6th War Loan Drive Opens In Alfred With Local Vets Backing It

Drive To Continue Through Dec. 15 As Veterans Push Sale Of Bonds For Fighting Buddies

The 6th War Loan Drive is being given an immense push on the campus and in the town of Alfred by the veterans who are studying here at Alfred. The active phase of the local drive began last Monday and will continue through Dec. 15.

The veterans who have given their best to their country, some of them in overseas duty, have undertaken the task of sponsoring the latest bond drive because they want to assure their buddies who are still out there fighting that they will have the best equipment at the right time and at the right place.

Unfortunately many people, now that victory seems near, question the necessity of buying more bonds. They think that the armed forces need no more support. Veteran Ralph Gestwicki, formerly of the Air Force, well refuted this misconception when he recently gave a talk before a group of fellow Ag-Tech students. "Let me tell you a story" said Gestwicki "that really happened to all of us in one or the other of the combat areas. We were in a certain part of Africa and as usual were making our regular bomb runs. Then one day we were told that our raids were to cease for there were no more 'eggs' to be had.

"Later I was told what happened," went on Gestwicki. "A convoy had been sunk not far off the coast of our combat zone. These ships had been carrying troops, ammunition, medical and other vitally needed supplies."

The veterans express the hope that people will realize that every bond and stamp they sell will help to shorten the war and bring the fellows back to the states. They have expectations that their efforts will net several thousand dollars toward the financing of the war.

The veterans were honored at a luncheon sponsored by the Lions Club of Hornell last Monday. Each of the attending vets gave a short talk relating to one of his experiences in the service. Accompanied by Profs. Parish, Hinkle and Whitney the following veterans attended: George Klinetsky, Edmund Jurkowski, James Farrell, John Koskie, Pat Pulvino, Bill Gaul, Samuel Guarino and Ralph Gestwicki.

Other veterans present were Frederick Miller, Dave Goldman, Bill Murphy, Charles Hampton, George Bennett and Robert Johnson.

Daily Practice Is Scheduled

These daily meetings will be in the form of special practices for the Christmas Candlelight Service which will be presented Sunday evening, December 10, in the village church. In past years these Christmas programs have highlighted the holiday season at Alfred and this year it is again expected that the Choir will furnish inspirational music for the enjoyment of students and townspeople.

The regular choir rehearsals, scheduled for Thursdays at 7:00 p.m., at the University Church, will be held as usual.

Mrs. Samuel R. Scholes, director of the University Church Choir, announced today that beginning with the meeting yesterday afternoon the Choir will practice every afternoon, Monday through Friday, at her home, 5 South Main street at 5:00.

Al Pozefsky '45 Now In Coast Guard As Cadet

Abbott Pozefsky '45, Gloversville, New York, was recently admitted to the United States Coast Guard Academy, New London, Conn., as a member of the new class of 1948.

The new Coast Guard cadet attended the Chancellor Avenue School, Weequahic High School in New Jersey and Gloversville High School before enrolling in Alfred University, where he was a student for three years prior to winning his appointment to a cadetship in the annual competitive examinations last May.

While attending Alfred, Cadet Pozefsky was a member of the Freshman football and freshman and varsity basketball teams, President of Keramos, vice president of the student branch of American Ceramic Society, and business manager of the "Alfred Engineer."

Cadet Pozefsky, who is to be awarded his BS degree, cum laude, in ceramic Engineering from Alfred University in May, 1948, has a brother, Leo, private in the Army of the United States.

A desire for a permanent career connected with engineering, led Cadet Pozefsky to seek an Academy appointment and he anticipates scientific studies and sports will be the chief interests of his new Coast Guard life.

Two Students Will Represent Alfred At Fredonia Conclave

Margaret Long '45, president of the Women's Student Governing Board, and Ruth Ann Weitz '45, a member of the Board, expect to represent Alfred University at an intercollegiate meeting December 5, at Fredonia, N. Y.

The Fredonia State Teacher's College has issued an invitation to Alfred University and other schools to send two representatives to participate in an assembly program on this date.

While in Fredonia the two Alfred students will be guests of the school attending classes and a luncheon after the assembly.

The subject to be discussed is "Student Government." Their expenses will be paid and they will be entertained on the campus. The representatives have not as yet been chosen.

New Phone Book Is Published

The 1945 edition of the Alfred Telephone Directory, published by the Kanakadea in cooperation with the local merchants, was issued to regular subscribers this past week. The names of Mrs. Nellie Parry and Mr. Gregory were omitted from the book.

Edits News Letter For Ag-Tech Alumni

Mrs. Helen Cottrell, secretary to Mr. T. A. Parish, Acting Director of the Ag-Tech School, has for some time been composing and editing a news letter which is sent to the Alumni of the New York State Ag-Tech Institute, who are now serving in the armed forces of their country.

Each month, Mrs. Cottrell, with the assistance of Miss Peggy Wingate and Miss Mildred Vars, issues approximately a twenty-page letter in which she includes all items of interest concerning recent happenings at Ag-Tech and news centering around the alumni.

