Alfred State hosts meeting on 'Start-Up NY'

ALFRED—Last week, more than 25 people from local industries, area governance, and regional colleges gathered in Alfred State's brand-new Student Leadership Center to discuss one of the most potentially game-changing initiatives of the year—START-UP NY—a statewide program intended to attract new investors and entrepreneurs to New York with the promise of operating tax free for 10 years.

During the forum, local business and government leaders voiced concerns about the program's impact, but most were tentatively enthusiastic about its potential, Alfred State included.

"We're ready to lead the region in the START-UP NY program," says Craig Clark, interim vice president for academic affairs at Alfred State. "The college's long history of supporting manufacturers in the region—from the skilled trades to engineering—positions us well."

With the implementation of this program, every SUNY community college and four-year college or university in the state will be able to establish an area in or around their campuses where approved businesses will operate tax free.

As Governor Cuomo begins urging SUNY campuses to start developing their plans, Alfred

State is taking a proactive approach to the new law.

Kenneth Adams, Empire State Development (ESD) president and CEO and commissioner of the New York State Department of Economic Development, made the trip to Alfred to aid in the discussion. He fielded questions about everything from the acreage allotted to private colleges under the program, stop-gaps against fraudulent applications, and benefits to local communities.

"I'm so glad I visited Alfred and had the opportunity to listen to community input and discuss how excited we are about the START-UP NY program," Adams says.

"The ability to have a real dialog with community leaders and Ken, who is helping to shape the rules and regulations, was a big plus," Clark says. "It was also great to hear that the local community leaders and government officials appear to support this innovative project and that ESD is building a remarkable amount of flexibility into the program."

Although any New York State college or university can participate in the program, private colleges are limited by a set acreage. SUNY campuses like Alfred State don't have the same restrictions, which puts them in a prime position to attract a diverse array of new businesses.

And with the new Sustainable Advanced Manufacturing Center (funded by a recent SUNY 2020 grant) soon to be built at Alfred State's Wellsville campus, Clark believes this will expand the area's attractiveness to manufacturers even more—bringing in much needed jobs and revenue.

"Attracting new businesses to communities throughout the state will be a boon to the towns they call home," Adams says. "We're going to workhard to bring thousands of jobs upstate each year."

Alfred State cuts ribbon of new campus facility

ALFRED—A group of students, faculty, staff, local business leaders, and government officials looked on as Alfred State Interim President Valerie Nixon on Friday, Sept. 27 finally cut the ribbon on the newest addition to the Alfred campus—the Student Leadership Center.

"As beautiful as the artistic renderings were, I don't know that we—at least I couldn't—fully conceive of how beautiful and powerful this building would be," said Nixon to the crowd gathered in the sunny park space inside the center. "An astonishing facility like this offers unparalleled opportunities to do great things, and we are fully committed to maximizing its potential."

Go back in time less than three years and on this very same spot, on a predictably chilly spring day, an excavator dipped its bucket into the earth below the central dining hall and effectively kicked off the $33 million construction project—one that would forever change the student experience at Alfred State. This revolutionary idea took a number of creative minds more than five years to turn what was essentially a dream of inspiring student engagement into an architecturally stunning and technologically remarkable building set in the heart of campus.

"Mixed into the concrete, the walls, and the glass were powerful ideas—civic engagement, student involvement, and leadership," said Former Alfred State President and current Millersville University President John Anderson during the ceremony. "While this space will generate an incredible amount of enjoyment and serve

of the Alfred Lions Club

ALFRED--Alfred Lions Club members were honored at the Lions' Sept. 12 dinner meeting for their significant contributions to the Club during the 2012-13 Lions year.

