Forty-three awarded diplomas at Alfred-Almond

By DAVID L. SNYDER

ALMOND—Forty-three members of the Alfred-Almond Central School Class of 2011 were awarded high school diplomas at the school’s 72nd annual commencement exercises held Saturday afternoon in the high school gymnasium.

The Class of 2011 processed into the gym to the traditional “Pomp and Circumstance” (Elgar) performed by the Senior High Symphonic Band, conducted by Todd Bialecki.

Class members Leah Crosby, Jonathan Mix and Zachary Wilcox sang the “Star Spangled Banner,” followed by Leah singing the alma mater.

The celebratory crowd was welcomed by A-A School Superintendent Richard Calkins.

Kert Decker presented the Patrick Fasano Memorial Sportsmanship Award to Seth Cornell.

Matthew McAneney then presented the Paul M. Sharrett Memorial Scholarship to Anthony Ordway and Mary Hillman. He then presented the Alfred-Almond Teachers’ Association Award to Renee Karr, and the J. Michael Breyer Memorial Scholarship to Lucas Bayus.

Ann Rossington presented the Andrew Rossington Scholarship, in memory of her father, to Cody Lippincott.

Mrs. Carol Prigmore presented the Bruce and Sue Ordway and Mary Hillman. He then presented the Paul M. Sharrett Memorial Scholarship to Anthony Ordway and Mary Hillman. He then presented the Alfred-Almond Teachers’ Association Award to Renee Karr, and the J. Michael Breyer Memorial Scholarship to Lucas Bayus.

The Class of 2011 presented a total of $3,000 in scholarships to sixteen members of the Class of 2011 at the 72nd annual commencement exercises Saturday afternoon.

Lee A. Ryan, Alumni Association president, and Kathy Snyder, treasurer, presented $25,000 scholarships to the following: Lunden Kert; Karr, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Weinar, Almond; Matthew Lehman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Steve Crosby, Almond; and Robert, (AA ‘75), to honor the memory of Mrs. Roberts, who was an orthopedic surgeon with the Geisinger Medical Center in Danville, PA, who wanted to honor the memory of two members of the Class of 1984.

Irena was the second recipient of the Rachael Amato/Tom Murphy Health Care Scholarship, which was established last year by Dr. Gles Fethman, (AA ‘84), an orthopedic surgeon with the Geisinger Medical Center in Danville, PA, who wanted to honor the memory of two members of the Class of 1984.

Jonathan Mix was the sixth recipient of the Janaka Whittaker Pullos Fine Arts Scholarship, which was established in 2006 by Mrs. Pullos’ sons, Bill, (AA ‘73), and Robert, (AA ’75), to honor their mother, a 1948 graduate of Anderson University, Anderson, IN, for her outstanding contributions to music education and enjoyment in this area for decades.

More than $3,000 will also be distributed to twenty-four AACS undergraduates to assist them in attending sports, fine arts and technology summer camps.

The Jim Baker Sports Camp award was established twenty-four years ago in memory of Jim Baker, (AA ’61), a three-year letter AACS athlete, who was a member of the AACS executive board prior to his passing.

A Viet Nam vet who served with the USS Franklin D. Roosevelt, Jim later pursued a career in law enforcement, serving as a police officer for the Village of Alfred and finally as a New York State Trooper.

The AA AA board established the Arlene Champlin Roberts Fine Arts Technology summer camp award last year, honoring the memory of Mrs. Roberts, who was the Alumni Association secretary for decades, writing and sending out the newsletter, maintaining the data base, and in general, serving as the “hub” of Alumni Association activities.

Recipients of the summer camp awards are: Carlin Cook, Markus Ernest, Logan Calkins, Connor Calkins, Hunter Kolewicz, Dan Wooghter, Paige Schmidt, Lily Cook, Emily Kokot, Hannah Henderson, Savannah Lee, Chris Cook, Bailey Conner, Alex Gray, Levi Bayus, Colin Johnson, Lucas Cornell, Kaleigh Kenney, Lukas Gray, Taylor Godshalk, Carolyn Anderson, Trevor Kokot, Kristen Williams, and Corrigan Herbert.

The 36-page AA Alumni Association newsletter, The Blue and Gold, was mailed to more than 3,000 AACS alumni the first of June. Included in the newsletter is a form which can be used to pay dues, make reservations for the July 30 annual banquet, and make donations to the various scholarship and camp funds.

