Carillon Recitals in July

Each July, the Wingate Memorial Summer Carillon Recital Series brings guest performers to perform on the Davis Memorial Carillon. The 2015 performers are:

Joey Brink on July 7, starting early at 6:30 p.m. Joey impressively was the first American to win the Queen Fabiola Carillon Competition in Belgium in 2014.

Roy Kroezen on July 14, starting at 7 p.m. as usual. Roy is the carillonneur at three carillons in the Netherlands and teaches carillon at the Zwolle Conservatory of Music.

Lee Cobb on July 21. Lee tours extensively as a carillon recitalist and composes for the carillon, chorus and organ, while serving at organist and choirmaster at St. Luke's Episcopal Church in Fort Myers, FL.

Sue Bergren on July 28. Sue performs regularly at the Millennium Carillon in Naperville and throughout the United States as a guest recitalist. She also serves as organist and music director at a church in Naperville, IL.

The carillon recital are free and are held rain or shine. Bring a blanket or chair if you wish or sit in your car or on a bench around the carillon.

The series is generously funded by the Wingate Memorial Carillon Foundation, created by Margaret (Peggy) Wingate Rase to honor her parents' love for and dedication to the Davis Memorial Carillon. Dr. Ray Wingate, organ professor, served as AU Carillonneur from the arrival of the bells in 1937 until his death in 1968.

'Camera Without Borders - the World of Caroline Littell' at Herrick

A retrospective of travel photography by the late Caroline Littell of Alfred will be on view Friday, June 12 through Wednesday, July 15 on the main floor of Alfred University's (AU) Herrick Memorial Library. The public is invited to an opening reception for "Camera Without Borders - the World of Caroline Littell" from 2 to 4 p.m. June 12. The library's summer hours are from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Thursday; 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Friday. The library is closed weekends.

Littell was a freelance photographer whose images illustrated articles on tourism and travel in several dozen newspapers and magazines in this country and in Europe. For more than 30 years, major publications featuring her photography included The Los Angeles Times, Travel & Leisure Magazine, The San Francisco Examiner, The Chicago Sun Times, The Milwaukee Journal, The Athens (Greece) News, The Denver Post, The New Orleans Times Picayune and Ocean Navigator Magazine. In Western New York, her work appeared regularly in The Buffalo News, The Rochester Democrat & Chronicle, The Hornell Sunday Spectator, The Olean Times Herald, and The Alfred Sun. The 60 black-and-white photographs to be displayed at Herrick portray landscapes and people in locations ranging from Greece, Colombia, Thailand, and Burma to the American West and the plains of East Africa. Born in Egypt of English parents, Littell was educated in England and later studied languages in France, Spain, Austria, and Greece. She immigrated to the United States in 1962, moving to Alfred in 1968.

As a photographer, Littell was entirely self-taught except for a brief period of instruction at AU. She worked for the most part in film, experimenting with digital formats only at the end of her career. But whether in film or in digital, her photography displayed a technical mastery of a demanding craft as well as an unerring eye for balanced composition. Like Henri Cartier-Bresson, the French pioneer of modern photojournalism, Littell had the uncanny ability to capture on film that decisive moment of facial expression or body attitude that defines mood or personality.

Littell, former language lab director and study abroad adviser at Alfred University, died earlier this year in Pasadena, CA, after a long illness.
