Update on Dr. Alix Clare

Dr. Clare's condition continues to improve. Her nurses report that she has begun interacting with them, and she has, intermittently, opened her eyes, and she has moved her arms and legs. She has been taken off the ventilator and is breathing by herself.

Given that it is only two weeks since the accident, these are encouraging developments, although there is still a very long road ahead to recovery.

Blake thanks everyone for their cards and e-mails: These are an important part of Alix's rehabilitation, so please keep them coming!
