April Phools this Sunday

Did you know that our beloved Alfred Alma Mater can be traced back to Medieval times?

Professor Schtephan Muzikawannabae will take you on a wild and wooly romp through Music Depreciation as we trace the Alma Mater through the ages. He will be assisted by famed music pathologist and pianist Laurel Buck of Walter and Louisann Clark, infamous singer of Baroquen opera. You will further be delighted by the sound of the Alfred Volunteer Choir Company and the Alfred Chamberpot Singers as they present the good old Alma in various forms.

A concert such as this would not be complete without the works of PDQ Bach and Tom Lehrer and the groups will perform selections from Bach's "Triumphs of Thusnelda" as well as a singing competition involving "The Art of the Ground Round." Aspiring soloists, both young and old will delight the ear with some of Lehrer's "Funeral Parlorsongs" as well as other selections.

The fun and frolic begins at 7 P.M. in Holmes Theater, Harder Hall on Sunday, April 1. The concert is free but that's just an April Fools, because we're actually raising money to send the desperate singers off to Italy in a year or two.....so kind donations will be accepted...no rotting food, please.

Join us for an unusual evening of song.
