

Sixty-Man Squad Trains For 16-Game Schedule Of Varsity Basketball

Minnick Men Battle Brockport State Teachers In First Tilt December 7th; Home Game Dec. 14th With Buffalo

A 60-man squad is working out nightly here at Alfred University as Coach Daniel Minnick fights against time to ready his Saxons for a 16-game varsity basketball season which opens at Brockport State Teachers, December 7th, a little more than three weeks from now.

For quick games are scheduled, before the Christmas holiday recess. After Brockport, the Saxons play Hobart at Geneva, Dec. 10; Sampson College at Sampson, Dec. 11; and University of Buffalo at Alfred, Dec. 14th.

Newcomers to the schedule this year are Sampson, Susquehanna, Ithaca, Hobart, Colgate, Hamilton, Hartwick, Buffalo State and Allegheny.

Alfred will play University of Buffalo at Memorial Auditorium in that city, Jan. 11th, the first game after recess.

This will mark Minnick's sixth season as varsity cager coach. The schedule, which has ten games away, six at home, follows: Dec. 7, Brockport, away; Dec. 10, Hobart, away; Dec. 11, Sampson, away; Dec. 14, Buffalo, here; Jan. 11, Buffalo, away; Jan. 13, Clarkson, here; Jan. 18, Susquehanna, away; Jan. 24, Ithaca, here; Feb. 8, Rochester, away; Feb. 11, Brockport, here; Feb. 15, Hobart, here; Feb. 21, Colgate, away; Feb. 22, Hamilton, away; Feb. 24, Hartwick, here; Feb. 27, Buffalo State, away; March 4, Allegheny, away.

Pres. Walters Speaks To Phi Delta Kappas

"The responsibility of teaching young people to know human values will require better teachers who know not only the rights of a democracy, but accept the responsibility to teach these values and these rights to the students," declared President J. E. Walters to members of Phi Delta Kappa, national educational fraternity, last week at the University of Buffalo.

Speaking before the Alpha Psi chapter, President Walters stressed the importance of the atomic bomb, television, and jet plane in our modern life. "We need more and more science for the days to come," he pointed out.

President Walters went to say that "Besides living in a scientific age, we are living in a democracy." Here again, he emphasized, we need better teachers. Not only must the student be taught the privileges of a democracy, but also his responsibility to it. "We must find the essence of democracy and teach that responsibility," he said.

In conclusion, President Walters pointed out that a democracy is a cooperative rather than a competitive organization. However, to realize a part of the profits of a cooperative, each member must put something into it. "We must have great teachers of science and democracy and the fullest use of science for a better democracy and the most abundant life," he said.

Footlighters Begin Rehearsal Of Plays

Last week, the Footlight Club held tryouts for all students interested in taking part in the three folk plays scheduled to be given sometime before Christmas.

Unusual activity in the vicinity of Alumni Hall may be explained by the fact that rehearsals have already begun.

As yet only directors for the productions are definitely known. In the Shadow of the Glen, an Irish folk play by Synge, will be directed by Richard Tracy. Charles Jacobs will direct Swappin' Fever by Jonas, a folk play by Baker and Drummond about grape picking in the vicinity of Hammondsport, New York.

Dr. R. L. Warren Presents Talk On "Courtship"

Dr. Roland L. Warren, Head of the Department of Sociology, addressed a capacity audience at Social Hall, Sunday evening on the topic, "Courtship".

To begin his talk, Dr. Warren stated that he would not discuss "how to win friends and influence people," or how to find a mate, or the "sociological verification for experimenting with the ten commandments." He defined courtship as a process which begins with acquaintance and ends with marriage, and stated that courtship and marriage are treated as one subject by sociologists, being separated only by a ceremony.

Courtship, said Dr. Warren, is a cumulative process starting casually, and increasing in momentum. This acceleration is exaggerated among Alfred students, he stated, by a tremendous social force among the rest of the students, who begin to associate two people together and treat the affair as serious whether it actually is or not.

Americans are noted for a "romantic complex" which is not found in history or in other parts of the world. Dr. Warren defined romance as a summation of the ideas that persons were born for each other, and that courtship and marriage should be on a high level of rapture; there is no love if this rapture is not present. Dr. Warren here surprised his audience by crooning "The Thrill Is Gone" to illustrate his statement. The speaker found a close connection between this complex and the high divorce rate. He stated that this complex is treated by sociologists as a disease because it creates social problems.