Dr. Willard Sutton Tells Class Of Forces In Modern China

"Our treatment of China has been more tragic than the Chamberlain appeasement or our pre-war shipping of goods to Japan," stated Dr. Willard Sutton of Alfred while speaking on the subject "Present Day China in World Affairs" at last week's class meeting of "Our Changing World."

Dr. Sutton, who has spent 18 years as a missionary in China, told his audience that it would take many such lectures to even present the forces which make up the great nation which is China. Drawing on his own experiences he told of meeting an American soldier, using his pay to do some desired traveling in China, who prophesied from his limited experience that China was gasping her last breath. Such an opinion, though popular, is far from the truth, according to the speaker, who then proceeded to outline the basic reasons for his assumption.

A glimpse of China's power can be seen in her long and glorious history, of which the inhabitants of the western world know comparatively little. The glory of the Han period, during which the cultural and military might of China surpassed that of Rome during the Augustan Age. Dr. Sutton also

Prof. Benardete Is Guest At El Centro Meeting

Prof. Mercedes Benardete, principal Spanish lecturer of Columbia University, spoke on "Relations with Argentina" at the luncheon of El Centro Latino-Americano on Friday, November 24, at the Coffee Shop. This marked his second appearance with El Centro, as he was guest speaker at the second regular meeting held Saturday evening, November 14, at the home of El Centro's faculty adviser, Prof. Paula Ovadia de Visé.

The personable professor gave his talk in Spanish with appropriate gestures to make himself clearly understood. He traced briefly the history of the economic and political relations between Argentina and the United States.

As one practical way to come to a real understanding of each other's cultures, Professor Benardete advocated a much more extensive exchange of students with Central and South America.

In the open discussion that followed, Javier Fuenzalida, graduate student from Chile, explained the conception that Argentina and the other South American nations have gathered of the United States from the things they know of this country—cowboy and gangster movies, jazz, only a partial representation of our literature, etc.

Special guests at the luncheon were Mrs. Dora K. Degen, dean of women, and Miss Eva L. Ford, professor of French.

The coming luncheon is scheduled for Friday at 12:15 p.m., in the Collegiate. Everyone planning to come should give their names to Professor Visé by Wednesday.

El Centro is preparing to present a tableau for its part in the Christmas program being sponsored by the Language Department on Wednesday December 13, in Social Hall at 8:00 p.m.

Several gay Christmas songs from the lore of Spanish folk songs were rehearsed at Professor Visé's home last week on Wednesday and Friday nights. The group relaxed enough each time to enjoy coffee, tea and cookies, before the comfortable warmth of the fireplace.

reminded his hearers of the story about Magellan's discovering the Philippines, using gunpowder which they had imported from China at a time when European nations had just begun its use.

It is necessary to remember also that China's republic has only been in existence since 1911 when one considers prospects for her future. Dr. Sutton admitted that it has largely been a banditry government so far, illustrating his statement with a tale about a warlord who taxed the peasants in his vicinity for 64 years in advance and then fled with the money. Such a situation is not permanent, however, said Dr. Sutton, for even now "the old order is changing" and "China has often had periods when it has been the cultural light of the world as it be again."

Weekly Assembly Will Bring Louis J. Alber To Campus As Guest

With Unusual Experiences As Background, Lecturer Will Speak On Britain's Churchill

Louis J. Alber, author, world traveler, and businessman, will speak on the subject "The Irresistible Winston Churchill" at the weekly assembly program, Thursday, November 30.

The speech which Mr. Alber will present before the Alfred student body has been described as a colorful word-picture of Britain's great war leader by one who has known him for many years and who lived with him for six months under unusual circumstances. Although primarily a businessman, Mr. Alber has a natural flair for telling in an absorbing manner about the many famous men and women he has known, as well as for pointing out the lessons in their lives.

University Will Accept New Students In Feb.

Instituting a new policy, Alfred University will offer several courses beginning February 6, 1945, the opening date of the regular second semester, to accommodate January high school graduates. Prof. John Reed Spicer, Counselor to Prospective Students, announced today.

This practice is being introduced at the requests of many high school students and seems to be necessitated by the increased pace of the world during wartime. Those who enroll will find it possible to finish a regular four-year course by June 1948, if they attend one or two summer sessions.

In the College of Liberal Arts, the following courses will be offered: Analytic Geometry, College Algebra, Freshman English, Freshman History, Fundamentals of Speech, General Inorganic Chemistry, General Physics, Trigonometry, and Wood Shop.

Courses in the College of Ceramics will be arranged if there is sufficient demand.

Bulletin For Vets Published

A bulletin entitled "Veterans' Education" was recently published by Alfred University under the direction of John Reed Spicer, Veterans' Adviser, to summarize and clarify the available educational opportunities for returned servicemen.

The leaflet is intended to supplement the information of Alfred Alumni and students who left the Alfred campus to enter the armed forces, and all soldiers and reservists who studied here under the ASTP and ASTRP.

It includes an explanation and comparative table of the financial aid which is due to veterans under the G. I. Bill of Rights, Public Law 16, and New York State provisions. The amount of credit for studies while in service and, more specifically, Alfred's entrance requirements and provisions for veterans are described. The bulletin also outlines the main features of the University itself.

