'Dr.' of Sealing Devices

AU awards honorary doctorate to centenarian

LANCASTER—Alfred University took a road trip Monday to present an honorary Doctor of Science degree to Terry S. Galanis, Sr., a 1940 alumnus of Alfred University with a degree in ceramic engineering, and founder of the Lancaster-based Sealing Devices, Inc.

A sprightly 101-year-old Galanis, wearing the traditional purple and gold commencement gown for Alfred University doctoral candidates, said he was "overwhelmed" by the honor, and by the fact that Alfred University brought the degree ceremony to him. Alfred University typically awards its honorary degrees at its annual commencement.

In the room were "people I never expected to see" gathered together, said Galanis — family, friends, Sealing Device employees and numerous faculty, staff and students from Alfred University. "I really don't know what to say," said Galanis, tapping his chest. "It's all in here."

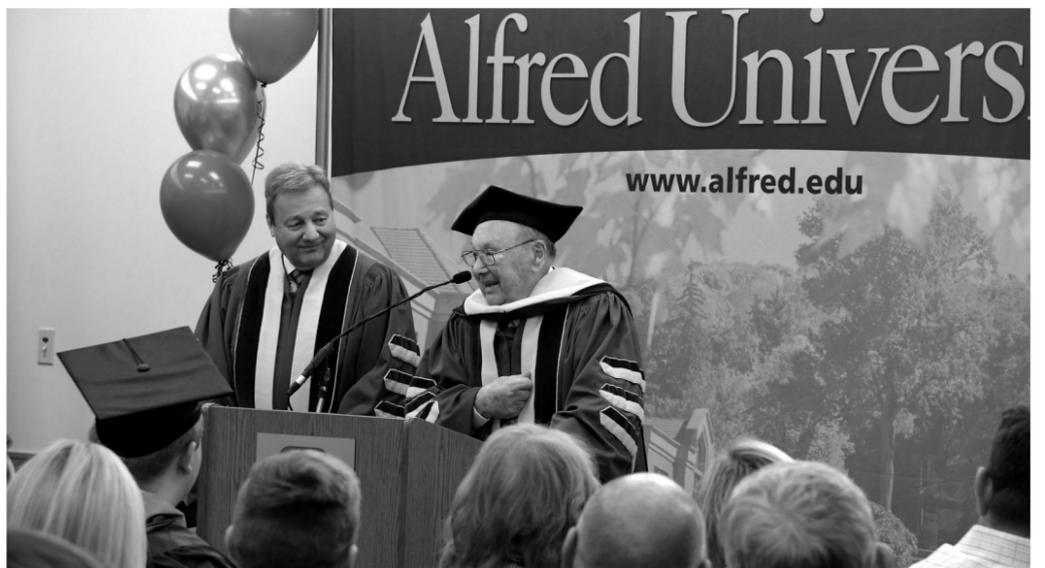

Alfred University President Mark Zupan said Galanis, whose father immigrated to the U.S. from Greece and whose mother came from Poland, shows "the power of dreams, the power of what America offers." A family friend, who also came from Greece, suggested Galanis attend Alfred University, making him a believer in the "power of education."

After working in sales for a number of years, Galanis invested $157 in founding in a new company that he began in his garage, using his children to fill small plastic bags with O-rings; eventually that company grew into a multi-million-dollar-a-year firm that currently employs about 400 people, demonstrating, Zupan said, "the power of hard work" and the "power of family."

As his business succeeded, Galanis learned the "power of giving back," as he and his family became "generous donors to Alfred University," supporting the College of Business and the athletics department with their gifts.

Most recently, Terry S. Galanis, Sr., made a $1 million gift in honor of his 101st birthday, telling President Zupan to "do something nice" for Alfred University's employees. Part of his gift was used to provide a one-time compensation payment to all non-bargaining-unit full- and part-time employees. The remainder is earmarked for support of the College of Business and athletics.

"A great man and a great family," said Greg Connors, chairman of the Alfred University Board of Trustees in referring to Terry S. Galanis, Sr., and his family. Terry, Sr., was "able to overcome adversity," launching a "fulfilling and successful career," that both sets him apart, and makes him representative of so many other Alfred University alumni.

Terry S. Galanis, Jr., now president of Sealing Devices and a member of AU's Board of Trustees for the past 20 years, said it was "important to my father and to our family to give something back for all that we have gotten received" from our involvement with Alfred University."

In a surprise presentation, Mark Lewis, dean of the College of Business, named Terry S. Galanis, Sr., as its first reipient of the College of Business Alumni Partner award for his support of programs in entrepreneurship, family business and business education. The Galanis family and Sealing Devices received the Family Business Award from the College of Business in 1999 and for the next 15 years, sponsored the annual awards, with Terry S. Galanis, Sr., making a point to visit in person as many of the finalist companies as he could in person.

Sheila Kay Oliver, 66, life impacted by 'A Thief in the Night' movie

SHEILA KAY OLIVER

Worship leader, psalmist

PERRIS, CALIF. — Sheila Kay Oliver, 66, formerly of Wellsville, entered into the waiting arms of Jesus on Friday (March 1, 2019) following a courageous battle with cancer.

Sheila was born on March 13, 1952 in Wellsville to Ralph and Geraldine "Geri" (Smith) Hills. She was a 1970 graduate of Wellsville Central School. On Nov. 28, 1972, in Las Vegas, Nevada she married the love of her life, Paul Oliver, who survives.

Her spiritual journey began in 1973 through the impact of a movie, "A Thief in the Night" and culminated in her giving her heart to Jesus through the reading of the family Bible. Her husband joined her on that journey in 1977 through her witness and accepting her invitation to attend the church next door.

Sheila devoted her life to the raising and homeschooling of her three children. She also played a very active role in church ministry. She was a worship leader for 35 years where she utilized her talents for the Lord in writing and composing worship songs. She co-pioneered with her husband the founding of Gavlin Hills Community Church in Gavlin, Calif., Beth Sincha Church in Riverside, Calif. and Shiloh Messianic Congregation Church in Crestline, Calif. and also in Cali Mesa, California.

In addition to her husband, Paul, Sheila is survived by three children, Jesse Paul Oliver of Park City, Utah, Jolene (Jeremy) Burdick and Jonah (Brenda) Oliver, both of Flagstaff, Arizona; her father, Ralph Hills of Wellsville; two sisters, Janet Wesche O'Loughlin and Carole Rich, both of California; two brothers, Brian Hills and Alan Hills, both of Wellsville; five grandchildren, Ezra Grace Burdick, Noah Burdick, Sadie Oliver, Reese Oliver and Silas Oliver; and several nieces, nephews and cousins.

In addition to her mother, Geri Hills, she was predeceased by a brother, Kevin Hills.

Sheila wasn't afraid of anything. She was willing to attempt anything for the Lord and with her friendly outgoing personality, she easily made many friends. An example of this was the Christian Temple Coffee Hour she started years ago and continued for many, many years.

A memorial service was held at 3 p.m. Saturday, April 20 at Grace United Church in Wellsville with Rev. Carol Stewart of the St. John's Episcopal Church officiating.

Local arrangements were under the direction of Baker-Swan Funeral Home in Wellsville. Online condolences may be offered at www.baker-swan.com.

