw.

Student riots of the San Francisco nature cannot be condoned, but the HCUA has these riots to stigmatize all future student demonstrations in an attempt to deny to all the right to criticize its actions. The presence of Communists at the riots is not proof that plans for the original demonstrations were formulated by them.

"Operation Abolition" would deny to all college students the right to voice an opinion contrary to that of the Committee. This, Mr. Gutierrez, must never happen; yet, this is the condition your "unbiased" introduction would establish if it were accepted as fact. Fortunately for America, not everyone has been duped by "Abolition." To many, freedom to criticize is still worth defending.

Question: What is your opinion of the film "Operation Abolition"?

Sharon Rosenthal,
Rockaway Beach
Soph, LA

The picture was poorly presented. The introduction, by John Gutierrez, committed the fallacy of "false dilemma" by limiting the possible interpretations to two; that of the Communists and that of the House Un-American Activities Committee.

The film itself was full of logical inconsistencies. It made use of appeals to pity and false generalizations, and assumed that slander of the individual would discount his viewpoint. I am not passing judgment on the Committee itself but I think that the film was badly documented and edited, and did nothing to further belief in the Committee's work. It was a poor attempt at propaganda.

Ronald Norgren
Jamestown, Fr., Cer.

I thought that the film was very good, because it was indicative of the problem at hand. I agree that there was wrong on both sides. I don't believe that the students were wrong in rioting; it showed immaturity and gullibility. A good solution would be to give the Committee real judicial power. However the questions the Committee asks should be more straightforward, should give a fair analysis of the persons being questioned.

Linda Kaplan, Belle Harbor
Jr., LA

That film was an insult to the intelligence of a college student and, therefore, worked at cross-purposes to its original intention. It resorts to every propaganda tactic mentioned in my textbook thereby employing the methods that the Committee supposedly deplores. No facts in favor of the Committee were mentioned; it was implied that the Communists are against it, so we must be for it. The students picketed for valid reasons; whether it was perpetrated by "Communists" is irrelevant to the moral and constitutional issues involved.

Gerhard Schmidt, Germany
Fr., Eng.

When I saw the picture for the first time I was shocked that something like this could happen in the United States. It is hard from the film, to know what to believe and what not to believe. I don't know too much about this committee, so I can't say whether the film is right or not. Those students really didn't know what they were doing. However it seems to me that the committee does more wrong than good with its tactics.

POVERTY CAN BE FUN

It is no disgrace to be poor. It is an error, but it is no disgrace. So if your purse is empty, do not skulk and brood and hide your head in shame. Stand tall. Admit your poverty. Admit it freely and frankly and all kinds of good things will happen to you. Take, for instance, the case of Blossom Sigafos.

Blossom, an impecunious freshman at an Eastern girls' college, was smart as a whip and round as a dumpling, and scarcely a day went by when she didn't get invited to a party weekend at one of the nearby men's schools. But Blossom never accepted. She did not have the rail fare; she did not have the clothes. Weekend after weekend, while her classmates went frolicking, Blossom sat alone, saved from utter despair only by her pack of Marlboros, for even an exchequer as slim as Blossom's can afford the joys of Marlboro—joys far beyond their paltry price: rich, mellow tobaccos, lovingly cured and carefully packed, and an exclusive selectrate filter. Croesus himself could not buy a better cigarette!

However, Marlboro's most passionate admirers—among whose number I am paid to count myself—would not claim that Marlboro can entirely replace love and romance, and Blossom grew steadily moroser.

"Accept these Gifts from Tom."

Then one day came a phone call from an intelligent sophomore named Tom O'Shanter at a nearby men's college. "Blossom," said Tom, "I want you to come down next week for the barley festival, and I won't take no for an answer."

"No," said Blossom.

"Foolish girl," said Tom gently. "I know why you refuse me. It is because you are poor, isn't it?"

"Yes," said Blossom.

"I will send you a railroad ticket," said Tom. "Also a hard-boiled egg in case you get hungry on the train."

"But I have nothing to wear," said Blossom.

Tom replied, "I will send you one suit of cashmere, two gowns of lace, three slacks of velvet, four shoes of calf, five socks of nylon, and a partridge in a pear tree."