Kathy Benzaquin received the "Lion of the Year" award. Kathy donated the basket and solicited a generous combination of items from local businesses and craftsmen for last fall's Lions Holiday Festival Basket Raffle. With the energetic sale of raffle ticket by club members, the raffle was a great success in adding to Lions funds all donated to local groups and causes. In addition, Kathy participated in the 'Library Lions Story Time' at the Box of Books and invited her sister Eileen O'Connor, a professional puppeteer visiting from England, to do both a Lions dinner program and Library Lions performance with her puppet 'Biscuit'. Although only a Club member for a year and a half, at the end of the year, Kathy stepped up to be 1st Vice President and Program Chair for the coming year.

Sheila Foreman having quickly and successfully organized a successful Cuba Cheese fund raiser in Fall 2011, applied her organizational skills and enthusiasm to the development of a successful membership drive culminating in the induction in May 2013 of nine new members for which she had been given a District award. Sheila has agreed to spear-head another Cuba Cheese fund raiser this fall.

At the dinner meeting, several Lions were presented with length of Club membership pins: Sheila Forman - 10 years, Rich Calkins - 15 years, Stuart Smith - 40 years and Wally Higgins - 45 years. Also recognized but not present were Harry Snoreck - 10 years, Bob Heineman - 15 years and Kevin O'Buckley - 20 years.

many purposes, it will always be enveloped in those three dominant themes."

Not only is the facility home to more than a dozen storefronts (called leadership suites) where student groups can openly market themselves and their missions, a café, radio station, campus store, gaming room, climbing wall, and LGBT Resource Library, but it also provides space for the more than 90 active clubs and organizations at Alfred State to meet and strategize. And the building itself is one of the greenest on campus—utilizing sustainable features like geothermal heating, sunshade louvers, rainwater harvesting, a green roof, and highly efficient plumbing and light fixtures.

Student Senate President Josh Altemoos said he felt honored to be able to witness the building's evolution—from groundbreaking to ribbon cutting—and to enjoy increased exposure to the college's vibrant student life.

"This center will stand as proof positive of the college's commitment to student leadership and civic engagement for years to come," he said. "We are truly fortunate to be standing here today."

Fire Dept. throwing a party Oct. 20

ALFRED--The A.E. Crandall Hook and Ladder Fire Department has a new truck and wants to invite everyone over to play with it.

Come one. Come all. AE Crandall is throwing a party at the fire hall Sunday, Oct. 20 from 1 to 4 p.m. to celebrate its new ladder truck. The Department bought a 2006 ladder to replace its 28-year-old ladder truck and the truck is finally home in Alfred.

"We are very excited to finally get the truck," said Chief Zachary Hamm. "But it will be a couple of months before it's in service." The Department will need to outfit out the new ladder truck with gear and hoses, and then practice for actual emergencies. In the meantime, the old ladder truck will still be in service.

"This is a huge step forward in capability," said Assistant Chief Paul Weaver. "There's a 22 year difference in ladder truck design. The new truck is more capable and much safer, both for us and the people we are trying to rescue."

The new truck features a 100 foot ladder with a platform. The platform has its corners cut, allowing the truck to approach at an oblique angle, an improvement over the the previous design, according to the chief. The oblique angles allows for more maneuverability during a rescue.

The new truck can also pump 2000 gallons a minute, much faster than the old truck. "That's a lot of water," said the chief. "For us, the issue is getting that much water. In the village it should be okay because of the hydrants."

Although usually deployed in the villages (such as Alfred, Andover, Wellsville) with hydrant systems, the tankers can supply the ladder with water in rural areas. And the old ladder has been deployed to barn fires. Additionally, the new ladder truck has a small water tank, carrying about 300 gallons.

Please come join us. Cupcakes and goodies will be available. Additionally, fire extinguisher training for village residents will be ongoing.

Today the club includes ladies from Alfred, Alfred Station, and Almond areas.

Our topic of discussion during the meeting will be "Does this Club Continue?"

Officers are asking present members to bring a guest to see what we do.

The last two years the club has invited women and men business owners of this area to tell how and why they started their businesses.

The club has also been entertained by local musicians during the Christmas season.