Memorial contributions in Sheila's name may be made to Allegany County Cancer Services, Attn.: Lori Balengee, 100 South Highland Ave., Wellsville, NY 14895 or to Grace United Church, 289 N. Main St., Wellsville, NY 14895.

A bit of Alfred in the Big Bend

On the final day of February this year, Steve and Deb Jakobi treated us to a remarkable experience. As our guide, Billy, commented several times, we had a perfect day. Three canoes, launched on a pebbly beach, conveyed six of us two miles into spectacular Santa Elena Canyon in Big Bend National Park. The Rio Grande is a park-within-a-park, designated as a Wild and Scenic River. First photo: Sighting over the prow of Volks' canoe, as we enter the cleft, defined by 1500-foot-high walls. Mexico on the left, U.S. on the right, separated by the placid waters of the Rio Grande. Our trip was upstream first, and, as our guide said, with "wall, water, wall," as our path.

Second photo: Deb and Steve Jakobi of East Valley, Alfred Station. Third photo: Taken specifically to be published just before Easter weekend, and missed. Smugglers' Cave. As we paddled upstream, the morning play of light and shadow made a "cross" appear over an "empty tomb," under brilliant blue heavens.

Vidalia Onions have returned!

[Editor's Note: Like most of the recipes she shared with our readers over the past couple of decades, Ellen Shultz's Sunny Side Up columns are worth repeating.]

What a wonderful time of year it is! The trees and flowers are blossoming, it's softball season, and, perhaps best of all, the Vidalia onions have returned. If you are an onion lover, there is nothing like them anywhere. You get all that wonderful onion flavor and none of the harsh bite.

Here's another recipe from the World Famous Vidalia Sweet Onion Cookbook. As you start your outdoor grilling season, why not try it?

Vidalia Onion Ring Casserole

|--------------------------|----------------------------|
| 1 lb. Vidalia onions | 1/2 c. milk |
| salt and pepper | 1 egg, well beaten |
| 1/3 c. water | 1/2 c. grated sharp cheese |
| 2 T. butter or margarine | paprika |

Preheat grill. Peel and slice onions 3/4 inch thick; separate into rings. Place onion rings in 9 inch foil pan; season to taste with salt and pepper. Add water; cover onions with foil. Cook on grill until onions are tender. Uncover and dot with butter. Combine milk and eggs and pour over onions. Top with cheese and sprinkle with paprika. Cover with foil, cook on low setting for 10 minutes. (To cook in oven, cook in a covered casserole at 350 degrees for 1 hour.) Serves four.

WWII Museum curator will present program April 28

ALMOND—The Almond Historical Society will hold an open house program featuring Steve Appleby, curator at the Eldred PA World War II Museum at 3 p.m. Sunday, April 28 in the Almond Union Church fellowship room.

Appleby's talk features a variety of weapons and WWII relics, which enhance his fast-paced, enthusiastic presentation.

The Eldred PA WWII museum, located at 201 Main Street, Eldred, provides an interesting road trip destination. Their impressive facilities include the Robert A. Anderson Library, which now exceeds 8500 volumes, including rare or out of print books available to researchers.

In addition to books, researchers also have access to veteran statements and interviews, various wartime periodicals, videos, and documents within the museum's archives.

The museum is situated on the site of a former munitions plant that operated during WWII. Approximately 1,500 people worked in this facility and once the local boys went off to war, 95% of National Munitions Company's employees were women. During peak production the plant stretched across 1,800 acres with proving grounds in New York State.

For more information, visit: <https://eldredpawwiiuseum.com/>.

This event, sponsored by the Almond Historical Society, is free and open to the public. Refreshments will be served at the close of Appleby's talk.

Village resident grateful for work of Alfred University football team

To the Editor:

We are deeply grateful for the help we received from five energetic, enthusiastic and very polite AU football players in the cleanup of our yard and gardens last Saturday, April 13 after our having responded a couple of weeks ago to AU Football's "ad" in The Alfred Sun.

For more than two hours they raked, shoveled dirt and debris (including broken glass) from the "strip" between the sidewalk and the street (we live on South Main), pruned dead branches from shrubbery, re-piled logs, moved cement blocks, and carted innumerable wheelbarrow loads of gravel, debris, leaves, and twigs to hidden areas of our back yard. Passionate gardener that I am, much of what they accomplished with their strong arms and shoulders is difficult for me to do now, and impossible for my husband, Roger (who just celebrated his 89th birthday).

Just as rewarding was the rapport that developed between us as we worked together. They arrived right on time, bounded out of their big red truck, and introduced themselves with their first names—"I'm Justin, I'm Russ, I'm Xavier, I'm Joe, I'm Nick"—and a handshake from each one. They took our yard tools in hand and promptly decided to start in the front (literally in the street) and "work [their] way back". It was not long before I discovered that they all were from metropolitan homes, as they marveled at the depth of our back yard—and the steep hill and woods behind it.

Their final effort was to remove the body of a porcupine that had frozen to death under the steps to the entrance of the "studio" attached to our barn. (Passers by marvel at the window from the original AU Gothic Chapel.) The poor creature had hunkered down there the night the temperature plummeted 60 degrees ca. in late January and was frozen in place until recently. With great hilarity they scooped it out with a shovel and took it up into the woods.

The AU Football coaches deserve great praise for this community service project that not only helps village residents but brings us into contact with earnest students—and, just as important, the students into contact with the year-around residents. Saturday was a beautiful day, so the players who helped us also witnessed neighborhood children bicycling down the street and hitting soccer balls next door—in the historic center of Alfred, where a community still survives. The younger ones were amazed (first-year students?) but also demonstrated respect—which gave us great pleasure, to say the least!

From grime-infested garbage cans
And last week's dinners' unwashed pans
And toilet seats and dirt-filled cracks—
Those spots the cleaning crew's been lax—
She locates it, and cleans it out,
But not with boorish, boarish snout;
Oh, no—she's much more ladylike:
She 'plies her nails, the little tyke.
She seeks out germs where're she toddles;
I wonder why we wash her bottles.

This photo was taken right after they removed a porcupine from under the steps—it had frozen to death tragically back in mid-winter when the temperature dropped 60 degrees overnight after a brief warm spell. It was frozen in place until last week. (Photos provided)

ALFRED UNIVERSITY

State Ed Dept. a resounding 'Yes' to music major

ALFRED—Alfred University has taken a significant step to further strengthen its performing arts program with the addition of a new major in music. Beginning with the 2019-20 academic year, the University will offer a Bachelor of Arts degree in music.

Alfred University has a long tradition in music instruction: the University has for many years offered a minor in music, and until the late 1970s also had a major in music.

The University is home to some outstanding facilities in the Miller Performing Arts Center and Miller Theater, which have staged numerous musical performances over the years. For the last five years, the University hosted the MostArts Festival, a week-long annual celebration of music and art which each summer brings a host of talented musicians to campus.

Alfred University currently offers a major and minor in theater, as well as minors in music, dance and performance design technology. Offering a major in music is a logical next step as the University looks to expand its offerings in performing arts.

"The new B.A. in music is a rather natural outgrowth of Alfred University's long tradition music education and performance," commented W. Richard Stephens, provost and vice president of Academic Affairs. "Of course, we also have world class facilities for music performance. With the new major we can leverage all these resources into expanded programing and new student enrollment."

