Nader tells AU to be civically minded

GERALDINE GENZARDI  MANAGING EDITOR

Students need to become "skilled citizens" if they want to make a difference, former presidential candidate, writer and activist lawyer, Ralph Nader, told students, faculty and community members in Holmes Auditorium on March 24. While attending the conference Regan spoke to a reporter from the Washington Post. For the limited number of students who have heard about Regan's statements at the conference most have expressed concern regarding the issue. While attending the conference Regan spoke to a reporter from the Washington Post. "I bear no ill will to Mr. Parker [the district attorney who fired Regan], he was elected by the people to do what is in their best interest," said Regan.

Montessori mural brightens school

Kristen Miranda returned to Alfred University to speak to Communication Studies students in Associate Professor of Communication Studies Robyn Goodman's Opinion Writing and Women, Minorities, and the Media classes March 22 in Seidlin Hall. "You can ask me anything," Miranda said, opening the session up to students eager to pick her brain about working in television media. Miranda is a weekend anchor and reporter for Channel 13 news in Rochester, where she has worked for the last five and a half years. Prior to working in Rochester, Miranda made the move to Binghamton. "It's better to start in a smaller city," said Miranda. "I shot and edited my own stories [in Binghamton]." Miranda said she made many mistakes, but it helped her to learn the ropes.

She explained the process of starting over at a new job, where she started out reporting again. "It really relies on both worlds," Miranda explained. "I anchor, too." Miranda shared that her experiences in Binghamton helped her feel more comfortable and have a better sense of things in Rochester. She works as a reporter and anchor in Binghamton. "It's better to start in a smaller city," said Miranda. "I shoot and edit my own stories [in Binghamton]." Miranda said she made many mistakes, but it helped her to learn the ropes.

Miranda shared that her experiences in Binghamton helped her feel more comfortable and have a better sense of things in Rochester. She works as a reporter and anchor in Binghamton. "It's better to start in a smaller city," said Miranda. "I shoot and edit my own stories [in Binghamton]." Miranda said she made many mistakes, but it helped her to learn the ropes.

Miranda answered questions about being a woman in a man's business. There's a lot more pressure for a woman to look good, she said. "You have to look good on TV. Men do that, too," Miranda said. For example if a person walked up to a car dealer, crossed out a few paragraphs in the fine print and disabled their warranty it would be an ordinary case, the dealer might call the police. This is just one example of how our regulations are conducted by corporations, how minimal it is to restrict our freedom of contract and how accustomed consumers are to complying with company policies. In further examples, Nader noted that corporations are motivated for aesthetics because of the power of the cosmetic and fashion industries. Only a small percentage of people can meet this. This is a political definition of beauty. "If we allow companies to control the appearance, things we desire the industrial products, and in order to become attractive..." "You can ask me anything," Miranda said, opening the session up to students eager to pick her brain about working in television media. Miranda is a weekend anchor and reporter for Channel 13 news in Rochester, where she has worked for the last five and a half years. Prior to working in Rochester, Miranda made the move to Binghamton. "It's better to start in a smaller city," said Miranda. "I shot and edited my own stories [in Binghamton]." Miranda said she made many mistakes, but it helped her to learn the ropes.

Miranda is a weekend anchor and reporter for Channel 13 news in Rochester, where she has worked for the last five and a half years. Prior to working in Rochester, Miranda made the move to Binghamton. "It's better to start in a smaller city," said Miranda. "I shot and edited my own stories [in Binghamton]." Miranda said she made many mistakes, but it helped her to learn the ropes.

Miranda is a weekend anchor and reporter for Channel 13 news in Rochester, where she has worked for the last five and a half years. Prior to working in Rochester, Miranda made the move to Binghamton. "It's better to start in a smaller city," said Miranda. "I shot and edited my own stories [in Binghamton]." Miranda said she made many mistakes, but it helped her to learn the ropes.

Miranda shared that her experiences in Binghamton helped her feel more comfortable and have a better sense of things in Rochester. She works as a reporter and anchor in Binghamton. "It's better to start in a smaller city," said Miranda. "I shoot and edit my own stories [in Binghamton]." Miranda said she made many mistakes, but it helped her to learn the ropes.