We hope many ladies will be inspired by listening to a local business owner (it's a surprise!).

Muffins with two fruits, two veggies

Here's an easy and delicious way to use up that zucchini that threatens to take over the entire garden. Since you use applesauce instead of oil or butter they're better for you, plus you are using two fruits as well as two veggies.

The recipe came from the latest Penzeys magazine.

Carrot Zucchini Muffins

1 c. flour	¼ c. chopped pecans
½ c. whole wheat flour	2 eggs
½ c. oatmeal	2 tsp. vanilla
1 c. brown sugar	½ c. grated carrot
1 tsp. salt	½ c. grated zucchini
2 tsp. baking powder	1 tsp. orange zest
2 tsp. cinnamon	1 c. applesauce
1 tsp. ginger	½ c. crushed pineapple
¼ tsp. ground cloves	½ c. coconut
½ c. raisins

Preheat oven to 350. Grease muffin pans. In a large bowl combine the flours, oatmeal, brown sugar, salt, baking powder, cinnamon, ginger and cloves. Stir in the raisins and nuts and set aside. In another bowl beat the eggs until frothy. Stir in the vanilla, carrots, zucchini, orange peel, applesauce, pineapple and coconut. Pour the egg mixture into the dry mixture and stir until just combined. Do not over-mix. Put into greased muffin pans. Bake for 25 minutes. Let cool for 5 minutes before removing from the pans. (Makes 24 muffins.)

Book Spellin' Is Overrated

I'm rather an abecedarian
In the biblo-vocab'lary biz:
Like, I woke up a quinquagenarian,
Never knowing before what that is.

But that's but the least of my trouble;
My spelling is also atrocious.
As for rules—like, when consonants double?—
Well, let's just say...I wasn't perocious.

Cuz the doubles occuring in "occurring"
Make me tremble with terrible terror,
And my mind takes to blurring on "blurring",
So my "minuscule" has a miniscule error.

Now, "guesses" I guess in three guesses,
But "worshipped" I always have worshipped;
That "possesses" possesses five esses
Could turn once shipshape warships to worse-shipped.

The word "nuisance" is always a nuisance,
I've witheld one small "h" from "withheld",
And though I see right through spelling "translucence",
I can't tell that I've misspelled "misspelled".

Makes no sense to me how to spell "nonsense",
And "difficult" is difficult, though not hard;
But "strengths", on the strength of eight cons'nants,
Will knock you right off of your guard.

Moreover, "moreover" is bothersome,
And "peculiar" has a peculiar spelling;
I've been known to muff farther and father some,
While "misspelling" I still am misspelling.

Can a yeoman Roman showman spell "omen"?
I'm not certain; but "weird" I spell weird.
And though no man has yet(i) bombed "snowmen",
"Abominible" I bombed worse than I'd feared.

Nemonics won't help me with "mnemonics",
I can never spell "orally" orally,
My fonics mess up spelling "phonics",
And "embarrasses" embarasses me thoroughly.

However, however creatively
I may misspell, with boldness and courage
(In ways not how natives spell natively),
I'm one who is tough to discourage.

Cuz I can surely spell "bath" with no tub,
And "sauna" by sounding each vowel;
"Tarn" I don't tarnish or flub,
Though on "baptismal"...I throw in the towel.

My li'l blue beanie...

Good Evening,

Your little note on Page 12 "In the Alfred Sun 50 years ago..." (Alfred Sun Sept. 26) was surprising. I was a member of that freshman class at Alfred Ag & Tech in September of 1953, and I actually wore one of those "new" blue beanies for what seemed like months!

When I graduated from Phelps High School I was 17 and (terrified!) came to Alfred. However, if I am actually ten years younger, thank you!

Alfred proved to be very welcoming and I never went back home. I still enjoy every day that I continue to live in Allegany County.

Joanne Gifford Allen, ASC '55
PS: The beanie was eaten by moths along with my poodle skirt (tucked in the back of our first apartment's closet).