"People have asked me why we don't have a major in music. The MostArts Festival has established an outreach across the country, and we have these tremendous facilities," added Lisa Lantz, professor of music and chair of the Division of Performing Arts. "I'm very excited to add this major. It will now make music more prominent during the academic year. We're entering a new era for Performing Arts Division in terms of potential growth and visibility."

The University applied to the New York State Education Department for B.A. degree in music on March 21 and the state announced on April 5 it had approved the application. The new degree will be offered beginning this fall. Lantz said the first cohort of students who will earn the new Bachelor of Arts in music will enroll in 2020-21, although there could be some — transfers, double-majors for example — who earn the new degree sooner.

Students who earn the B.A. in music will have degree concentrations on an instrument, or voice, Lantz said. The music department initially will have three core faculty positions — current professors Lantz, who specializes in strings and orchestra, and Luanne Crosby, professor of voice and chorus; and newly appointed professor of music Raul Barcenos, who specializes in band. There are also nine additional adjuncts teaching private lessons and providing classroom instruction.

The new major will prepare students for a wide and varied number of careers, such as music medicine, audio and video production, music journalism, arts production, grant-writing, arts management, and owning/operating a music studio.

Students also have the opportunity to combine the B.A. degree in music with other majors and minors. A double-major in music and business, for example, could prepare a student for a career in music/arts management; and a double-major in music and theater, with a minor in dance could lead the career in musical theater.

Lantz credited the generosity of Alfred University Trustee Marlin Miller Jr. '54, H '89 for helping make the new music degree a reality. Miller's gifts funded construction of the Miller Performing Arts Center in 1996 and the Miller Theater in 2010.

"I don't believe this would have been possible without the Miller Performing Arts Center and Miller Theater," Lantz said. "If you were to begin a music major from scratch, it would be a huge expense: you need facilities, music resources, equipment and instruments. We already have that infrastructure here, so the foundation to bring this new program is in place."

Gerar Edizel, dean of the School of Art and Design and Performing Arts, said additional majors in performing arts are planned. He said growth in the performing arts, including the addition of the music major, will enhance not only academic offerings, but the overall student experience.

"This will give a boost to the cultural life on campus," said Edizel, noting that growth in performing arts will provide opportunities for collaboration and cooperation with the University's visual arts programs. "This will increase opportunities to explore synergies with the School of Art and Design."

ALFRED STATE IN ITALY

Architecture students honored at Design Event

ALFRED—A third-year class of Alfred State architecture students studying in Sorrento, Italy, recently participated in the second annual HOME: International Design Event developed and coordinated by architect and author Duo Dickinson, FAIA. Three Pioneers came away with honors, including a second-place award and two honorable mentions.

According to Dickinson, the purpose of the event was to study "The idea of home: its universality, its deep idiosyncrasy, its protection, its public face, its intimacy, its dependence on culture and context; the largest clothing we wear, the most expensive thing we may own or pay for, the most valuable asset many of us have and the greatest liability."

The event drew more than 20 entries from programs across the world, including the Building Beauty program, Alfred State College, University of Hartford, and University of San Francisco. Following a lecture by Dickinson on the "Controversy of Beauty," he reviewed each of the submissions in detail, and identified the top four student projects.

Alfred State's Aga Jean Sarno, of Savona, was awarded a second-place book prize in the competition for her entry "A Sustainable Life: Zero Energy Modular Home."

Sarno's concept statement described the focus of the design as beauty, sustainability, and function to identify the interwoven relationship between the outdoor world and the inside space.

Supporting the claim of sustainability, all the spaces were created by combining used shipping containers. Speaking about the project, Dickinson said, "The home is part of every human, and the use of shipping containers to make that home tests any designer's skill to create beauty out of the mundane. Here, the brilliant planning and 3-D realization of the scheme made the home that resulted anything but generic."

Honorable mentions included Alfred State students Brianna Swartz, of Fort Plain, and Caleb Boyce-Wright, of Buffalo. Now in its 11th year, Studio Sorrento at the Sant'Anna Institute is directed by Professor William Dean, AIA.

The program is open to Alfred State architecture students in their third-year of study and provides participants a unique opportunity for a spring semester experience that includes courses in Urban Sketching & Journaling, Italian, and Archeology in addition to the design studio.

The HOME event was sponsored by the Building Beauty program at the Sant'Anna Institute in Sorrento, Italy. The Building Beauty program offers a post-graduate diploma in architecture that focuses on ecological design and construction process. The program explores the principles expressed in Christopher Alexander's "The Nature of Order" through an integrated approach to hands-on making appropriate technology construction and self-aware design at the individual and community levels.

Alfred University choral groups to collaborate in May 4 concert

ALFRED—The Alfred University Chorus, Chamber Singers, and Alfred Volunteer Choir Company join voices to present a spring concert at 7:30 p.m. Saturday, May 4, that celebrates diversity, community and hope.

"It's a way of speaking out against hate and prejudice... through the power of music," said Luanne Crosby, professor of voice and chorus at AU, who will direct the choirs.

The free concert, to be held at the Alfred Seventh Day Baptist Church, will feature folk songs from Venezuela and Argentina; songs by Billy Joel; and "Eli, Eli," a song based on the 1942 poem "A Walk to Caesarea" by Hungarian-Jewish resistance fighter Hannah Szenes.

The program also includes three movements from a longer work by American choral composer Craig Hella Johnson entitled "Considering Matthew Shepard." This is especially fitting as Shepard's ashes were just recently interred in the National Cathedral on the 20th anniversary of his brutal murder.

The Choirs will be joined by special guest, AU alum Chaz Bruce '08, who has been working with the singers on gospel music including Kirk Franklin's "Down By the Riverside" and a tribute to Aretha Franklin with "Respect." Bruce earned a bachelor's degree in theater from Alfred University and is currently Western New York Director at New York Institute of Dance and Education.

Concert-goers may find themselves "dancing" out of the church as the program concludes with a Caribbean "Kyrie" featuring Ted Canning on steel drum and Dustin Woodard on percussion.

Daisy Wu performs at UN gathering

ALFRED—Daisy Wu, Visiting Associate Professor of Music at Alfred University and director of the University's Confucius Institute, performed on the guzheng — a traditional Chinese stringed instrument — at the 2019 United Nations Language Day Celebration, held April 18 at the UN headquarters.

United Nations Language Day was established by the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization (UNESCO) in 2010, seeking "to celebrate multilingualism and cultural diversity as well as to promote equal use of all six of its official working languages throughout the organization."

The six United Nations official working languages are Arabic, Chinese, English, French, Russian and Spanish. The Chinese Language Day celebration paid tribute to Cang Jie, a mythical figure who is presumed to have invented Chinese characters about 5,000 years ago.

The theme of 2019 Chinese Language Day Celebration was "In Pursuit Peace." The Opening Ceremony started with Wu's guzheng solo piece "High Mountains and Flowing Water," which consider as one of the most historically famous Chinese musical compositions. This piece described the magnificence of high mountains, the power of moving water and the harmony between the flowing water and the mountain. Wu said the tune was based on the legendary friendship between guqin master Yu Boya and Zhong Ziqi. Wu said that the music is about understanding and it's represents cherished friendship in Chinese culture.

Wu is an award-winning guzheng artist, founder and artistic director of the Alfred University Guzheng Ensemble, and judge of New York

International Chinese Instruments Competition. She has held more than 200 concerts and lectures in China, the United States and Canada, and has performed in remarkable settings such as China Central Television (CCTV) and Carnegie Hall.