Miranda answered questions about being a woman in a man's business. There's a lot more pressure for a woman to look good, she said. "You have to look good on TV. Men do that, too," Miranda said. For example if a person walked up to a car dealer, crossed out a few paragraphs in the fine print and disabled their warranty it would be an ordinary case, the dealer might call the police. This is just one example of how our regulations are conducted by corporations, how minimal it is to restrict our freedom of contract and how accustomed consumers are to complying with company policies. In further examples, Nader noted that corporations are motivated for aesthetics because of the power of the cosmetic and fashion industries. Only a small percentage of people can meet this. This is a political definition of beauty. "If we allow companies to control the appearance, things we desire the industrial products, and in order to become attractive..."..."
I imagine flipping through your local newspaper and finding your business professor in the middle of a full-blown controversy. At the time, I was shocked. How could this happen? Even though I had grown up around strange stories about how people get fired for things they say, I had never really understood how someone could be fired from his job for speaking his mind.

The lawsuit brings up the age-old battle between corporate and personal responsibility. People do not need to turn their iPods to the highest volume or engage in other harmful behaviors that might ruin their hearing. Corporate profit is the main concern, not the health of employees.

I attended a conference in Virginia. The news article persuaded people to believe that Regan is a white supremacist after he made a statement disagreeing with the immigration policy in the United States. Regan was recently criticized in the Feb. 24 issue of the Wellsville Daily Reporter, and his letter-to-the-editor in the New York Times in conjunction with the lawsuit.

...it seemed like a dream to me, like I could not possibly be in the city that never sleeps. I was finally in the Big Apple and all I could do was smile. I have so many expectations and so many pictures in my head of what the city would be like. As a country girl, the only contact I had with the city was in novels I had read or movies and television shows like Friends and Seinfeld.

...the streets full of cars and angry taxi drivers laying on their horns, masses of people trying to get somewhere. No sights winning Times Square and an angry traffic officer yelling at you at times. I looked around at these things, the feeling of being at home.

The Big Apple was at my feet and I was eager to explore. I read about in books and seen in films and TV. I swear I had a smile on my face the whole trip. It seemed like a dream to me, like I could not possibly be in the city that never sleeps. I was finally in the Big Apple and all I could do was smile.
By being outspoken, believing in your cause and never giving up, any society can reap benefits.

The 2006-07 Student Senate Executive Board has one big goal: to increase student involvement on campus and in the community. Among the many events quickly found another path to leadership in student government as the winning the title of Publicity Chair. He spent the year working on a plan to turn the student council into a platform for innovative objectives for the year to come.

The votes have been counted and the results are in! Alfred University's 2006-07 Student Senate executive board has been selected.

Matthew Butts
Executive Chair

As he prepares for a year full of new leadership experiences, Weeks said that he would look to the example of Associate Professor of Economics M. Claret Ruane.

"I have to thank my family because they neglected me," said Zakareya. "But it opened my imagination. I didn't like this idea of the women always waiting to be rescued."

"To get things changed you have to change the law," concluded Zakareya.

"Women have a good opportunity to move into the area [television media]," Miranda said.

"I can't say enough about internships," stressed Miranda. "Take advantage of what you have around you and be assertive. If you want it [a job], make yourself known."

If anyone has questions about working in broadcast television, Miranda encourages AU students to contact her. She is more than willing to help out in any way she can. Her e-mail address can be found on the 13WHAM-TV website.

The Taste Buds Formal Black and White Dinner will be held on April 2 at 5 p.m. in the Knight Club at Powell Campus Center.

When asked for advice about getting a job in television, Miranda praised internships.

"There's not enough internships."

"Miranda was another aspect Miranda discussed during her sessions. She has been a protégée," she joked. "She made me look forward to going to grad school," she said. "He amazes me."
Immigration legislation sends protesters to city streets

Protesters against a federal immigration bill that is expected to pass the House of Representatives despite opposition from Arizona, Los Angeles, California, and Atlanta, Georgia, made their voices heard in downtown Los Angeles on Thursday. The City Council is considering bills that would make it a felony to be in the U.S. illegally and to harbor illegal immigrants.

Congress is mulling laws that would make it a felony to be in the U.S. illegally and to harbor illegal immigrants. Although the City Council is expected to vote on the bill next week, it is not clear if the council will pass it.