"That is most kind," said Blossom, "but I fear I cannot dance and enjoy myself while back home my poor lame brother Tiny Tim lies abed."

"Send him to Mayo Brothers and put it on my tab," said Tom.

"You are terribly decent," said Blossom, "but I cannot come to your party because all the other girls at the party will be from rich, distinguished families, and my father is but a humble woodcutter."

"I will buy him Yosemite," said Tom.

"You have a great heart," said Blossom. "Hold the phone while I ask our wise and kindly old Dean of Women whether it is proper for me to accept all these gifts."

She went forthwith and asked the Dean of Women, and the Dean of Women laid her wise and kindly old hand on Blossom's cheek and said, "Child, let not false pride rob you of happiness. Accept these gifts from Tom."

"Oh, bless you, Wise and Kindly," breathed Blossom, dropping grateful tears into the Dean's reticule. "I must run and tell Tom."

"Yes, run, child," said the Dean, a smile wrinkling her wise and kindly old eyes. "And ask him has he got an older brother."

WAC Arrives To Talk Army With AU Girls

Major Margaret E. Dougherty, Selection Officer for the United States Women's Army Corps, will visit the Alfred campus on Wednesday, Nov. 8.

Personal interviews with interested women students will be held to discuss the opportunities available to college graduates in the Women's Army Corps.

According to Major Dougherty, the need for qualified women in the military has increased considerably.

Qualified women with baccalaureate degrees may be selected to receive a direct appointment as lieutenant in the WAC.

Students in their junior year of college are offered the additional opportunity of a paid four week summer training program designed to orient and familiarize them with military life. These women are under no obligation to apply for a commission upon graduation.

All appointments with Major Dougherty are to be made at ROTC headquarters.

"I don't mean to be a wise-guy or anything but are all the rooms this messy?"

"Pretty much."

"Don't they ever have inspections?"

"Yeah, every Monday. We clean up the place during lunch hour before the housemother comes around."

"Wat's that?"

"Oh! That's our kitchen; hot plate, immersion heater, cooler, and everything. It's all illegal. That's the beauty of it."

"Are all the rooms painted that awful green?"

"Yeah. It's supposed to have a soothing psychological effect. Puts you to sleep when you should be studying."

"What's that white stuff on the curtains?"

"Just shaving cream from last night's fight."

"Oh."

"Can you get any sort of a snack in the dorm?"

"You can get soda or candy when the machines are working, but that's pretty rare."

"Is there a telephone around here?"

"Yes. There's one phone for the whole dorm. If you want me to, I'll teach you how to put nickels in it and make the operator think they're quarters."

"Well, not right now. I have to get back to Greene Hall for my interview. Thanks anyway."

"You'll like it here."

"I'll bet!"

After completion of the new facilities, the present men's dining room in Bartlett dormitory will be renovated providing six additional rooms housing 12 students, and TV, ping pong and canteen rooms.

Of, By, and For

by Justin Schulman

The main order of business at the last meeting of the Student Senate was the approval of club appropriations. In the past this action has been a mere formality and the only real action taken has been the cutting of requested funds to make the appropriations more realistic.

This year, however, the question of appropriations and how much each club is really entitled to has become a question of great importance. Many groups, realizing that their requests would be cut, submitted unrealistic or, if you prefer, padded budgets. To rectify this situation, Senate President Zoldan held a meeting with club presidents in order to eliminate these excesses, reduce waste, and bring better programs to the campus.

This meeting brought about several important changes in the club program on this campus. Realistic budgets were and are now being submitted (these include operation expenses, special speakers of limited appeal to the specific clubs, etc.) Any extra funds available for club use will be allocated for speakers of campus appeal. A major question concerning cultural activities on campus has been the role of the Campus Center Board. This group has stated that they will sponsor speakers of campus-wide appeal if requested to do so. They will not, or cannot, however, sponsor activities. This leaves many groups with the problem of swallowing their own personal pride and turning speakers who rightfully belong to them over to the Center for sponsorship.

The Senate conducted itself admirably and fairly in this matter. The only real question which remains is whether or not the Campus Center Board is doing the same.