UN officials among the 100 attending the event were: Ms. Alison Smale, under-secretary-general for Global Communications; Zhenmin Liu, under-secretary-general for Economic and Social Affairs; Movses Abelian, assistant secretary-general of the Dept. of General Assembly and Conference Management; and Ambassador Haitao Wu, deputy permanent representative of China to the UN.

Nutrition in a Nutshell

By MARIA ADAM

Thriving Tips: Maximizing Nutrients

Grains, seeds, and nuts are more digestible if first soaked. This is because of the phytic acid that covers these seeds. What is wrong with phytic acid? Basically, it requires more enzymes than we have to break it down and it will result in our bodies actually being depleted of minerals. (To read more about phytic acid, see the resource below.)

But, don't worry! You can soak, sprout or ferment your grains, nuts, seeds, and legumes to breakdown the phytic acid and make the nutrients more digestible. Soaking is the easiest process. Simply soak grains and legumes overnight in water with 1-2 Tbsp of an acidic solution (whey, yogurt, lemon juice, apple cider vinegar).

Note that the cooking time is less due to the soaking, so I simply cook the grain until tender. For 4 cups of nuts and seeds, cover with at least an extra inch of water, and add 1-2 Tbsp of salt. Nuts don't have to soak as long! (See resource below for soaking recipes.)

After soaking, drain off the salt water. You can then eat them soft, but I prefer to roast them in the oven at 175 degrees fahrenheit until crisp, about 12-16 hours.

The magic of this process turns a whole food into a nutrient-dense, easily absorbed superfood.

DIY Paleo Graham Crackers

CONFESSION- I love s'mores! Who doesn't love a warm gooey marshmallow sandwiched between two cinnamon graham crackers and melting chocolate with every bite? Since cutting sugar out of my diet s'mores don't love me. Every time I give in, the sugar rush is enough to make me feel faint! So I set out to create a paleo/keto recipe for s'mores that won't wreak havoc on my blood sugar. It works! I will share individual component recipes over the next few weeks, so check back.

DIY PALEO Graham Crackers

*1 1/4c almond flour *1/4c flax meal
*1/4c monk fruit *1/4t cinnamon
*2T coconut flour *1/4t salt
*6T butter *1/4t vanilla

Preheat your oven to 350. In a large mixing bowl incorporate all the ingredients in order. Be careful not to over mix. On a baking sheet place a piece of parchment paper. Pour graham cracker mixture on top of paper and place another sheet of parchment paper over that. Using a rolling pin roll out the graham cracker until desired thickness is achieved (this recipe will not rise). Bake 6-12 minutes and enjoy! Use this recipe as a crust for any pie or cheesecake.

ALFRED STATE

Three receive 'Outstanding Adult Student' awards

ALFRED—In recognition of their excellence both inside and outside of the classroom, three Alfred State College students were recently honored with Outstanding Adult Student Awards.

Presenting the awards to 130 bright and highly motivated adult students was the Rochester Area Colleges Continuing Education (RACCE), a consortium of area colleges that promotes and advocates for continuing education to adult and other non-traditional students in the greater Rochester area. RACCE's extensive network of college administrators provide information about educational programs to students and fosters collaboration and professional development opportunities among its membership.

Alfred State's own Joseph Greenthal, chief financial officer, served as the keynote speaker for the 36th Annual Outstanding Adult Student Awards Banquet, which was held at the Double Tree Inn in Henrietta.

The Outstanding Adult Student Award recognizes adult students who have excelled academically while successfully combining their college education with other commitments to family, job, career, and service to the community. Receiving awards from Alfred State were Travis Randall, a construction supervision major from Horseheads; Rob Orton, a business administration student from Wellsville; and Jared Wielkie, a heating, ventilation and air conditioning major from Yorkshire. Randall, who maintains a 3.9 GPA, has maintained his job as a union electrician during the summer breaks and teaches night classes at a local union hall for electricians. He is also a veteran and is very active in a veterans support group called, "Got Your 6," which assists veterans who are transitioning out of service to civilian life. This group participates in fundraisers and community activities to support fellow veterans find success.

Orton, who maintains a 3.8 GPA, takes great pride in his studies and strives to get the best out of his education. He was hired as an intern in the Office of Student Engagement to work on leadership programs during the summer of 2018. Orton helps to build the schedule for the "Week of Welcome" and worked for Orientation to provide presentations to commuters and non-traditional students. He is also active in his son's Boy Scout group as a den leader, his children's karate classes, and his church as a leader of multiple groups and a member of the Buildings and Grounds Committee.

Wielkie, who maintains a 3.9 GPA, is a student tutor, works part-time jobs through a staffing service, and is active in the Boy Scouts of America. He drives more than one hour to get to school each day and is dedicated to his studies. Wielkie also assists an elderly family member, as well as a local fire department.

Alfred State Relay for Life raises over $11,000

ALFRED—More than 150 volunteers recently stood up to cancer by participating in the annual Relay for Life charity walk at Alfred State College.

The yearly event raises money and awareness for the American Cancer Society. This year's event featured a superhero theme, with teams participating in the theme lap dressed as superheroes, as well as taking part in a costume contest and superhero trivia.

According to Coordinator of Student Activities Brittany Richards, the Relay for Life club adviser, the 2019 Relay for Life was a great success, as the 16 participating teams raised $11,003, which surpassed the Relay committee's goal of $10,000.

Thanks to more than 150 volunteers, the Alfred State Relay for Life Committee, pictured here, greatly surpassed its fundraising goal for the 2019 Relay event.

"I am so proud of every student on the Relay for Life Committee," she said. "So much work goes into planning and executing such a big event and they are the main force driving it. A big thank you to Michael Murray for all of his help in the event, as well as our student chairwoman, Jennie Bowen. The event had so much energy through all 12 hours and it was thanks to all of the students who attended and helped us raise so much for the American Cancer Society."

Richards noted that the committee is still collecting donations online and in person in case anyone would still like to contribute. For more information on how to donate, contact Richards at 607-587-4075 or at RicharBE@alfred-state.edu.

SCHOOL OF APPLIED TECHNOLOGY

Stevens named Wellsville campus dean

ALFRED—Alfred State is pleased to announce that Jeffrey Stevens, of Wellsville, is the new dean of the School of Applied Technology.

Stevens has been an Alfred State employee since 2002, when he was hired as an instructor in the Electrical Trades Department. He was later promoted to assistant professor, then associate professor.

In 2014, Stevens was appointed chair of the Electrical Trades Department, a position he held until 2017, when he was named interim dean of the School of Applied Technology.

Stevens has received several honors throughout his employment at Alfred State, including recognition in 2011 as a certified installer of solar electric systems by the North American Board of Certified Energy Practitioners. In 2012, Stevens was honored with the Chancellor's Award for Excellence in Faculty Service, particularly for his leadership of students in designing and installing the first solar-powered irrigation system at the US National Arboretum.

Prior to being hired at Alfred State, Stevens worked as a commercial electrician from 1993 to 1996, and as an electrical service technician from 1996 to 2000. He was also the owner and operator of an electrical contracting business from 2000 to 2012.