Pres. and Dean Repeat Discussion On Germany

President J. Nelson Norwood and Dean M. Ellis Drake presented a discussion on the subject, "Partition of Germany After the War," before the Dansville Rotary Club, Dansville, New York, on Tuesday, November 21.

This discussion, which was first given for the Political Science 21 class, "Our Changing World," was also given recently for groups in Hornell and Canisteo by the two faculty members.

Mr. Alber's background is full of interesting and unusual experiences. He was a member of the Executive Committee of the League to Enforce Peace, organized by William Howard Taft in 1915, and served with a distinguished group of famous Americans for five years. While celebrity-hunting in foreign lands, he has had talks with Prime Ministers, Presidents, Kings, Cabinet Ministers and leaders in every field of important endeavor.

A student of economics, world affairs, and business problems, he has been a traveler since his sixteenth year, and as a result he has gained a vast store of information and experience. Mr. Alber has spoken before a large number of colleges and universities including Union, Colgate, Lafayette, Vanderbilt and Rollins. This will be his first visit to Alfred University.

Among the many favorable comments which have been made by leading educators of the nation is a statement by no less a person than George V. Denny, President of the Town Hall in New York City, who said, "Our audience was enthusiastic about Mr. Alber's interesting material as well as the manner in which he spoke."

The late Dr. Arthur E. Beston, of the Chautauqua Institution, Chautauqua, New York, has also praised Mr. Alber's ability, having made the remark "I can't remember any lectures at Chautauqua more popular than the six given by Louis J. Alber." Dr. Carl Kallgren, Dean, Cornell University, called his address at that school "A brilliant, outstanding, intimate word-picture of one of the world's foremost figures," Mr. Alber having delivered the same address there that he plans to give here next Thursday.

"I went three times to hear Louis Alber talk on 'The Irresistible Winston Churchill' and if he gives the lecture the fourth time anywhere in my neighborhood I shall go a fourth time, for it is without doubt one of the most fascinating and interesting talks that I have ever heard," enthused William H. Huff, Executive Director of the Philadelphia Forum.

An idea of the wide range of Mr. Alber's interest can be obtained from a glance at the subjects on which he lectures. The list includes "Blueprint for World Conquest," "The War—And When It Ends," "Is World War III in the Making?" "Light and Wayward Spirits," "Great American Humorists," "Laughing with World Celebrities," "From Theodore to Franklin," "Exploring the Explorer" and "Where Did You Get Your Name."

The Sixth War Loan

"My Thinking....My Money....My Time....will stay in this war to the finish" said Ted Gamble, National Director of the War Finance Division. This expression should be adopted and practiced by every individual American.

Many of us have already been thinking about and discussing various phases of the war. Many of us have already bought war bonds. Many of us have already devoted much time and energy to the war effort. Most of us are still thinking about the war; still devoting time to worthy and essential war activities. But are we still continuing to invest our money in war bonds? We can not afford to not do so. For war bonds are our means of helping to win the war. They are our contribution to preventing inflation. Not only are war bonds a form of future security but also a source of interest return.

How many of us have simply forgotten to buy war bonds? How many times have we gone to the movies and failed to purchase stamps? How many times have we been guilty of spending our allowances on non-essentials rather than investing the money in stamps and bonds?

The veterans' association here in our University has taken it upon themselves to sell war bonds and have already sold several—a definite aid in helping our country to reach the $14,000,000,000 goal of which $5,000,000,000 is to be raised from individuals.

And with this Sixth War Loan comes the realization that the greater part of our war effort is definitely being concentrated in the Pacific area. The European war is expensive but almost everything in the Pacific war will cost more: freight transportation, equipment, medical treatment. Without our financial aid, adequate means will not be available to our fighting men.

We must and we shall think about the war and those in the service. And we shall devote spare time to worthy war activity. Above all, we will invest in war stamps and bonds. For these are our own personal contribution toward making a lasting peace and insuring a quick return of those in uniform.

Vacations

The thought of a vacation has always been a happy thought among the majority of us students. The thought of a vacation is still a happy thought but our happiness has been alleviated by the fact that vacations this year have not been scheduled at times when the most happiness can be derived.

This year our Thanksgiving vacation was one day long. The following Friday was a no-cut day. It was thought advisable to have only Thanksgiving Day off in order that we might have a longer Christmas vacation. Another point brought out by the administration is that our course of study would have been interrupted if one extra day were added to Thanksgiving vacation. A good proportion of us would rather have had that extra day even if our Christmas vacation would have had to be shortened or if the day were taken off from a short vacation between semesters. As for interrupting continuity in study, many students took the liberty of going home for the weekend and cutting on Monday.

And next year we would like to see Alfred University back in the "examinations before Christmas vacation" system. We would prefer finishing a semester of work before Christmas rather than having to face the thought of exams and a few more weeks work on a given unit requiring a reacquaintance with the subject matter rather than a proceeding into a new topic. And need we state that studying takes all the joy out of a vacation? We realize that such a return to exams before Christmas would mean starting college earlier in the year. Such would be a definite aid, for the sooner we start, the sooner we finish, and because our college year would end in early spring, the prospects of a job would be much greater for most of us. We are aware that high school graduates will not, under such a system, be able to enter Alfred at the beginning of the second semester. The number who enroll at such a time are so few that it would seem to make little difference to the University and a great difference to us.