Copies of the newsletter are available at various businesses in Alfred and Almond.

Try some fried zucchini blossoms

I usually like to explore zucchini recipes during the summer. But before I get into that, here’s something that caught my eye this week in the Bon Appetit magazine. Apparently, you can buy the blossoms at farmers’ markets this time of year.

Fried Zucchini Blossoms

1 1/4 cups flour 1 tsp. Kosher salt
1 tsp. salt 1/2 tsp. pepper
Zucchini blossoms (stamen removed)

In a large pot, heat about 2 inches oil over medium heat until a deep fry thermometer reads 350 degrees. Combine flour and salt in a medium bowl, then whisk in beer until almost smooth. Some small lumps are welcomed—don’t overwhisk or you’ll deflate the batter. One by one, dredge the blossoms in batter, shaking off excess; gently lay them in the oil without crowding the pan. Cook, flip & pinge once with a slotted spoon, until golden brown, 2 to 3 minutes total. Transfer to paper towels to drain. Sprinkle with sea salt and devour while hot.

The VMCA was founded in 1883 and incorporated as an official YMCA in 1910. The current building was constructed in 1948. The new facility sits on 16 acres and will function as a multi-use community center featuring sports, health & fitness programs, and arts & culture activities.
Keeping the right on marriage is the right thing to do. This past Sunday, a minister reminded state senators that God, not man, defines marriage as “guilty,” and that man can never redefine marriage to suit his own desires.

These are critical to the proper functioning of the electrical system, air conditioning, power steering and the cooling system.

Inspect your vehicle

Letter to the Editor:

Dear Editor,

If millions of people hit the road this summer, two things will be on their minds - getting to their destination safely and the high price of gas.

To avoid the inconvenience and potential federal and state hazards of breaking down miles away from home, The Alfred Sun recommends a pre-trip vehicle inspection to make sure your vehicle is safe for travel. Getting more miles to the gallon.

Schedule a tune-up to help the vehicle maintain a balance of power and fuel economy.

Check the brake system and make sure the battery connection is tight and corrosion-free.

Check filters and fluids, including engine oil, power steering, brake and transmission, as well as windshield washer and the air filter. Dirty air filters can waste gas and cause the engine to lose power.

Check the tires, including tire pressure and tread. Unsuitable tires are critical to the vehicle’s fuel economy and uneven wear on the tires indicates a problem with wheel alignment. Tires should also be checked for bulges and separated treads.

Check that the gas cap is not damaged, loose or missing. Gas from spilling or evaporating.

Also, by avoiding aggressive driving and excessive idle time, drivers can keep their fuel use low and make more money for summer fun.

To help you drive smart and save money, visit www.carcare.org and check out the free digital Car Care Guide.

Sincerely,

Mel McGinnis

BENEFITING FROM GOVERNMENT

In a recent editorial, the author seems to think that he got absolutely no benefit from the government or its many different programs. He explained that he did not receive welfare, Medicaid, or other programs. He emphasized his own individualism and pointed to his obvious success.

The idea of any individual or entity having to rely on “charities” or for the government to provide any funding or emotional support is repugnant. He pointed to his obvious success and decided that he gained his considerable wealth and success entirely through his own efforts, talents and skills. He contrasted himself with those who are simply deprived of the opportunity to succeed.

Welfare, Medicaid, HEAP and other social welfare programs are designed to help those who are truly in need. The question of who should contribute to or benefit society. He and those who share his perspective want to eliminate most of the social welfare programs and get back to the way they view as the historic and limited proper functions of government.

While I largely agree with this perspective, there is another way of looking at these programs. Are they such a bad thing? A stable and safe society that encourages people to work hard, make investments, innovate and take risks. Government has contributed to this by providing services like policing, fire protection, making markets, protecting patents, building roads, educating the young, and training both young and old. Nations and societies that have failed to provide these services to their citizens have generally been far less prosperous and successful.

The public benefits from various governmental functions in different ways and to different degrees. Most of us will acknowledge that we benefit from public roads and schools. However, it is less clear how we benefit from the banking, financial and industrial systems. Is that evidence that we do not need government regulation of banking? Or is it evidence that we need better regulation?

When we purchase something we buy “bread” but do we ever discuss the quality of flour? How are we supposed to make informed purchases of life saving medicine? How do we ensure that the quality of food and drink in our communities is up to par? How do we ensure that the food we buy is not contaminated? How do we ensure the quality of the environment?

