Students Engage in Politicking at S.A. Meetings

by Pamela A. Borey

In the spring term of 1970 Alfred U. students participated in a campus-wide student strike. One of the numerous changes which was generated by this action was the establishment of a new form of student government. Students had felt that the governmental organization which had existed, based on elected representatives from each class, etc., was not truly representative of student wishes. The new organization which was established was organized on the idea of a New England town meeting in which every eligible member has one equal vote. In New England, where most everyone involved was interested in the outcome of decisions and therefore would take part in the meeting, this organization was undoubtedly an advantageous form of government. I am dubious, however, as to its value in the Alfred U. community.

I have been attending Student Assembly meetings since the formation of the town meeting structure in the fall of 1970, and have been consistently struck by a very important and so grossly disadvantageous aspect of this form of student governing. I am referring to the practice of attending the SA meetings only when it suits a purpose of an individual or group. In my freshman year attendance at meetings was mediocre; sophomore year, poor but slightly better toward the end of the year; this year attendance has improved quite a bit from before, but is still nowhere near being truly representative of the student body. Perhaps this would not be so bad, since generally the same people show up consistently week after week, and it is this body of relatively responsible students who influence most decisions. But the very obvious problem which haunts the system as it now stands concerns what occurs every time monetary proposals are voted on or elections take place. It is at these meetings that the Parent's Lounge of the Campus Center is packed to overflowing with "concerned" students wishing to participate in the democratic process. I have seen this occur year after year, much to the discouragement of the SA officers and regular attendees. If a club or group of some sort wants money, it becomes almost a prerequisite to begging to that organization to attend the SA meeting at which money could be allocated.

Friends are often coerced into attending these "very important meetings", as a special favor to a friend in need. The most recent example of such an occurrence was the meeting of March 1st at which we were so honored by the presence of members of a certain fraternity and some more-than-willing-to-help sorority sisters. The purpose of this gathering was to deliver a student position on the University Council to one of the fraternity's brothers. The fraternity men, for a large part, participated in no other votes taken that night, and many left right after the election vote, including, it is believed, the person who was elected to the Council position. I would have thought that, at the very least, they would have been intelligent and courteous enough to stay for the rest of the meeting.

I do not wish to sound as if the blame for these falls on any of the SA officers; they, more than anyone, have tried their hardest to get students to attend meetings regularly and for the full period. I have noticed, also, that the groups are beginning to realize that this type of meeting-packing is not necessary. Groups which, in the past, felt the need to bring along all the support they could find, no longer deem this action necessary. It has been discovered that money will be given to groups deserving, regardless of the percentage of voters present who are rabidly supportive of the group. I would like to hope that other individuals and groups will become aware of this and not feel it is necessary to engage in such hard-core and undesirable politicking in the future.

Motions Railroaded

Once again Ben Oster, co-chairman of Student Assembly, stretched the parliamentary procedures beyond their limitations. Oster was criticized for "railroading motions" with his famous "82 to 2" earlier in the academic year. He has now created that problem by eliminating voting altogether. The decision to allocate Student Assembly funds for financing the professional wrestlers was made by Oster and Oster alone. Students had no voice in the matter.

Examination by the Student Assembly financial committee is an ordeal all monetary proposals must endure. Oster's proposal was failed because he forgot "to see Bill Siebert," the financial committee chairman, for appraisal. Due to the lack of time left in the semester, the proposal was rescheduled for February. Over the lapse of time the proposal was mysteriously "passed" and presented to the students an announcement upon return.

Whether this lapse of memory is due to inefficiency or convenience will never be known. Student Assembly meetings do not include minutes of the December 14 meeting, when the proposal was originally scheduled for voting. It is bad enough only 3% of the student body makes decisions pertaining to 100% of the money. The option to come and vote is there. Please don't let that right be taken away.

Disrespect Shown Wrestlers

by Dave Gruder

A funny thing happened to me on the way out of McLane Center after the Professional Wrestling matches last Thursday night. I got accused of throwing an egg at one of the big-whigs associated with pro wrestling. I had found my being accused quite humorous were it not for the fact that raw eggs and soda cans were being thrown in the ring all evening.

Personally, I find pro wrestling to be nothing but a big farce which converts anti-war frenzy into bloodthirsty maniacs. It didn't particularly bother me that people were getting into the spirit of things by hurling the fighters. That kind of thing is to be expected since it is the only way to enjoy watching pseudoduckers with body shatter- ing blows in a ring where the outcome of the match is predetermined. What irked me even more than that, however, was the absolutely uncalled for disrespect that the wrestlers were paid.

At the end of the program, a lucky throw finally hit two of the people involved. The raw egg hit one in the head and the other all over his suit. This is not the Alfred that I know. If I want to see that kind of trash, I can go to any large city and watch it go on in the street!

The proceeds of the evening were supposed to go to a charity. Not at all the way. Money raised in order to break even, but the intolerable rudeness by some in the crowd really must have gone with the wrestlers. It was a very bad impression of Alfred.

