FARMERS' WEEK

A year in Alfred would not be complete without the usual Farm and Home Week. This year marks the Eleventh Annual event which will be held Feb. 15-20. About twenty specialists have been secured to give addresses and demonstrations on subjects of special interest to farmers and homekeepers.

The sessions commence at 9:30 A.M. and last until 5 P.M., at Agricultural Hall. Firemen's Hall will be the place of events for the evening programs. Besides the lecturers a piano, organ, and health exhibits will be added to the round and make the program successful.

NURSING AS A PROFESSION OF THE COLLEGE GRADUATE

In a letter received from Ella Phillips Candland, a most urgent plea is made for college women to take up nursing. The profession is a great one and is especially desirable for college seniors who have a good general education back of them. There follows a part of Miss Candland's letter:

"In these times of new opportunity for the reconstruction of our social life, the desire is called forth in every one to contribute strength and talent to the future of the country. It is safe to say that young woman is following her college work this year without considering for what service she is preparing herself, and for this reason I am venturing to lay before you the demand in reconsctruction programs for many more public health nurses."

"It is natural that the outgrowth of this war for democracy should be the public health nurse, for she stands for the sanitation and equal distribution, according to need, of nursing care, and for the maintenance of health by the education of the people rather than merely for the cure of disease."

"Secretary of Labor Wilson stated recently, "Labor's reconstruction program must include a careful formulated plan for reorganization and destruction of war by the conservation and removal of national health. Public health nurses enter into such a program in many ways, in industrial, visiting and infant welfare service. To bring to every worker in our country this skilled care, many more public health nurses must be put to work in the community."

"To supply the immediate need as rapidly as possible, the Organization has voted to raise a considerable fund of money for scholarships to be given to nurses leaving military service and to members of senior classes in hospital training schools, many of whom had pledged themselves to enter war service, to enable them to take graduate courses in public health work and enter at once this new field of national service."

"To ensure a supply of nurses for the future, the National Organization, in cooperation with the National League of Nursing Education, is urging the revision of training courses in colleges and universities.

"But the profession offers as much opportunity for advancement. So soon to become a public official of the profession, the future, the National Organization, in cooperation with the National League of Nursing Education, is urging the revision of training courses in colleges and universities."

"It is, in short, a profession for the college trained women, and therefore we appeal to college students."
Of course, it isn't what it used to be. At least we hope not. Times have changed, and we are living in a new age. To think things anywhere near as they used to be is to live out of season and keeping with the new spirit of progress and advancement. We should strive for something new, something better.

Oh, it's easy to sit back, watch people work, and then criticize. Any one can do that. But remember, the world wants constructive and not de-structive criticism. If you cannot suppress that which you would teach by something which you honestly think to be better, then you haven't any right to criticize. In that case, don't say anything at all, and I advise that you play football, if the Flit isn't what it should be, then the fault lies with the student as much as with us. Why don't you wake up and do something about it? How in the world can a college periodical be published and not have the student body published by itself? All of us will agree that the New York Times in one year was just what you would expect your newspapers. Yet just suppose we should kidnap the staff some day, change their attire, beat and transport them to the central part of the Suburban Desert, taking good care that they can't cry all over the telephone. Do you think you would enjoy perusing the new Flit? No, New York Times? Oh, yes you would.

Then put yourself in our place. Get through with your studies, write your paper, or article, in your college paper, take a pride in your ability to write. Send us your article, if you feel that you are a little behind in composition, and then perhaps we can all join in the song, "Let's begin 'to live' at our Wednesday evening sessions."

Let's do something about it. Why stuff the columns of our little newspaper with the current sentiment that "The Old Fiat Lux, she ain't what she used to be!"

To the Students:

Sometimes I think we are inclined to think of college as a training school for life, and that we are to begin to live after we have been graduated from college. We are living what the new habits which we are forming here in college will in some, if not in all cases, cling to us as graduates. We are so apt to neglect many of the niceties which are the "mark" of culture and refinement. We have a vague notion that certain things which we do as college students ought not to be done in real life, and we excuse ourselves on the ground that we wouldn't do it any place but in college.

But fellow-students, it doesn't work that way. One of our most noticeable shortcomings is the attitude shown at the Woman's College. We fail, I fear, to appreciate the opportunity we have in hearing our professors and the people whom they invite to address us. Hundreds of people are paying big prices for courses of lectures where they hear no better speakers than we hear here every week. Possibly the topic is not of especial interest to you individually, but throughout life we shall have to converse with things that are not interesting to us and many times to things which are really dull and horridome. It is one of the mark of refinement to be able to appear interested, or, at least, to appear interested, and then listen and the speaker be uninterested. I tell you this as an "live at our" at"adolescent.

Would you believe it?

In a general efficiency test in a Baltimore school, the following are some of the answers to questions given:

There were no Christmas among the early negroes. The people were mostly lawyers. Geometry teaches us how to move a polygon. A lizard is the inside of a hen. A vacuum is the big empty space where the Pope lives. A circle is a round straight line with a hole in the middle. George Washington married Mary Curtis and in due time became the father of his country. Sixty gallons make one hedgehog. Georgia is the country founded by people who had been executed. A mountain range is a large clock stove. Pompeii was destroyed by an eruption of Sallia from the Vatican. Thyphoid fever is prevented by facination. An octogenarian is the eighth generation from a negro; an animal which bears its young in eight; an eight-legged animal; one born in October; one who feeds octopi.

Glee Club leggings

Final arrangements have been made for the Glee Club to sing in Addison, Feb. 27 and Elmira, Feb. 28, are under way, but have not been completed yet.

JUNIOR-FROSH PARTY

Invitations have been sent out for the annual party given by the Juniors of the college to the Freshman class. The party will be on Saturday evening, February the fifteenth, at Firemen's Hall.
