

What Do You Think?

●THIRTY-FIVE PERCENT of a group of students and faculty members, when asked if they thought that the United States Government should recognize the Fascist government of General Franco in Spain emphatically said yes. But twenty percent of them said "No". Twenty-five percent of them were for a "conditional" recognition. What do you think about the question? Read their answers in the survey on page 4.

All of the women pledged except Margaret Smith '40, Triestine Decorato '41, Corinne Barber '40, and Eleanor Driscoll '41, are freshmen. Pledging ceremonies were conducted at the different houses, Thursday morning. As in the past, rushing and pledging were conducted under the supervision of the Intersorority Council. Pledges will be eligible to attend the Intersorority Ball, Saturday. Eva Hanneeman '41, and Margaret Lawrence '40, also were pledged recently by Sigma Chi Nu.

Blind Sophomore Has High Ranking

●ANTHONY CIMINO '40, a sophomore in the College of Liberal Arts at Alfred University, although a blind student, is maintaining an honor scholastic ranking. In recognition of this fine record he has just been awarded a substantial scholarship grant for the second semester of the present year by the American Foundation for the Blind, Inc., of New York.

Orders For Announcements To Be Taken

●ORDERS FOR SENIOR Commencement announcements will be taken Thursday and Friday of this week in the Green Block.

Kay Borman '39, Lee Hargrave '39, and Irma Komfort '39, will be in the psychology room after assembly Thursday, and will be in the Greene Block, Thursday and Friday afternoons from 4:30-5:30.

Further notices will be sent to the houses and will be posted on the bulletin board in the post office.

The programs and announcements, like those last year, are of blue and white leather, stamped with the University Seal and bear engravings of Alumni Hall. These range in price from $.80 to $1.00. Personal cards may be ordered along with the announcements.

Large Audience Attends Play

●FASCISM in Vermont was portrayed in the Footlight Club production of Sinclair Lewis' play "It Can't Happen Here," Monday night at Alumni Hall before a large audience.

The play showed in a series of trenchant scenes in a small Vermont town, how a fascist movement begins, spreads, captures all of our free American institutions, and drives the few courageous and intelligent members of the community into a revolt.

Allegany County Legion Group Agrees To Aid In Carillon Finance Drive

●ALLEGANY COUNTY'S ten American Legion posts have agreed to assist in an effort to raise enough money so that Alfred University can purchase nine carillon bells of low tone; these nine bells are to be added to the present group which lacks low-register tones. The executive committee of the county legion, headed by Earl B. Phelps, county commander, approved the plan early in February and, in a County Meeting on Tuesday, the American Legion definitely agreed to give their support in the raising of money.

Ceramic, Ag Schools Take Budget Cut

●RECOMMENDED in the New York State budget for 1939-40, as submitted by Governor Herbert H. Lehman, are expenditures of $129,945 for the New York State College of Ceramics and $52,495 for the New York State School of Agriculture at Alfred University. The same appropriations are called for in the Appropriations Bill now before the legislature.

In the ceramic college appropriation, $100,300 is labeled for salaries of teachers, administrative officers, and maintenance men. This is a decrease of $1,400 from the present fiscal year. $29,645 is the sum asked for maintenance and operation. The maintenance increase is $1,074.66, but the total expenditure on the College of Ceramics will be $352.34 less than in the current year.

Salaries at the New York State School of Agriculture call for the sum of $37,200; maintenance and operation, $15,285. Salary costs show an increase of $1,350; maintenance costs, a decrease of $1,302.99. The total expenditure for the coming year will show an increase of $47.01. There are no appropriations for additions to either institution.

Open House, Tea Dance Plans Are Announced

Three Chairmen Present Reports To Board

●EXTENSIVE preparations for the open house of the Seventh Annual St. Patrick's Festival are under way, and the three open house chairmen today made public their plans for the glass, refractories and whitewares exhibits. The open house will be held in the ceramic building and Binns Hall, Thursday evening, March 16.

Submitting reports were Addison Scholes '39, chairman of the glass exhibits; William Knapp '39, chairman of the structural and refractories committee; and Lucius Washburn '39, chairman of the whitewares exhibits.

Scholes reported that there will be a continuous demonstration of glass blowing by professional men from Corning Glass Works. A novel feature will be the construction of glass thread. Another feature will be exhibits on the properties of glass, showing elasticity by bouncing glass marbles on steel plates, and showing strength by supporting heavy weights on glass thread.