The answer to all these questions is to have strong governmental regulations of various kinds. The public benefits from these. These are important issues, but I am not sure there is a single “right answer.” Those who favor reducing taxes and cutting spending believe individual responsibility and self-help. By cutting social welfare programs the need to pay more taxes to support these programs will also be reduced.

Those debating these issues typically seem to miss each other’s points. The examples and arguments seem like comparisons of apples and oranges. The debate reminds me of the proverbial blind men describing an elephant. What you “see” depends largely on where you are looking and what you are experiencing. What do you think about these issues?
Wingate Memorial Carillon Recital Series planned

ALFRED—Alfred University will once again offer a summer series of carillon performances for five weeks during the month of July and first week of August. The 2011 Wingate Memorial Summer Carillon Recital Series will run on Mondays from 7 to 7:30 p.m. at the Davis Memorial Carillon on campus.

Admission is free and the performances go on rain or shine. Guests may sit on the lawn adjacent to the carillon. Feel free to bring along chairs and blankets to enhance your listening pleasure. This summer’s featured carillonneurs and the dates of their programs are:

- Monika Kazmierczak from Gdansk, Poland, July 5.
- Tetsu Tako from Dusseldorf, Germany, July 12.

Her recital will include works by Bach, Mozart, Karlowicz, Szymanowski and others. She took first and second place in two international carillon competitions and was a finalist of the Queen Fabiola competition. Kazmierczak has performed in Lithuania, France, Netherlands, Denmark, Ireland, and Belgium in ateach recital at the Music Academy in Gdansk.

The Wingate Memorial Carillon Recital Series honors Dr. Ray Winthrop Wingate (1886-1968), who spent a professor of music at Alfred University for 56 years. After the installation of the bells in 1937, he was appointed the University carillonneur and continued in the position until his death. He arranged more than 5,000 selections for the carillon and composed nine suites. The Margaret Merrill and Ray W. Wingate Foundation fund the series.

The carillon at Alfred University is made of a double row of rounded oak levers, called batons (which are stuck with loosely woven hemp and roped oak and bronze wire and男女 stresses the display by the carillon has information on its history. Guests are welcome to climb the 69 steps to the top to enjoy the view and watch the guests artists at work.

AU carillonneur taking part in celebration of founding of NA Guild of Carillonneurs

ALFRED—Laurel Buckwalter, Alfred University carillonneur and technical specialist in the Performing Arts Department, is taking part in a special recital during the Bloomberg Field Congress at Kirk of the Hills Presbyterian Church in Bloomfield Hill, Mich. The Congress, June 27-

Trevor Workman of England, Abbenes, and Bernard Winnemian, “to think that the tsunami hit and the small community would have been their food and it would have been their food and it would have weakened their homes.”

Adrian Gebruehr of Ireland, Trevor Workman of England, John Wildmann of Frederick, Md., and Al Heebner of Dartmouth. The team will divide a song into five parts and slide on and off the bench in order to have 75 players in one recital.

In addition to recitals, the concerts consist of concerts, meetings, exhibits, tours, workshops, presentations and dinners.

The guide to the carillonneurs and carillons is the album published by the carillonneurs that makes a sense of place.

Allison said that the project was meant to convey a sense of peace and hope. “We sold cranes at the Whitesville garage sale and in school and walking around town. We came to Wellsville to the farmer’s market to work from 2 till 6 to sell more.”

Another scout, Emma, was pleased to learn to use chop sticks for thinking day. She also liked learning to fold the paper cranes.

“It took a little while to learn. Allison learned first but we all caught on. There are different ways to fold a crane. We worked at meetings and at school. We taught friends to fold and they helped us. We folded on the wall and from the top of The Lion King in Rochester. Sometimes we used special paper but sometimes we used regular paper but you have to be very careful to use a perfect crease to start,”

Omaeke said, “I folded on a flight to and from Florida and my Mom helped me. We made 95 cranes on the plane. I feel like I’m actually helping people and that the people will appreciate me. I think and hope they will spend this money on building houses.”

Mackenzie said, “It took a lot of work.”

When asked why she worked so hard for strangers she said, “If something bad happens and people need help, you should just help. I folded 20 more at home and I’m going to try to sell them in town. All together we have over 1,400 cranes.”

