DETERMINE YOUR OCCUPATION; ASK ADVICE OF SCHOOL BUREAU

Vocation Bureau Outlines Purpose of Work And Offers Assistance

The Vocational Bureau of the Twentieth Century Club was founded for the purpose of widening out the world of opportunity for college-trained men and women. Its aim is to conduct an educational campaign to acquaint students with the beckoning fields of endeavor for fertile brains and disciplined powers, that lie without and beyond the college years. Alfred enjoys an enviable reputation as a producer of teachers who make good. It has peppered the map of New York state with pedagogs, who are making a name for themselves as teachers of power and resource. Some are, however, making but mediocre successes, who might better be in other work. There are always bound to be occupational misfits, but vocational experts believe that this waste of human effort can be reduced to a minimum by intelligent direction. There are many college students who do not grow enthusiastic over the prospect of teaching, who believe, however, that it is not worth the candle to attempt anything else, or who do not know of anything else by which they can immediately gain an insured income. Some Alfred students, doubtless, cherish definite vocational hopes which they are lovingly putting away in old rose leaves, as incapable of realization.

The Bureau has outlined and posted on the college bulletin board nine courses for vocations other than teaching. These suggested courses, to which we urge your attention, are based upon the required work given in the col-

LAST YEAR'S FOOTBALL CAPTAIN MARRIES CLASSMATE

Raymond Maure '16, and Abbie Burdick '16, Quietly Married Saturday Evening

Another evidence of Alfred's traditional influences was shown last Saturday evening in the marriage of Miss Abbie Burdick '16, to Raymond Maure '16, at the former's home in Alfred.

The wedding was very quiet, only a few people beside the families being present. The town and college were totally unaware of the event until after the happy couple had departed on the late train.

The bride was accompanied by her sister Marguerite, and the groom by his brother Warren, Dean Main of the Seminary performing the ceremony.

After Monday, Mr. and Mrs. Maure will be at home at Fulton, N. Y., where he is teaching.

The whole school joins in sending hearty congratulations to "Ray" and his bride.

FIRST ASSEMBLY GREAT SUCCESS

Fifty Couples Attend Hallowe'en Affair

The first college assembly, given last Saturday evening, was a great success. About fifty couples gathered on the floor for the Grand March, headed by Prof. and Mrs. Wingate and Mr. and Mrs. B. S. Bassett, the patrons and patronesses of the evening.

Most excellent music was furnished by Story's Orchestra of Wellsville, and the interest of the occasion was greatly increased by a luck elimination dance given just before the intermission.

The tasty decorations about the hall and on the programs lent much to the pleasantness of the first dance of the school year.

SPECIAL TRAIN TO BONAVENTURE GAME

Leaves Station at 1:30

The special train, which will run to Wellsville for the convenience of those who wish to attend the St. Bonaventure game next Friday afternoon, will leave the station at 1:30. The team will go over on this train and all will be met at the Wellsville station by the Temple Band and march to the field in procession.

The train will make a return trip at a time convenient to all parties concerned.

The round trip fare will be seventy-eight cents and the management urges that all who are going, plan to use this means of conveyance and furthermore that they sign up immediately.

HEY SKINNEY, COME ON OVER! SEE THE "WILD INDIANS!"

Gathering at Cheer Meet, Thursday Evening at 7

How did Alfred defeat Thiel? By sheer grit and fight. What gave her that fight? It was the fact that the whole school was behind the team. It was the mass meeting, the band, the procession, the hearty cheers.

It is hoped that St. Bonaventure will not have as good a team as Thiel, but if she has, the same support must be given the Alfred men. The same process must be followed, and the same kind of a mass meeting will occur Thursday evening at 7 o'clock.