The demonstrators, who numbered in the hundreds, gathered near City Hall to protest the legislation. They chanted slogans and held signs that read, "Stop the deportation of our families," and "We are not criminals, we are Americans." They also handed out leaflets and distributed fliers to passing motorists.

The demonstrators were joined by members of the United Farm Workers, who have been involved in a long-running斗争 against the use of pesticides in the area. They carried signs that read, "No more pesticides," and "We want safe food!"

The demonstrators were joined by members of the United Farm Workers, who have been involved in a long-running斗争 against the use of pesticides in the area. They carried signs that read, "No more pesticides," and "We want safe food!"

The demonstrators were joined by members of the United Farm Workers, who have been involved in a long-running斗争 against the use of pesticides in the area. They carried signs that read, "No more pesticides," and "We want safe food!"

The demonstrators were joined by members of the United Farm Workers, who have been involved in a long-running斗争 against the use of pesticides in the area. They carried signs that read, "No more pesticides," and "We want safe food!"

The demonstrators were joined by members of the United Farm Workers, who have been involved in a long-running斗争 against the use of pesticides in the area. They carried signs that read, "No more pesticides," and "We want safe food!"

The demonstrators were joined by members of the United Farm Workers, who have been involved in a long-running斗争 against the use of pesticides in the area. They carried signs that read, "No more pesticides," and "We want safe food!"

The demonstrators were joined by members of the United Farm Workers, who have been involved in a long-running斗争 against the use of pesticides in the area. They carried signs that read, "No more pesticides," and "We want safe food!"
The new Game School Club series wins big at AU

GERALDINE GENZARD
This past spring semester students in the Business and Economics class of Professor Keely Conrad created Game Show

"A game show is a lot of fun," said Professor Keely. "My students and I have created a series of games shows that are designed to help students learn about various aspects of business and economics." The series is called "Business Know How" and features topics such as supply and demand, cost-benefit analysis, and market trends.

The game shows are designed to be interactive and engaging, with participants having to answer questions in order to win prizes. The series has been well received by students and faculty alike, with Professor Keely noting that the game shows have helped to engage students in the classroom and beyond.

In addition to the game shows, Professor Keely has also created a game show series for the History class, which features topics such as the American Revolution and the Civil Rights Movement. The History game shows have been equally successful, with students and faculty alike enjoying the opportunity to learn about these important events in American history.

"Game shows are a great way to engage students and make learning fun," said Professor Keely. "I hope to continue to create new game shows in the future to help my students learn and grow."
Dar Williams charms audience

The Ninth Track, first single from "the perfect album," is a hit. We speak with Dar Williams about her career and her new album.

Theodore Long still gruff’n’ buggin’

Ward Picklin’ Bar: the perfect album

Geraldine Ganzerald

Soup Kitchen Thinks It Can Solve The World’s Problems With Soup

Sterling Mclsa is built on the same model as the Soup Kitchen, the soup kitchen's  budget comes mostly from donations by private citizens and Baltimore-area businesses. Additional $15,000 per year, comes courtesy of government handouts, paid for by taxpayers ' like the readers of this article.

Soup Kitchen Thinks It Can Solve The World’s Problems With Soup BALTIMORE—Nestled in the heart of one of Baltimore’s run-down neighborhoods, the Soup Kitchen serves dinner nightly. Despite its limited resources, the Soup Kitchen has made some headway after a decade, director Bill Cauldwell is apparently unable to see the forest for the trees.

"What's worse, the apparently clueless Cauldwell does not work alone. A whole passel of misguided soup-ladlers have joined his one-armed dance of denial."

Weird News

Soup Kitchen Thinks It Can Solve The World’s Problems With Soup

Ward Picklin’ Bar: the perfect album

Geraldine Ganzerald

Soup Kitchen Thinks It Can Solve The World’s Problems With Soup BALTIMORE—Nestled in the heart of one of Baltimore’s run-down neighborhoods, the Soup Kitchen serves dinner nightly. Despite its limited resources, the Soup Kitchen has made some headway after a decade, director Bill Cauldwell is apparently unable to see the forest for the trees.

"What's worse, the apparently clueless Cauldwell does not work alone. A whole passel of misguided soup-ladlers have joined his one-armed dance of denial."