Pro wrestling may stink, but those of you who throw things in the ring stick even more. One of the more popular phrases of the evening was 'you suck'. I feel that that comment applies more appropriately to you than to those you were yelling it at!
Apologies Necessary?
Letter to the Editor

It was unfortunate that so few people were able to attend the wrestling match last Thursday. They missed what I thought was a good show, especially since it was for a benefit. I’m sure that all those who went would agree that, although pro wrestling is an art, the wrestlers were good actors and that they succeeded in getting the spectators involved. In short, the people attending seemed to be having fun.

As I left after the night was over I walked alone wondering why it had to be necessary for someone on the Student Assembly to go into the locker room, after the last match, and apologize for the action of a few students. But I suppose that as long as events continue to happen at Alfred, whether it be a concert, or a dance, or even pro wrestling, someone will have to apologize for something – it’s too bad, isn’t it? I guess some people just mature faster than others.

Athletes Note Abuse of Davis
To The Editor

Just the fact that Davis Gym is technically a facility that it is our privilege to use should be enough to deter us from abusing it. We are speaking of the beer blast held there Saturday, March 3, which left blatant evidences of the “good times” indulged in. Not that we dislike beer blasts or enjoyment, but it has come to the point that people have simply no respect or consideration for others. Granted, everybody is “good times” indulged in. Not that we dislike which you left Davis Gym?

This can be paralleled to the athletes using the gym the next day and discovering their facility strewn with assorted litter (some even had the audacity to litter with that which does not belong to them, namely the food spp.) and this is what he has to make his “home” for the hours that he is there. You may pay the money to attend this University and thus have access to its buildings, but what of those who come after you, in hours or in years? The athlete who uses the building every day is one of the “owners” of this building. Anyone else down there is a guest who should respect the athlete’s personal rights and property. If it is indeed the latter motive, think a course in social civility should be required at this school. There are enough brats on this campus to warrant it.

Sincerely,
Jeffrey A. Converse

Audiences Act Immature
Dear Editor,

I would like to express my contempt for the actions of two very immature Alfred audiences during the past week. On Tuesday, Dr. O’hara’s Film Study classes viewed the movie King Kong in the Science Center. A great many students not involved in these classes came to see the picture too, including myself. The audience was incredible. They whooped and grated and disrupted the presentation of this fine film. I was quite repulsed.

Then on Thursday, during the wrestling show at the McLane Center, most of the audience had to witness the antice and pugilistic horseplay of a considerable number of students idiotic who were inclined to throw candy and eggs at the wrestlers and announcer. A bunch of clowns decided to throw themselves about in the ring during intermission. These immature antics assisted in ruining the show. I’ve student-tickets for sixth-graders who had more refined manners than these goofs. I trust that future Alfred audiences will display a bit more respect and attentiveness, think a course in social civility should be required at this school. There are enough brats on this campus to warrant it.

Sincerely,
Robert Austin and Mary Sheedy

Sewage Doesn’t Pollute

It has been pointed out to me that the information I received concerning where A.U. sewage goes is erroneous. The sewage does not go directly into the Kanekades Creek, but is transported via pipeline to a sewage treatment plant in Alfred Station. It leaves the treatment plant as 99% fresh water. This degree of purity is said to be in the top 5% of the U.S. in terms of sewage treatment.

Keep those questions coming. Write “Action Column” c/o the Fiat and drop them off at the Campus Center desk.

Business Seminar AT A.U.

Opportunities for economic development in the Stuben-Allagany Counties sector of the Southern Tier will be the principal topic under discussion at the 22nd annual Invitational Businessmen's Seminar to be conducted March 10 at the University campus.

Between 175 and 200 area business and industrial leaders are expected to attend the 7 p.m. dinner meeting to be held in the University cafeteria.

The seminar is sponsored by the Alfred University School of Business Administration, will feature formal addresses by Kenneth E. Roberts Jr., of West Island; Alfred Mayor Leonard C. Gruder as chairman; Roswell I. Crozier Jr. of Corning, executive director of Corning Crossroads, Inc., a community development corporation; and Dr. Wilford G. Miles Jr., dean of the University's School of Business Administration.

Roberts is scheduled to address the session on overall economic opportunities and Crozier will discuss the location and potential of industrial areas in the area.

Crozier's topic will be technical assistance programs. Miles will discuss the services provided by the office of the University administrator;

The program is under the direction of Henry C. Langer Jr., professor of economics and business at Alfred University.

A past year's economic report compiled by students and faculty members in the School of Business Administration will be presented.

The survey will contain basic data on communities within a 30-mile radius of Alfred.

Student Volunteers Helping Community

by Kathy Arcano

Between forty-five and fifty Alfred students are now participating in the Student Assembly Volunteer Community Action. The general goal of the organization is to improve relations between the Alfred community and the students who have begun to fulfill that goal. Two major projects, well under way, are the Alford-Almond tutorial plan, and the Adopt-a-Grandparent program.

