In Drizzling Rain Varsity Defeats Corning Free Academy By a Small Score in The First Practice Game of The Year

On Friday afternoon, during a most disagreeable rain and consequently on a very slippery field, the Varsity won its first game by defeating Corning Free Academy by the score of 39-0.

True to their promise, with some difficulty, however, the managers secured a game for last week, and the Corning fellows surely are a game bunch to come up here in the most disagreeable weather so far in the school year and buck the Varsity. The students and townspeople who were brave enough to come out and stand under the dripping eaves of their neighbor's umbrella are true sports, whether they like the name or not, and a source of encouragement to the fellows; it is hoped that none of them caught cold.

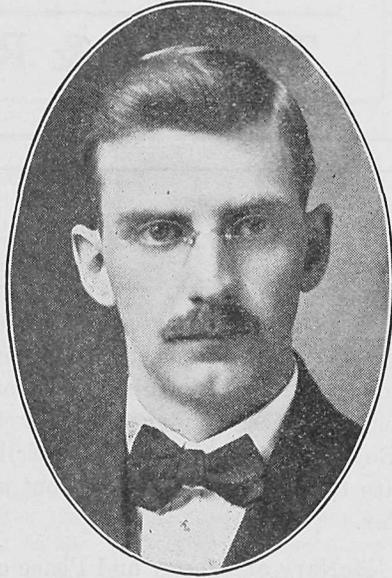

The fellows although most of them played hard, didn't seem to work well together, interference was weak, the runs slow and the

ALUMNI LECTURES FOR THIS YEAR

Although the alumni lecture committee's selections were made last year the definite dates have not yet been made nor the lecturer's subjects announced. These will, however, be made known soon, the first one probably to occur the latter part of this month or the first of November.

The speakers as selected are: Holly W. Maxson '97, of New York City, John A. Lapp '06, of Indianapolis, Ind., Charles Butts '09, and Laurence LaForge both of the United States Geological Survey of Washington. These names would indicate a very satisfactory series of lectures.

MASS MEETING FOR THE CORNING GAME

Students Let Loose in a Way to Encourage Any Team—Prof. Wingate Cheer Leader

From 7:30 until 9 o'clock last Thursday evening, things "did" at Kenyon Memorial. It was the first cheer meeting of the year, and the place was filled. Even the freshmen sacrificed a share of their evening party to help start things right, and things did acquire speed. Acting on the suggestion of Bliss, who presided, an election was held to select a cheer leader; and as a result, Prof. Wingate was installed in that capacity before the enthusiastic mob. In between the yells and songs, adding fresh fuel to the already glowing spirit, were

POULTRY DEPARTMENT AT N. Y. S. A.

Prof. Banta of Cornell in Charge of New Department

Poultry as a separate department in the Ag School is something new, but under the leadership of Prof. Banta, it promises to be a great success.

Mr. Banta, who received his preparatory work at the Amsterdam, H. S., graduated with the class of 1915 from Cornell University with a degree of B. Sc. Although Mr. Banta is still in his early twenties, he is working on his master's degree and hopes to secure this honor within the following year.

Mr. Banta is a member of the Omega Delta Fraternity and while in college also held an important office in the Poultry Association. Always interested in the class athletics, Mr. Banta secured recognition in baseball and bowling.

Alfred has been very fortunate to secure such a capable young man as head of the poultry department and we wish to extend the heartiest of welcome to Mr. Banta.

Largest Freshman Class in the History of School—New Poultry Department Strengthens Football Team

Today, October 5th, is registration day for the N. Y. S. A. and although last year's freshman class was the largest up to that time, this year's entering class will nearly double any former one. Ninety-five new students have applied for the full course and while the entire number may not come, still there is no doubt but that well over ninety will be registered before the week is over.

The large freshman class does not mean, however, that the total registration will be doubled, for the unusually large graduating class of last year has reduced the number of present seniors. This fact was due to the arrangement whereby a man who is entered as a Junior in the catalogue is allowed to graduate with the regular Senior class in March and then complete his required credits by staying until late in June. The total enrollment will be therefore about the same as usual, with line work somewhat loose. This was for the most part due to the condition of the field and the rest will be patched up this week when the men from the Ag School come out and the squad can scrimmage each night.