In addition to being a long-time employee, Stevens is also an Alfred State graduate, having received his electrical construction and maintenance electrician degree and his plumbing, heating and air conditioning degree from the college. He also earned a bachelor's in professional business studies from Empire State College.

Speaking to his new role as dean, Stevens said, "I find it a great honor to be selected as the academic and administrative leader representing the faculty and students of the School of Applied Technology. This appointment represents the opportunities for success that are available to every Alfred State graduate. To have a part in strengthening the lives of so many students through higher education and to work alongside such gifted faculty and staff each day is truly inspiring."

Dr. Skip Sullivan, president of Alfred State, said, "We are delighted to announce the appointment of Jeff Stevens as the new dean of our Wellsville campus. Jeff has performed admirably since assuming the role on an interim basis in 2017, and has excelled in each position he has held throughout his career here at the college. Jeff's extensive knowledge and familiarity with the Wellsville campus, along with his leadership skills and his ability to connect with and inspire students and employees alike make him an excellent fit for the position."

Stevens and his wife, Linda, are the parents of three children, Noah, Rebecca, and Sarah, and two delightful grandchildren.

Alfred State Choir Alumni offers 68th annual concert

ALFRED—The Alfred State College Choir Alumni will present its 68th Annual Spring Concert at 2 p.m. Sunday, April 28 in the Anthony C. Cappadonia Auditorium in the Orvis Activities Center on the Alfred campus.

Groups performing will include the Alumni Jazz Singers, AAA (Anthony's Acappella Alliance), the '87 Collegiate Quartet, and the Alumni Choir. The alumni will be joined by the current Alfred State College group "Voices" for the finale.

The Choir Alumni organization was founded in 1957 and consists of alumni who performed under the direction of Anthony C. Cappadonia. On April 29, 2012, the Anthony C. Cappadonia Auditorium was officially dedicated. It will forever be a testament to the musical inspiration Cappadonia provided to his Alfred State College students for over 56 years of teaching and directing both instrumental and choral groups, as well as his continued relationship with alumni.

Cappadonia passed away in February 2014, and the alumni continue to perform annual concerts in his honor. The April 28 concert is free and open to the public.

Linda Kay (Stockstad) (Murdock) Simmins, was Chuck's baby, too

ALFRED— Linda Kay (Stockstad) (Murdock) Simmins, born in 1948 and died in 2019, was met at the end of the Rainbow Bridge by her childhood dog Stubby, her childhood cat, her adult furbabies Tuffles, Midnight, Shadow, Patches, Smokie, Miss Kitty, Merlin, and Arthur.

And she was Chuck's baby, too. Linda grew up in Milnor, a rural North Dakota farm town. She began singing before she was in school and her love of song continued until her death. In high school she was in the marching band and the cheer band. She played taps as veterans and fallen soldiers were laid to rest. She sang in church and at weddings.

Her bachelor's degree in math and PE allowed her to teach Junior High as she followed her first husband through his Ph.D., from town to town and finally to Texas A&M. She challenged herself and obtained a Masters in Computer Science while working.

Change came, he went, and she found herself a computer trainer at A&M, an adjunct at Blinn Community College, and a regular with the local community theater. In her spare time she also helped found the second Lutheran church for College Station.

She met Chuck online, in 1994, before there was a World Wide Web. They were married on a sunny July day, in 1995, in a park in Alfred. The wedding reception found her in the seat of a fire engine as Chuck's friends paraded through the town with lights and sirens running.

A move to the Rochester, New York, area followed. She trained, worked as a technical writer, as an Excel macro guru, and her last position was at Nazareth College. She trained there and helped with the newly installed student data base.

Over the next few years, health challenges kept her at home, diabetes, a heart attack, and two strokes. She cared for her furbabies and for her husband. Her death was unexpected though her health had worsened over the final months of her life. Her final words to Chuck were "I love you, too."

Should any of you wish to, Linda would have appreciated a donation to Lollypop Farm, Humane Society of Greater Rochester, 90 Victor Rd, Fairport, NY 14450. Our last 5 fur babies came from there.

THE GLORY OF AMERICA

Thursday, April 25

On this day in 1799, Dr. Jedediah Morse, minister and “the father of American geography,” assessed the decision the country faced--and faces still, two centuries later: “To the kindly influence of Christianity we owe that degree of civil freedom and political and social happiness which mankind now enjoys. In proportion as the genuine effects of Christianity are diminished in any nation, either through unbelief, or the corruption of its doctrines, or the neglect of its institutions; in the same proportion will the people of that nation recede from the blessings of genuine freedom, and approximate the miseries of complete despotism.”

ALLEGANY COUNTY HOPE CENTER

New group exploring 'early trauma'

WELLSVILLE--Allegany County's social services commissioner says a new group will be exploring how best to increase awareness of the lifetime effects of early childhood trauma that goes unaddressed and available resources for overcoming them.

Vicki Grant told those attending a public awareness seminar on Kids Dangers at the Hope Center in Wellsville Thursday (April 18) that an Allegany County Trauma Informed Communities committee, comprised of government departments and agency representatives, met for the first time earlier this month to begin discussion on how to address this need.

She said county legislators were the first in the state to adopt a resolution last year to encourage county agencies, the state, all profit and non-profit organizations and individuals to become informed about the negative impacts of adverse childhood experiences (ACEs) and to provide services to help those having experienced such situations to recover from them.

The commissioner said that individuals with unmitigated early childhood trauma are more likely to have work absences, depression, be an alcoholic, smoke, inject drugs, use antidepressant medicines, develop sexually transmitted diseases due to risking behaviors, and be suicidal.

They also are at increased risks for chronic disease, acute illnesses, injuries and early deaths, with children often being overwhelmed by fear, anxiety, depression, hopelessness and anger, resulting in inappropriate and aggressive behaviors and other negative impacts.

Grant said these situations were discovered some 20 years ago in a study by the federal Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) and Kaiser Permanente. Children experiencing increasing numbers of traumatic events, such as parental divorce, an alcoholic father, multiple movings or evictions, physical, mental or sexual abuse, neglect, household challenges and others were more likely to suffer and retain negative impacts in adulthood.

As a result, those working with individuals having experienced early childhood trauma need to be sensitive to social, emotional and learning behaviors, she said, and instead of asking or thinking "What is wrong with you?" to be attuned to "What happened to you?" and how to obtain resources to help overcome these situations.

To do this, the commissioner said, individuals need to be able to sense a safe environment of care, trustworthiness of those seeking to help, having a choice in what happens to them, a collaborative environment in which they are part of the solution rather than someone doing for them, and empowerment that focuses on a person's strengths and hopes.

This involves a culture change in which people seek to be aware and help one another rather than hurting one another due to the pain they have experienced, Grant said.

She noted an umbrella approach needs to be developed in which all communities of care, including individuals, governments, education, human services, churches, law enforcement and others are trauma-informed, including those not having been impacted personally by trauma needing to be aware that family members, friends, co-workers and acquaintances may have been.

The next level is agencies being trauma-sensitive to the needs of clients, followed by trauma-specific types of treatment, ranging from professional systems to safe family and community supports.

The commissioner said the work of the committee still is being determined but is likely to include greater collaborative efforts toward public and services provider awareness as to the subject of ACEs and other types of trauma occurrences, how it may be causing some of the issues occurring in households, workplaces and other venues, and public dissemination of available resources to help create a better understanding of trauma, its impacts, and how to obtain assistance to overcome issues resulting from such occurrences.