The girls in Whitesville met their goal of folding 4,000 but a troop in Texas read about their effort on the Girl Scout website and expanded the project when they sent 400 folded cranes to Whitesville. Then another troop in New York sent 20 more pushing the total 1,445.

The girls have been at this for a very long time but still have 300 cranes available for $1 each. Some cranes are attached to pipe cleaners, some are simple birds and others are strung in a row of 5 or more in butterfly-like colors.

Will you help them? Stop by the Whitesville Creative Arts Center coffee bar to get your own or call one of the troop leaders and place an order. Marcia VanVlack can be reached at 607-356-3414 orCUU Beckhorn at 607-356-5154.
When I told one of my friends about the walk I was planning on leading at Foster Lake on June 21, she wrote back that she thought “a summer solstice walk sounds very Druidic...I’m getting a picture of you in a long cloak with a deep hood and a big gnarled oak staff.”

There were no hoods or long cloaks...but we did have a congenial group of nine people to celebrate the longest day of the year with a walk around Foster Lake. Despite a few mosquitoes, it was a spectacular evening. At the parking lot, we had Gray Catbird, Song Sparrow, Cedar Waxwing, Chipping Sparrow, a noisy House Wren, and we heard a Purple Finch and a Red-breasted Nuthatch, as well as the first of many singing White-throated Sparrows. Two families of Great Crested Flycatchers were often sitting on eggs in January and American Goldfinches occasionally still cared for young in the nest. So it was an early October. There is even some emerging evidence that some birds nest in their historic nesting territories up north and have headed south. Others stay for this breeding season, and early nesters are already finished nesting. We also heard some young grackles by the water’s edge. Near the campground on the east side of the lake, I was buzzed by a Ruby-throated Humminbird and we had a nice assortment of American Robins, Common Yellowthroats, and a Chestnut-sided Warbler. We also heard the ‘tweet’ of a Rose-breasted Grosbeak.

Further toward the south lake, we heard several Ovenbirds, a Golden-crowned Kinglet, the WEEP! call of a Great Crested Flycatcher, Brown Creeper, Dark-eyed Junco’s and a Yellow-rumped Warbler singing, as a Barn Swallow caught insects out of the air. We left Thich Nhat Hanh having seen and heard some young grackles by the water.

There was no veery choirs at dusk and that disappointed me, (nor did we hear the Barred Owl that called when we finished our walk last year) but we did have a nice chorus of robins and Ovenbirds. The biggest treat was seeing a Hooded Merganser out on the lake at dusk.

Early July is a less frantic period for breeding birds. Some early nesters are already finished for this breeding season, and have headed south. Others stay and have repeat nestings. I kept track of a House Wren who actually had five nestings in one season.

It’s a long season overall, with Great Lakes birds like the Great Horned Owls often sitting on eggs in January and American Goldfinches occasionally still caring for young in the nest as an early October. There is even some emerging evidence that some birds nest in their historic nesting territories up north and have headed south. Others stay for this breeding season, and early nesters are already finished nesting. We also heard some young grackles by the water’s edge. In the midst of potential harm, he offered an appropriate response. Though he was inwardly upset and wanted to react with anger, he responded in a way that reflected his rigorous monastic training. Although we are sitting and breathing, we are not robots. We are wounded, why don’t you spend your time with them?” Taken by heart, his words have guided my practice ever since. But what could he say? What might be an appropriate response?

That question resonates throughout the Zen tradition. As the Zen priest Norman Fischer observes in the midst of potential harm, he offered an appropriate response. Though he was inwardly upset and wanted to react with anger, he responded in a way that reflected his rigorous monastic training.

That question resonates throughout the Zen tradition. As the Zen priest Norman Fischer observes in the context of a summer solstice walk, “it all depends. It all depends on the particular poem one happens to be trying to write.” And from the vantage point of Zen teachings, the poem often reflects the state of our mind, our relationship to the goal, our relationship to others, and our experience in the present moment.

Imagine that you will have a difficult interaction later today. If you are not mindful of your intention, you might respond to the situation with a verbal or physical action—perhaps a remark that could hurt someone’s feelings, or a statement that is rude or aggressive.

Although we are sitting and breathing, we are not robots. We are wounded, why don’t you spend your time with them?” Taken by heart, his words have guided my practice ever since. But what could he say? What might be an appropriate response?

