AG JUNIORS TRIUMPH
Win Over Their Younger Brothers 39-0

One of the biggest events of the first term of the Ag Frosh occurred on the football field. The frosh found themselves in football array and tried to show prowess over their elders on the gridiron. Because of lack of practice and experienced players, the frosh had rather slim chances of winning.

The Juniors with Orvis, a varsity man, as their backfield star and "Chippie" and Lewis playing in great form, easily overcame the Frosh defense. The younger line fought the best they could, but when the ball came to stopping end runs and forward passes were easily broken up by the Juniors. They lost the ball many times on downs.

Lewis and Chipman caught many passes throughout the game and overcame the Frosh defense. Orvis was in his usual fine form, easily overcame the Frosh line and we are hoping that the frosh line and team will improve as the season progresses.

While the Frosh were playing their best, there were many shut downs on downs, neither team gaining an inch of yardage, but the frosh were fighting all the way.

The plot was a very unusual one and we are hoping that it will be a dandy picture. But parts of that picture that were necessary,—portraying high social life. But one thing is certain, the giving of the picture at the 14th of December will be a sight to see.

The Juniors with Orvis, a varsity man, as their backfield star and "Chippie" and Lewis playing in great form, easily overcame the Frosh defense.

ANNUAL FROSH CELEBRATION
A Goodly Number Assembles In Honor Of The Old Tradition

At eleven o’clock Wednesday night, the freshman boys—every one of them—ap- peared in public for the first time in evening dress. It had long been a custom of the school for the younger class to assemble in honor of the members of the senior class, to whom they wished to give their respect and affection. And at the chosen hour of their annual custom to meet, a large assembly of the younger class assembled in the gymnasium, there to meet the officers, who were being given their welcome signals by the band of the senior class.

The Frosh received their cards for the annual ceremony of the Reception of the Senior class, and on the eve of the reception the Frosh was everything that the Frosh could be. The Frosh received their cards for the annual ceremony of the Reception of the Senior class, and on the eve of the reception the Frosh was everything that the Frosh could be. The Frosh were called to order by the President of the Frosh, and the meeting opened with the singing of the Frosh song, "The Voice of the Village." A considerable crowd of students appeared in public for the first time in evening dress. Dean and Mrs. Main left Alfred last week, Mrs. Main going to Dublin, N. H., to visit her daughter, Dean going to Baltimore, Md., to address the Annual Meeting of the Executive Committee of the Federal Council of the Churches of Christ in America. He will also go on to Washington to hold a series of meetings with the K. of A. and family, returning by way of Detroit, after which they plan to be at home December 25.

CERAMIC EXHIBITION
Opening last Friday afternoon, the Department of Applied Arts at the Genial School, presented a most unique and varied exhibition,—illustrating many different ways in which the arts are used by modern man. The Guild is as yet young, an extra credit course being started only two years ago, but already clays are used to make objects for the home, for the table, and for the town.

The purpose of the art exhibition at the school is to teach the students about the art of ceramics and the techniques of making ceramic objects.

YOUR BEST IN ADVENTURE IS A BANK ACCOUNT
the deep feeling of contentment that the pleasant hours of relaxation and general course of our school work and for a Merry Christmas and hope that to convey to you our very best wishes.

Few of us take time to consider. We of the holidays, there is a spirit which marvel at changes—we go to parties intermittently for eleven steady weeks. Those who have worked so tion, we have rendered the decision are those to whom a fireside and par-cereal love are but cherished memories from the spirit of friends. But there of parental love; and a lot more comes to the quiet fireside, and the realization of the past; those to whom Christmas wishes never gained anything, and we had discarded a little of our love for book-worn temperament. But when our tests are over, it’s too late—wishes never gained anything, and we start in with the same good intentions. If we manage to get through this term with the greatest respect for teachers and books, which finally wanes down to a temperance of knowledge, until, when exams come and go, we wish we had discarded a little of our love for nature, and retained a little of the old book-worn temperament. But when our tests are over, it’s too late—wishes never gained anything, and we start in with the same good intentions. If we manage to get through now we can’t avoid it, we have to try and lose our worries. So just try it for a week, and get your lesson each day as you go along.

EXPLANATION

We wish to correct any false ideas which might have been conceived from the article about Sigma Alpha, in last issue. We felt that we couldn’t write an article for a particular student, so we simply discarded discussion of it entirely—except for a few minor remarks concerning that case, which appeared in the totally separate article about the Sigma Alpha. Outside of those references the case and the article had no connection.

We wish this life were pleasant. To the student—the old man of the coming generation—life is crammed full of defects, and each generation must reconstruct the world for itself. Humanity is simply a series of re-constructions, and one generation never suits another with its ideas and ideals, yet the world can’t be but one way at a time. In so many is always satisfied. But if we weren’t punished every now and then for our rate of mind, we could never appreciate life when it flows our way. And then again, our ideas are original with us, and possibly impractical, and we might form our ideals toward something detrimental to us, which wouldn’t be at all good.

Life is a funny mixed up affair. Sometimes you like it; sometimes you don’t. Sometimes you get that too much like giving it away—unless you’ve lost all self-respect and confidence.

STUDENT VOLUNTEER MOVEMENT

Six thousand chosen students and professors from practically every college and university of the United States and Canada will meet in Des Moines for five days this coming New Year’s. Seven similar student conventions have been held at short intervals. This is the first which has had opportunity to learn of the Convention bids fair to be in a class by itself. This is the first large gathering of students since the War. They are meeting together for the purpose of actually facing the situation in the world today and of considering the responsibility of the American college student. If the real possibilities of this gathering are to be realized, it is essential not only that the right men and women be chosen as delegates in each institution, but also that the students who do become delegates in the Convention bids fair to be in a class by itself. This Convention is to be held in the same city.