The tutorials centers mainly around elementary and secondary education major who are interested in extra experiences for their future profession. They are involved in tutoring on a one-to-one basis, as well as helping out in a classroom. A second objective is to build up a reading room for the Alford-Almond students, and this is expected to be a successful undertaking.

One participating student is receiving credit for her endeavors under the title "community service" is not only her only benefit; however, they are also strengthening interpersonal relations, working constructively, and learning to deal with different people. A third task is to develop an awareness of the unique problems of the older people in Alfred to get them involved in this community. By working with the old people, students are encouraged to develop an understanding of the older person's existence. olive Connelly, advisor to the Student Volunteers for Community Action, has planned a several sessions to be held over the next few months. She will also be able to offer tuition waivers in order to attend the training session:

Another program of the Student Volunteers deals with the community's senior citizens. It's goal is centered mainly around the premise that if you give a home away from home in Alfred. A three-way race of the senior citizens are held every year; in March. A three-way race of the senior citizens are held every year; in March. Student Assembly Allocates More $

by Gail Fesko

Even though no meaningful monetary proposals played an important part of last week's Student Assembly meeting, the election for University president did draw a great deal of interest among the student body.

An emotional interest was shown by Angia Anta, Dave Gruder, and Bill Wilcox who attracted students who had never been an actively interested in student affairs. The Student Affairs Office has been running regular elections.

Bill Wilcox won the three-month term with 55% of the votes, the remaining votes were divided among Angia Anta and Dave Gruder. Since Anta could not attend the meeting due to illness, both Gruder and Wilcox declined to speak before the Assembly meeting to clear the air. All three candidates are Liberal Arts sophomores.

Monetary proposals all passed with little, if any, opposition. The most significant proposal was that of a significant number of negative votes was the Office of Community Relations, which was supported by the financial committee. Students were hesitant to grant $25 for the club's second budget.

Who Among Students in American Universities

Nominations for inclusion in the Who's Who Among Students in American Universities are being accepted at the Student Affairs Office.

The Student Affairs Office is asking students to name the names of students who are eligible to register to vote.

Who's Who, Students?

It has been customary to nominate students annually for inclusion in the publication Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges. The Student Affairs Office is asking that all members of the faculty, administration, and students list the names of students who are presently sophomores, juniors, or seniors that should be considered for this honor.

Qualifications include student scholarship, participation and leadership in academic and extracurricular activities and citizenship and service to the college. Student Affairs will confirm the scholastic average and class standing for all students nominated. Since a screening committee will be held only April 1 to 10 in the Science Center lecture hall.

Chairman Eric Vaughn announced that the steering committee consisting of the report of the Ad Hoc Committee on Standards of Women at A.U. is not at this time willing to recommend to the Council accept the report. At the April meeting, the steering committee expects to be ready to bring the report to the Council for a vote.

The first topic on the agenda was the discussion of the Pedestrian Campus. Council members and guests discussed the pros and cons of the Pedestrian Campus and they definitely feel that it is worthwhile enterprise. A motion was carried that would bring to Mr. Haywood's attention the Council's concern over existing problems and possible solutions.

The second topic discussed was the publicity and promotion of University operations and functions. The Council feels that publicity and promotion of Alfred University should be made more vocal. A motion was carried that would bring this to the attention of the University Public Relations Office the feelings of the Council.

The Council also briefly discussed the selection process of C.P.C., events. However, discussion will be continued at the next meeting when the chairman of the C.P.C. Selection Board will be present.

If you have any questions, please see a member of the Council or contact Eric Vaughn in Kamakatu Hall.

Taxes Overpaid

Some taxpayers last year failed to itemize all the deductions they were entitled to, and as a result, overpaid their income taxes, reported John E. Foley, Buffalo District Director for Internal Revenue said today.

Taxpayers may deduct in full, as a medical expense, one-half the premium paid for medical insurance, up to a maximum of $150, without regard to the three percent limitation, Foley said.

The remainder of the premium costs for medical insurance can be added to other medical costs which are then reduced by three percent of adjusted gross income. If access is needed, the Security Aides have a key and will be glad to cooperate. All emergency vehicles will also be supplied with a key. Hopefully this new policy will help eliminate those taking advantage of the present situation.

Concerning the general misuse of Alfred’s percent, numerous complaints have started to illegally parked cars. If paid within 24 hours, the fine will be reduced to $2. When no action is taken on the ticket, the fine will be returned to the treasurer’s office and added onto the student’s bill.

In addition, the fine for an unregistered car on campus is $25, as opposed to the $10 registration fee. The aids will work all financial matters with the University are settled.

Activities Office Openings

The Student Activities Office is now accepting applications for the 1973-74 Student Activities Program Staff.

The twelve member staff is open to all students interested in working in any area of activity programming. Such areas include: concerts, coffee houses, movies, exhibits, dances, outdoor recreation, outdoor week-end games and tournaments, beer blasts, etc.

The staff will work in conjunction with the Directors of Residence Halls in interviewing and conducting a wide range of student activities for next year.