The Academy fellows never had a chance to win and the only times that Alfred's goal line was in danger were in the third session when Everts recovered I. Maure's fumble and started through a clear field for the line forty yards away, Capt. R. Maure (this R. stands for his first name, Raymond, but it might well stand for Rapidissimo) overhauled him, however, in a spectacular manner before he had gone ten yards; and when Corning recovered her own punt within twenty yards of the goal, but the 'Varsity line was solid and Corning's star of hope went under an umbrella somewhere never to come out again.

Besides Capt. Maure's keeping the score all on one side, he went over for two of the touchdowns; one of these made from the two yard line—he signalled for himself through center, received the ball, waited for his line to sweep the way clear and walked over. Kirke and Buck played the best game for the 'Varsity. Kirke, a new man entering with advanced credit from Thiel College this last week, getting two touchdowns and kicking three goals and Buck being in the play every minute and if when he was pulled back from the line and given the ball he could have kept his feet better the score would have been larger. I. Maure and Cottrell, as half-backs, were always sure sources of gain. The best of the gains being through the holes made by the right side of Alfred's line. Before he was taken out on account of ankle trouble, McClellan was lifting the oval for 45 yards even in the wet.

Frey, Winfield and Everts played hard and sure for the Academy, Winfield seeming to get a third of the tackles, but they were outplayed although not much outweighed by the more experienced men of the 'Varsity.

The game opened with Corning kicking to Alfred and as soon as the players got "wet all over," they didn't seem to mind the cold and rain. Some of them dove right into the first play, others hung back and went in a little at a time but before the end of the first quarter they had all "got their hair wet." Within four minutes after the ball was kicked off Kirke went over for the first touchdown, Bliss missed the goal. I. Maure carried the ball over again in this quarter and Kirke kicked the goal. Score 13-0.

By Kirke making two touchdowns and kicking two goals and a touchdown scored by W. Randolph, the tally at the end of the first half looked like this—33-0.

Only one touchdown was made in the third quarter raising the score to 39-0. During the last session the 'Varsity team was nearly all changed about by substitutions and no scoring was done.

N. Y. S. A. NOTES

A number of Ag students returned to Alfred early this year, most of them returning for football practice. Conderman, Decker, Boyes, Kull, Maure and Eells are those who have turned out so far.

McNary of Albany and Peace of New York have also arrived early.

Ralph Cornwall, ex-A. U. '17 N. Y. S. A. '16 was married recently. Mr. Cornwall will complete his work in Ag. School this year.

The Ag campus has undergone a few changes since last year, chiefly the erection of an up-to-date poultry building in back of the dairy building. The wood work in the main building has also been newly painted.

L. W. Boyer of Margaretville, N. Y., who will manage the R. I. U. Club this year, has secured Mrs. Leon Sisson to preside at the culinary department once more. This will be good news to old members who can well remember the fine "eats" they once had at this popular eating club.

COTTRELL FROSH FOOTBALL CAPTAIN

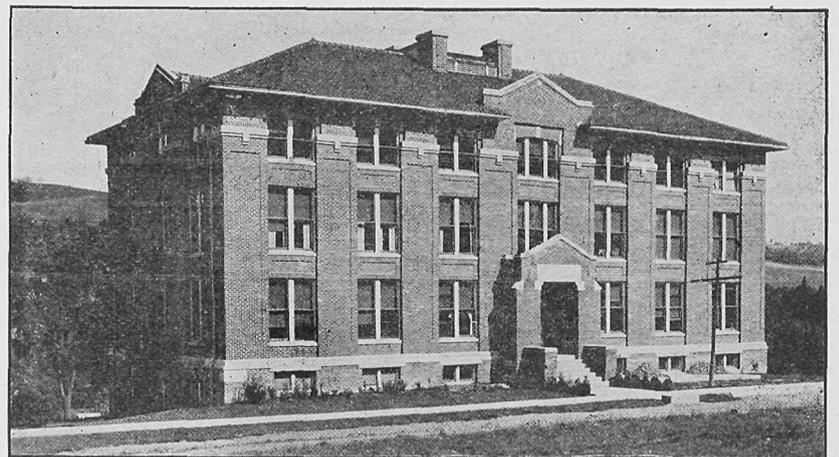

Jack Cottrell was elected captain of the Frosh football team at the class meeting Wednesday evening. Cottrell, who is one of the most promising of the new men, played a backfield position against Corning. His prep school record has been very good. As yet the Sophs have not chosen their leader. Although numerically inferior, they are determined to bring home the victory.