[Editor's Note: The piece about the beanie appeared in the Sept. 24, 1953 issue. It was "50 Years Ago" ten years ago. That's a total of 60 years ago, but you're as young as you feel!]

Ostrower's article 'prophetic'

AU History Prof Gary Ostrower's article, submitted for publication in last week's paper, was almost prophetic. In the event you didn't read it, Gary submitted an article in which he recalled "memorable" Alfred football games, concluding with a 2-0 Brockport win at Alfred in a snowstorm in November 1957.

Ostrower's story was a perfect lead into Saturday night's historic game at Brockport State, the first meeting of the Saxons and Golden Eagles since a 27-27 tie in 1994.

Saturday night's game was "historic" in that it was the first ever night football game at Brockport State and, its first football game played on its new artificial turf. To add to the festivities and to the crowd, it was Brockport State's Homecoming.

For Alfred football fans, it was historic for another reason. In going back through the annals, I cannot find a greater comeback victory in Alfred University's 118-year football-playing history. As reported elsewhere, AU, trailing 28-0 at halftime, scored 28 second half points to tie the game, then scored in OT to defeat the Golden Eagles, 34-28.

First "comeback win" that comes to mind is "The Miracle at Geneva" during AU's undefeated 1971 campaign. The Saxons had been stifled most of that game and trailed Hobart, 21-7 with less than seven minutes remaining, facing a 4th down from their own 24 yard line. As I remember it, from punt formation, Hornell's Bob Young passed to his brother Charley, who ran 76 yards for a touchdown to pull AU within 21-14. The defense stopped the Statesmen, then AU QB Jim Moretti engineered a scoring drive to even the score at 21-21. The winning TD was scored in the last seconds and AU had pulled off a 28-21 miracle win.

Then there was the ECAC bowl game with the University of Rochester in 2006. The Saxons, trailing 34-19, rallied for two late TDs to tie the game at 34-34 and won it in overtime, 40-34.

But a comeback win greater than 28 points I was unable to find. In AU's long football history, few teams scored more than 28 points in the Saxons' wins. Well done, Saxons!

Allegany County Legislator

BUDGET AND BALANCE TIME

The September 23rd meeting of the Allegany County Board of Legislators held special significance for me. It was our first meeting since losing a special friend and colleague, Doug Burdick. We observed a moment of silence in his memory and honor. His grace, wit, wisdom and peaceable spirit will be greatly missed. The meeting also happened to fall on my birthday. Fortunately, that event escaped any special notice. The meeting began, as usual, with the Pledge of Allegiance, led by former Marine Sergeant Ronald Meyer, of Scio. He had served with distinction from 1968 to 1975, during the height of the Vietnam Conflict.

Privilege of the Floor was granted to several organizations. United Way of Allegany County, represented by Barbara Bates and Alice Alsworth, shared a brief video about programs funded by United Way. Public Health Director Lori Balengee reported on the Allegany County Cancer Services program. Since 2007 this local volunteer program has raised and distributed more than $113,000 to cancer victims, primarily for travel expenses, treatments and prosthetics. The Board of Legislators presented a $500 contribution (non-tax dollars raised by the Board) toward this worthy service. Belinda Knight of ACCORD Corporation gave a presentation on Domestic Violence Awareness Month. A proclamation was issued later in the meeting. Public Health Educator Theresa Moore gave a presentation about Lead Poisoning Prevention. This is an important program that protects children who are among the most vulnerable to lead poisoning.

In a dramatic change from recent Board sessions, we acted on 15 different resolutions. As usual most were routine in nature. The Board created a part-time secretary position in the Public Defender's Office to be paid for from grant funds; appointed two members to the Office For Aging Citizens Advisory Council; endorsed a dental card program for residents of Allegany County, that provides discounted fees, but involves no tax dollars; rejected a bid on a tax parcel located in the Village of Wellsville; accepted funding from the NYS Crime Victims Board and set the salary of the Crime Victims Coordinator; accepted and appropriated an insurance payment from NYMIR; transferred funds within various accounts for the WIC Program, Board of Elections Accounts, and various Sheriff's Department Accounts.