A committee of students and Student Affairs staff will review the application, interview the applicant, and select the staff. A tentative time table has been set up by Dean Butler, a reading room was set up in Greene Hall for information on study and travel abroad. Although this opportunity is not limited to New York State, those interested in applying to the projects having been available since September, will be notified of the Placement Office or from Mr. Willis E. Bridegam, Chairman NYLA Scholarship Committee, Library, S.U.N.Y. at Binghamton, New York.

The deadline for filing applications is April 26, 1973.
President Miles Plans Campus

by Gail Pesko

Parking fees will be $50 per semester. President Miles disclosed that Dougie McCall, and new resident halls will be located on the present observatory site if the Board of Trustees accepts President Miles’ recommendations. The recommendations concerning Campus Planning, presented to the Trustees Campus Planning and Development Committee by President Miles, were based on input obtained from the students and alumni. The recommendations were to be used to evaluate the need for facilities, and new or renovated buildings.

On the north side of campus, south of the campus center, there would be three bedrooms, and the pedestrian campus would be used by the students. Expansion to the south and west sides of the campus would be considered because of the proximity of Myers Hall. The Steinheim will be transformed into offices for University Relations. A vice-professor's operation, University Relations would be used by present students through their future role as alumni.

It is suggested that the Physical Plant Department be clustered together at the north side of campus. By moving the Davis and McCall music building, they could be combined with the present warehouse and the two adjacent faculty assistant positions. The Physical Plant complex. The current physical plant would be demolished in favor of space.

Funding the President’s recommendations will be obtained through a combination of state and federal dollars. President Miles has suggested that funding be a gradual but steady process. Once the job was started, President Miles has suggested a 13-year period to complete the task. Even though the proposal was brought forward by majority vote also house personnel changes. The 19.3 million dollars must be used for both the new buildings and the possible obstacle to the Campus planning recommendations.

Off-Campus Vacancies Limited

by Kate Daly

The Student Affairs Office announced recently that some sophomores will be allowed to move out of University dormitories and into off-campus housing. They, as well as upperclassmen, will be hitting Alfred streets in search of a cozy, home-like apartment near school but far from the maddening crowd. They had better start looking fast-like yesterday—because among the ills that Alfred is heir to, there is a critical shortage of space available on campus. Whether the space is cozy and/or home-like is a function of the amount he is willing to pay and what amenities he expects.

In an effort to shed some light in the foggy bog of off-campus housing, I spent one time last week searching for an apartment. The apartments I saw were all rented by students; all were rooms within ordinary apartments, no apartment buildings such as one sees in New York City and all were within walking distance of the campus to be in. In quality, they ranged from pretty to pretty bad. None were palatial; none were hovels. All the apartments I saw were to one degree or another, habitable. To give the prospective tenant an idea of what's available, here are the particulars of apartments I visited.

Almost all of the student-tenants I spoke with said that they had previously lived in several dormitories. They had found the dorms too noisy and crowded to live in comfortably, and had found these problems solved off-campus. None of the tenants found that their rent was high in relation to the space available. Here are the particularities of apartments I visited.

Almost all of the student-tenants I spoke with said that landlords seemed willing to make necessary repairs, but commented that sometimes malfunctions existed on college campuses, the relatively thorough Katz study of 300 undergraduates on a college official opposed the construction of double rooms. The number of students indiscriminately indulging in sexual activities for kicks, as one college chaplain suggests, "...appears to reflect more the frustrated yearnings of writers and students who are not able to state their self-identity against those who attempt to control their behavior. Of course, one of the ways to accomplish this end is conscious non-conformity. Without these rules students would be free to form their own attitudes and moral codes which act as an integral part of the educational experience. They will discover that their own private actions can have consequences extending beyond their individual lives." According to Hettlinger, the value of rules "...depends on whether they are formulated as arbitrary controls on private behavior or as justifiable safeguards of public rights." Some rules, such as visitation restrictions for freshmen may be necessary to provide quiet for study, but such rules should only originate for the common good. If the rules are sensible, it will be more probable that students will find something to their liking among the rules and the apartments will be made to show a profit. The vicious circle goes around and around—so does the student, looking for an apartment.

Still, if you look long enough, you may find what you need to escape the school dormitories.

Some housing may need work to be really gracious—possibly this can be arranged with the landlord. There is also the problem that all tenants want to paint their apartments themselves, they would supply the paint. A prospective tenant should enquire about things of this nature before agreeing to take the apartment. Also, look to see what utilities are in good working order, and find out rules about do-it-yourself remodeling.

The housing shortage in Alfred is serious—probably the answer seems to be hidden in a different kind of circumstances. Landlords need municipal permission to largely renovate a dwelling—for example, to allow air conditioning. They need to make lodging for more people. They also need money, probably from a bank loan. And they need some assurance that the apartments will be rented after the permission granted and the money borrowed, so that the money can be repaid, and the apartments be made to show a profit. The vicious circle goes around and around—so does the student, looking for an apartment.

Still, if you look long enough, you may find what you need to escape the school dormitories.