A model tank, with representative amounts of the ingredients of a glass batch, will give onlookers an idea

Arrangements Made For Tuxedo Rentals

●FOR THOSE MEN who might stay away from the St. Patrick's Festival Ball for lack of a tuxedo, the Seventh Ceramic Festival Board today announced that it has arranged for renting tuxedos at a reduced rate.

Through the cooperation of Murray Stevens Clothiers of Hornell, the board has made arrangements for renting tuxedos at two dollars per tux, if 10 men take advantage of the opportunity. Twenty-five tuxedos are available.

Men interested in this offer are requested to see Bernard Spiro '39, or Julius Siegel '39.

how glass is made. In the glassware exhibit, Corning Glass Works will show a laboratory and a full representation of glass kitchen ware of the pyrex type. Bausch & Lomb Optical Glass Company of Rochester will show an optical glass exhibit.

Washburn reports that in the whitewares division, the Hall China Company of East Liverpool, Ohio, will show Chinese red tea pots and casseroles. The Edward M. Knowles China Company of East Liverpool will show its "American Tradition" china. The Homer Laughlin China Company of Newell, West Virginia, will have china displays.

Knapp's committee has been in correspondence with various ceramic companies in New York State and some of the exhibits sent or being sent are:

The Buffalo Brick Corporation of Orchard Park is sending samples of their brick in panel form.

The U. S. Gypsum Company is sending samples of gypsum rock, pottery plaster, a number of types of special plastic products.

The Olean Tile Company has sent four panels of groups of their decorative tiles.

Babcock & Wilcox will have a refractory exhibit.

Radio Artists Signed For Festival Tea

●THE THREE TREYS and a Queen, popular radio artists of the Buffalo Broadcasting Corporation, have been signed to furnish the music for the tea dance which will be held from 3 to 5 o'clock Thursday afternoon, March 16, during the Seventh Annual St. Patrick's Festival.

The Three Treys, also known as the "Merry Men of Notes," are heard every Monday, Wednesday and Friday morning at 11:30 o'clock over Station WKBW, Buffalo, over 1480 kilocycles. They have received praise from many radio editors and commentators, such as the following from Nick Kenny, radio editor of the New York Daily Mirror:

"Always impressed with the stylized songs of the Three Treys, Columbia Network Act, I offer low salaams for their showmanlike conduct and excellent 'in person' poise on NBC's Professional Parade last night."

The three men, Jim Giff and Marsh, play five musical instruments and also offer vocal harmony. For their Alfred appearance, a bass player has been added to provide more rhythm. Vera Holley, who sings with the Three Treys over Columbia Broadcasting System Saturday afternoons at 2:30 o'clock, will be the female vocalist for the tea dance.

The dance will be held in the ceramic lounge, and is under the chairmanship of Daniel Sparler '39, of the St. Patrick's Festival Board. Sparler announced today that Miss Clara K. Nelson, Miss Marian L. Fosdick, and Miss Alice Niederhauser will pour tea. Chaperones will be announced later.

The letdown semester

●WHAT INCENTIVE does the senior student have to do work throughout the whole of the last semester? He doesn't need high marks in order to graduate, for he must have already obtained a 1 point cumulative index in order to become a candidate for graduation. Only in exceptional cases can any marks which the senior student receives in his last semester appreciably affect his cumulative index.

The tendency, especially for the more capable student, is to let down and slide through with a minimum amount of work. He must, under the present system, take final examinations no matter what his standing in the class is. He knows from previous experience that he can do very little work during the semester and still get a passing grade by a few hours of intense cramming for the final examination. The significance of the final semester, then, fades into that of a mere formality. There is no premium placed upon any grade above a D or C. All that is needed is to pass.

A senior should get the fullest value of his academic career from his last year. He is enrolled in courses for which he has an interest and aptitude, since his required subjects have long since been completed. He should have learned how to study and to have developed an intense interest in some field. Why, then, do we notice this lag of interest, this attitude of doing just enough to get by? If four years of college training does not culminate in an aroused intellectual curiosity, of what value has the four years been? Perhaps the primary object of a college education has been obliterated by a mass of technicalities, by final examinations, point-credits, cumulative indices, cram sessions and "requirements".

We sincerely believe that exemptions from final examinations for seniors attaining A or B grades during the semester would be a step towards eliminating the "let-down" semester. An incentive would be set up for the superior student to continue to work up until graduation, and perhaps this intellectual ambition might last into later life. There can be no doubt that much more is gained by the student in a semester of learning than in a few days of cramming, no matter what the grade.