Did you ever hear a person "yell like a wild Indian?" Each man must hunt up a "wild Indian" before Thursday evening, bring him over to Ag Hall with him and Ayars will put the aborigines so gathered through a course of civilized yelling. Then each man is going to take his civi-

SCRUBS DEFEAT HORNELL HIGH SCHOOL

Bangert and Daly Star—Scrub Capt. Keeps Goose Egg Uncracked

The Varsity Reserves showed great improvement in their second game of the season, defeating Hornell High School by a score of 12 to 0 on the Alfred field, last Tuesday afternoon.

The awkwardness and the lack of organization so noticeable in the Bolivar game seemed to have worn off to quite an extent. While on several occasions the most unpardonable mistakes were made, the Scrubs surely played a hard game.

Alfred scored first at the last part of the first session when Krone passed 10 yards to Hagar, who was then behind the goal line. McConnel failed to kick the goal. Again Alfred planted the ball where it counted, in the third quarter. Hornell had been forced to kick and the effort was feeble, the ball going out of bounds on her 30 yard line. For six successive times Bangert, at full back, was given the ball and shoved through Day's tackle and he ate the 30 yards up, 5 at a bite. Again McConnel failed to kick the goal.

Hornell played a hard, and fast game and showed fine form, a great part of which, no doubt, is due to the training given them by their principal, C. E. Green, A. U. '13. They were out weighed, however, and gave Alfred several opportunities for gain, such as when Finessy blocked his own team's punt.

Alfred was continually fined for being offside, in her eagerness to be into the fray, while Hornell offended often in the same way and continually lined up offside, the officials were blind and dumb as well, for the specta-

FRUIT SHOW AT N. Y. S. A.

Extensive Plans Made, Due to Large Fruit Year

The great abundance of fruit throughout this section this year has prompted the State School of Agriculture to make special preparations for its annual fruit show which will be held on Thursday and Friday, November 16 and 17.

In connection with the fruit display, there will be a special program on which several outside speakers will take part.

Anyone having fruit of any kind which will keep until that time, is urged to lay away several good specimens for this occasion. It will be the largest and best ever held in southern New York.

The fruit will be judged by an expert and ribbon prizes awarded. There will be no entry fees nor any charge for admission.

ALLEGHANIAN LYCEUM PUT UP IN PRESERVATIVE

Officers Elected

Fifteen members of the inactive Alleghanian Lyceum met in the office of Prof. P. E. Titsworth last Wednesday evening, determined to bury or pickle the organization.

The Lyceum is an incorporated body and as such needed a legal termination. The gathered men, however, instead of interment preferred to give the society a form of suspended animation, revise the constitution so as to allow for yearly meetings and yearly terms of office and thus await the developments of time.

All those present paid their dues and officially declared the offices of the Lyceums vacant. An election resulted in the following roll:

- President—Prof. P. E. Titsworth
- Vice Pres.—F. A. Crumb
- Critic—Prof. W. A. Titsworth
- Rec. Sec.—Edward E. Saunders '17
- Cor. Sec.—Harold B. Saunders '17
- Treasurer—Ernest H. Perkins '17
- First Marshal—Winfield F. Randolph '18
- Second Marshal—Aloysius Gaiss '18

The treasurer was instructed to collect all outstanding bills and report at a meeting a month hence.

KANAKADEA ART EDITOR BACK

Lucile Robinson Returns Late

She's back, bless her, the art editor of the Kanakadea. And from now on the the india ink bottle sleeps no more. No, she can't do all the art work; others will help of course, but she stands at the tiller; she says where to.

And the "where to," that's what makes things interesting. Art work isn't just art work, good, bad, or a little better. There's the "where to," the main idea, the purpose. It isn't a series of interesting pictures; its the expression of an idea, perhaps only one idea. That's up to the art editor, and the art editors, and the ink bottle.

"PINE CREST" SEASON OPENS

Freshmen Entertain Juniors

The weiner roast given to 1918 by 1920, Tuesday night at "Pine Crest" proved to be another of their successes, the committee, for once, having provided enough of the requisites of a good feed. The cider was excellent, flowed merrily, lending good spirits to all.