Alfred Welcomes
Two Day Jazz Festival

On March 9 and Saturday, March 10, the Department of Per-Forming Arts and the Student Activities office will present a jazz festival at the McLean Center. The two day event will include performances by high school, college and top name jazz ensembles. Afternoon clinics will be presented each day by Thad Jones, Mel Lewis, Chuck Mangione, Kai Winding and John Labarbera. The AU Jazz Ensemble with guest soloists Winding and Labarbera will open the Friday and Saturday evening concerts where they will have an opportunity to work through parts, vocal and instrumental, are taken to their best.

Ceramic Exhibit at Tech

Examples of the work of Mutsea Yanagihara, Japanese ceramic craftsman and visiting instructor at the New York State College of Ceramics at Alfred University, will be on display March 4 through 30 at the State University College at Cortland's Invitational Ceramic Show. Yanagihara's work was included in the "Contemporary Ceramic Art of Japan" exhibition last fall at the Cleveland Museum of Art.

Rock and Roll Comes Back

by Chris Makin

If you remember the Mash Potatoes or Little Anthony and the Imperials, then I am sure you remember "A Teenager in Love." But do you remember who it is by? Now is the time to think, because rock and roll is back and coming back with it is a great new album: Dion and the Belmonts - Reunion (Warner Bros.). They came back together to play for Richard Nader's Rock and Roll Revival #3 on June 2, 1972, in Madison Square Garden. This is the recording of that performance and what a performance that was. The audience went wild and hearing the album it is plain to see why, it was like 1963 all over again. The background vocals, the guitar, and fantastic leads, they're all there. Bigger and better than ever.

One interesting sidelight is that the AU jazz ensemble will record their performance at the festival. Orders for a copy of the recording will be taken at the time of performance and shortly thereafter by the Secretary in the Music building. The price will be $4.00 and must accompany the order.

AU students are especially encouraged to attend the evening concerts where they will have an opportunity to hear great jazz performed by two groups that have enjoyed a number one position of recent play jazz polls.

Peter Pan Returns

by Kathy Horner

A television classic returned from the broadcasting grave last weekend as Mary Martin flew into the screen once more as Peter Pan. The musical fantasy had been missed for close to eight years due to what many speculated as a tragic loss of the film. Nevertheless, James M. Barrie's marvelous tale, first staged in 1955 and restaged for television in 1960, has reappeared, hopefully as a steady diet along with “The Wizard of Oz.”

Like so many classics, “Peter Pan” is a masterpiece rich with insights of technique and premise that only repeated viewing can unfold. Certainly many remember the basic story of Peter and Tinkerbell's adventures. Half an hour ago, half a century ago, the room was alive with dancers. Half an hour from now, the Jazz Ensemble and the smaller combo group, well-received and applauded, would be done.

This atmosphere continued for a while as the crowd grew, until the gym was filled with people drinking, talking, and listening. Soon after, half the room was alive with dancers. Half an hour past, everyone was dancing, with the exception of a few hard-core talkers and drinkers on the outskirts of the floor.

The Jazz Ensemble, organized only last year by Richard Dudinak, Dept. of Performing Arts, finally “came of age” at A.U. Introducing anything new at Alfred has, for many years, caused some extreme problems in achieving acceptance from the student body. Having been asked by the senior committee to play at the Beer Blast, Mr. Dudinak and the J.E. were extremely pleased with the outcome of their performance. Although their music is not as conducive to the fast-paced dancing which normally accompanies rock music, no one seemed to have any problem finding an easy beat to follow.

Mr. Dudinak has expressed the Ensemble's underlying desire...to develop some kind of empathy with AU students.

Well, it's a little old me again. Sorry about last week, but it does get really depressing around here without Big Ralph. It is good to see all of the T.N.'s (top nookies) circulating around again. I think that with a premature spring that we should all be thinking about Calypso Summer. And about Calypso summer, there will be some marvy news for all members of the C.S.S. (Calypso Summer Set) week after next.

This week I'm going to be my own little bitchy self and do a little bitching. First of all, why are all these motor vehicles buzzing around those no-no roads on campus? Really, Leland, you should do something about those cars. Why should anyone have to think about cars on a so-called pedestrian campus. Another Alfred myth revealed. So gang, let's clean up the act or move it upstairs.

Well kids, in my fresh year it was Guys and Dolls, next year it was Brigadoon, then last year it was Oklahoma, and this year it is going to be Kiss My Attitude of Sacrifice Musicals toHowell Hall and Back (better known as Kiss Me, Kate). It's just a shame that next year they'll have to either start with that same line-up again or do something a little more contemporary, which would not parallel the old stuff and stagnation syndrome. Alfred does a pretty good job of that already. Students waste away four years with an amazingly little amount of work here at the University and professors sometimes do even less work. Don't get me wrong, there are some great people that are teaching here that would give you their left arm if you needed it. There are also people here that should be shot because they have enough gall to go in and pick up their pay check, which, by the way, they do not earn, but more or less steal. The University should also be shot. Academic quality does not start with the institution, necessarily, but with the caliber of the student that is admitted. Let's face it kids, there are a lot of dead bodies walking around this campus because no one else would have them. But Alfred University is in the black and I guess money is important. People have been hostile lately, I guess that it's been the moon.