Next year we would like to have our vacations arranged differently from those of this year. We hope our wants will be considered.

LANIE ASKS

Have You Met . . . ?

Isobel "Izzie" Dobson
"Izzie" in my estimation is one girl who lives and applies her understanding of art in every respect. The understanding of aesthetics is more of an enfoldment, inner feeling, and realization than anything, and Isobel is well on her way to the fullest comprehension of it. Her clothes, actions, and likes all go to classify her in everyone's eyes as an artist.
Born in Richfield Springs, New York, 21 years ago, amidst 3 sisters, "Izzie" led a very normal and usual life. Her artistic talents were not developed until she came to Alfred, for she had little, if any training in high school. Here in Alfred, she lives at the Castle in 2 rooms on the second floor.
Her likes, as you would expect, range from simply lined and sophisticated clothes to vegetables, Thomas Mann, and good dance music.
Her thoughts for the future?—To be married and have a home and children and to someday have her own kiln or perhaps to teach pottery and art.

Marilynn Miscal Fitzroy
Another Senior Ceramic Artist whom you all should know or do know, is Marilyn Fitzroy. Not many times in my life have I met up with anyone with such a wonderful sense of humor and personality. I asked her if she liked to travel. "Well," she said, suddenly, "Yes, I like to travel, I'm going to travel after the war is over—to find someplace to sit down."
Blonde, blue eyes, fair complexion, 22 years old, Marilyn makes a striking appearance. She lives at Mrs. Crandall's here in Alfred, and is Vice-President of Theta Chi. The name of Fitzroy was acquired one and one-half years ago when she married George Fitzroy, now stationed in New York.
She claims to have spent one half of her life eating and the other half, resting, but from the outcome of her work, we all know, she has left a good space to Ceramics for her working method is perfection itself.

. . Of Cabbages And Kings

Stuart H. Pomerantz

I recently read with great relish an article which stated that the Political Action Committee of the CIO would continue its work in the future. Of course, the intense activity which we saw during the past presidential campaign will be missing, but the committee will continue its work of educating the masses to the political problems of the day.

One of the most important jobs, its leaders believe, is to get the people out to vote. It is through voting that major political, social, and economic objectives are achieved. There is also the task of increasing the number of eligible voters.

There were nearly 85,000,000 persons who were eligible to vote for presidential electors by the PAC standards. It has been estimated that by 1946 there should be 88,000,000 and 92,000,000 in 1948. Because of the fact that fewer than 50,000,000 persons actually voted, the PAC has been led to believe that the remaining 35,000,000 potential voters have been routed from the polls by what it terms "artificial restriction."

While the greatest number of deterred voters were to be found in the South, the registration requirements of many states are regarded as just as unreasonable and restrictive as the poll tax.

It is the desire of the Political Action Committee to remain non-partisan in its activities. Nothing much has been said, however, about whether representatives of the CIO will run for position in the National, State or local committees. It seems evident that such decisions will be made locally.

At the Democratic convention this year the PAC managed to exercise a great deal of influence. Such influence was not exerted at the Republican convention; but several Republican candidates were apparently aided by its campaign efforts. It was also through the facilities of the PAC that Hamilton Fish was defeated even though he seemed by all odds to be assured of victory. Here indeed we have a potent political force.

It is good that the committee is continuing its activities because of the fact that, since it is affiliated with the Labor Union, it reaches so many people. Many of these union members are typical Americans who, to quote Selden Menefee, must be given credit for "a maximum of intelligence, but a minimum of knowledge." It is to these citizens that the PAC will project its beam of education. Since the majority of the people enrolled in labor unions make a pretty complete example of American public opinion, it seems to me that they should also be given greater means of expressing their political viewpoints. The PAC is just such a mechanism and seems ideally suited for the task at hand.

Whether it will be easier to influence a party's choice of a candidate by operations conducted from outside rather than from within the party organization remains to be seen.

In Memorium

As it must come to all God's creatures, death came to a prominent member of P Alpha quite recently. It was a sad day for that sorority, for though she was a comparatively new addition to the group, she had, in her short stay, endeared herself to all.

In case you didn't have the pleasure of making the acquaintance of the deceased, I will give a short biography here—at least as much of her past as is known.

She was a native of California, making the long trip from there to Alfred in about a week and arriving here about a month ago. Shortly after she made her home at Pi Alpha, she got lost and brought a great deal of anxiety to the other members. Before very long, however, she was found reclining comfortably under a convenient bed, much to everyone's relief.

Visitors at the house found her to be quite charming and were won over immediately by her sweet personality. She was inclined to be a little shy, but this only tended to enhance her allure. Thus, her circle of friends was enlarged and thus her mourners are many.

On Tuesday afternoon, November 14, funeral services were held at Pi Alpha's residence at 6 Sayles Street, after which she was solemnly buried in the yard behind the northwest corner of the house.