UNIVERSITY SONG BOOK

Prof. Wingate Combines the Songs of College and Ag Into a University Book

A new university song book issued under the direction of Prof. Wingate of the Music Department will be put on sale to-morrow morning at the assembly hour at college and chapel hour at the Ag school. This book is a distinct advance over anything published in the past embodying the songs of the college and agricultural school, which is in keeping with the bond of common loyalty that is now so pronounced.

There are thirty-six pages in the book arranged as seemed best to preserve the old university songs as bearing upon the entire university life. For this reason the first pages are devoted to these songs, while throughout the remainder of the book college and Ag School songs are mixed together.

Included in the book are new songs written since the last book was published. One of these is the "New College Song" the words and music for which were both written by Leland Coon '14, during his Senior year; the other entitled the "Forgeman's Song," is new to all university students and is the production of Prof. Fred Place of N. Y. S. A. These books will be put on sale for the nominal sum of 10 cents which will pay the cost of publication.

Cornell's new stadium will be dedicated Oct. 9, when the red and white football team plays Williams.

If the telephone ever became perfected the teloptophone would enable you to see, as well as talk to, a person at a distance we should all have to be as good as good. We wouldn't dare to be otherwise. We could all see what each other was doing.

Ludwig Streusand perfected such a device, and got a wealthy man to finance the proposition after showing him that it would work in practice. The old man and his daughter went away to a swell hotel for a rest after the labors which had brought him his reward.

To avoid publicity Old Dutch otherwise Ludwig Streusand registered at the hotel under an assumed name; lost his money; couldn't pay his bill; was obliged to submit to the mortification of seeing a couple of impostors masquerading as himself and daughter; but finally was rescued from his unpleasant predicament by the medium of his own invention. The play of "Old Dutch" with Lew Fields in the title role was a great success, and now that the theme has been transferred to the screen it loses nothing of its wit; its pungent humor, its honest fun—fun that is absolutely devoid of offence and vulgarity. As pure comedy, this five reel offering, released by the World Film Corporation on February 8th, will probably receive widespread commendation, all the more markedly because so many comedies that have recently been presented to the public have got their laughs by regrettable means. "Old Dutch" is clean from beginning to end.

As the lovable old inventor, who undergoes so many distressing changes of fortune, Lew Fields gives a performance of infinite tenderness, humor and charm. You see him as the exultant inventor, glad that his success can enrich his darling girl; then as the lover of children at the great hotel; next as the degraded waiter, barber, hotel help, biding his time, for the opportunity of unmasking the fat vaudevillian who has robbed him of his name and money.

The millions of admirers of Lew Fields, who have seen him on the regular stage, will surely credit him with a fine performance, in this his first appearance on the screen.

Vivian Martin, as "pretty as a picture" one of the most graceful and beautiful girls ever seen in the "movies," is sweet, dainty, bewitching to the eye in the role of Violet Streusand; Miss Martin repeats the success she made in "The Wishing Ring" and is certain to increase her already wide popularity amongst motion picture theatre-goers.

In the character of the male impostor, George Hassell has a fine, fat comedy part, and ably seconds Lew Fields in evoking the humor of the photoplay. Marie Empress is Mildred Bennett the female impostor; and a tremendous lot of fun is offered by Charles Judels, W. J. Ferguson. As Violet's lover, Chester Barnett is his manly and debonnaire self.

Eight famous artists models appear in the ball room scene, and the picture in respect of its photography; settings; costumes; acting and story will be the greatest comedy success ever presented on the screen here.—Adv.

A week ago there loomed the problem of a cheerleader. We said, because we knew, that we needed a someone to pull, with the best of his efforts, the cheers from our throats. We had reached in our experience, the knowledge that everyone isn't a cheer leader. We had come to realize, through prolonged experience, that very few are.

We have selected a cheer leader, what are we going to do with him? He has become our stormwind, how does he stand committed? It is not within our jurisdiction, nor would it be policy, to furnish a list of the things he must do; this, however, we dare say, that he must give of himself, and he will, to the very last inch. He must play with his every talent, not upon judgment and cold reason, but upon passion, and heat, and emotion. This is a job not to be trifled with. He must, by every means within his brain and body, rouse from a group of civilized, individual beings, a raging, burning, seething, unity with one aim, one purpose, and one voice. He may use all the dignity of an Eliot all the contortions of a Sunday, all the earnestness of a Savonarola, all the satire of a Swift, all the love of a Longfellow, all the color of Poe. Here is an ideal, the road to which is paved with neither asphalt nor macadam, and whose drains on either side are filled with neither milk nor honey, no, this is not all.