When the "dogs" had ceased to sizzle and the smoke of flashlights had raised, the merry group gathered about the fire to listen to stories by Prof. Fiske, Prof. Bennehoff, Enid White and Meredith Maxson.

COLLEGE CALENDAR PLAN

In order to eliminate misunderstandings and conflicts in the arrangement of the meetings of University organizations, a calendar has for several years been kept at the college office where meetings of all sorts involving any great number of University students could be registered as to time and place. This excellent scheme has not been as successful as it should have been and to increase its effectiveness the Student Senate has assumed its supervision.

The plan will be the same as before, only the Senate advises that all meetings of any classes or organizations be recorded at the college office. The calendar thus formulated will be published weekly in the Fiat Lux. The recording should be done at the earliest possible time, for any issue of the Fiat will not be able to publish dates for that week, registered later than Monday noon. Organizations meeting regularly should so register. It is hoped that all departments of the school will heartily co-operate in this plan.

A PROTEST

There seemed to be three officials on the field all the time while the poor reserves were battling valiantly against Hornell.

Contrary to all custom and accepted practice the head linesman was in and out among the line of scrimmage usurping the other officials' duties. The line work was forgotten and he seemed to do his best to hinder Alfred. It may be "making a man" of the scrub to fine him on every turn, but if the game is to be a farce why not call it a farce? Why charge admission for such an exhibition? If the event was scheduled to train the second team for a Varsity game, doesn't it seem reasonable that the contest should be conducted along lines similar to those of such a game? Scarce is the satisfaction for the scrubs, when they receive no student cheering, when they are not given a fair chance in their games and when they are made the butt of all kinds of jokes. A protest against such practice is here registered, for a man that is once treated unfairly by an organization never fails to look for and see further injustices in all his connections therewith.

A STUDENT FORUM

A Student Forum! The idea comes from a group of Senior scientific men. A monthly meeting where members can lead discussions on subjects with which they are acquainted and in which they are vitally interested.

The plan is excellent and its execution possible. The movement comes not from the fickle fancy of a Freshman, but from the sober sense of several Seniors, who have realized the disadvantage they are under in attempts at public expression. The benefits of such an organization, into which faculty members will be invited, are inestimable and the range of subjects covered by the varied aptitudes of the men interested is quite amazing.

The decline of the literary lyceums has often been attributed to the trend of the college man toward scientific study. If such be true the conditions are very favorable for the inauguration of this new society into a field which is now barren in Alfred.

It has been said:—

"An apple a day will keep the doctor away."

But it is now added that

"An onion a day will keep everybody away."

THE COLLEGE OF TOMORROW

Pres. Hopkins of Dartmouth
Predicts: Less Culture; Liberty
Under Law Rather Than License

In the inauguration address of the new president of Dartmouth College one gets a clear indication of the effect of the war abroad upon the educators of the United States. They, like men of other callings, realize that an era has closed and a new one has opened, and that colleges and universities, like states, trade guilds, and chambers of commerce, must be prepared to adjust themselves to new standards, to new social demands and duties, and to a more disciplined existence.

Indeed, if there is one note more than another that characterizes President Hopkins' sure-footed, sensible, yet bracing address as he takes the helm, it is that which calls for action, but action under orders, and in behalf of the many and of the state. Other recently inaugurated presidents, Dr. Meiklejohn of Amherst, for instance, also have defined the place of the American college as still cultural, and never again competitive with a university or a technical school in utilitarian education. Nor have new leaders been lacking who have insisted that, from the pedagogical, and also from the moral standpoint, there must be reduction in the curriculum, choice of fewer subjects, and more thorough study of such as are taught.

