Bergren Forum - David Marsh

The Bergren Forum sponsored by the Division of Human Studies, College of Liberal Arts and Sciences and the Provost's Office will be meeting at 12:10 p.m., Thursday, October 5 in the Nevins Theatre, Powell Campus Center.

Bring a brown bag lunch, coffee and tea will be provided.

Speaker: David Marsh

Topic : "The past, present and future of lithography: From Art to the Impossibly Small"

I will discuss the history of lithography to show that this technique has been used to reproduce images for a long time and how it has recently been updated. Now the process involves light, much like photography, and has been miniaturized so that it can be used in the electronics industry to make tiny integrated circuits for your smartphone and other devices. The future of lithography involves additional tricks and new chemicals, but the fundamental process remains the same.

7th Annual 7 mile trail hike Horse to Harvest

Registration is open for our seventh annual 7-mile trail hike, Horse to Harvest. It is free for AU students and $10 for all others. We ask that people register in advance at the link below. On-site registration will be available for $5 for AU students and $15 for everyone else. As always, the hike includes transportation to the starting point if needed, and transportation from the ending point to campus or your vehicle. There will be one aid station on the way for water and snacks, and one s'more station where you can relax by a campfire for a moment and ingest some sugar. At the end, we'll have pizza, chili, salad and beverages. All this is included with the registration.