Haven't we an obligation? Aren't we bound by no less a one than that of our leader to stand, as far as Alfred is involved, to speak, to feel, to play as one, to trust in the judgment of the one who controls, and give free reign to our wildest, most primitive selves. Football? There is but one team. Education? There is but one college. College? There is but one Alfred.

This is the third issue of the Fiat Lux this year and if present indications are to be believed, it is going to be a banner year. The mailing list numbers close to 500, of these many are Alumni who have come forward in the support of the organ of their Alma Mater. Many of the students have gone in together to get one paper for one, two or as in one case, eight people. We admire the spirit of economy which prompts such a move, but believe that the spirit might be made to move in another direction. The Fiat Lux is a good paper of a good school but it is not endowed and depends largely upon the subscriptions for support. Do your part and own a copy for reference at later dates as well as having a good record of all events.

In order to obtain a complete pictorial calendar of this year's college activities, Willard Sutton, the photographer for the 1917 Kanakadea, makes this offer. A Kanakadea will be presented the person who, in the opinion of the Kanakadea board, submits to him the best collection of photographs pertaining to college life. Quality and not necessarily quantity, is to be the deciding factor in the presentation.

If you are the participant in or witness of any interesting original college, class, or individual stunt, picnic, or what not, get out your camera and snap it. Then give your film to Mr. Sutton before the whole college has had a chance to see the photograph. If you will do this an interesting pictorial calendar of the year's good times may be embodied in this year's Kanakadea.

A last injunction is, get busy at once.

Gordon Phillips, A. U. '12, of Olean, N. Y., visited the school last week. Mr. Phillips is producing one of the very best brands of floor tile on the market.

The European War has so advanced the price of zinc that its use in stoneware glazes is prohibitive. Manufacturers are sending appeals to the Ceramic laboratory for a glaze formula which does not require zinc. Extensive tests are being carried on in an effort to supply this demand.

CHANGES IN FOOTBALL RULES FOR 1915 SEASON

Buffalo Express (daily)

The changes in the football rules for 1915, are very simple. The following are the principal alterations which spectators should bear in mind.

First—There must be four officials instead of three, the use of the field judge being obligatory. The field judge instead of the linesman is now the timekeeper.

Second—Resubstitutions are allowed only at the beginning of a period.

Third—Blocking and interfering, wherein players throw their legs up in the air, is forbidden, and a fifteen-yard penalty inflicted for violation of the rule.

Fourth—Centers are forbidden to make a balk at snapping the ball.

Fifth—Running into the full-back or punter is penalized by a loss of fifteen yards. Roughing him is penalized by fifteen yards and disqualification.

Sixth—The forward pass when thrown out of bounds as a substitute for a punt is declared an incompleting forward pass.

Seventh—If a second eligible man touches the forward pass after it has first been touched by an eligible player, it becomes an incompleting forward pass.

The assembly hour last Wednesday was given over to the Student Senate whose representatives delivered interesting addresses.

Eva Williams '16, president of the College Woman's Organization, spoke to the student body concerning the aims of the association. Miss Williams explained that the rules were made, not for the purpose of taking away liberties, as so many think, but with a view of a satisfactory student government and an aim of high scholarship which can be made successful only by the cooperation of all the students.

Milton Groves '16, president of the Student Senate, called attention to the Campus Rules. Student government means that the student body works together in the making and keeping of these rules which are thought to be useful and just to all concerned. Groves said that everyone must sometime learn to resign themselves to authority, and that these rules not made merely to show authority of student senate, are one step towards that end.

The question of football enthusiasm among the students, was brought up by Earle Burdick '16, president of the Athletic Association. Burdick asked that more loyalty be shown to the team. He spoke of how much time the men on the team gave each day for practice and how little time the student body spent in encouragement. Alfred, no doubt, wants a winning team and the team needs the backing of the students. Perhaps all have lots of football spirit, but the team judges that spirit by the number that watch the daily practice on the field and not by what they think.

HIKERS' CLUB

There will be a meeting of the Hiker's Club in the Y. M. C. A. room, Wednesday evening, at 7 o'clock, P. M. All members are requested to be present as officers will be elected and plans laid for the fall campaign.

Several applications for membership have already been received, and all who contemplate joining are requested to apply at once.