That question resonates throughout the Zen tradition. As the Zen priest Norman Fischer observes in the context of a summer solstice walk, “it all depends. It all depends on the particular poem one happens to be trying to write.” And from the vantage point of Zen teachings, the poem often reflects the state of our mind, our relationship to the goal, our relationship to others, and our experience in the present moment.

Imagine that you will have a difficult interaction later today. If you are not mindful of your intention, you might respond to the situation with a verbal or physical action—perhaps a remark that could hurt someone’s feelings, or a statement that is rude or aggressive.

In the midst of potential harm, he offered an appropriate response. Though he was inwardly upset and wanted to react with anger, he responded in a way that reflected his rigorous monastic training. Although we are sitting and breathing, we are not robots. We are wounded, why don’t you spend your time with them?” Taken by heart, his words have guided my practice ever since. Bard Brothers, Chris Swanson to play at Angelica café

ANGELICA—Black-Eyed Susan Acoustic Café welcomes back Tim Berardi and Damian De Marco – The Bard Brothers for an evening of progressive folk, acoustic rock, and alternative pop music on Friday, July 1.

Chris Swanson performs Saturday, July 2. Chris is well-known in the area for his evocative songwriting and accomplished guitar work. These two-hour shows begin at 7:30 p.m. There is no cover charge, two-hour shows begin at 7:30 p.m. There is no cover charge, and reservations for dinner are suggested. Danielle De Marco of Andover and Tim Berardi of Hornell have been performing together for a number of years as The Bard Brothers at such venues as The Italian Villa, Club 57, and Day by Day Café. They’ve also played at Starry Night Café in Rochester; Sing Harbor and Maloney’s Pub in Hammondspoint; and Chapters Café in Bath.

Musically, The Bard Brothers have been influenced by a diverse set of bands, from Steely Dan to Elvis Costello to the Beatles to Radiohead toCCR to Spoon, and beyond. Their own style might be described as progressive folk or acoustic rock or even alternative pop. They’ve recently finished their fourth studio album, an original material (“Quarto”).

Don Ash of Black-Eyed Susan Acoustic Café comments, “I’m pleased that The Bard Brothers don’t sound like anyone else. I think all musicians, their sound is influenced by the other artists they appreciate. I guess their innovation comes from adding their talents and insights to this mix. A friend cautioned me when I said some of their songs are a little dark. That’s not a bad thing. I think their unique flavor makes them a local treasure.” Learn more about their music at www.bardbrothers.com.

On Saturday, July 2 Black-Eyed Susan presents Chris Swanson of Mt. Morris. Chris has been performing on guitar for more than 35 years. His songwriting and playing has been influenced by the music of James Taylor, Neil Young, Norah Jones and Bob Dylan. That’s the type of music he writes and performs. Hearing him live is something quite memorable, and you fully appreciate what he delivers. He is the kind of player who compels you to listen to every note and every word. He has inspired other musicians with his competence, confidence and humility. Listen to Chris perform live and you will be affected; you will be moved.

Chris has played at such venues as the North Shore Grill on Grapen Lake, the Big Tree Inn and The Statesman in Geneseo. He dismisses his cover band as Black-Eyed Susan. www.swannynude.tripod.com/408.html

Angelica to host 4th annual Lavender Festival

ANGELICA—The fourth annual Lavender Festival will be held Saturday, July 2nd, in Angelica’s Park Circle from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. What started out as a vision of lavender growing all over Allegany County from a few local women to stimulate new business built around lavender products, agritourism, and pick-your-own farms, has now become a thriving project with no end to its growth in sight.

The agri-tourism industry is relatively undeveloped in New York State compared to other states and countries, and represents a real opportunity for economic development in Allegany County. The NYSAgritourism and Education Program creates opportunities for Empire State farmers to promote their operations and attract travelers to visit their farms. The NY Agri Trail, now which covers 22 counties. Enticed by the popularity of lavender and the widely attended festivals in 2008-2010, previous vendors and new vendors are signing up to participate this year. Locally handmade Art, Pottery, Jewelry, Food, Personal Care Products, Lavender Wine...all inspired by Lavender. As it did last year, the Laven- der Festival will join the Angelica Farmer’s Market in the Park Circle, promising great produce and plants from the market’s vendors. Look for Normandie Farm and Vandermark Farm to be selling Lavender nursery plants. Make sure you order your buckwheat pancakes sprinkled with Lavender Buds early in the festival, and don’t forget to pick up a bottle of Lavender White Wine from the Angelica Winery! For further information, please call Marika Burke at 685-466-3001 or e-mail information@pro-jeetlavender.com.