It is difficult to find another culture in which the roles of husband and wife are so undefined, Dr. Warren stated. Each couple must work out their own roles, rights and duties with respect to each other. This, he said, is also considered a cause for divorce. The inability of persons to agree on this point is often observable during courtship, and if noticed is a good reason for breaking up the relationship.

We sometimes make the mistake of judging a person as a good or bad marriage prospect, the speaker stated. Actually, to whom the person would be a good mate is the question. Traits must be described with respect to the individual considering the marriage. "In Alfred," Dr. Warren said, "don't go out with anybody more than three times unless you are willing to entertain the prospect of marriage." Many people are married who should have known it was a mistake, but were carried by sheer momentum into marriage.

The present day "story book stuff" should not be expected in marriage, but should slowly fade into the background to be replaced by the building up of a lasting affection. We should think twice, he said, about whether the prospective mate is one with whom a satisfactory relationship could be established. The qualities which go to make up a "good date" are not necessarily the ones which constitute a good mate; they are independent of the actual critical characteristics. Dr. Warren suggested that during courtship, the couple should do more than take in movies and dances, but should engage in some activity which would develop a crisis, so that each may consider the reactions of the other.

People today are so well conditioned by pulp magazines and motion pictures to the belief that love should strike fast and hard, that they believe nothing is love unless it does. The physical component is necessary, Dr. Warren said—it is difficult to love a person unless there is an exchange of indications of affection. A certain amount of intimacy is a requirement of a successful courtship. However, when petting becomes a pastime simply because there is nothing else to do, the affair should stop, he stated.

Dr. Warren then listed several encouraging factors in courtship. These, he said, are derived from proportions taken of large numbers of marriages, and do not necessarily indicate success or failure in individual cases: (1) the happiness of the parents' marriage, and the happiness history of the individual; (2) similar backgrounds with respect to culture, economic status, religion, education, and

T B Association Sponsors Chest X-Rays Dec. 3

The Allegany Health and Tuberculosis Association will sponsor chest X-rays here on December 3 and 4, it was announced by the treasurer's office today.

These X-rays will be given at South Hall between the hours of 1:00 and 5:00 on December 3, and 9:30 and 6:00 on December 4.

The Powers X-ray service will conduct these tests under a new system which requires only one minute for the actual picture and no undressing.

All new students in all the various schools and colleges of the University who have not had an X-ray at Alfred are required to take this test. Members of the faculty, staff, and the rest of the student body may take this test for a fee of fifty cents.

The reports of all tests are confidential and will be made to Dr. Hitchcock, the university physician. Students whose plates show the need of extra attention may send the report to their own doctor and be advised and treated by him. They will be under no obligation to submit to further examination or treatment here.

French Club To Sponsor Ex-GI Paris Canteen

Hey, there GIs. You lookin' for the Madeleine? Remember how you used to look for it in Paris during the war, because right behind it you'd find the Red Cross Rainbow Corner?

Well, we haven't exactly got the Madeleine up here in Alfred, but the French Club will have a Rainbow Corner in honor of you ex-GIs who were in France or French territory. The date is Monday, 25, November, at Social Hall. Starting at 8:15 p.m., all are invited to be the guest of the French Club. You won't have to speak French or be a member of the club. Your ticket is your stay in France or any of its territories.

Mademoiselles of the French Club will act as Red Cross hostesses. French songs will be sung. Conway Britton will exhibit his collection of pictures and souvenirs, and if any other ex-GI in Alfred has anything reminiscent of France, he is requested to bring it along. The French Club won't guarantee Calvados, but it promises some real cidre. So ask your C. O. for a midnight pass so you can talk with the rest of the ex-GIs who spent some time in France or its territories.

Dr. Lloyd Lowenstein To Discuss "Summable Series"

Dr. Lloyd Lowenstein, Head of the Alfred University Mathematics Department, has been invited to give an address before the Graduate Mathematics Club of Alfred University.

The topic of Dr. Lowenstein's address, which will be given December 12, is "Summable Series".

Winter Sports Club

An important meeting of the Winter Sports Club will be held today, Tuesday, November 19, at 8:15 p.m., in Social Hall.