Deposit in University Bank.....	18 09

Total credit on the Books.....$ 63 59

From the above figures, one can see that the past year has been a successful one financially, provided its paper credit or book account is all collected. However this will probably be impossible and at this writing there is an actual deficit of $101.41. The books are open for the auditing committee's examination, as is called for by the constitution. The new manager, Ford B. Barnard, will have the books in his possession, and anyone desiring to examine them is welcome to that privilege.

"HONOR THY FATHER AND MOTHER"

Father Discovers Daughter Whom He Believes Dead. Thrilling Story Which Shows Many Scenes in Beautiful South America

The World Film Corporation present Julius Steger in the 5 part photoplay "The Fifth Commandment".

Carl Winters, is an instructor of music. Among his pupils is Alice Winthrop, the only daughter of Stephen Winthrop, a wealthy banker. Carl and Alice love each other. Director Bergh witnesses a love scene between the two and he informs Alice's father of what he has seen. Mr. Winthrop tells Alice that she must never see Winters again. The girl meets Carl, who has been discharged from his position at the conservatory. He asks her to be his wife, and they are married. When Alice informs her father of her marriage he orders her to leave his home.

Later Carl accepts an offer to become head instructor at a college of music in Rio De Janeiro. It is agreed that Alice, his wife, is to join him when he is established. Later Winthrop persuades his daughter to return to his home. He intercepts and destroys the letters of the husband and wife to each other.

A daughter is born to Alice, who dies the same day. Winthrop cables to Carl that his daughter had died. Carl, disheartened and discouraged, earns a livelihood by playing in Cabarets. Carl's daughter of whose existence he has been kept in ignorance, has grown into a charming young woman of eighteen years. Winters returns to America. He is prematurely gray and his face is that of an old man.

Winters earns a livelihood by singing on the streets, accompanied by a young harpist whom he has befriended. One day, the daughter, while out riding is attracted by the singing. She speaks to the singer invites him to come to her home the next day, which is her birthday, to play and sing for her. As the young girl has given to Winters a calling card, borrowed from her aunt who is with her, Winters does not realize that that is his own child who has invited him to the home of his wife's father. The next day Winter goes to the Winthrop home and sings for the young girl. His attention is attracted by a photograph which is a portrait of his wife. Winthrop enters and Carl informs him who he is. Then Winthrop says to the girl, "This man is your father. Honor him in obedience to the Fifth Commandment." The story ends with father and daughter embracing each other.—Adv.

There have been only two changes in the Ag faculty, Miss Tuttle has resigned from the college faculty and will now devote her entire time to Ag work. Prof. Luther Banta, a Cornell graduate, will have charge of the new course in poultry. This will be a very valuable course. Poultry 1 is required of all men students and it will amply repay any student, who has the time to do so, to take the entire course. Prof. Banta is a young man of exceptional ability and is thoroughly prepared to take entire charge of the poultry work.

The Ags show promise of being well represented on the new University football team, six Ag men having already played in the first game of the season. Maure, last year's captain, is playing a fine game in the backfield, while J. Conderman, Decker and Eells are playing well on the line. Conderman has developed into a very creditable guard, while Eells and Decker show up well as ends. Kull and Boyes, both of last year's Ag team, are out and were used a few minutes in Friday's game. With the large entering class and the return of other old Ag players the present team will be greatly strengthened and a winning combination for Alfred University an assured thing.

Y. M. C. A.

At the meeting of the Y. M. C. last Sunday night, Elwood Kenyon led a discussion on the question, "Is the United States morally right or wrong in selling arms ammunition to combatants in the present war?" After a summary by the leader an interesting discussion was carried on by the members.

Next week Paul Burdick will lead the meeting, and the following week Dr. Norwood will address the association.

Four sophomores of Kentucky state university were expelled for hazing freshmen who made resistance.

MASS MEETING FOR THE OPENING GAME

talks by Prof. Clarke, Capt. Maure, Coach Sweetland, Boyes, Burdick, and Prof. Pontius. Athletics were off with a rush. Even the tidy little parcels wrapped up in pink tissue, which the coach so generously distributed, added not a whit less to the evidences of school loyalty which Prof. Clarke urged so ably. The occasion was not "cut and dried." It grew a little beyond the conventional mass meeting of last year out into an atmosphere with enough snap to make the blood tingle and the tongue loosen. Perhaps it wasn't the wild and wooly bedlam we expect the mass meetings to be in the future; but at all events it was certainly a splendid start.