In addition to this fundamental shift of emphasis from cramming to learning, there arise other advantages from the exemption system. The last week or so of the senior year is a time of interviews for the ceramic engineers, practice teaching and more interviews for the prospective teacher. Under the present system it is a time when seniors must take special examinations, earlier than the rest of the student body, in order that the faculty, already burdened by commencement preparations, may hand in grades in time for marks to be issued soon enough before graduation time.

The elimination of a good deal of the rush and bustle of the last week would benefit the Registrar's office, the faculty, and the student doing A or B work. This can be accomplished by what amounts to, in the case of the more capable student, the abolition of a mere formality.

A marriage course?

●THE TREMENDOUS POPULARITY of Prof. H. O. Burdick's talks on the biological aspects of marriage, which are being sponsored currently by the A.U.C.A., is evidence that Alfred's men want to know the whys and wherefores of marriage. The day of taboos and whisperings which surrounded sex, marriage and venereal disease is fast dying out. More and more, young men and women are seeking reliable information. The recent wave of social hygiene legislation in the states and the federal government bears testament to the spirit of frankness which is surrounding sex discussions today.

Colleges and universities throughout the nation are adding courses in marriage to their curricula. Lehigh University is considering a no-credit senior course on marriage. Swarthmore, Wells and countless others have started or are preparing to start marriage courses. College men and women are considered among the higher brackets of the population in health, intelligence and social standing. Their progeny, it is expected, will be the leaders of tomorrow. Why should the blight of ignorance haunt their marriages?

The Fiat Lux would like to see a one or two-hour course in marriage for seniors taught at Alfred University. Credit might or might not be given and the registration for the course might be voluntary. Prof. Burdick, Chaplain McLeod and others might present information and lead discussions at the lectures and the best reference material might be suggested. One lecture a week might be for men and one might be for women, or the course could be co-educational. With the addition of this course to the curriculum, all of us would benefit in correct knowledge and a better understanding of the values and standards of marriage.

We welcome student and faculty comment on this suggestion. We repeat that the Fiat Lux believes a course in marriage should be added to Alfred's curriculum for next year.

●"IN THE HARMONY of letters and the co-operation of the mind, it would be almost impossible to raise a war of hysteria. Hope for peace lies in the colleges, in the development of the things of the mind." Pres. William Mather Lewis, Lafayette College, believes educators should be affiliated with embassies and legations throughout the world.

Giving all for the school

—BY THE EDITORS

●ADVERTISING takes many and varied forms and the main idea behind it seems to be to catch the eye. This week, something new in advertising was seen on Alfred's campus, when Glenn Burnside, the freshman who paints the publicity signs for the movies, spelled the name of the movie, "The Citadel," in an obscure fashion. His version of it was "Citidal". As we've said before, never a dull moment....

●YOUR EDITOR and his staff are accustomed to verbal and literary abuse in the form of conversations and letters to the editor. Sunday, several staff reporters and the editor received circulars and letters from the New Idea Famm Equipment Company of Coldwater, Ohio, requesting that they consider purchase of the Model 9 New Idea spreader. The good old-fashioned Fiat Lux shovel is still good enough for us, thanks!

●OUR PERSONAL athletic ability has often been in question but we have never failed to retort that we always did our best for the Alma Mater. Saturday evening, when Alfred was trouncing Bard 62-25 in basketball, we ran down the bleachers to ask Coach Yunevich if he'd put us in the game if we got into a uniform. We tripped on somebody's coat on the last step and darn near sprained our ankle on the floor by the bench. So, while football men suffer bruises and bumps, and basketball players get floor burns and wrestlers get dehydrated, we can always have the satisfaction that we, too, suffered for our school even if it was in the bleachers!

●AL NUTTER, brother of the poetic but un-engineering John Nutter, ex-'41, this week contributed his first bit of free verse to this College Town column. Al basked in the reflection of his brother's poetic fame last year and this year. Now that John is gone, Al apparently has taken over the poetic standard of the family. We present for your consideration....

Defends Sororities'
Religious, Moral Standing

Editor, Fiat Lux:

I wish to add my voice to yours (and that of half the campus) in protesting Mr. McLeod's chapel talk on February 17. I was not at chapel, but I cannot see that absence as prohibitory to my criticism. I base my remarks only on the text of the speech which was obtained from the Chaplain and published in the student newspaper of Alfred University. Surely its authenticity is undoubted.