Dr. Harold Simpson To Head Glass Department In State Ceramic School

Successor Of Dr. Scholes Is Former Teacher, Research Engineer And Experimenter In Glass In Industry

Dr. Harold E. Simpson of Pittsburgh, Pa., has been appointed head of the glass technology department at the New York State College of Ceramics at Alfred University, according to an announcement from there.

New Department Head

Dr. Harold Simpson

Dr. Simpson succeeds Dr. S. R. Scholes who has headed the department since its establishment in 1932 and who was appointed Dean of the College in September.

Since 1942, Dr. Simpson has been industrial fellow for the Mississippi Glass Company at Mellon Institute, Pittsburgh, Pa. This work was related to the development of rolled glass products for fenestral and structural purposes. He has developed new glasses, investigated batch materials, studied wire netting for wire glass, and studied methods of finishing and decorating such products.

Prior to that, Dr. Simpson had been an industrial fellow for the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company at Mellon Institute for two years, and for four years was industrial fellow for the United States Gypsum Company at Mellon Institute, directing research on the fundamental problems involved in the calcination of gypsum. While fellow for the Pittsburgh Glass Company, he worked on problems involving the solution of gases in glasses and the durability of glass in storage.

Dr. Simpson was graduated from Ohio State University with the degree of B.S. in 1925. The following year he was appointed fellow in the U. S. Bureau of Mines at the Engineering Experiment Station, O.S.U., where he worked on problems on the specific heat of clays. He received his M.S. degree in 1926 and devoted the next three years to postgraduate study of glasses and enamels with special reference to various eutectic formations. At that time he was a fellow in the U.S. Bureau of Standards at the Engineering Experiment Station, O.S.U. He received the Ph.D. degree in 1929, majoring in ceramics and minoring in physical chemistry, mineralogy, and geology.

After receiving his doctorate, Dr. Simpson was appointed professor of ceramics and research associate in the ceramics department at Rutgers University, New Brunswick, N. J. While at Rutgers, he taught the glass and enamel courses and conducted research on glasses, glazes, clays, and enamels.

In 1930, Dr. Simpson joined the staff of the Battelle Memorial Institute, Columbus, O., as research engineer where he conducted studies in cooperation with the Boiler Furnace Refractories Committee of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers.

Dr. Simpson received the professional degree of Ceramic Engineer from Ohio State University in 1938. He has been a member of the American Ceramic Society since 1924 and is also a charter member of the Institute of Ceramic Engineers. He is chairman of the Film Library Committee and also a member of the program committee of the Design Division and committee C-11 of the American Society for Testing Materials.

Many of Dr. Simpson's experiments have been on glass of industrial nature and necessarily confidential. He has published several papers on other phases of the ceramic industry.

Dr. Simpson is married and has one son, born in 1943. They expect to make their home in Alfred.

Feb. Registration Closed To Freshmen

No freshmen will be enrolled here in February, 1947, it was announced by Clifford M. Potter, registrar.

Major reason for the limitation is lack of teaching facilities, Registrar Potter said. Applications are already being accepted, however, for September, 1947, although it is doubtful if as many freshmen can be accepted as were in September, 1946, because of the anticipated increased enrollments in sophomore, junior, and senior classes.

Social Institute Offers Awards For Best Essays

The Tamiment Social and Economic Institute announces an annual essay Contest, awarding $3,000 in cash prizes to the five undergraduate college students submitting the best essays on the theme—"Roads to Industrial Peace". There will be a first prize of $1,500; a second of $750; and three third prizes of $250 each.

In announcing the contest, Louis Waldman, chairman of the essay committee, said, "The purpose of this award is to stimulate college students to constructive thought on matters of social and economic importance. Our colleges, especially at this time when so many of their students are veterans, are no longer cloistered institutions, semi-detached from reality. College students, like the bulk of our population, need to be awakened to the implications of current trends and events. They realize the necessity of having a point of view, and of making that point of view a vital force, as alert members of the public.

"The Institute is convinced that in the colleges of the United States there are hundreds of students who will not only wish to contribute their ideas in a contest of this kind, but who have the resourcefulness, the originality and the knowledge to render their contributions valuable."