Grant also discussed historical and cultural trauma that can have impacts for generations unless it is understood.

In the rural Allegany County area, part of the 13-state Appalachian Region, residents have experienced strong economies at times due to the influence of the railroad and canal, with areas of both wealth and poverty. Industry, education, tourism, agriculture and more all have had various impacts.

Additional information on ACEs is available at www.cdc.gov/violenceprevention/childabuseandneglect/acestudy/index.html.

The Hope Center, which includes information and referral and reading assistance in addition to its education center, currently is open from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. Saturdays, by appointment, and for daytime and evening presentations, workshops and seminars. Services are free and available to all persons, regardless of faith background.

It is an outreach ministry of the Mission Genesee Valley coalition of churches, Christian organizations and individuals seeking community transformation and revival in Allegany County. CANACADEA CREEK

Grants offered for Alfred-Almond septic systems

BELMONT—Properties owners along Canacadea Creek in Alfred and Almond may be eligible for a grant to assist with the cost of replacing a cesspool or repairing, replacing, or upgrading a septic system.

Canacadea Creek has been listed as a priority geographic area where there is a critical need to reduce the impact of sewage on groundwater and surface water.

The Environmental Facilities Corporation Program provides grants to cover up to 50% of the eligible costs of eligible septic system projects, up to $10,000 per project.

For an application, visit: https://www.alleganyco.com/depart- ments/health/environmental-health/ and click on individual sewage treatment systems.

Or call 585-268-9250, and press option 1 for environmental health.

The application must contain sufficient information about the condition of the septic system and the scope and cost of the proposed repair or replacement, to enable the County to determine whether it qualifies for a grant, and assess eligibility. Applicants should read the application carefully and be sure to provide all requested information. Failing to do so could result in a delay or denial of funding from this program.

Funds for the Program are limited, and Allegany County can provide grants only to those septic system projects that will significantly and quantifiably reduce environmental and/or public health impacts from cesspools or septic systems. Those property owners whose projects are selected for a grant will be notified of the award and anticipated reimbursement for the project. Those denied a grant will also be notified.

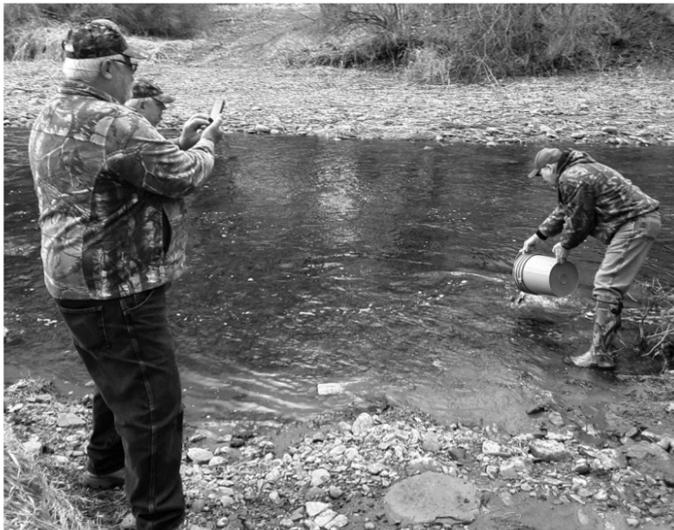

Once a grant has been awarded, the property owner must confirm acceptance of the award and the terms and conditions by signing and returning the letter to the County. Once the letter is signed and returned, the property owner may hire a design professional and a contractor for the septic system project. Once completed, the property owner will be reimbursed up to the grant award, for eligible, documented costs incurred to complete the project.

Allegany County officials encourage Alfred and Almond residents to apply to this program. This is a unique opportunity for cooperation between the state, local government, and property owners, to address a pressing environmental and public health issue in the community.

For more info, visit the county web site at <http://www.alleganyco.com/departments/health/environmental-health/>, or the EFC website at www.efc.ny.gov/SepticReplacement.

Almond Rod & Gun Club stocks creek with brown trout

The Almond Rod and Gun Club on Tuesday, April 9 stocked the Canacadea Creek with 1100 brown trout in the Almond and Alfred Station areas. Above, Phil and Bob Sanford look on as Ken Lorrow places some trout in the water. At right, Scott Mills takes a bucket of fish from the tank truck, manned by personnel with the Department of Environmental Conservation. This process has been going on for a number of years with good results as many young people have been reporting that they are catching fish.

Local foods in school cafeterias

WELLSVILLE—Students in Wellsville High School celebrated the first day of spring by kicking off a new program at lunch. New York Thursday is an initiative in which once a month, a school's menu features 100% NYS food.

Schools often showcase new recipes or in-season ingredients for students to solicit feedback. This month's NY Thursday's lunch included a NY Hot dog (Slate Foods), milk (Upstate Niagara), Welch's Grape Slushie (Cool Tropics), apples and roasted potatoes.

Wellsville joins eight districts in Erie County, and this inaugural day proved to be an outstanding success! Both students and cafeteria staff enjoyed making the switch from ordinary ingredients to ones grown and produced right here in New York State.

However, Wellsville students are no stranger to local food. Since September 2018, their cafeteria has served students local beef from Hoffman Farm weekly for "Taco Tuesdays." Participation rates have increased dramatically for Wellsville on days when they serve local food.

Cafeteria Manager Bob Meyers explains, "The students can tell that they are eating a higher quality ingredient, and therefore more students engage with our cafeteria on these certain days. This indicates to me that we're doing something right, and that we should continue purchasing more local foods. When I do so, the cafeteria, the students, and the farmers all win."

Wellsville CSD has been in the forefront of promoting Farm to School in Allegany County. With the success of one NY Thursday under his belt, Bob Meyers plans to expand this program to all grade levels in his district.

"Bob has paved the way for other districts in the county to start a NY Thursdays program" said Cassandra Bull, Farm to School Coordinator at Cornell Cooperative Extension of Allegany County. "Many districts have expressed interest in coordinating their menus to celebrate 100% local food together once a month, and we are very excited to move forward collectively with this goal in mind."

ALFRED UNIVERSITY SPORTS ROUND-UP

Tennis teams sweep Oswego State in Monday matches

The AU men's tennis team (6-4, 3-2 E8) closed out its nonconference slate on Monday with a 6-3 win over the Lakers of Oswego State on the William T. Brown Tennis Courts.

The Saxons jumped out to an early 2-1 lead in doubles play. The senior team of Peter Smock (Prattsburgh) and Kyle Kemper (Oswego) took #2 doubles 8-3. Oswego bounced back with a win at #3 doubles before sophomores Ryan Brown (Olean) and Logan Cross (Olean) took #1 doubles 8-7 (8-6).

Cross added another win on the day at #2 singles, 6-3, 6-2. Brown followed suit, taking his match 6-4, 4-6, 1-0 (10-8). Smock sealed the Saxon victory 6-3, 6-4 at #1 singles before Kemper added one more win for good measure at #4 singles 7-6 (7-2), 6-3).

"Proud of the guys today and battle with a good Oswego team," Head Coach Jordan Crouch said. "With only one day of rest from our long trip this was a great win."