Swarthmore Exchange

A motion was passed to have Alfred participate in a student exchange program with Swarthmore College early next semester. Several Alfred students will have the opportunity to go to Swarthmore, attend classes, and generally view campus life for a week. In exchange an equal number of students from Swarthmore will come to Alfred at that time.

Rev. Charles Kalisky of the American Board of Missions to the Jews will speak on "Israel and the Fulfilling of Prophecy", on Saturday, Nov. 11 from 7:45 through 8:45 p.m., and Sunday Nov. 12 at 2:30 p.m., at the Gothic. All are welcome.

Creditable Performance Given Of Well-worn "Comical" Play

by Robert Marshall

"A Majority of One" which was presented by the Alfred University Footlight Club, as most of you it seems did not know, proved to be a melodramatic rendering of well-worn, innocuous, liberal slogans hidden under the guise of "comedy".

The play proved to have more suds than a soap opera and yet the dirty linen the play hung out never quite got clean, but what can one expect with all the dust raised by the excavation of Ebbets Field which even Mrs. Jacoby recognized as a sad thing. This fact, is, indeed, the most profound in the whole play. What is Brooklyn without the Dogers, and what is the "Majority of One without Gertrude Berg? Everyone will say, "well, how could we get Gertrude Berg for the part?" It's true, we can't! She happens to be a freshman someplace else at the moment.

The Footlight Club did a creditable job with the materials at its disposal i.e. the play, the stage, and the audience, none of which were particularly mobile.

Sarah Calvelli as Mrs. Jacoby made a laudable attempt at trying to hold together the dialect and mannerisms of a rather complex, highly theatrical character, while Bob Klein as Koichi Asano, who is a cross between a Samurai and a Madison Avenue huckster, was able to bring his own personality into the character adding to it a bit of life.

The characters portrayed by Ellen Yuska and Dick Dienst while not being the most complex characters in theater literature were nevertheless portrayed with a great deal of charm and understanding.

Steven Snow as Eddie the house boy, while playing a low comic character, was the highlight of the evening.

The sum total of personal performance does not make a play. The ablest directing and hours of rehearsing do not mean success. It is the printed word rightly interpreted which gives life and endurance to a play. When the words fail so fails the play.

Letters to the Editor

Dear Editor:

Anyone can see that the movie "Operation Abolition" has been a germ of dynamic force with nationwide schisms and extremes that divide thought like the Civil War divided states over extreme convictions. The movie is an unyielding, unsacrificing, one-sided attempt to distort reality for purposes of conveying a message.

But let us here at Alfred not arm ourselves with words of rationalization, speech of the demagogue, is for us rather as students living and thoughts molded of steel. It in an environment where we can see both sides of the problem to benefit by this history-making experience. It is now our duty not to defend to the hilt but to question until we know.

What is "Operation Abolition?" Where are its roots? What is the background? Who are the gladiators? Who is the center?

On May 12-14, 1960, the House Un-American Activities Committee was conducting investigations concerning alleged Communist affiliations. Area college political organizations felt that it was necessary in some manner to draw PUBLIC ATTENTION to the fact that basic American liberties were being tampered with. The fact that just ten years before in the same city over one hundred area college professors and teachers were brought in to answer similar questions gave impetus to their planned demonstration. It seems that they planned to mass outside of the City Hall, picket and mildly demonstrate within the confines of the law.

Area TV stations came to film the demonstrations for news-reel publication. A short while after, Fulton Lewis III, along with one or two other people, had all film of the demonstration subpoenaed. Almost secretly, and apparently in order to cover up the editing agent, the films were collected, clipped, spliced, and rearranged.

It is an unequivocal fact that this House Committee has distort-

Harriers Extend Skein; Trip Red Raiders' Varsity and Frosh in Rain

by Bill Stutman

Last Saturday, in a dual meet between Alfred and Colgate at Hamilton, the teams had to battle the elements as well as each other, with Alfred beating Colgate's frosh, 24-34, and beating the varsity, 24-33.