Andover plans tour of buildings with historical importance

ANDOVER—The Andover Historical Society is sponsoring a tour of buildings in Andover of architectural and historical importance at 2 p.m. Saturday, July 2, starting at the Andover Li- brary. The library is one of many throughout the country that was helped by the Andrew Carnegie Foundation.

From there, the tour will go to the Andover Presbyterian Church on Greenwood Street. It is a 19th century building that boasts of an all wood ceiling. Two restored brick 19th cen- tury homes will be included in the tour. Cookies and lemonade will be served at the Mustard Seed Inn for a short stop before the final stop – the Hann House. This house was part of the 19th cen- tury underground railroad.

The cost of the tour is $5 with proceeds going to the Andover Library. Tickets can be pur- chased at the Emporium, Main Street, Andover; Hair Care, Main Street, Alfred; or by call- ing (607) 478-5329.

Dee Adams and Her Band to play Wellsville July 8

WELLSVILLE—Dee Adams and Her Band will be performing on Friday, July 8th, at the Wellsville Creative Arts Center. Show starts at 8:00pm. Tickets are $14. Member tickets are $12. Tickets may be purchased online at www.WellsvilleCreativeArts.com or at the Arts Center Coffee House. For more information visit the website or call 585-995-3000.

Award winning, Buffalo-based singer/songwriter, Dee Adams has been likened to some of the most influential women in music - women like Bonnie Raitt, Edie Brickell, Jonatha Brooke and Sheryl Crow. She writes and sings punchy, poetic, acoustically-driven songs drenched in hooks and harmonies, with a warm, rich and honeyed voice.

Diverse as well as particular about the songs she plays, Dee not only plays solo, but with her own full rock band, sings vocal jazz standards with The Billy Baroo Jazz Ensemble, and sings backing harmonies with several Buffalo based bands. Dee Adams & Her Band is a twangy, organic-yet-electrifying version of the acoustic songs she's written, blended with slightly obscure but tasteful covers such as Tom Waits’ “Alice”, and Patty Griffin’s “Flaming Red” to name a few.

Another session of Weight Watchers “at work” will begin at 12 noon Monday, July 7 at the MacKenzie Conference Room at Alfred State College campus. The 12-week “at-work” sessions are open to the entire community and cost $144. Payment MUST be received by June 30. For more info, contact: Beth Turner at 607-587-4605 or turnerbe@alfredstate.edu or turnerbe@alfredstate.edu

Toddler Time is held from 10:30 to 11 a.m. every Saturday in July and August at the Belmont Free Library. There are stories, songs and activities, no registration is required. For more information, call 585-268-5308.

Meetings of the Concerned Citizens of Allegany County are held at 6:30 p.m. on the second and fourth Mondays of each month at Our Community Group in Houghton. All interested area residents are invited to attend.

The Rushford Concert Band, an 180-year-old Allegany County tradition, will perform concerts every at 7:30 p.m. every Saturday evening from July 2 through August 27 on the lawn in front of the Rushford Town Hall.

Alfred-Almond Central School District voters approved the purchase of a 66-passenger school bus at a cost not to exceed $101,815, a $285-119 vote margin. An increase of support for the Almond Library and Alfred Box of Books by $2,000 was approved in a 280-125 vote, and Vicki Westacott was re-elected to a second five-year term on the Board of Education by receiving 266 votes. She was unopposed.

Nine-year-old Janee Sylor of Fillmore testified recently of the healing of her eyesight a month after she had received prayer at the healing ministry of Dortha James at the United Methodist Church, Madison Street, Wellsville. The daughter of Stephanie and Edwin Sylor had complained of headaches and blurred vision. She was diagnosed with eyesight of 20/200, almost legally blind. A month after the prayer, she went to Rochester for surgery but found it wasn’t needed. With glasses, her eyesight was now 20/20.

Free healing sessions are held at 12:30 p.m. the second Sunday of each month and all are welcome.