The Saxons, who have now won four straight matches (9-0 at Elmira April 12, 7-2 at Utica April 19 and 9-0 at The Sage Colleges April 20) were to host the Cardinals of St. John Fisher College with a spot in the Empire 8 Championship tournament on the line.

Women defeat Oswego

The women's tennis team (8-8, Empire 5-3) wrapped up the 2018-19 season with a 5-2 win over nonconference opponent Oswego State on Monday afternoon. Junior Miranda Sakala (Olean) fell only one win shy of tying the second-most single wins in a season in AU women's tennis history.

Sakala, who won her 11th singles match of the year, took down her opponent 6-0, 6-0. Sakala paired with senior Inda Gillett (South Kortright/Delaware Academy) to win #1 singles 8-4. Senior Nurila Kamar (Almaty, Kazakhstan) and first-year Talulla Torthe (Pretoria, South Africa/Saint Mary's Dicesan-South Africa) dropped #2 doubles in a tight battle 8-7 (7-5).

Gillett took #1 singles 6-2, 6-0 while Kamar took #4 singles 6-0, 6-1 and Torthe battled to a 4-6, 6-1, 1-0 (10-2) win at #5 singles. Sakala dominated her match 6-0, 6-0.

"Great win today by our women's team," Head Coach Jordan Crouch said. "I'm proud of the team we had today. Congratulations to Inda and Nurila for getting a win in their last collegiate matches."

Softball splits at Naz

Junior Jillian Murray (Eden) threw her first-career complete-game shutout to lead the AU softball team (18-16, Empire 8 9-5) over Nazareth College in game two of the two-game set on the road.

The Saxons split with the Golden Flyers on Saturday afternoon on the road, dropping game one 6-4 and taking game two 3-0 behind a gem of a pitching performance by Murray (2-4). She threw a complete-game shutout, striking out one batter. Fellow Eden High School graduate, Kelley Staub (Eden) batted in two RBIs in the game to help the Saxons earn the important Empire matchup.

The Saxons now wait for the other E8 teams to complete conference play to determine their seed in the Empire 8

Tournament. Meanwhile, they played at Cortland State on Wednesday and host Oswego State today (Thursday, April 25) in a doubleheader starting at 3:30 p.m.

Laxmen fall at Hartwick

The Saxons (8-5, 4-2) fell to Hartwick, 12-4, Saturday for their second conference loss.

Hartwick jumped out to a commanding lead in the first quarter, outscoring AU 7-0 in the first 15 minutes.

Anthony Ricottilli (Cortland) put Alfred on the board with 11:23 left in the first half.

Cale Donegan (Corning-Painted Post) and Joe Fornataro (Rochester/Greece Athena) each scored in the third quarter to draw AU within 10-3.

Patrick Brewer (Bath/Haverling) scored his 20th goal of the season in the fourth quarter but Hartwick added two more for the win and improve to 6-1 in Empire 8 play.

Donegan ended with a goal and an assist to add to his team leading 68 points this season. Garrette Briggs (Horseheads) was 12-17 on faceoffs and picked up eight ground balls. Scott Kimiecik (Randolph, NJ) played the majority of the game in the net for Alfred and finished with three saves.

AU was on the road yesterday for another tough E8 game at St. John Fisher at 4 p.m.

ALFRED STATE SPORTS ROUND-UP

A-A's Johnson leads Pioneer attack

Baseball: 15-15, 7-5 AMCC

Lacrosse: 5-8

The lacrosse team wrapped up their season with a pair of home games. They struggled in the 2nd half and fell 16-6 vs. SUNY Canton and then couldn't rally all the way back in a 12-9 setback vs. Hilbert.

AJ Soto (Churchville) netted five goals in the contest vs. Hilbert and finished the week with six goals and an assist. Varela got the blue & gold on the board in 1st inning of the opener when she lifted a homer to center. Men's Track & Field:

The men's outdoor track & field team registered eight victories and 18 top two finishes at the Alfred Invitational in a consistent cold rain at Pioneer Stadium.

Jonathan Banks (Buffalo/Cheektowaga) won a pair of events and finished 2nd in another. He won the shot put with a toss of 11.18 m and the hammer throw with a distance of 33.07 m. He finished 2nd in the discus with a

The pair also teamed with Cameron Howard (Brockport) and Derek Stein to win the 4x100 in 45.86. Jacob Drew (Corning Painted Post) won the 400 hurdles (1:06.76) and was 2nd in the steeplechase (11:30.19), Austin Demberg (Minisink Valley) won the steeplechase in 11:18.25, and Zion Ponder won the high jump with a leap of 1.82 m.

Over the weekend, Wadsworth finished 2nd out of 10 competitors in the decathlon at the Cortland Classic. He is now 6th all-time in Alfred State history with a score of 5,297 points. He recorded the most points in the 100 m (861 points - 11.00) and in the long jump (797 points - 6.93 m).

At Behrend on Saturday, Ponder led the way by winning the long jump. He registered a leap of 6.02 m in his first jump to earn the victory. He also tied for 3rd with Stein in the high jump with a leap of 1.70 m just behind teammate Jesse Johnson who was 2nd with a mark of 1.85 m. Drew was 2nd in the 400 hurdles (1:02.17), Chapman was 3rd in the hammer (31.99 m) while Tim Burns (Churchville) was 4th (25.02 m), Howard was 4th in the 100 (11.52), and Corey Seymour was 5th in the 200 m (24.12). The 4x100 relay was 2nd in 46.08.

Women's Track & Field:

Julia Yanarella (Wappingers Falls/Roy Ketcham) and Jordyn Pettit (Wellsville) earned victories at the Alfred Invitational. Yanarella also earned a victory in the Penn State Behrend Open later in the week.

Yanarella won the competition in the javelin with a toss of 22.59 m while Pettit won the pole vault with a mark of 2.61 m. Marissa Sly (N. Tonawanda) had a busy day. She was 2nd in the 100 hurdles (17.94), 2nd in the javelin (20.69 m), and 3rd in the long jump (4.28 m). Kathryn Watkins (Addison) was 2nd in the steeplechase (13:49.78) while Katherine Frascella (Franklinville) was 3rd (14:11.05). HITS AND MISSES:

It is almost Empire 8 softball post-season conference tournament time and the Alfred Saxons will be in the four-school outing. Where is still to be determined, as it'll either be miles away at Stevens in NJ or up in Rochester at SJ Fisher. Those two are currently tied for first in the league with (9-1) slates and meet this Sunday at SJF to break that tie. The DH was originally scheduled for 3/30, postponed (snow?) and rescheduled for this weekend. The Saxons (18-16/9-5) are almost locked into the third-slot which would pit them against Stevens at Fisher if it worked out that way. Guessing Nazareth could grab third-place if they run the table with six conference games this week alone. The E8 tournament will be the weekend of May 3-4-5, double elimination, with the winner getting an automatic NCAA berth.

Faithful reader, Bob Codispoti of Almond ... the radio "Voice of the Saxons" in football, pointed out to me in an "eloquent" text my way, that Mount Saint Mary's college is in Maryland and not Pennsylvania! Actually knew that as I have passed by the beautiful athletic facilities southbound on the way to DC or Virginia on numerous occasions. Cody and Jumbo teammates for years in the old AASPL with Top Shop.

Coppin State split their softball games with Mount Saint Mary's and stand at a stellar (8-25) on the year. Former Saxons softball head coach, Gino Olivieri is now a nifty (37-124) in his fourth year at the helm. "Long ways" from NCAA appearances with AU!