It has remained for Dartmouth's young president to declare opposition to a theory of student residence and life, often sanctioned by parents and by alumni, that emphasizes rights and not duties, student comfort and not student toil, and that minimizes the necessity of strict terms of admission and retention. So far as this policy has a theory it is individualistic and laissez faire; and for it Dartmouth will have no use, whether taught or practiced. If to meet a world demand for strong men equal to the new needs, the college must adjust its methods and ideals, it intends to do it, not by going on toward license, but by retreating toward liberty under law. It intends to have students who work and who obey. Just as scholars the world over must cease being carpingly critical and become constructively serviceable, so the student world, and especially the American, must adjust itself to new standards of obedience and to new conformities. The days of lax evasion of obligations are over, for faculty and for pupils.

Dartmouth is quite a likely place for such a deliverance to be made. Its traditions are those of rigor, obedience to duty, and plain living and high thinking, and it has had very little respect for the superficial aspects of life. Yet even Dartmouth, under the recent changes and rapid growth of the college, must have become somewhat conventional and dilettante, else President Hopkins would not have spoken as he did.

RECIPROCITY OF WANTS

Fiat to Run Trade Agency—
Notice Who Does Not Advertise

The students' wants are varied and numerous and when anyone has anything to sell, he sticks out an old shingle to attract some of the "lucre" his way. However, it is a poor game that will not work both ways, and a short sighted merchant who will not spend a cent to earn a dollar.

The students want a paper, the merchants want trade; what is the logical outcome of such a circumstance.

For helping the paper, the Fiat is going to run a trade agency.

You will be told where to trade and your common sense will tell you where not to trade. Did you ever look to see who didn't advertise with the Fiat?

ALUMNI

Miss Myra Brown '09, of Hornell spent the week-end in Alfred as the guest of Miss Ruth Rogers '09.

James Austin's '16, address as given in the Fiat in the first issue was incorrect. He resides at 9 John St., Worcester, Mass.

Waldo E. Rosebush '09, who has been in Wisconsin in charge of recruiting in the state troops for some time, has been ordered back to his company on the border, in which he is lieutenant.

The portrait of James Whitcomb Riley has been hung on the wall of the main room. This is a gift of Bobbs-Merrill and Co., and was presented to the library in celebration of Riley week.

More than one hundred volumes of bound magazines have been received from the bindery and will at an early date be catalogued and prepared for the shelves.

Three boxes of books and manuscripts have been received from New York. These come to us from the library of the late Charles Henry Greene.

ASSEMBLY

Miss Binns—Subject "Paradise Regained"

One of the most interesting of Assembly addresses was given to the student body, Wednesday, Oct. 18, by Miss Elsie Binns. Miss Binns chose as her subject "Paradise Regained" in which she took her hearers to a "Christmas in southern Virginia." She pictured the real mountaineers, their rough, two-roomed cabins, papered with newspapers, lighted by small, insufficient windows and heated by huge open fire places. At Norah, West Virginia, the Episcopal church has a mission, which with one night a week for choir practice and one for games, furnishes the social life of the settlement. This place Miss Binns visited during the Christmas of 1915 and helped unpack the boxes of presents which came from the people of Alfred and elsewhere and which made up the first real Christmas tree many of the old mountaineers had ever seen. Nine miles from Norah, in a mining camp, another mission is in charge of a deaconess. Here Christmas was celebrated and on a later day the celebration was carried up into the mountains to Sandy Ridge, where one hundred, men, women and children gathered to share the festivities of a real Christmas.

It was these people of real sympathy, real interest and real tact, living a life stripped of the artificial and the conventional, that experienced a "Paradise Regained."

BONAVENTURE GAME, MOST SEVERE OF SEASON

Coach Making Team As Fit As Machinery

Were the Fiat able to get Coach Sweetland to talk for publication, in reference to the St. Bonaventure game scheduled Friday at Wellsville, his opinion would probably be summed up in the short expression, "Alfred's most severe test of the season." One conspicuous feature in the preparation for the Bona contest is the determination not to underestimate the Varsity's opponent's strength. At the same time it has been difficult to form any judgment as to the relative prowess of the two teams. It has alone been possible to find out that St. Bona has "come back" from her relapse last year and that she feels she can take Alfred into camp.