With a terrific down pour all afternoon the course was slippery and wet. Dan Speck nevertheless ran a fine race over the five-mile varsity course, as he finished in the time of 27:18.4. If the weather had been better, Dan might very well have broken the course record of 26:50.6 held by Joe Francello of Syracuse. Barnshaw and Wilder took second and third for Colgate followed by Bob Lewkowitz, Tim Germain and Denny Newberry of Alfred. Smith of Colgate was seventh and Bob Tweedy was the fifth finisher for Alfred. Tweedy was the recipient of the "Golden Award" this week for his performance.

The frosh course was three miles long and Coach DiCamillo was afraid that his junior harriers unaccustomed to the length—Alfred's course is under three miles—would not be able to muster sufficient strength to keep up with Colgate. Such was not the case however. Colgate's Hall took first, but was followed by Saxon harriers Fran Swanson, Roger Wilcox and Curt Crawford. Colgate captured fifth and sixth but Bob Volk and Gary Gilbert finished seventh and eighth to clinch the race.

A completely drenched Joe DiCamillo was very happy with the Colgate meet. Next Saturday morning the teams travel to Harpur, for the annual N. Y. S. Small College Meet Buffalo State and Roberts Wesleyan will be the teams to beat.

My apologies to Fran Swanson, Little Stewart Katz of Buffalo did not get his revenge last week at Canisius as was mistakenly said here. Fran was beaten by a Toronto harrier.

ed the truth. This has been validated by admission of people responsible for the movie's production.

Immediately, I thought it was a horrendous calamity that a representative organ of the American people could engage in such an undertaking. In addition, the film's connotation will be propagandized under Communist aegis throughout the world for many years to come. For these two reasons the results warrant serious evaluation.

Acknowledging this, we must ask now if there are not greater issues involved here that may have made it necessary for a sacrifice to be made by Fulton Lewis, Rep. Walter, and the others.

Throughout the country, when this movie has been shown, college students have laughed at the obvious slanting, have hissed at Representative Walter. Others feel that the HUAC needs much more power to cope with Communists, but the Communists have been the power behind the scenes inciting people to eliminate this Committee because it is un-American to demand answers to our political affiliations.

Each side has forced the other against a wall to preclude reason. The connotations suggested about each other force dogmatic rationalization.

As I implied in my introduction, the real issues are too dynamic for the possible answers lie in extremes. We don't know to what degree Communism has been and will continue to be an undermining factor of traditional American values. We don't know to what degree, in order to safeguard these values, we can permit people to exercise complete freedom of speech and political association.

On side claims that HOUA must be abolished to protect our freedoms. The other side claims in order to protect our freedom HOUA should have unlimited power. Our freedom is at stake. I don't have the answer. Do you?

There will be a meeting of the Young Republicans Club at 8 p.m. on Nov. 8 in Room "A" of the Campus Center. Everyone is invited.

Intramurals

by Rosenberg, Plessner, Baar

Action in the intramural football league was sparse this week, due to several forfeits.

Last Saturday Tau Delt played Cannon. A safety in the first half was the deciding factor in an 8-6 victory for Tau Delt. Don Kleban intercepted a pass in the end zone. While trying to run it out he was tagged by Steve Arvan thus causing a safety. Tau Delt scored early in the second half and Cannon retaliated one half later. Even though it was a tight scoring game Tau Delt completely dominated the ball.

The Tau Delt passing offense was bogged down because of mud and fog consequently Klan Alpine won 25-13. Klan outmaneuvered Tau Delta Phi with double reverses in the backfield, executed by Green and Fry. The game was played without a clock because of a mental lapse on the part of the officials. If intramurals are to remain a serious endeavor such occurrences should not be the norm.

The Greasies forfeited themselves out of the league by forfeits to Lambda Chi and Phi Ep.

This Saturday at 9:45, Lambda Chi faces Tau Delt. Tau Delt is not strong enough to match the efforts of MacDonald and Eaton. Lambda Chi by 13. At 11 Kappa Psi plays Delta Sig. Kappa Psi hasn't showed much this year except for the hard blocking of Rick Denton. Delta Sig by 32.

The football standings at present are:

Phi Ep	7-0
Delta Sig	6-1
Lambda Chi	4-2
Klan Alpine	4-4
Tau Delt	3-3
Cannon	3-3
Kappa Psi	1-5
Greasies	1-7
Running Bears	1-7

This includes all games played by the Running Bears and the Greasies who had two forfeits and thus removed themselves from the league. All remaining games of these teams are forfeits.