The rules of the contest are as follows:

1. All undergraduate college students are eligible. A contestant may submit but one essay.
2. The length of the essay should be between 5,000-8,000 words.
3. No manuscript will be accepted unless typed, double-spaced, on one side of the sheet.
4. The contest closes April 25th, 1947.
5. Send manuscript immediately upon completion to Tamiment Institute, the 7 East 15th Street, New York 3, N. Y. In submitting manuscript, the author should type full name, college and home addresses, telephone number and name of college on a separate sheet of paper clipped to essay. The manuscript will be coded by the Institute to insure anonymity. Manuscripts must be original, unpublished works.
6. Prize winning essays will be announced and the prizes awarded with appropriate ceremonies at the 1947 Conference of the Tamiment Social and Economic Institute at Camp Tamiment, Tamiment, Pennsylvania.

P. A. For Alumni Hall

A great many students have approached the FIAT about a matter regarding the assembly programs in Alumni Hall. The people who sit in the rear sections have great difficulty, at times, in being able to hear the speakers.

Several times we have asked students for their opinion on an assembly program and their answers have been similar to this: "Please ask someone who was able to hear the speaker."

We must realize that Alumni Hall is not of recent construction and, therefore, the means of controlling the acoustic problems are few. Any noise, such as coughing, whispering, or the clatter of late-comers tends to amplify two-fold throughout the building. It is no wonder that the speakers sometimes cannot be heard by the audience.

Certain speakers do not possess a loud-enough voice to be heard throughout the auditorium and when they try to speak louder, their manner of address is distorted. This gives rise to the uneasiness and restlessness that often seems to engulf the listeners, thus bringing about these little noise disturbances.

It would seem a wise decision for the University to provide a public address system at all times in the assembly room of Alumni Hall in order that the speakers might be heard by everyone. This action would rid the hall of the noises created by uneasiness whenever a speaker cannot be heard.

We noticed that there was a P. A. system in Alumni Hall only during Freshman Week, but that does not help the present situation.

Letter To The Editor—

To Editor, FIAT LUX—A letter.

Alfred is a cheapskate.

There are a number of young ladies on this campus who give unstintingly of their time and energy to show our teams some of the support they deserve.

They practiced and rehearsed so vigorously that after just watching them workout, I was often left feeling like Professor Campbell's proverbial kiln fire man on the Monday morning after a hard week-end.

I refer to the cheerleaders.

I, for one, believe that their "school spirit" is being abused by the administration.

To wit: A special kind of white sweater is a required garment for cheerleaders. The college formerly loaned these sweaters to the cheerleaders. Most of the last batch have since been worn out or lost. Right now cheerleaders are furnishing their own sweaters.

The U. B. game was the only "away" game this season for which the cheering squad were furnished complimentary tickets. We have no assurance that this act of bounty will ever recur.

Cheerleaders are obliged to provide their own transportation to away games. This is inconvenient for some and impossible for others.

All the girls should wear the same style skirt. This costs money.

The cheerleaders should not be obliged to spend their own cash as part of their service to the University.

The University should:

1. Give each cheerleader a sweater with an "A" on it.
2. Supply each girl cheerleader with a properly styled skirt.
3. Arrange to send at least one cheerleader to every away game where there is likely to be some desire on the part of the audience to cheer for A. U.
4. Furnish complimentary tickets to all cheerleaders for all away games that they wish to attend in their capacity.

To the Editor:

There have been a number of questions floating about campus in regard to the role and purpose of the Independents, occasioned, no doubt, by the posters which from time to time advertise meetings of the organization.

The group was formed to provide organized activities for those students who are otherwise non-affiliated. What do they do in the line of extracurricular activities? They present various types of programs ranging from discussions to musical programs. The variety of the "Indies" schedule is too extensive to list here.

All of you who were in Alfred during Homecoming week-end remember the Open House that the Independents sponsored in Social Hall for the entire campus. Everyone who attended that dance appeared to have a marvelous time as evidenced by the comments in favor of more such activities throughout the year. The Independents will carry out such a program, with your support.

The Independents do not ask you to join unless you believe firmly in their organization. Some of you may wonder how they exist, financially. The dues are $1.50 annually, which seems not exorbitant, even to those vets who are still threatening the postmaster with violence if he doesn't put their checks in their boxes.