In your editorial, you placed the emphasis on the untimeliness of Mr. McLeod's attack on sororities.

I agree with your viewpoint, but would emphasize various other aspects as strongly. It would interest me greatly to have Mr. McLeod tell me exactly what these "habits not conducive to good health or to a high type of citizenship" are. I protest such a carelessly-uttered and vague statement with some asperity. Perhaps we three sororities are a moral liability to Alfred, but I'll never believe it. I think the purifying gaze might well be turned elsewhere.

Perhaps the point in Mr. McLeod's speech which disturbed me most deeply was his light dismissal of sororities as only "solutions to a housing problem". Do you believe, sir, that eighteen years ago President or Dean chose seven girls at random and asked them to find a place to live, since the Brick was overcrowded? It sounds foolish and it is foolish. Seven girls with a dream in their hearts struggled and pleaded with authorities for months on end until they were allowed to form Alfred's first sorority. Girls may again be lumped together heterogeneously in dormitories, but the discriminating spirit that motivates sororities cannot be destroyed. And as for the marvelously democratic and secret society-free colleges—I wonder what one could call Yale's exclusive eating clubs? What would one say about six Smith girls (two of whom I know personally) who pulled every string imaginable, and so lived in the same cottage together for three years? Can sorority and fraternity sympathies ever be eradicated?

There are many points I would like to mention in connection with this belaboring of sororities, but I feel I have had my small say, although I have only scratched the surface of something deep and inviolable. To me, sororities seem a greater factor toward making us better Alfredians, not a factor for selfishness and evil. And until facts and figures are presented proving that we're anti-religious and crooked and immoral and detrimental—it would be a good idea not to say so.

Arkin composes new swing tune from 5th Symphony

●SANFORD ARKIN '40, writer and composer of swing, is now having his own composition, "Swinging the Fifth," arranged for publication.

The arrangement is being done by Earl Robinson, well known writer of music for Schubert and arranger of several Broadway shows.

"Swinging the Fifth" is an improvised swing arrangement of Beethoven's "Fifth Symphony".

Arkin's answer to the controversial issue of swinging the masters is that, "It is not blasphemous to swing Beethoven since his music is impervious to anything we may do to it, and will go on living long after its version in swing is dead."

Aggies prepare first yearbook in 40 years

●THE SCHOOL OF AGRICULTURE for the first time in 30 years is having a year book, presented by the Senior Class of the Agricultural School.

The book will have as its theme "30 Years in Alfred". It will be composed of nearly 100 pages. The photos, which will be taken this Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday by Moser Studios, will include 40 group pictures besides candid shots.

Editor in chief Allen T. Gilkes stated that the first 10 pages of the editorial writings which were completed last Sunday will go to press next week, and that a name for the book will be chosen in the near future.

Gilkes started the idea of a year book in September and has been working on the idea alone until recently when it was accepted by the student body. He now has as assistants, Professor K. B. Floyd, staff advisor; Charles Owens, business manager; and Jean Harris, art editor. The book, in addition to its many features, will have as its inside cover an aerial view of Alfred and composite scenes of the campus.

Cagers Snap Losing Streak, Beat Bard; Close At St. Bonaventure

●THE SAXON BASKETEERS will bring down the curtain for another year as they journey to Allegany to play St. Bonaventure, Wednesday evening in a return game. The Bonas beat the Saxons on their home court earlier this season, 29-24.

The Purple and Gold will attempt to annex their fifth win of the year at the expense of the Bonas. This should prove an interesting game as the Saxons are fresh from their 62-25 rout of Bard, while St. Bonaventure is just recovering from the 70-31 beating they absorbed at the hands of a great L. I. U. quintet.

The Bonas have beaten Alfred in their last four meetings. A Saxon team hasn't won since the S.O.S. combination and Freshman Basketball Coach Minnick did the trick in the 1936-37 season by the score of 41-37.

Frosh Cagers Invade Bonas Lair Wednesday

●FRESH FROM THEIR 55-12 rout of Jamestown last week-end, the Alfred frosh will invade Allegany Wednesday evening and attempt to avenge the defeat the St. Bona Frosh handed them earlier this season.

The Bona Frosh will be a hard nut to crack, since they displayed a polished attack in the last meeting with the Greenies. They boast of height, speed and weight.

The Alfred frosh looked very good as they beat Jamestown. Rhodes, Jolley and Burnside all were outstanding.