Coach Skip Sherman and his Genesee CC Cougars baseball squad is (19-13) to date with games upcoming versus Tompkins Cortland CC, the Ithaca JV's ... ouch and then Broome CC.

Coach Tim Mead and his Walsh Cavs baseball program in Ohio have a (21-17) overall slate after taking 3/4 from Hillsdale.

The Alfred State Pioneers are (15-15) now in baseball after losing two to Oswego and another to the University of Rochester last week.

Jake Taft and Mr. Timmer took in the Boston - Tampa Bay baseball game in St. Pete's on Saturday nite past. Our Man Frank ... not in attendance. The BoSox swept the MLB series.

A former Joker's Wild softball teammate of mine/Taft's and the father of AU football player Nick Milgate, also took in a Red Sox - Rays game from the "Trop last weekend, the day prior to the A-A duo. Pat Milgate a big Boston fan, down in Tampa area with the Hilton baseball team.

Rebecca Bergen (A-A) was at a Minnesota Twins-Baltimore Orioles baseball game over the weekend at Camden Yards.

Mindy (Taft) Willard and her daughter, Courtney took in a Houston - Texas MLB game over the weekend in Arlington, TX.

The Florence Freedom of the Frontier League in Independent baseball released catcher, Ryan Rinsky ... much to the chagrin of "Fish" in nearby Taylor Mill, KY.

Backing up to the stadiums I have been to and tough to pick a favorite of all. Won't include Yankee Stadium as a NY fan and would be hard to choose from The Great American Ballpark in Cincy, PNC Stadium in Pittsburgh, Progressive Field in Cleveland, National Stadium in Washington and the previously mentioned Camden Yards. All are great! Hoping to go to games this summer at YS, PNC and in Cincy.

Speaking of Yankee Stadium, the Yanks now have an "all-star" Injured List as RF Aaron Judge joined the collection over the weekend past. Amazing amount of injuries!

picks to reach the finals: Boston and Colorado, my NBA choices of Boston and Golden State.

Tom "Russ" Kaznowski and family members busy taking in NHL playoff action in the Washington - Carolina series. Kaz texts me over the weekend... "Hurricanes in 7." The Mix sisters in Virginia going to the games when the Capitals are home?

Bill Hardy (A-A) took in the Real Salt Lake at FC Cincinnati game in MLS action at Nippert Stadium over the weekend.

Speaking of injuries, a tough blow to the Seattle Storm of the WNBA as Breanna Stewart tore her achilles tendon last week playing in Russia in their championships. Stewart, from outside of Syracuse, was the league and playoff MVP last year as her squad won the WNBA title. Hopefully she'll be recovered in time for the 2020 Olympics to play alongside Sue Bird, Diana Taurasi, maybe Maya Moore, Elena Delle Donne and others for Team USA.

Was reading "Faces in the Crowd" in Sports Illustrated, the one with Tiger Woods on the cover and saw a reference in there about Robert Whaley of Walsh University when they were NAIA /D2, being drafted by the Utah Jazz in 2005. Whaley first played at Cincinnati for former Walsh coach, Bob Huggins and with the Cavs for Jeff Young. This from Tim Mead... "thanks!" Young played ball for Dan Peters who previously coached with Huggy. Amir Hinton from Shaw University in Raleigh, NC has declared for the NBA draft. Shaw is a D2 school. Saw signs for it when recently visiting in the Raleigh - Holly Springs area.

Joe Girard III made third-team All-USA in basketball as the all-time leading scorer in NYS from Glens Falls will play at Syracuse next season, and surprisingly not Duke!

Four key players from the Virginia Cavaliers men's basketball team have declared for early entry in the NBA draft. Easy for me to say, but with all four back, why not try for back-to-back titles? Seems like there are 75-underclassmen having already declared. Yikes. Many G-League bound?

Watched some of the Heritage golf tourney on the PGA Tour on Saturday where Jordan Spieth had his (now) "standard" ... two, double-bogeys to fall out of contention. Amazing how far he has fallen in the past 18-months. Once a "lock" to be on all Ryder and President Cups for the USA but don't see that happening this year unless a huge rebound occurs.

The LPGA Legends Tour will be in Corning this summer, July 26-27 for a Shootout or something like that. The Corning Classic was long a staple on the LPGA Tour and has gone by the wayside, prior to the stop in Rochester at Locust Hill. Hopefully Cindy Rarick will be in Corning!

RIT is now ranked #1 in the USILA men's D3 lax poll as York toppled previous #1, Salisbury last week. The Tigers and Union are tied atop the Liberty League standings and they'll decide the regular season title and conference host site on Wednesday (4/24) at Union College. RIT has only lost this season to #6 Amherst while Union's lone overall defeat was to #8 Williams. Amherst and Williams are in the tough NESCAC along with the likes of Tufts and Wesleyan. Yikes. Talk about some tough, potential conference semi-final games. Wesleyan is the defending national champion while Tufts won the D3 title in 2014-15. Daughter, Lauren and I went to the Union-RIT conference championship tiit, 3-4 years back. Great game!

In the latest women's USILA lax ranking in D3, it was: SJ Fisher in 13th, William Smith was 15th, Cortland was in the 18th slot, Ithaca right behind them and Brockport was 25th.

In the USILA D1 men's lacrosse poll, Syracuse was ranked ninth and Cornell was in the next spot. Guessing Duke will win it all, over Virginia is my prediction!

The NFL draft is this week and while not a huge Bills fan, do watch them a lot every Sunday. They need help all over the place: TE, a left tackle to protect QB Josh Allen, a speedy WR, probably a LB. Buffalo just had no depth last season. My guess is they'll take a TE from Iowa first. And as a Raiders fan, sincerely hope they take DT Quinnen Williams from Alabama with their first of three, #1 picks! But ... who knows with "Chucky" at the helm?

Also in the NFL, the LA Chargers announced they will be wearing their "sweet" powder blue uniforms full-time this year at home. About time! Back from the glory days of Lance Alworth, John Hadl and Keith Lincoln.

Walter Ray Williams, Jr. won the Johnny Petraglia BVL Open on the PBA50 Tour last week and he'll be at The Villages in Florida this week for the next stop on their tour. Assume Big D will be taking in some of that action. The tourney will be at the Spanish Springs Lanes and it is one of three "majors" on their tour. Guessing the likes of Norm Duke, Park Bohn III, Pete Weber, WRW and defending champ Lennie Boresch, Jr. will all be there. Hoping to have a report on this next week from the former Torrey Painting Strider, a resident of The Villages, where he gathered in "Greeter of the Year" honors in 2016.

It is Hot Dog Day weekend in Alfred and the most recent visits there for me were three different years that Lauren was in college at Geneseo. Jess Herbst came down with us twice, before she was off to the University of Vermont to play soccer, and then Steph Bergin joined us her senior year at Geneseo. A soccer teammate of 3L's. We get in the car at Geneseo, ready to head out and Steph goes ... "Mr. Lorow, where is Alfred?" Sheltered child. Anyhow, this weekend Lauren will be in Monroe, down state, at Steph's baby shower!

Off to Almond for sure this Saturday, maybe up to Hot Dog Day at Alfred University ... if warm!, perhaps a few other stops on the agenda.