The Independents is an organization found on nearly every college campus. The groups are local and not nationally chartered like Greek letter societies. The underlying "Indies" principle is the same on every campus, however.

When do the Independents meet next? November 25th is the day. They are presenting Louis Ranieri with his magic accordion. Louis played a few numbers at their last presentation, and the audience enjoyed it tremendously. He will play a repertoire of favorites for a community songfest. The program will begin promptly at 7:30 p.m., in Social Hall.

The next time you look at the bulletin board and see the Independents notices, remember the time, place, program and date. Come to the next meeting and spend an enjoyable evening.

I want to congratulate you upon your column "Music and Musicians". It seems to me an excellent thing and it is bound to create interest in the great art. All power to you!

Open Letter To Governor

The Honorable Thomas E. Dewey
 Executive Mansion
 Albany, New York
 Dear Mr. Dewey:

During the campaign and the subsequent elections, students were watchful observers of the gubernatorial battle in our state. They were pleased at the attention that their problems were receiving from both parties and are now waiting for these promises to be fulfilled and the problems to be solved.

The greatest of these, with the exception of getting into college in the first place, facing our student veterans is the problem of keeping school-books and soul together on $65 per month and that sometimes late. After room and board have been deducted, the veterans find themselves left with thirty to forty cents a day to cover the rest of their expenses which include such necessities as clothing, laundry and school supplies. Since a state bonus will be a dead issue until 1948, why can't New York take the lead and supplement this meager allowance out of our tremendous surplus? If veterans are to "enjoy" the benefits of higher education, they must be free to do so without worrying about making ends meet each month.

You are to be commended on your initial efforts to provide room for veterans unable to obtain admission to other colleges, but this job is far from complete. All reports from Sampson indicate a critical shortage of facilities and housing due to the slow pace of construction. A declaration to the effect that an emergency exists would go far in facilitating a speeding up of this necessary work.

Neither is the job begun by Senator Ives to eliminate discrimination in our state finished. Our colleges and universities still maintain quotas and other restrictive practices that must be outlawed by either the extension of the Ives-Quinn Law to education or by favorable action by the legislature on the Austin-Mahoney Bill.

The State University must be taken out of the "consideration" tag and put into the realm of functioning reality. New York State must take its deserved position at the head of the various states for achievement in higher education. It is a disgrace for the Empire State to continue to receive the "booby prize" for proportionate expenditure on higher education and to rank 27th in the number of students attending colleges and universities (this is in proportion to our population, of course). This unenviable record can only be improved by courageous and determined action on your part as chief executive of our state.

Good luck in this endeavor,
 Ingram Paperny
 Alfred University

The response to an appeal in this column for your reaction to a political discussion group has not been overwhelming. However, this does not necessarily indicate indifference; it may be due to the common practice of putting things off until tomorrow which never seems to come. So if you are at all interested let me know about and do it TODAY.

Research Notes

The work on the U. S. Navy Research Program is now nearing completion. Prof. C. A. Amberg, Head of the Department of Research, has announced. This project has been moved to a room in the northeast corner of the South Hall basement. Other rooms in South Hall are now being prepared for moving in several industrial fellowships to make additional room in Binns Hall for thesis students and new fellowships.

The schedule of meetings for students and those working on fellowships at the research station has been announced. All industrial fellows will meet Mondays at 4:00 p.m., and men working on the Army and Navy programs will convene Wednesdays at 4:00 p.m. The research staff will meet Wednesdays at 1:00 p.m. There will be a general meeting of all thesis students on the first and third Thursdays of each month at 1:00 p.m. Schedules for individual conferences for thesis students have also been prepared.

Ag-Tech News

Stop! Look! Listen! The Rural Engineers have again organized and have big plans for the coming year. The Officers elected are: Carl G. Korthals as president, Paul Wigsten for vice-president; Carl G. Smith as secretary; and treasurer, Henry Zygmunt.

After the club constitution was drawn up, the boys had a stag bowling party in Hornell the 7th of November. As yet, the year's schedule is tentative, but movies from the Farm Machinery Company have been planned for December 5; a sleighride is something to look forward to in January; and a dance is the highlight for February. Mr. Robert Burnette, secretary of the New York State Implement Dealers Association, will speak to the engineers in March.