Yes, Kappa, the little blue turtle, has been laid to rest, but she will not be forgotten.

Gloria E. Woodward Is Chosen By Staff As News Desk Assistant

Fiat Lux Takes On New Vigor By Accepting Several Students

Gloria Elizabeth Woodward '46 was elected Assistant News Editor of the Fiat Lux at a meeting of the Fiat staff held at the newspaper's office in the Greene Block last Tuesday night.

The new assistant editor was chosen by vote of members of the Fiat staff from a group of three other eligible candidates, Roxanne Roberts '48, Verna Jean Church '48, and Don Martin '48. Each of these would-be news hounds had been recommended by the news editor, Corinne Herrick, for the position, after having survived a trial period of six weeks in which they sleuthed news, wrote articles, and helped on the news desk of the paper.

The new member of the editorial staff comes to the Fiat with a wealth of experience in newspaper work, having worked on the college paper of the Little Rock Junior College at Little Rock, Arkansas, during her second year in college. She was also a reporter on the "Hamilton Journal-News," a daily newspaper of Hamilton Ohio, during the year 1943-44. Gloria's freshman year was spent at the Alfred University Extension at Jamestown. She is a Spanish major.

Nine feature writers have also passed their six week trial period and are now full-fledged members of the Fiat staff. Lanie Locke '46, Don Martin '48, Stuart Pomerantz '47, Joyce Dietrich '48, Jean Bonham '47, Millicent Albert '48, Marcia Noyes '47, Coreene Chapman '46 and Margaret Harper '47 are in this group.

Carol Colway '47 has been selected by Shirley Lane, Society Editor, as assistant in that department and Jerry Price '47 will aid Renee Suchora Sports Editor.

Two seniors, Virginia Larson and Doris Beswick, and five freshmen, Barbara Kahn, Roxanne Roberts, Verna Jean Church, and Olive Cohen are the newest newshounds on campus, having been voted on the staff last week. Barbara Adamy is also a new recruit in the news department, her "beat" being the Department of Nursing.

Three typists, Edith Foster '47, Patricia Crofoot '48, and Marion Miller '48, successfully completed their trial period and are warmly welcomed to the staff.

Marjorie Duggan '48, Marion Coats '48 and Ruth Hartman '48 will prevent errors in the paper in their new positions as proof readers while Betty Banks '46 and Marie Basciani '46 are engaged in headline writing.

The Business Staff has been supplemented by several freshmen, Jack Koskie, Doris Weaver, Mary Ann Goodrich, Grace Congdon, Phyllis Pelton, Edith Fagan, and Brenda Wilson.

Another group of student journalists, including two girls from the Ag-Tech Institute, are now completing their probationary period and will soon become regular members of the staff.

SPORTSBULLETIN

Well it seems that the ping pong flame is flickering out on campus. Manager Marty Miner is having trouble setting the date for the November play off. It seems that two girls showed up for the tournament scheduled last Tuesday.

Girls there's been plenty of griping from some of you because the girls' athletic activities on campus are practically nil. I'm sure that if you pitched in and helped start the ball rolling our athletic activities would be brimming full in no time at all.

By Tradition Hockey Defeat Causes Misery

Having suffered defeat at the hands of the upperclassmen in a recent hockey game, the Freshman girls were subjected to an old Alfred tradition—stooging—for five long days—November 14-18.

Harassed frosh girls did small, sometimes unpleasant, tasks, ranging from shoe-shining to writing love-letters for tyrannous upperclassmen.

At week's end some frosh had been run ragged but had proved, beyond a doubt, their good sportsmanship.

Members of the class who played on the hockey team were not required to stooge. Winter Sports Enter With 3 Sports Leading Attention Sports Fans!

Old man winter has again brought with him a few of your favorite activities. This year, more than ever before, (at least since our intercollegiate activities bowed out) promises to bring forth many a heated battle on basketball court, ping pong table and fencing square.

At the last Intramural Association meeting, presided over by Russ Leinhos, a group of men were chosen to head the following program:

Archie Farr—Basketball Mgr.
Stan Burdick—Ping Pong Mgr.
"Joe" Fuenzalida—Fencing Mgr.

The managers were chosen by unanimous vote and each has promised to promote his respective branch to the fullest. Everyone is greatly enthused over the coming events, especially the Ag-Tech boys, who will be seeking "hot" revenge for their "unfortunate" losses to the college boys during the football season.

Being a very modest gentleman, Archie Farr retired to his home in Painted Post, for the weekend, without giving us any dope on his past experiences with basketball. However, anonymous sources have informed us that he did a very efficient job as basketball manager of his high school team and, therefore, is highly recommended. Archie has already brought about the appointment of captains for the various basketball teams and promises that play will begin immediately. (This list of captains and players will appear at a later date).

Stan Burdick does not claim to have participated in any ping pong tournaments while in high school or, thus far in college. However, Stan knows his ping pong. If there is any doubt as to his ability, step into South Hall and see him in action. A few more

Clubs Observe Dr. Saunders' Demonstration

Dr. Paul C. Saunders of the Chemistry Department recently demonstrated "Combustion, Smoke and Fire Control," before the Hornell Rotary Club and the Wellsville Exchange Club.