Students of the Wellsville Middle School on Friday, June 30 washed vehicles of faculty and staff as part of the Kiwanis Community Service Day. The students raised $125 to help the families in Allegany County. For more information or to donate to the Red Cross, visit 112 N. Main Street, Wellsville or call 585-593-1531. In The Alfred Sun, 50 and 10 Years Ago

Compiled by DAVID L. SNYDER
Alfred Sun Editor and Publisher

FIFTY YEARS AGO, JUNE 29, 1961

Walter C. Hinkle, President of Alfred College, and the Agricultural and Technical Institute since 1960, has been named President of the college by the State University of New York, effective July 1, 1961, at a total salary of $15,380. The appointment was made Thursday, June 22, and will become effective July 1. Hinkle succeeds Paul B. Ormsby, who was named President of Alfred College by the Board of Regents last January. Ormsby, a 1950 graduate of Alfred College, has been a member of the Agricultural and Technical Institute faculty since 1950. In 1959, he was named President of the college, a position he held until his appointment by the Board of Regents to the presidency of Alfred College.

ALFRED area residents will again have the opportunity to participate in programs of the Alfred University Summer Theatre, according to an announcement made this week by Dr. John W. Jacox, President of Alfred College. The summer theatre will be held in the Tinklepauge backyward June 27th. They were assisted by Greg Ormsby, who was one of the key figures in the planning of the event. The event was planned by the Alfred University Summer Theatre and featured by Alfred College. It was a great success, and the event was planned by the Alfred University Summer Theatre.

One day last week Dr. and Mrs. Clifford Myers, Gretta Augar in the Adirondacks…Dr. Burton Crandall, son of Alfred Station, recently retired as director of bands at Alfred State College, will direct the band and coordinate activities at Alfred College. In his new position, he will be assisted by Richard Lester, who has been appointed as assistant director of instrumental activities at Alfred State College, will be assistant conductor and perform some of the solo solos.

A study of the first college level ceramic art curriculum in the United States that also had a parallel ceramic art curriculum in the United States that also had a parallel curriculum in the United States is written by Melvin H. Bernstein, emeritus professor of English at Alfred University. In Art and Design at Alfred, a Chronicle of a College, published by the American Art Association, Mr. Bernard Harrap traces the development of the school and its effects on American society by examining the artistic, intellectual, and social skills of the school's graduates.

AS said to have been believed to have a small tornado touched down in Alfred Station, Monday, June 16 at about 7 p.m., uprooting and blowing over trees at several locations. Mike Snyder, who lives on the Depot Road, reported 12 to 13 trees down, including 4 uprooted. One that was uprooted laid a hole in his yard that was four feet wide and three feet deep. Several trees fell behind the Bicycle Man shop, falling on the roof. Large limbs were ripped off trees elsewhere in the hamlet. Electric service was lost for about four hours in the area as a result of an electric pole being damaged…

The 26th annual Alfred-Almond Alumni Dinner will be held in the Dining Hall at 6:30 p.m., Thursday, July 19. Dancing will start at 9:30 p.m. with the band “West.” Classes to be honored are the Class of 1951. A total of 192 alumnae’s guests will be Mrs. Eloise Baker, Mrs. Doris Paine, Miss Pauline Sanford, Mrs. Helen Wirt and Mrs. Frances Coleman. These ladies were former elementary teachers at ACS. The new alumni officers are Kay Snyder, President; Arlene Roberts (1950), Secretary; Sally Harrington, Treasurer. Above, the New York State Supreme Court of Appeals vacated the decision of the State Board of Education, which had ruled that the Alfred College was entitled to receive the funds for the construction of a new dormitory.

Vital first Houghton grad selected for Lily Fellow

HOUGHTON—Kyle Vitala ’09 was recently selected as a Lily Fellow with the Lily Gradate Fellowship Program. The Fellowship Program is one of 16 graduate students from across the country selected to be a fellow in the highly competitive program.

“Kyle is the first ever Houghton grad to participate in a Lily Fellows Program,” says Linda Mills Woolsey, professor of English and intercultural dean. “This is quite an honor,” says Mary Beth Fraser Connolly, assistant director of the Lily Fellows Program in Humanities and the Arts at Valparaiso University. “We selected 16 fellows from 61 applicants.”

To qualify for nomination, students must have a bachelor’s degree from one of the 96 participating LFP national network of church-related schools. Additionally, they must intend to enter a doctorate, Master of Fine Arts, or Doctor of Theology or equivalency program at the school of their choice in Fall 2011.

“I will be attending the University of Delaware this fall for a Ph.D. in English Renaissance literature,” says Vitala, “I plan to teach literature at the undergraduate and graduate levels and pursue research in the history of the book.”