Not to be outdone, the Frozen Food Club has come into the spotlight. The Frozen Food Institute of New York City, a nation-wide organization, has asked our Frozen Food Club to be a chapter of the University of the State of New York. Before any definite arrangements can be agreed upon, the club must await more information concerning the union of the two organizations, for which the secretary has written to New York City.

Student Senate

As the situation stands now there will probably be no extra buses to Hornell on week-ends. In order for the bus Company to operate such buses without loss, they must make $13.50 each night. They are allowed by law to charge only 25c for the ride. The situation is obvious and unless some campus organization guarantees the $13.50 nightly the buses cannot be operated. As far as the Senate is concerned this would be out of the question.

The avoidance of three exams per day is up to the individual and not the professor involved. All that can be done is to ask to take the third scheduled exam at some other time. The Registrar attempts to avoid three exams a day for everyone, but with so many people taking so many different combinations of subjects, no practical schedule could be made up avoiding such situations.

The University is taking action on the Infirmiry question along lines similar to those suggested by the Senate.

Changes in the cutting system is still under discussion in the Student Affairs Committee, and no definite proposals have been formulated.

Changes have been advocated in the set-up for cheer leaders. The Athletic Director would like to have the cheerleaders responsible to and supported by the Senate. If the organization were set up under a Constitution, it could apply to the Senate for financial aid. There was no definite decision but the Senate showed general approval.

Music And Musicians

Programs of native American music, having found favor with the public, are being heard more and more frequently. Probably the dean of the American folk song is Burl Ives. The recent Forum program presented a quartet called "The American Troubadours," which, while certainly eclipsed by the dynamic personality of Mr. Ives, was entertaining and pleasant to hear. We liked the informality of their presentation, and the descriptive notes concerning the music. There was much criticism of the choice of selections. Some said the quartet should have sung the more familiar songs. Others said the music was terribly repetitious and poor. We feel that there is much in favor of presenting unfamiliar music. Obviously, it gives one the opportunity of hearing music heretofore unknown. Also, the danger of poorly rehearsing something which has already been well done has been avoided. As for the music, and its merits, we can blame no one but the early American song writers. On the whole, we found the music simple and charming. Our favorite was "I Wonder As I Wander," which is not only fine music, but received an excellent interpretation.

William Billings' "David's Lamentation" and "A Virgin Unspotted" were also excellent. The section of American Christmas carols was perhaps the most enjoyable part of the evening, and the Troubadours should be praised for their inclusion of them, for they are most certainly a vital part of our folk music. While the American operetta selections "went over" rather well, it is unfortunate that they were included. Originally the Troubadours did not perform this section. But in order to please the audience, they thought they'd better sing some familiar music. It gave the members of the quartet an opportunity to do some solo work. As a result, they strained their voices and did not make a very favorable impression. They performed much better while singing together, although a slight lack of coordination was noted. On the whole, we feel the quartet was quite entertaining, and succeeded in giving us a picture of American folk music.

Our bouquets go to the quartet's mezzo-soprano, Miss Jimmie Jean Howard, who has a charming stage personality. While her voice is not great, it is adequate, especially in her humble and meaningful delivery of "I Wonder As I Wander". The American Troubadours deserve praise and commendation for the work they are doing in presenting the lesser known American folk music.

Bob Glacy is a deep-voiced WKBW announcer who sounds very much like Orson Welles. Every morning from 6:30 to 9:00 Mr. Glacy makes radio reception very much worthwhile with a continuous program of good music. Once in a while the music is interrupted with a letter from an appreciative listener, or with a singing commercial for which Mr. Glacy apologizes thus: "Our schedule requires. . ."

The "good" music includes everything from Bach's "Goldberg Variations" to Gershwin and songs of Marian Anderson. Three cheers for Bob Glacy and his fine program, the only one worth dialing in the early morning.

Saturday, 23 November, the Met will broadcast the second opera of the 1946-47 season. Lily Pons will sing the leading role in Debibes' "Lakme". Currently being aired over radio waves is a fine assortment of musicians, including the New York Philharmonic, The Boston Symphony, The NBC Symphony, and The Philadelphia Orchestra. Consult your newspaper or TIME Magazine for time and station.