In bowling this week: Barressi took over first place by beating Lambda Chi, 3-1. In other matches this week Delta Sig beat Kappa Psi 3-1; Phi Ep beat Canon 3-1; and Rodies beat Klan 4-0.

Intramural Volleyball

There will be a meeting at the Men's gym on Monday Nov. 13th at 7 p.m. of all groups planning to participate in the round robin intramural volleyball tournament. All entrants must present an eight dollar registration fee at this time to be considered. The intramural board picture will also be taken at this meeting.

Saxons Gain Upset Victory Over Ithaca 14-7; Meet Upsala Saturday in Last Game of Season

by Bob Darcangelo

The Alfred Saxons claimed their fifth victory of the season Saturday at Ithaca College. The victory can be summed up in one word: hitting. This is by far the hardest hitting the Saxons have done all year. As a result, the Ithaca backs were separated from the ball seven times and Alfred recovered six fumbles.

The Saxon line played tremendous ball opening huge holes in the Bomber's line while the backs led by Richie Falcigno (back of the game) ran harder than they have run all year. Moe Kessler was picked as lineman and sophomore of the game because of his end play, recovering of two fumbles, and scoring the winning touchdown. However, this was definitely an inspired team victory.

Alfred received the opening kickoff and proceeded to drive 78 yards for a score with Tom MacVittie going over from the four yard line. Dave Lutsic kicked the extra point and Alfred led 7-0. This was a drive in true Ohio State fashion, strictly a ground affair with the backs grinding it out at four and five yards a clip. However late in the second quarter, Ithaca drove 85 yards in 15 plays with Karas scoring on a sneak from the one; the kick for the point after was good. The score at the half was 7-7.

The second half began with Alfred kicking to Ithaca and the battle of the defenses began. Alfred controlled the ball most of the time as they recovered five Ithaca fumbles in this half. In the middle of the third period, Kessler intercepted a pitchout and scored what was to be the winning touchdown. Lutsic's kick for the point was good and Alfred led 14-7. The Saxons controlled the ball throughout most of the fourth quarter. The game ended with Alfred having a first down and goal to go on the Bomber's seven yard line.

EXTRA POINTS — Coach Yunevich happier than I've seen him all year . . . Bob Hart showed a lot of poise and called an excellent game . . . Joe Renwick looks like he is going to be a fine half-back . . . Just for the record, Quinn, Macholz, Hart, Kessler, Block, and MacVittie also recovered fumbles . . . The interior line gave up only 78 yards rushing which is proof that Lundquist, Quinn, Pfeiffer, Block and Zoldan were doing their usual fine job . . . An extra pat on the back for Alex Zoldan who played the entire game with an injured shoulder.

"Let's Look at the Record"

In light of the recent College Basketball Scandal, the National Collegiate Athletic Association in conjunction with the American Football Coaches Association, the National Association of Basketball Coaches, and the National Association of Collegiate Commissioners published a special report "underscoring basic principles concerning the conduct of intercollegiate athletics . . . and urging the adoption of procedures conducive to the sound administration of athletic programs."

Many of the colleges and universities in the United States are flagrant violators of the sixteen points listed by the N.C.A.A. in their September, 1961 report. Alfred is a school which is not.

Alfred University can proudly state that it adheres to all of the regulations and suggestions enumerated. Among them are: "We urge the N.C.A.A. membership to enact a national one-year residence requirement for all transfers except junior college graduates . . . Member institutions should conduct their athletic competition on campus grounds and in campus buildings . . . No man should be allowed to select a college or university for athletic reasons alone."

We are fortunate to have here at Alfred a man who has been able to run our athletic program at all times on a morally-pure plane. In addition year in, year out he continues to turn out Track teams which rate near the top in the East. Last year Alfred was State Small College Champion.

This man is James McLane, Athletic Director and Track coach. As an athletic director he has given to Alfred a well-rounded athletic program. As a coach he is deeply respected by the men who compete for him; "Mac" seems to have the touch of Midas as he never trains an athlete too fine, only to peak performance. As a man, James McLane has made an indelible contribution to Intercollegiate Athletics.