Coach Sweetland returned Saturday and beginning with last night inaugurated the most grueling practice the Varsity has had this year. While he does not feel that the relaxation last week during his absence, when light work outs and new plays characterized the practices, was other than beneficial, he knows that not to give them unusually severe work the remaining time would be disastrous. It is probably true that this severe work will send the eleven warriors into the game in the best condition they have been this year, and St. Bona will feel the strength of an Alfred team aroused as they have never before known.

SUNDAY CONGREGATION ENTERTAINED

The members of the Sunday congregation were entertained at a most pleasant party in Academy Hall, last evening.

GLEE CLUB STARTS WORK

Methods of Coming "House Cleaning" Explained

Did you hear the melody that came from Kenyon Memorial Hall last Thursday afternoon, Well, that is a very poor sample of what is coming later. It was the first regular practice of the Glee Club, the first attempt at any real work.

Thirty men joined in the essay and these are the flower of the fifty-nine who came to Director Wingate for a try out.

Two clubs will be selected soon and drilled on the same material so that a substitute will always be ready for any disabled first club singer, and so that the new men can be gaining experience for their work next year.

To avoid any misunderstanding and any "soreness" when Director Wingate begins to clean house, he wishes the following to be generally known: A good singer will not necessarily be the man, the Club wants; while a man must be able to carry a tune and hold his pitch, the ensemble work of the Club will cover up any minor mistakes. But the man who comes late to practice, the man who assumes the "attitude of indifference" during rehearsal, the man who lacks poise and the man who through vulgar or thoughtless habits would carry a poor impression of Alfred, to those with whom the trip will bring him in contact, will be the man absorbed by the vacuum cleaner.

Faults that will be hidden in the crowd will be pardoned but those that cannot thus be clothed and those that will crop out in the personal acquaintance of these Alfred representatives with the good families who will entertain them on their trips, will be markers for judgment. Remember—the Club man is working for Alfred every minute he is on a trip—the best all around worker wins.

"NEW SPIRIT" STILL ACTIVE

Sophomore Women Entertain Freshmen Women

That the "new spirit" of the class of 1919 is going to prove a permanent institution is borne evidence to in the very pleasant evening's entertainment given the Freshmen women by the women of 1919 last Thursday evening.

About sixty were gathered to participate in an "indoor track meet." After the exhausted athletes were sufficiently recovered from their exertion to enjoy such, all were taken into the old Alfredian room, under the light of wax dips they were served to refreshments.

The Misses Binns, Fosdick, Porter, Weed and Mrs. Middaugh acted as judges of the contest.

SCHOLARSHIP CUP PRESENTED TOMORROW

1918ers Receive Cup For Second Time at Assembly

At Assembly tomorrow morning the Scholarship cup which is given each year by the Twentieth Century Alumni Club to the one of the lower classes with the highest scholarship record will for the second time be presented to the Class of 1918. The slogan of "quality not quantity" which this class adopted because of her small numbers, is again lived up to.

The trophy was given for the first time in 1913, the classes winning are:

- In 1913 by Class of 1915
- In 1914 by Class of 1916
- In 1915 by Class of 1918
- In 1916 by Class of 1918.

L. C. Randolph, D. D., pastor of the Alfred S. D. B. Church from 1900-1910 and author of the words of our college song "Hail to Thee, Alfred" was in Alfred to take part in the Centennial celebration last Saturday and Sunday. THE STEINHEIM

Instructions for Visiting, Methods of Cataloging

Visitors are welcome. Ring the bell at the front door, and we will open it for you. Please leave your name in the book for registration of guests; and refrain from leaving it elsewhere about the building. The Laboratory is not open to visitors, but class room visitors are welcome provided they come and go at regular intermission periods.

Smoking is prohibited within the Steinheim. Don't bring your dog; he can't come in, and if left outside, damages the door. Make your children be quiet, for they disturb classes. Don't handle the specimens.

The front entrance is on the south-west corner of the Steinheim. The walk is on the south side. The large Gothic window faces due west. The Laboratory is built on the eastern end of the Museum. All on the first floor is designated by I.