Weird News

Soup Kitchen Thinks It Can Solve The World’s Problems With Soup BALTIMORE—Nestled in the heart of one of Baltimore’s run-down neighborhoods, the Soup Kitchen serves dinner nightly. Despite its limited resources, the Soup Kitchen has made some headway after a decade, director Bill Cauldwell is apparently unable to see the forest for the trees.

"What's worse, the apparently clueless Cauldwell does not work alone. A whole passel of misguided soup-ladlers have joined his one-armed dance of denial."

Weird News

Soup Kitchen Thinks It Can Solve The World’s Problems With Soup

Ward Picklin’ Bar: the perfect album

Geraldine Ganzerald

Soup Kitchen Thinks It Can Solve The World’s Problems With Soup BALTIMORE—Nestled in the heart of one of Baltimore’s run-down neighborhoods, the Soup Kitchen serves dinner nightly. Despite its limited resources, the Soup Kitchen has made some headway after a decade, director Bill Cauldwell is apparently unable to see the forest for the trees.

"What's worse, the apparently clueless Cauldwell does not work alone. A whole passel of misguided soup-ladlers have joined his one-armed dance of denial."

Weird News

Soup Kitchen Thinks It Can Solve The World’s Problems With Soup

Ward Picklin’ Bar: the perfect album
Marcii

Ready for what you thought might be happening last week to actually become a reality? Bet you are ~ and that you're ... sound easy, but you know how you get when change happens. This time Out, assist it ~ no matter what happened last time.

You've never run short on charm, and you've never been known to have nothing to say. At the moment, those talents will ... slip persuasively from your lips. Just don't use this gift for anything selfish; that's the kind of karma no one needs.

There's something going on behind the scenes, and you've been privy to it for some time now. This doesn't mean ... be proud of yourself when you do. Besides, it's an honor to be given a secret. Don't make the giver feel foolish and it's what others expect of you.

The people you hang out with are tired of your excuses. They want to see you, and they want to see you now - even if ... then for your admirers. Besides, when was the last time you allowed yourself time for the fans during the week?

Someone you've had your eye on recently will be more than happy to keep you up late tonight - all you have to do is to ... the masses with what you're capable of. Your mission now is to keep up that reputation. Ready? Bet you are.

A relationship you've recently begun is more than ripe for that extra step. So if you're thinking of taking a giant leap ... for you to share anyone's affections. You're loving, compassionate and more than worth the effort. Make that your mantra.

horoscopes

ACROSS

1. This many Americans trace their roots to Ireland.
2. Capital of Ireland.
3. Means "Irish Forever".
4. A popular Celtic band.
5. An element of an Irish famine.
6. A little mythological man.
7. The color of the day.
9. The Blarney Stone is located in this town.
10. A popular Celtic band.
11. In 1995 this was barely passed as legal in Ireland.
12. What day is it today?
13. The Blarney Stone is located in this town.
14. The color of the day.
15. In 1995 this was barely passed as legal in Ireland.

DOWN

1. Seaview of the Free State 1922-1922.
2. 2 Films shot in Ireland in 1952, directed by John Ford.
3. A myriadological man.
5. A stanza.
6. The pattern of the day.
7. The Blarney Stone is located in this town.
8. The color of the day.

WORD JUMBLE

ICSPTKIRA
KHAOGRMS
AAYHPULMRC
GERNE
OPTOSTA
AERIDL
ISIRI
LIRUBD
RVLECO
IRBTCEAE
JYMSMCEAO
AYETS

ALL THINGS IRISH!

St. Patrick’s Day Crossword Puzzle

Coach USA

With our great fares and schedules, plan your trip for the holiday break has never been easier!

2 Round-Trips to New York City and 1 to Long Island, Queens & Westchester County!

YMGXHF

$148 Round Trip. $199 Round Trip.

Long Island...

$.52 Round Trip. $99 Round Trip.

Coach USA - Everywhere You Need Us Most!