Ralph Rhodes Leads Frosh Cagers To Win

●LED BY RALPH RHODES, the Alfred frosh brought down the curtain on the present home campaign with a 55-12 rout of the Alfred Extension at Jamestown last Saturday evening.

The visitors were no match for the Greenies' height and speed, as the Frosh scored freely, almost at will. The score at half-time was 23-7. The frosh went on a scoring spree as the second half opened and scored 19 straight points before the Jamestown team could get started. Coach Dan Minnick made use of his entire squad with nine of the frosh participating in the scoring.

Rhodes' sharpshooting netted five buckets and four fouls for a total of 14, high for the night. Glenn Burnside used his height to good advantage as he scored nine points; Bob Jolley also scored nine. George Kellogg, a recent addition to the team, came through with eight points.

Aggie Five Wins Easily Over Jintown

●ALFRED AGGIES' powerful team took an easy win from Jamestown Collegiate Center Tuesday night by a score of 53-22. The aggies went there Thursday night and won by a score of 35-22.

Aggies have two more games to play, Oneonta Normal at Oneonta, and a strong team from Rochester, the School of Commerce, March 3, at home.

The Aggies intend to close the season with these two victories. Aggies have a brilliant record this year, with 13 victories and two losses.

Forensic Club Meets Hobart College Team

●FORENSIC SOCIETY met the Hobart College debaters in a non-decision contest at the Social Hall, Wednesday afternoon, before a group of interested students and faculty members. The topic was—Resolved: That the United States should adopt a system of socialized medicine, making available to all, complete medical service at public expense.

Each side was allowed two ten minute periods for constructive expansion and two five minute rebuttal periods. Professor Burton B. Crandall acted as timekeeper.

The schedule of the debate follows: Glenn Alty '40, of Alfred, affirmative; Fred Stevens of Hobart, negative; John Hallock '42, of Alfred, affirmative; Fred Stevens of Hobart, negative. The schedule for rebuttal was Stevens, Hallock, Garvin, and Alty in that order.

●OHIO WESLEYAN'S first co-ed never spoke in class during her undergraduate career.

●THE ALFRED SAXONS swamped Bard College, 62-25, in their last appearance before the home crowd last Saturday evening and thereby snapped a five game losing streak.

Alfred took the lead in the opening minutes of the game and were never threatened till the final whistle blew. Sharpshooting by Buckley, Smigrod and Polan, all who were playing their last game at home and the fine pivot shots of Whitwood gave the Purple an 30-11 advantage at half-time.

The Saxons put on the pressure as the second half opened. Buckley opened the half with two baskets and a pair of fouls. Whitwood matched this with three buckets and Smigrod swished the nets for two more baskets, for a total of sixteen consecutive points before the visitors could get started. Leading 46-11, Coach Yunevich sent in his second team. Led by Hollingsworth and Greenman, the reserves kept the lead and the final score was 62-25.

Bob Whitwood, sophomore center was high scorer, with seven buckets and one foul for 15 points; Capt. Ray Buckley came next with 14 and Smigrod tallied 10, with Hollingsworth close behind with 8. For the visitors Buckley was high with ten points.

The Saxons made 29 baskets and four fouls for a total of 62 points, one of the largest scores recorded by a varsity team in the last five years.

I.C.4-A Squad To Be Named Wednesday

●TRACK COACH James A. McLane will select on Wednesday the men who will represent Alfred University in the Indoor I.C.4-A meet at Madison Square Garden, New York City, Saturday, March 4.

Coach McLane told a Flat reporter Saturday that Brad Rendell has been looking very good in the two-mile, and may be entered in that event. Gene Burgess in the mile, Lennie Dauenhauer in the 1000, Joe Majeske in the broad jump and Sandy Arkin in the shotput are other strong possibilities for entries. Russ Barreca, Frank Morley and Cliff Leahy are exceptionally good possibilities for entry in the 600 and 1000 yard runs.

Meanwhile, some 20 track and field men are working out daily in the gymnasium in preparation for the Indoor Interclass Meet which will be held March 31, and which officially opens the 1939 season.

Senior Cagers Play Final Home Game

●RAY BUCKLEY, Dight Polan and Seymour Smigrod, Saxon seniors, played their last game in front of the "home crowd" Saturday night as they helped whip Bard 62-25.

Buckley, captain of the hoopsters, has played three years of varsity ball and for the past two years has been playmaker, putting the team into position and setting up the plays. He is not only an expert ball-handler, but also for the past two seasons he has lead the team in points scored. Scoring 14 points against Bard, Saturday evening, brought his total for the present season past the 120 mark. Last year he amassed 125 points.