The demonstrations included a series of experiments showing the spontaneous making of flame and fire, smoke without fire, fire without smoke, kindling temperature, spontaneous combustion, limits of explosibility and fire control.

Quoting the Hornell Rotary Club: Prof. Saunders' talk and demonstration was both interesting and exciting. To see a burning garment dunked non-exhalantly into a jar of kerosene, and a big trough-full of flaming gas under the other elbow of the demonstration, wasn't exactly a disarming prelude to explosive gasoline and hydrogen mixtures.

Prof. Saunders has given demonstrations for various schools and organizations in this area, and they all have met with considerable success.

names could be added to the already growing list of candidates for a tournament which will start soon, so, please hurry before it is underway.

"Joe" Fuenzalida, our friend and student from South America, began his fencing while attending the University of Santa Maria, in Valparaiso, in 1939. He studied under a German instructor, Milo, who taught the Italian school of Fencing. Thus, "Joe" naturally favors the Italian art of fencing. "Joe" began participating in tournaments against other Chilean Universities in 1940 and continued doing so until his graduation in 1942. At that time he was seeded number 10 for his country of Chile.

"Joe" has an able assistant in Alex Giampietro, who also uses the Italian style.

Anyone interested in joining the fencing club is requested, by "Joe", to see him at the Student Union, at 7 o'clock on Thursday evening.

Most persons assume that fencing, not being a team sport, is not very exciting, therefore, not spectacular to the spectators' viewpoint. "Joe" will assure you that it's not as easy as it looks, that it takes a great deal of skill, speed, and coordination to master this art.

Special attention should be given to the fact that schedules will appear in the Fiat at another date and will be adequately posted on all bulletin boards for the benefit of the public. Everyone is welcome to attend these games; in fact the players prefer an audience. So come on everyone!

On Tuesday, November 28, at 4:30, a cross country race has been scheduled. Manager Jim Heasley and the following boys will run: Bob Burdick, Vic Burdick, Baker, Stan Burdick, Jim Thompson and Fred Clark.

After Christmas vacation other activities such as boxing and wrestling will get into swing.

Recognition At Last

"Life, for the ceramic artists, is just one long picnic—a cinch! They never have to do homework. They attend their classes each day, and then fritter away their evenings knitting, reading, playing pool, or bull sessions. They breeze through college scarcely lifting a finger while the poor liberal art students slave over their books until one and two in the morning, studying even while they perform such necessary operations at taking baths!"

Many are the times we have complacently and thoughtlessly nodded our heads in agreement when other liberal artists have voiced these, or comparable sentiments. There are, scattered over the campus, nevertheless, a few liberal artists who would violently object to such an expression of opinion. They know the struggles of the artist; they know that the ceramist's life is not the commonly conceived "bed of roses". They too have tried to draw a still-life that moves through their paper; have attempted to throw a pitcher on the potter's wheel; and have learned an understanding of the Egyptians' frank use of their materials. Exploded, for this comparatively small group of liberal artists is the myth of the Ceramic Artists' "Life of Riley". They are taking art classes themselves; they are sympathetic.

Each Tuesday afternoon some of these art-minded L.A.'s meet in the west room of the New Ceramic Building amid the easels, the charcoal erasers, and the carefully arranged still lives and draw—or rather, attempt to draw, under Miss Nelson's discerning-eyed guidance. Theirs is the blood, sweat, and tears of giving their drawings depth, motion, feeling. They don't scoff at the artists; they know.

The "pottering" Liberal Artists meet in Miss Fosdick's small studio at 100 N. Main St. For four hours each week, in a quiet, calming atmosphere, they learn to know clay—to know it as the wonderful plastic material which it is—to learn how to make it fulfill its marvelous potentialities. They build, throw, and mold their clay pieces and thus gain a knowledge of the fundamentals of the art of the potter. They don't look with disdain on the ceramic artist; they understand the materials with which he works.

A third group of Liberal art students, traces, with Miss Binns, the history of art from pre-historic times to the present. Greek art, expressionism, abstraction, and the paintings of Cézanne no longer merely recall some vague, misty, half-formed thought to their minds. The half-formed thought is now a definite idea. They study the achievements of past masters of art and through this study understand the aims of artists today.

Here's to more art for the Liberal Artists!

Education For World War II Vets

A/S Kevin P. Bunnell Ex-'47

Now that the end of the war is definitely in sight, the armed forces of the United States have begun to turn with real concern toward the problem of caring for the veterans of World War II.

Education has long been recognized as one of the most vital necessities to the successful operation of a democracy like ours. Suspending the educational activities of as many men of school age as are in the U. S. armed services would be a serious threat to the future of the nation unless the proper steps were taken to nullify that threat.

In recognition of this fact, the Veterans' Administration of America already has taken large strides toward the goal of making a completed education possible for all honorably discharged veterans.

Ex-service men are eligible for educational benefits provided: 1. They were not over twenty-five upon entering the service or if over twenty-five, that they can demonstrate that their education was interrupted by an entrance into the armed forces. 2. They have served 90 days or more not counting time spent in Army and Navy College Training Programs or in Cadet or Mid-Shipman Schools. 3. They start such education not later than two years after discharge from active duty.