Mary Bergenius has watercolors and lithographs on exhibit in the Design Annex. Bill Underhill is showing bronzes. Robert Turner ceramics, in the new styrofoam gallery in Binns-Merrill courtyard. Trot your little feet over and see both shows.

RUMOR HAS IT

by Mother Liat

Silverware, 38 pounds of bananas, and 80 cookies were the only items missing from the Brick kitchen robbery that occurred last Friday night, March 2. The alleged culprits entered the kitchen through the skylight. John Hansel, CMI director, reported the incident to the police. Rumor has it, that Hansel tried playing sleuth by calling the Health Center for any reported stomach aches over the weekend.

Throwing one of the loudest parties in a long time was not enough for five guys in Crawford. Ignoring all conventional manners, the "hosts" proceeded to invite a particular female guest to their party by first breaking down her door. The "Crawford 5" rode off into the sunrise as the Alfred Security Aides and police came to the damsel's distress. Though car tracks can still be seen across the Ade hall lawn, neither of the "good guys" pursued a wild chase.

"Happy Birthday, Kathy Arcano" finally ended March 2 with a rock 'n roll party: open to any A.U. student. Well publicized, the party was given by various friends of Kathy's. Special thanks should go to Sidney and Caryn. All staples for the party were donated or loaned by fellow "Arcano fans." When asked about her party Kathy replied, "It was really fun.

Cagers Conclude Fine Season

by Chris Makin

Last weekend Alfred finished their basketball season with a 11 and 9 record. Their league was 3rd in the 6 teams. The first successful record in four years. Friday night, the Saxons hosted Cortland State and defeated the Red Dragons 11-9. This was somewhat of a rough game. (There were ten technical fouls called and three players were thrown out of the game.) The Saxons made several pushes and exchanges of words, a fight erupted between Wallace and a Cortland player. When all of the players were finally separated, Wallace, Bill Dyart, and the Cortland player were charged with the counts against the Saxons. After the disturbance, the Saxons finally started to outplay the quintet from Cortland. The Saxons scored 13 points in the ten points scored by the Staters. The low output of points by Cortland was because of the fine defensive action of the Saxons.

Alfred had 5 men in double figures: Mark Edstrom tossed in 19, Jim Hopkins had 15, Tom Ripple 14, Guy Sessions 13, and Wallace scored 10 points before he left the game. As usual, Tom Ripple led Alfred in the rebound department with 16 followed by Jim Hopkins with nine.

On Saturday, the Saxons defeated a favored St. Lawrence team by five points, 59-54. St. Lawrence led through the first half and the Saxons went into their activities, the point in 31-32. In the second half, Alfred put together a strong scoring attack and defense to pull within two points of the Lakers. Alfred gave up four potentially game winning baskets in a row to the Lakers. Alfred was unable to score because of the Saxons quick defense. Jim Hopkins of the Saxons had less than two minutes left in the game to seal the victory.

The Saxons’ attack was led by Mark Edstrom with 18. Tom Ripple and John Wallace both had 11, and Rich Mulholland had 7. Tom Ripple led the rebounding with 12 followed by Jim Hopkins and Mark Edstrom with nine rebounds each.

Women Swim to Ninth Place

Sally Melnick and Mary Dooley led the U.W. women’s Swim Team to a 9th place finish in the New York State Meet held at Oneonta last weekend. In this meet, the Saxons had over 100 women’s backstroke in 1:18.5. She took in the individual Medley, and she swam a leg in the 400 yd. medley relay. Mary was 4th in the 200 backstroke. She also placed 9th in the 100 yd. butterfly; she also placed 9th in the 100 yd. individual medley.

Other swimmers that did well were: Pam Wollumgen, who placed in the 50 and 100 yd. breaststroke and 13th in the 200 yd. butterfly. She also placed 11th in the 50 yd. freestyle while Betsy Peyster swam to 22nd place in the 50 yd. breaststroke and 22nd in the 50 yd. medley relay. Mary was 15th in the 200 breaststroke.

Women’s swimming was part of the intercollegiate sports program at Alfred University; Coach Margaret O’Hara was pleased with the results of the swim season. She felt that next year’s season should even be better because the girls have become used to the competition.

A.U. in Invitational

by T. Scott and Nate Murray

Fred George’s record setting leap of 45’5” in the triple jump paved the way for Alfred’s seventh place finish at last weekend’s Cortland Invitational Track Meet. There were a total of five records broken during the day’s activities. Bob Ryan of Rochester broke the old meet record of 7.7 in the 60 yard hurdles with a time of 7.6 seconds. The previous record was held by former Alfred student Bill Lafoncci. Bob Ryan of Rochester broke the old meet record of 7.7 in the 60 yard hurdles with a time of 7.6 seconds. The previous record was held by former Alfred student Bill Lafoncci.