Dight Polan, tall center, is finishing his second year of varsity ball. Playing last year for the first time, he has since improved rapidly, and from a comparative few minutes of play last season he has jumped center this year regularly. He has led to the scoring of many points with his fine pivoting and play under the backboard. Seymour Smigrod, last of the three seniors on the squad, is finishing his first year of Varsity play. His only other experience had been with the Frosh three years ago.

Playing in his second Varsity game he ran wild against the visiting team, McMasters, and scored 12 points. His amazing accuracy and fine ball handling won him a regular position as forward.

Bad Man Movie Is Signed For Festival

●JESSE JAMES, 20th Century-Fox's presentation of the good side of a bad man, will be the movie attraction Thursday evening, March 16, as a special feature of the Seventh Annual St. Patrick's Festival.

The movie has an all-star cast including Tyrone Power, Henry Fonda, Nancy Kelly and Randolph Scott. Called "the most colorful outlaw who ever lived," Jesse James became an outlaw after the death of his mother because of the unscrupulous railroad executives' influence in the West.

His spectacular career as the "Robin Hood of the West" brought terror to the nation, but this movie presents the human side of the outlaw, shows him in love, in danger and facing death. Tyrone Power, who earned his spurs in Hollywood as the romantic lead in "Lloyds of London," plays Jesse James, and Henry Fonda, star of "Blockade" and "Spawn of the North," plays Frank James, the flint-eyed brother of the famous outlaw. Randolph Scott plays Marshall Wright, and Nancy Kelly is Power's love interest.

Added attractions will be Walt Disney's "Hockey Champs," and "King Vulture," the story in pictures of a mountain climber attacked by a vulture.

The chairman of the movie arrangements, Ken Tracey '39, announced today that there will be two performances, beginning at 7 o'clock and at 9 o'clock. Women will have 12:30 permission Thursday evening, the first night of the festival.

Campus Divided On Question Of Recognizing Franco

●"GRANTED that Franco has practically won the Spanish War; do you think the United States should recognize the insurgent government?" In answer to this question, 35% said "Yes"; 25% said "Conditionally"; 20% said "No"; 10% didn't know; and 10% would give no statement.

Following are the quotations:
Rosemary Hallenbeck '39: "I think it would be much better for the peace of the world to recognize them. Spain is in such condition that it will be difficult for anyone to make anything of it, even under the most favorable circumstances. We should recognize them if the Italians are ousted."

Bob Molyneux '39: "If you will remember, about 1775 we had a revolution. Since that time, we seem to have done all right—why not give Spain a chance? According to International Law, we should recognize them."

Lou Granger '36: "First, we should consider the type of government Franco will set up. Wait until he shows us what he intends to do. If Franco is to be merely a puppet for Mussolini and Hitler, then we should by no means recognize his government. On the other hand, if he tries to put Spain on its feet, and shows us that the German and Italian influence will be negligible, recognition should be accorded."

John Dougherty '39: "The policy of the United States has been to recognize 'de facto' governments and Franco's government is apparently 'de facto'. However, I believe we should demand assurances that Italian troops will be withdrawn and the influence of the Fascist and Nazi powers minimized before we recognize it."

Norma Witschieben '39: "We should remain strictly neutral. If we don't keep out of all that, we might get into trouble." Later she changed her mind and said, "If they would guarantee that we could get more olives and more 'Ferdinand the Bull' stories from them at a lower rate, I'm in favor of it."

Laura Miller '41: "Of course not! It was taken by force and therefore we should have absolutely nothing to do with them."

Betsy Ryder '40: "We should recognize them, but that's all."

Bud Terry '40: "If an insurgent government is set up, what will be its policy? We should wait until we are sure that there will be no outside influence from Hitler or Mussolini and then give them a chance."

Dr. Paul C. Saunders: "I think Franco is just Mussolini's pawn. If he would assert his independence and go his own way, I would favor recognition. If he became independent, even though he established a Fascist regime, I would favor recognition. I do not, however, favor recognizing the government of one of Mussolini's pawns."

Professor Crofoot: "We can deplore the means to the end, but the fact remains that a new government is in existence. It is a responsible element. We should recognize them but (although we have no right to demand it) we should favor the removal of Mussolini. We withheld our recognition of Russia for fifteen years but were still in commercial contact with them. That is an error which need not be repeated. Being a commercial nation, we should recognize them because of existing circumstances."