Each man may go to school under government sponsorship for a period equal in length to the time spent in active service—not to exceed four years. Here again, time spent in Army or Navy Training Programs does not count as active service.

Recipients of educational benefits may take any courses for which they are qualified in any institution which is on the list approved by the Veterans' Administration.

All expenses up to $500 for an ordinary college year will be paid by the government. Such expense may include tuition, library and laboratory fees, books, lodging and other necessary expenditures.

In addition, veterans may apply for school or college credit for knowledge gained while still in the service.

The importance of education during the period of military training has been well recognized by the government. The Navy especially, has made outstanding progress along these lines. Most people know about the V-12 program and the opportunity it provides for men of college age to become "gentlemen and officers," at the expense of the Navy. However, few people are familiar with the effort on the part of the Navy to further the educational opportunities of ordinary enlisted men.

When the armistice is finally signed, there will be several million men anxious to return to civilian life. To release them all at the same time will be impossible, and as a result, these men will be retained in rehabilitation camps until they are ready to become civilians again. During this lay over time, each man will be given an opportunity to engage in an almost unlimited educational program under the direction of experts trained by the Navy.

This rehabilitation program has already extended to all the larger naval hospitals. At present, incoming patients are requested to fill out blanks giving information about previous education and courses they would like to study while at the hospital. Later, the patient is approached by a welfare officer and the necessary schedule is arranged.

All textbooks and supplies are provided by the Navy and upon completion

A U Church Helps Support War Children

Alfred University Church is one of the 78 organizations and individual residents of New York State who have contributed toward the support of children of the United Nations in England and Malto, through the Foster Parents' Plan for War Children.

John Clewly, a sixteen year old English boy, has been the Church's foster child for a period of about four years.

The plan operates 44 children's projects in England and Malto and is caring for British, Maltese, Spanish, French, Czech, Polish, Dutch, Belgian, Austrian, Norwegian, Hungarian, Danish and German children. These projects include the following: The Hampstead Nurseries; the J. B. Priestley Nurseries, Herefordshire; the Sanctuary, Stoke Newington; the Farm Colony, Market Rasen; the Westfield Colony and the Grange in Great Britain, and the Malta Colony, Siliema, Malta.

An International Committee composed of the Earl of Listowel, the Viscount Cecil of Chelwood, Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, Helen Hayes, and Russell Maguire are sponsoring the work of the Foster Parents' Plan for War Children which has helped more than 20,000 children since its inception eight years ago.

On the receipt of an application by the Foster Parents' Plan, the Foster Parent receives a photograph and a brief history of the child and pays $15 per month for his support.

Turnover Takes Place In Enrollment Of Institute

A rapid turnover in enrollment has taken place at the Ag-Tech School. Two students have entered the armed forces, two have graduated and a newcomer, Herman Miller, has enrolled in Agronomy.

Noted Carillonner's Son Is Wounded In Holland

The son of Dr. Kamiel Lefevere, the famous carillonner, was wounded during action in Holland and captured by the Germans. According to a letter just received by Dr. Ray W. Wingate, he was fighting with the Belgium army.

Dr. Lefevere dedicated the Davis Memorial Carillon and has played several of the Commencement Carillon Concerts.

ing his studies, the patient may claim college credits equivalent to the work he has completed.

The fact that the armed services have recognized the vital importance of education to our way of life is certainly gratifying. However, it is useless to assume that the government programs will serve as a solution to the nation's post war educational problem.