The two worked hard getting their songs compiled and then in February 2011 added drummer Jesse Sprinkle of Avon to their group. Sprinkle is a former drummer for Demon Hunter and a current drummer for the band) of Canisteo has placed third in the Bath Country Fair Band of the Month.

Vitala was also accepted into the Lilly Graduate Fellows Program, a part of the Lily Fellows Program in Humanities and the Arts that supports outstanding students who want to explore their interests among Christianity, higher education, and the vocation of the teachers/scholarship.

In Fall 2011, Vitala will begin his first year at the University of Delaware in Newark, Delaware.

“With Matthew’s amazing ability to play bass and write lyrics and Brad’s outstanding talent to play guitar, the band has credited as sounding like Ozzie and Osbourne with a positive message. This is a celebration of faith that people as they share with you our Heavenly Father’s love. It is important for young people to know when they do the good thing that people care about them,” says Vitala.

The band has held gigs at New Bread Ministries in Dansville, and placed third in the Bath Country Fair Band of the Month.

THE ALFRED SUN offers its congratulations to all of our Alfred-Almond graduates and wishes them all the best in their future!
Big Dale falling in the creek, Corny (he remembered that name too) was my dad and he said they lived next door to my brother. Bill Ormsby and Ide are doing quite a bit of talking, naming places they have been, Bob names off Almond spots and describes them. They are names prior to the names I knew growing up. Places they have been, Bob names off Almond spots and describes them to see if there are common people they know and there are a few.

I was flabbergasted and I think Bill Ormsby was too. The gentleman was from Olean, along with his wife, who were interested in meeting up at that moment at The Almond. Now Mullen’s Carpets. No way! His name is Bob Ide and he is related to all the Ide’s I know in the A-A area. Big Dale is the name of one of them. When Steffen mentioned a pancake restaurant that she and Art had been to that wasn’t the greatest looking place but the food was great. I mentioned to her that there was a pancake place in Arroyo, Arroyo, and she knew it. It was a pancake place! We both grew up there. Big Dale was in charge of the entire back seven bill. Bill and "Tedy" were volunteers stationed at this hole for the day and had been there for the week. Ormsby’s all over the place.

I was finally booted out from under the ropes as the golfers were heading back to the clubhouse. My name was not on the list of volunteers, between two, some. Also in the group of volunteers at that hole was Carol Makowiecki ... a pest. Just kidding! She is from Webster and we hit it off quite well (I think). Anyhow, we were talking about Florida golf and I mentioned to her that there is a place in Leesburg, near where my parents live. She lives there and is a retail manager at Florida’s Fisherman. She is very organized! She is from Webster and we hit it off quite well (I think). Anyhow, we were talking about Florida golf and I mentioned to her that there is a place in Leesburg, near where my parents live. She lives there and is a retail manager at Florida’s Fisherman.

Arroyo comes to Alfred State after working at Springfield College (Springfield, MA) for the past 21 years. He chaired the Department of Physical Education and Health at Springfield and coached the college’s wrestling team since 1989.

Dr. Steve Tyrell is pleased to add Arroyo to his staff. “We are excited that Dr. Arroyo will be joining Alfred State and will be a part of our Pioneer athletic and physical education department of dedicated professionals who succeed Kathy Feldman, who succeeds Dr. Feldman in this role.

With the NFL lockout still ongoing, I need this-this-this and this, and can you take the other phone and call your mother, who is going to be staying in the same hotel as Jess Herbst (Schroeder/Vermont) joined us at Uno’s in Webster. She is from Webster and we hit it off quite well (I think). Anyhow, we were talking about Florida golf and I mentioned to her that there is a place in Leesburg, near where my parents live. She lives there and is a retail manager at Florida’s Fisherman.

Southwestern Connecticut State University (SCSU) has named New Canaan (Conn.) High School Principal Daryll Arroyo as its new Athletic and Physical Education director. Arroyo, who succeeds Kathy Feldman, who resides in Webster and is well known to many of the people at A-A and the classes. Arroyo is from New Canaan, Connecticut and has been a head wrestling coach for 19 years. He is a New England Wrestling Association Hall of Fame member and been an NCAA Division II Wrestling Champion. Arroyo also is the president/director/owner of the Connecticut Wrestling School.

HAPPY JULY 4th EVERYONE !!! ... you too, Gids.