Alfred - Alfred Travel Center, 11 North University Street, Alfred, NY 14802

Bath - Mike's Mart, Inc./Citgo, 20 E. Main St., Bath, NY 14810

Hornell - Cy's Sunoco Express, 963 N. Main St., Hornell, NY 14843

www.coachusa.com

Page 7

Marcii
Too much money for Terrell Owens
STEVE BARZ
SPORTS EDITOR

Contrary to widespread reaction Terrell Owens signed a three-year, $33 million contract with the Dallas Cowboys last week. The deal included a $5 million signing bonus and a $15 million guaranteed salary for the first two years, which means Owens is guaranteed $10 million this year alone.

At the end of last season, football fans in分析，if Terrell Owens, the Dallas Cowboys' receiver, ever had a chance to be. But look now, Terrell Owens. We have ever have received a dual threat that kind of money, we would have had an instant winner. He would have put the "big money" contract because he is too good as a receiver. The question is, is Owens too good to keep him happy.

But don't worry Cowboy fans, not everything about this move is negative. Owens is without question one of the best playmakers in the NFL today; he has the ability to change the outcome of a game in one play. Owens is known for breaking up chemistry between teammates because of his "me" attitude. It is obvious to anyone who ... take this approach, but no one can argue that any one player is more destructive to team chemistry than Terrell Owens.

The Cowboys organization has been trying to find a wide receiver with this talent since Michael Irvin retired in 2000. They have tried guys like Keyshawn Johnson, Terry Glenn, Joey Galloway, Antonio Bryant, the list goes on and on. This is the exact guy the Cowboys have been looking for since Irvin. Owens is as good of a receiver as there is in the league; that is the player Terrell Owens, not the person or character of Terrell Owens.

I just wouldn't want to be Drew Bledsoe the first time he takes a sack instead of hitting a wide-open T.O. thirty yards down the field. The Cowboys need to get back to the fundamentals. Terrell Owens is a great receiver, but you have to learn to play football. It's the NFL, you can't just go out there and play. Owens needs to get back to the basics.

If Owens fulfills his contract he will be one of the three highest paid wide receivers in the league. But as we all know, football is a business. Owners are always looking for the next big thing, the next hot commodity. The NFL is a business, so basically they are stuck between a rock and a hard place.

The Cowboys organization will continue to try to build around Terrell Owens. They have tried guys like Keyshawn Johnson, Tony Chance, Joey Galloway, Antonio Bryant, and now Terrell Owens.

March Madness is upon us
JON WILKIS
SPORTS EDITOR

As an Ohioan, I have to tell you that people love March Madness. Given the opportunity, you would rather watch a college basketball game than a professional game. I know I do. And if you're reading this, you probably love March Madness as well.

There have been a lot of changes this year in the NCAA tournament. The first thing that comes to mind is the new selection committee. The panel of experts try to pick the best possible teams for the tournament. The result has been more upsets, which is exactly what March Madness is all about.

Another interesting seeding selection was that of both UNC and Ohio State. With the top two recruiting classes coming in, you would have thought these teams would be locks for the Final Four. But look at how the teams are seeded. UNC got the number one seed in the West region, but Ohio State got the number four seed. The number one seed in the Final Four is a record.

This year's tournament is shaping up to be the most competitive in recent memory. There are teams like George Mason, Florida and Kansas, that have the potential to make a run to the Final Four.

The Cowboys organization has been trying to find a wide receiver with this talent since Michael Irvin retired in 2000. They have tried guys like Keyshawn Johnson, Terry Glenn, Joey Galloway, Antonio Bryant, the list goes on and on. This is the exact guy the Cowboys have been looking for since Irvin. Owens is as good of a receiver as there is in the league; that is the player Terrell Owens, not the person or character of Terrell Owens.

The Cowboys organization has been trying to find a wide receiver with this talent since Michael Irvin retired in 2000. They have tried guys like Keyshawn Johnson, Terry Glenn, Joey Galloway, Antonio Bryant, the list goes on and on. This is the exact guy the Cowboys have been looking for since Irvin. Owens is as good of a receiver as there is in the league; that is the player Terrell Owens, not the person or character of Terrell Owens.

The Cowboys organization has been trying to find a wide receiver with this talent since Michael Irvin retired in 2000. They have tried guys like Keyshawn Johnson, Terry Glenn, Joey Galloway, Antonio Bryant, the list goes on and on. This is the exact guy the Cowboys have been looking for since Irvin. Owens is as good of a receiver as there is in the league; that is the player Terrell Owens, not the person or character of Terrell Owens.