Last week we suggested Paul White's "Sea Chantey for Harp and Strings" as a worthwhile beginning and introduction to chamber music. We nearly had a brick thrown through our window, for we had the audacity to place Mr. White next to Smetana. Our purpose was not to make a list of the world's greatest chamber music, but to help those who have had difficulty with this type of music. We feel the hardest thing about enjoying chamber music is to become accustomed to the small number of instruments. We meant no insult to Mr. Smetana, but we do feel Mr. White's music is pleasant and readily enjoyed.

People get funny ideas about music. Until the twentieth century it was beyond the reach of most people outside of the upper classes. Therefore, there is frequently the mistaken impression that in order to be a real music lover one has to be snobbish and bizarre and unique, stuffed ("n' stuff) concerning music. While this column is supposed to be slightly scholarly, we would like to say "hokey!" Today music is for everybody, for every kind of taste imaginable. The radio, the phonograph, and even the motion picture have brought good music within the reach and means of all of us. While our tastes should be guided to some extent, while they should grow and improve, there is no set type of music which we, as music lovers, are required to enjoy. Among other fallacies is musical criticism. It seems to be the vogue these days that in order to be a real music lover, one must be able to mercilessly pan anything and everything he hears. Then there are the folks who don't like Tchaikovsky because Grahms was better. Perhaps the greatest sin a music lover can commit is to compare two pieces of music, rather than judge them on their own merits. People seemed to enjoy Bach, even though they couldn't compare him with his successors.

We would like to conclude this week's column with one of our favorite quotations. It was written by Johannes Brahms: "One ought never to forget that by actually perfecting one piece one learns more than by beginning or half finishing ten. Let it rest, let it rest and keep going back to it and working at it over and over again until there is not a note too much or too little, not a bar you could improve upon. Whether it is beautiful also is an entirely different matter, but perfect it must be. . . . perfected, unassailable."

Committee To Visit Nearby High Schools

At the last meeting of the Student Affairs Committee an R.F.A. deputation committee was appointed to visit adjacent high schools to discuss college life. As the committee is eager for representatives of the nurses to accompany them to the high schools, a nursing group was invited to the meeting.

The committee is endeavoring to have the carillon concert played from 2:00 to 3:00 every Sunday afternoon, so that the music hour can be held from 3:00 to 5:00 p.m.

The problem of abolishing the cutting system was referred to the absence committee. The meeting ended with the perusal of the list of places for parking cars on campus. Nothing was done on this matter.

Intramural Program To Expand This Year

The Intramural Association wishes to announce the beginning of an extensive intramural sports program which will include competition in basketball, volleyball, ping-pong, badminton, tennis, softball, bowling, and touch football.

The basketball league will commence immediately following the Thanksgiving recess. All organizations wishing to participate will comply with the following:

The November Ping-Pong Tournament was finished Thursday afternoon when Sondra Rubin, '49, tied with Janice Scheel '50, for the championship. Sondra won both games, 21-4 and 21-6. Last spring, she was awarded a bracelet for being winner in all the monthly playoffs in Ping-Pong and she doesn't seem to have lost her spirit during the summer. Why don't all of you ping-pong enthusiasts give her some stiff competition in the next tournament which will start soon?

Wellsville High School has challenged the Freshman class Hockey Team to a game on Friday, November 22nd. They will leave from South Hall at 2:25 on that afternoon.

Interhouse volleyball games start this week. All of you who are on teams, please notice the schedule which is printed in this issue of the FIAT, and support your houses to the best of your ability.

Seven students braved the November winds and cold to shoot the last out-door Archery tournament of this season, practicing and shooting from 2:43 to 3:00 and making remarkably high scores considering the conditions.

The following scores were made:

E. White	239
*G. Grim	238
*D. Krauhaun	196
H. Barnes	129
*J. Burdick	127
Hubner	125
Barnes	75

* Indicates winners.
Last Thursday, Nov. 14, Dan Rose made his highest score to win the American Archers award. So far only E. White and Dan Rose have held this award.

race history; (3) a wholesome attitude toward sex; (4) long acquaintance and long engagements; and (5) a desire for children by both persons.

The floor was then opened for questions. Dr. Warren, in providing his answers, made several additional points. The attitude of the parents toward a marriage has a bearing on the probable success of the marriage, he said. The "three times and out" rule is more true on smaller campuses like Alfred than larger ones. The increase of the size of the student body may alter the case. Statistically, the most successful marriage age is 25 for men and 22 for women. Large age differences have a bad effect, especially if the husband is younger.