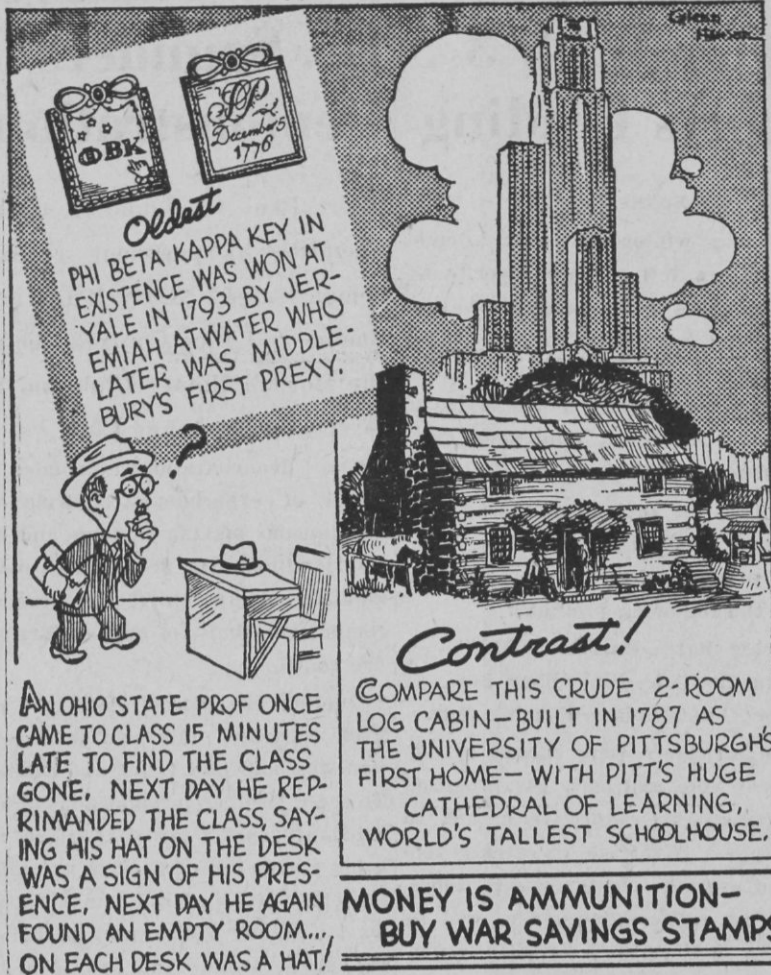

The only real solution lies with the individual. Each man and woman must become determined to continue his schooling after the war so that our educational system can begin again where it left off.

EDITOR'S MAIL BOX

Editor, Fiat Lux:

Last year the "Fiat" was faithfully mailed to me every week. This (school) year I have faithfully missed it. Do you still sent it to those in the Services? If so, please put me on the list now.

In case anyone remembers me around school, I am still at Quonset Point, R. I. Naval Base. Also, still in the control tower giving the stop and go to the hot pilots who come and go constantly.

I have run into only a few Alfredians in the last year or so. I understand Jerry Schwartz is or was in Boston, and I saw Ens. Bob Paskett in New York a few weeks before he left for the West Coast. And then there are always people who live near school who know people who attended our alma Mater. Glad the old gang corresponds so well tho.

In all seriousness, I would very much like to be on the receiving end of a weekly copy of the "Fiat." As so many other ex's and graduates have said, it is a paper that really means a lot to read now that we are all away from the Empire State hills. The day my husband and I go back while he pursues his degree can't possibly come too soon. So in the meantime I want to know all the news to be sure to be up on things and to send it on to my husband now based "somewhere in India."

Best of luck from one of your loyal Alfredians.

Editor, Fiat Lux:

Just a note from an old member of the chairborne command to let you know that the FIAT LUX is being received here regularly. Needless to say it is most graciously received, read and re-read and appreciated no end. Congrats on a fine paper, and also congrats to all those good people who have contributed so highly toward all those new developments on and around the campus.

R.G. McCutchan Visits Alfred's Church Choirs

Robert G. McCutchan, Emeritus Dean of DePauw University in Indiana and one of the United States' foremost composers of church music, visited Alfred Saturday and Sunday, November 18 and 19, as guest of the Southern Tier Choir Directors' Association.

At a reception and informal "sing" Saturday evening, at the Ag-Tech library Dean McCutchan was entertained by the University Church Choir, Seventh Day Baptist Church choir of Alfred, and the Alfred Station Church choir. On Sunday he conducted a hymn festival at Park Methodist Church in Hornell with the three Alfred choirs participating.

Charming the group with his kindly personality at the reception Saturday, Dr. McCutchan spoke informally and led the singing throughout the evening. Vocal selections were given by the chapel choir, Nellie Bond Parry, and the Rev. Albert N. Rogers, minister of Alfred Station Church, with the Rev. B. Davie Napier accompanying him at the piano. Rev. Napier also sang numerous songs in his own inimitable style and accompanied himself. Games were enjoyed and to conclude the evening's entertainment Dr. and Mrs. Samuel R. Scholes led a grand march ending at the refreshment table where cider, cookies, nuts, and candies were served.

The invocation at the Sunday afternoon festival was given by Reverend Rogers, the prayer by Reverend Napier, and the benediction by the Rev. William Semple. The organ accompaniment for the choirs was played by Mrs. Merle Greene. W. P. Austin of the Alfred-Almond Central School faculty was chairman of arrangements for this vocal service of praise.

SDB Choir Sings Thanksgiving Music

A Thanksgiving Cantata "Give Thanks Unto God" was sung by the Seventh Day Baptist Choir and directed by Dr. Ray W. Wingate at University Church, Sunday evening.

The Choir's voices were fully balanced in the opening chorus—"And The Lord Said" Virginia Spicer sang the Soprano Solo in her rich style. "Praise The Lord, O Jerusalem" and "The Pastures Are Clothed" was mellow and vibrant. The Mixed Quartet and Duet were beautifully accorded. Dr. Wingate gave ample proof of his skill as a musician and musical interpreter.

"We must recognize that in the Chinese is the greatest democratic spirit in the world," the speaker told the Alfredians who compose the class. He spoke of the deep sympathy which he feels for young Chinese students who know of the rich history which is China's and yet are terribly aware of the filth and incompetency which exist there today.

Dr. Sutton stressed the need for China which the United States has today, although she in her ignorance has promised aid to China only after the European war is won. He also pointed out the aid which China has given us in engaging the Japanese in contrast with the meager help through Lend Lease which the U. S. has given her.

In closing his extremely well-received address, Dr. Sutton prophesied that future history books will contain much more about two nations which have until recently been playing minor roles in world affairs—China and Russia.