Another record broken was by Dr. Roger Moritz and Kenneth Kirchner of the U.S.T.F.F. Eastern region. They placed 3rd in the meet with a total of 381 points.

The year in women’s swimming was part of the intercollegiate sports program at Alfred University. Coach Margaret O’Hara was pleased with the results of the season and felt that next year’s season should even be better because the girls have become used to the competition.

Debaters Are Successful

Alfred University opened its second semester debate season with Mark Aaron, a senior psychology major. He won a speaker award at the Third Annual Salineer Invitational Debate Tournament at Genesee State College on Feb. 10, with a total of 2,802 and 18 points. Mark and his partner Mark Lane, a senior political science major, from Syracuse won four of their eight rounds of debate and are one of two new teams being filled this semester by the University. The other team of sophomore, Richard Ogier, a ceramic engineer form Mautrecott, and sophomore, Paul Bolan, an English major from Syracuse had a 1-7 record. The third team, George Karras, a pre-med student from Murray State, and a fifth team of a more political science major form Valley Stream, N.Y. did not place and are in the process of repairing their damaged case.

The question for the 1972-73 intercollegiate debate season is, "Resolved: that the Federal Government should provide a program of comprehensive medical care for all U.S. citizens. Since the topic is a current one, legislation such as the Health Service Corps passed in late 1972 may make a debater’s case obsolete; such was the case with the Varsity team." Debaters Peter Lazarus, a sophomore psychology major from Providence, R.I. and Doug English, a senior, political science major from Painted Post are a good team. As a new case, but because it is strategic to keep the case a secret, they would not make comments regarding the nature of their case except that it would not be on an ongoing political case. They will unveil their case in the Varsity Division at the 27th Annual U.S.T.F.F. Forenics Tournament on March 23 and 24.

Dr. Fran Hassencahl, coach of the team and assistant professor of speech at Alfred, said that the participation in Alfred University’s two year old program of S.L.N.A. at Des Moines, where the teams appreciated the increased financial support that the University plans to give to the program next year. At the present time, the debaters hope to finance teams to the N.Y. State Championships at Cortland on March 30 and 31.

Debate

by T. Scott & N. Murray

Competing in his second Pentathlon, a sophomore nursing student, Tim Scott, eclipsed his school record by nearly 400 points. Scott posted a score of 1,365 points in the personal record performance in the fine event tussle to repeat last year’s 4th place in the New York State Division this weekend with a total of 2,835 points. With him in the pentathlon was his partner Bill Ripple, a first place finisher in the long jump. On Saturday, the Saxons defeated a favored St. Lawrence team by five points, 59-54. St. Lawrence led through the first half and the Saxons went into their activities, the point in 31-32. The previous record was held by former Alfred student Bill Lafoncci. Bob Ryan of Rochester broke the old meet record of 7.7 in the 60 yard hurdles with a time of 7.6 seconds. The previous record was held by former Alfred student Bill Lafoncci.

Another record broken was by Dr. Roger Moritz and Kenneth Kirchner of the U.S.T.F.F. Eastern region. They placed 3rd in the meet with a total of 381 points.

The year in women’s swimming was part of the intercollegiate sports program at Alfred University. Coach Margaret O’Hara was pleased with the results of the season and felt that next year’s season should even be better because the girls have become used to the competition.

A.U. in Invitational

by T. Scott and Nate Murray

Fred George’s record setting leap of 45’5” in the triple jump paved the way for Alfred’s seventh place finish at last weekend’s Cortland Invitational Track Meet. There were a total of five records broken during the day’s activities. Bob Ryan of Rochester broke the old meet record of 7.7 in the 60 yard hurdles with a time of 7.6 seconds. The previous record was held by former Alfred student Bill Lafoncci. Bob Ryan of Rochester broke the old meet record of 7.7 in the 60 yard hurdles with a time of 7.6 seconds. Debaters Are Successful

Alfred University opened its second semester debate season with Mark Aaron, a senior psychology major. He won a speaker award at the Third Annual Salineer Invitational Debate Tournament at Genesee State College on Feb. 10, with a total of 2,802 and 18 points. Mark and his partner Mark Lane, a senior political science major from Syracuse won four of their eight rounds of debate and are one of two new teams being filled this semester by the University. The other team of sophomore, Richard Ogier, a ceramic engineer form Mautrecott, and sophomore, Paul Bolan, an English major from Syracuse had a 1-7 record. The third team, George Karras, a pre-med student from Murray State, and a fifth team of a more political science major form Valley Stream, N.Y. did not place and are in the process of repairing their damaged case.

The question for the 1972-73 intercollegiate debate season is, "Resolved: that the Federal Government should provide a program of comprehensive medical care for all U.S. citizens. Since the topic is a current one, legislation such as the Health Service Corps passed in late 1972 may make a debater’s case obsolete; such was the case with the Varsity team." Debaters Peter Lazarus, a sophomore psychology major from Providence, R.I. and Doug English, a senior, political science major from Painted Post are a good team. As a new case, but because it is strategic to keep the case a secret, they would not make comments regarding the nature of their case except that it would not be on an ongoing political case. They will unveil their case in the Varsity Division at the 27th Annual U.S.T.F.F. Forenics Tournament on March 23 and 24.