The stairs to the second floor rise from the east side of the main room, at the right of the entrance to the Laboratory, and the second floor is designated by II. The stairs to the third floor open on the south side of the front rotunda and the third floor is designated III.

The south rotunda I is given over to a Departmental Library.

The north rotunda I is the Museum Library, and office.

Since our collections are increasing constantly we have to change their order very often. The numbers given do not change, however, and where a visitor is in doubt as to the correctness of a specimen or label, it will be found that they bear the same number. The line following the name and number will designate the place where the specimen will be found in the building.

There are two divisions of the work in the museum, each under a separate head and with a catalog of its own. First—Archaeology, or the study of the Works and Achievements of Mankind.

Second—Natural, Science, or the works of Nature. There are duplicate numbers of course, but the fields are so different that they can not be confused.

CLAUSEN '17, FOOTLIGHT CLUB PRESIDENT

Play to be Given for Fiat

The members of the Footlight Club held their first meeting last Wednesday evening, and elected the following officers for the year:

- Harold Clausen '17, Pres.
- Hazel Parker '17, Vice Pres.
- Mary Saunders '17, Sec.
- Harold Nash '18, Treas.

In addition to the regular play given during the year the Club intends to stage a play for the benefit of the Fiat Lux.

The activities of the Club were confined last year to the production of two plays, "Tommy's Wife" which was given at the Fiat Fair and the grand production of Bennett and Knoblauch's masterpiece "Milestones" which appeared at Commencement time.

The Club also started a fund for the equipment of a stage for the proposed Davis Gymnasium, by giving the sum of fifty dollars to the Board of Trustees on Commencement Day.

Daly with a long run from an intercepted pass and many fine tackles to his credit, ranked with Hagar and McConnell in making the best showings. Krone saved the day by overhauling Clancy, who had run 60 yards with an intercepted pass, on the one-half yard line. Alfred held one play and on the next recovered a fumble, gaining the right to the ball on the 25 yard line.

Richardson and Talbot were Hornell's strongest players.

DETERMINE YOUR OCCUPATION

lege catalog, and it is hoped that they will soon be printed and in the hands of every student. The Bureau, composed of Profs. Clarke, Norwood and P. E. Titsworth, would be glad to offer farther suggestions, and to talk over with any student their vocational problems. Give the Bureau a trial. It has proved itself of value heretofore, perhaps it can help you. At least, determine your occupation for yourself, do not let circumstances or a torpid liver do it for you.

Equally does the Bureau stand ready to help those who know they want to teach. For seniors, the open season for job-hunting starts about February 1. To each succeeding class it is a new and exciting experience. It is well to gain the counsel of some one who has been through the mill before beginning a campaign. Every year the Bureau counsels with embryo teachers and in many cases it has been able to locate candidates directly without the intervention of teachers' agencies, thus having saved to each senior class hundreds of dollars of agency fees. The Bureau's services, made possible by contributions of the younger alumni, is free. If you want to know more about this whole proposition, you have a tongue in your head. Use it!

WANTED

"Woman, college graduate, arts course. Two or more years experience in teaching, part of it in High School. Stenographer, fair speed in taking and typing. Personality to assure success in our follow up or promotive correspondence and in meeting educational people who visit our office to examine our textbooks."

The above is a request which we, through President Davis, received last week from one of the leading publishing houses of America. It is only suggestive of the qualifications of persons and the quality of positions for which we are occasionally asked to recommend persons. Are you prepared to fill them?

Superb Exhibit of FALL CLOTHES

The HART SCHAFFNER & MARX styles are here for fall. The famous Varsity Fifty Five suits show a more marked waistline; the buttons on the coat front are placed higher; lapels are a trifle shorter; new ideas in waistcoats.

The belt-back variations of Varsity Fifty Five will interest dressy young men; some of the "belters" are boucle breasted—smarter features than you ever saw before.