For each person, there are several with whom a successful marriage is possible, Dr. Warren stated. Little is known as yet of the effect of careers on marriage. Alfred is very cosmopolitan, and differences which may seem small here may be magnified in an intolerant atmosphere elsewhere. Generally, it would not seem a good policy for wives with children to work outside the home, he said. Some people will always require courtship, but sometimes a continual desire for courtship after marriage may indicate too short a one before marriage. The industrial revolution was the basic cause for the present changing of our entire social system.

Though it would seem that people coming from broken homes would try harder for a successful marriage, statistics indicate a higher percentage of divorces among this group, Dr. Warren said. Children of immigrant parents are poor marriage risks because they are trapped between two social systems. Americans place more emphasis on happiness in marriage than Europeans, who, though they do not have our high divorce rate, do have a larger number of mistresses. The present emphasis in advertising on glamour is a partial cause of our situation. Elopement has a high mortality rate in marriages.

The romantic complex is not all bad, nor are the declining birth rate and the increase in divorce, because they indicate some good tendencies. Our social and family system is changing, and the question is not whether the younger generation is more or less moral, but to realize that a new set of moral standards is developing. There is now more emphasis on the well-being of children, while other functions, chiefly entertainment, are leaving the home.

President Submits Report To Trustees

President J. Edward Walters will present his annual Report to the Board of Trustees of Alfred University at the autumn trustees' meeting at the University Club, New York City, on Tuesday, November 26.

The report will cover various activities and changes at Alfred during the past year and recommendations for the future, including organization, housing, women's rules, research, and alumni relations.

Presentation of the report will follow a luncheon at 12:45 p.m.

Local trustees who are expected to be present are D. Sherman Burdick, C. Richard Fenner, M. Elwood Kenyon, Hon. John J. Merrill and Dr. J. Nelson Norwood.

Courtship experimentation is not good, Dr. Warren said, because it develops a sense of guilt, a fear of illegitimacy, a feeling of social disapproval, and because one or both parties may believe it indicates permanence. The speaker stated that he favors birth control. When they should have children should be decided by individual couples, but a certain delay after marriage would be desirable. Vacations from marriage are a good idea for many marriages, though few like to admit they need them.

Next Sunday, the worship service preceding the R.F.A. program will be held in Kenyon Chapel at 7:00 p.m. Philip Meissner '50, will conduct the service.

Refrigeration Club Forms In Ag School

A new refrigeration club has been formed that will be of benefit to the Ag-Tech School. It promises benefits to its members in the educational and social aspects of the refrigeration and air-conditioning fields. The first lecture will be on the "Thermo-Bank".

To attain this purpose, this society will have field trips and invite outside prominent men to lecture on the latest advances in the field. Movies, slides, and demonstrations will also be obtained. A study will be made of job opportunities for its members. It is the hope of this society to establish closer contacts and cooperation among its members during school, as well as in the future.

The enthusiasm registered by its members will prove that the organization will be successful. Each and every member will have an active and important part in its functions. Mr. Magwood and Mr. Burzycki, two faculty advisors, are serving as guides for the club. Mr. Sicker and Mr. King will be honorary members.

Everyone interested in the refrigeration and air-conditioning fields is eligible to become a member of this organization. It will meet every first and third Monday of each month at 7:00 p.m., at the Ag-Tech building.

Theta Gamma Frat Initiates 13 Pledges

The first formal initiation of pledges to the Theta Gamma Fraternity in over three years took place Thursday, November 14. After the ceremony, Thomas Tomaselli, Charles Smith, Arthur Williams, Donald Jonas, James Travis, Sigfried Wuerslin, Mel MacKillip, William DeArmitt, John Palumbo, William Tisi, Robert Bauman, William Richtmyer, and E. Percy Tucker became members. The pledge dance, in conformance with the school calendar, will be held December 6.

Because of the war, Theta Gamma's activities were suspended and the house was closed in March, 1943. Last February the house was opened to students and they formed the Bachelor's Club. During the spring term a group of former active members pledged the men who were initiated Thursday evening. The members who have returned are Herbert Clemens, Carl J. Korthals, Carl G. Smith, and William B. Wiley.