Dr. Fran Hassencahl, coach of the team and assistant professor of speech at Alfred, said that the participation in Alfred University’s two year old program of S.L.N.A. at Des Moines, where the teams appreciated the increased financial support that the University plans to give to the program next year. At the present time, the debaters hope to finance teams to the N.Y. State Championships at Cortland on March 30 and 31.
Big Time Wrestling Hits A.U.

By Kathy Horner and George Karas

The two giants strut into the ring, Eric the Red spewing a pair of horns from his head, (a devil of a man), and Johnny Powers - sparkling eyes and ripping muscles. As they receive their introductions, Eric stalks Johnny, looking mean and ready to go.

Action builds as Johnny steals his opponent's horns from the Referee, confident that he has disarmed Eric. An exchange of insulting gestures follows between the crowd and Roaring Red, with a boy's irate scream, "You stink, Eric!" The youth should have known that such insults never faze this Nordic Champion.

With the bell Johnny goes after Eric, who promptly backs away from him, looking fearful at his might. Could this apprehension be a trick?

Powers stinks!

As the now Peevish Powers is slammed against the ropes, Eric utilises the distraction with quick thinking and lightning speed, hurls his opponent's opponent in the groin, (and isn't that the American way?) The Red is routing with rage, however, and bushes Big Bad John in the throat! Eric buries yet another slam, but, as fate might have it, the Referee gets in the way. The Red's short-lived battling is halted with the ensuing disqualification due to the Ref's knock-out.

With mad applause from the fans, Johnny Powers gains his victory over Eric the Red. Eric, however, in a feeble attempt to rectify his disgraceful defeat, adds his final cry: "We were not responsible for this loss - the Ref. is! Johnny Powers stinks!"

Powers Speaks His Piece

by George Karas

Fiat: How do you feel about fighting for the N.A. title?

Powers: The title is not at stake since I only found out at 3:00 this afternoon I was fighting. But as far as Eric the Red is concerned I think I can beat him though he is very strong.

Fiat: Do you like wrestling at colleges for benefits, like tonight?

Powers: I enjoy it very much, as a matter of fact. I've wrestled for many benefits. I also used to sponsor amateur wrestling programs for little kids. I'm more than willing to participate in any benefit.

Fiat: There isn't a big crowd tonight. Does the size of the crowd affect your performance in the Ring?

Powers: Definitively. To me there seems to be an energy relationship between the spectators and athletes. The less spectators, the less energy relationship.

Fiat: Are you married and if so, what does your wife think about your wrestling?

Powers: Yes, I'm married. The only thing that really bothers her is all the traveling I do. We have a 15 month old baby and she worries about my getting hurt, but I look at it as a professional hazard. It's funny, but I met my wife at a wrestling match - wondered who the little blond jumping up and down was.

Fiat: Do you have any aspirations for any more titles bigger than N.A. Championship?

Powers: Well, I've held the world title for a while and would like another shot at it. I've been in the Top 10 for about 6 or 7 years.

Fiat: How old are you?

Powers: 29 years old.

Candid Quips from the Executioner

Fiat: Do you ever worry about wrestling?

Ex: About as much as you worry about school?

Fiat: Do you care how the fans feel toward you?

Ex: Not at all. As long as I go to the bank every day I don't care what anyone thinks.

Fiat: Does your wife mind your wrestling?

Ex: No. She is used to it. She doesn't worry how the fans feel toward you.

Fiat: Don't you care about the sport itself?

Ex: Of course. I love it - but if I wasn't getting paid what I am, I wouldn't do it. Just like you would like a fine paying job.

Fiat: What do you think about being at A.U.?

Ex: I like it very much. I'm willing to be in anything that is a benefit for people.

Fiat: How old are you?

Ex: I'm 29 and have 3 kids.

Fiat: What is your title?

These three young men just made the discovery of a lifetime. The oldest is 34.

Remember when young people could get ahead in business simply by growing old? It was a good system for those with a little talent and a lot of patience, but today's technology moves too fast to wait for seniority.

At Kodak, our extensive involvement in basic research has made the need for fresh, young thinking more pressing than ever. So we hire the best new talent we possibly can. Then we do both of us a favor by turning them loose on real problems, and giving them the freedom and responsibility they need to solve them.

That's how three Kodak scientists in their early thirties just made a breakthrough in liquid lasers, developing an organic dye laser with a continuous beam. Their discovery means more than just a new kind of laser. It means a whole range of new laser applications, from medicine to communications. It was the kind of discovery most men and women work a lifetime for. Yet these young men still have most of their lifetimes ahead of them.

Why do we give young men and women so much freedom and responsibility? Because it's good business, and we're in business to make a profit. But in furthering our own business interests, we also further society's interests. And that's good.

After all, our business depends on society. So we care what happens to it.

Kodak
More than a business.