The Board approved an agreement to allow the County to accept debit and credit card payments for fines, restitution and court surcharges. We approved renewal of the Court Security Agreement between the Unified Court System and Sheriff's Department and approved an amended PILOT Agreement for the Belmont Hotel and Apartments facility. The Board also took action to designate a sole newspaper for the week of October 12th, and directed that appropriate notice be given for the 8 year review of Agriculture District Number 2. Finally, the Board approved a new Snow Removal and Ice Control Contract between the County and various towns.

The biggest news of the day was the release of the 2014 County Tentative Budget by Budget Officer/County Administrator Mitchell Alger. The tentative Budget calls for total appropriations of $111,862,284. The proposed real property tax levy would be $29,430,463. The Tentative Budget is well under the Real Property Tax Cap limit, which is set at 1.66% for 2014. The Tentative Budget now goes to the Ways and Means Committee and ultimately to the full Board. If the Budget is approved as submitted the 2014 County real property tax rate will drop from $16.86/thousand to $16.70/thousand, or a nearly 1% decrease in average tax rate. This represents the fourth consecutive year of tax rate reductions.

The Board of Legislators will now get to wrestle with the Budget. Towns want more bridges repaired and/or replaced. Department Heads want to replace lost employees. County employees and their unions want increased wages and benefits. Taxpayers want lower taxes. The Budget Officer and Budget Committee have made a good start. The Board must now finish the job of preparing a fair and balanced budget.

AU to host jazz pianist Stephanie Trick in concert

ALFRED—Internationally acclaimed jazz pianist Stephanie Trick will perform a free concert on Alfred University's (AU) Miller Theater stage on Thursday, Oct. 17 at 7:30 p.m., thanks to support from the David and Elizabeth Miller Performing Arts Fund and the AU Student Activities Board.

Earlier in the day, Trick will lecture and perform at weekly AU's Bergren Forum, 12:10 p.m. in Susan Howell Hall (note change in Forum location). This program is also open to the public free of charge.

Trick's expertise is in the Harlem stride piano style, an orchestral style of two-handed piano playing that not only swings, but is also technically demanding and exciting to watch. This jazz style was developed in the 1920s and '30s. Her repertoire consists of authentic transcriptions of the great jazz masters of the era, Fats Waller, Jelly Roll Morton and James P. Johnson. She is also a master of swing and boogie-woogie piano styles.

Trick released her debut solo album "Piano Tricks" in 2005, which offers stride, ragtime, jazz, and classical selections. Since then she has released "Ragtime Tricks, Hear That Rhythm!", "Stephanie Trick LIVE," "Something More," "Two for One," and "Fourteen," released last November, the result of her collaboration with Grammy-nominated lyricist and vocalist Lorraine Feather. The album features the music of James P. Johnson and other stride piano composers, set with words and sung by Feather.

Trick began playing piano at the age of 5 and her piano teacher exposed her to early jazz. The syncopation and swinging rhythm piqued Trick's interest and became her field of study in college. She graduated with a bachelor of the arts in music degree from the University of Chicago.

She has been touring the world since her undergraduate days playing in the United States, Canada, Europe, and

STEPHANIE TRICK

Japan. Trick has performed in many parts of the United States and Europe in a variety of venues, including the Teatro Dal Verme in Milan, Italy; the Breda Jazz Festival in the Netherlands; the Arbors Records Invitational Jazz Party; the Sacramento Music Festival; the Cincy Blues Fest in Cincinnati; and the West Coast Ragtime Festival in Sacramento, CA. She was also invited to perform at the international Stride and Swing Summit in Boswil, Switzerland in 2008 and 2010.

You can see numerous video examples of Trick's performances on YouTube and on her website: <http://www.stephanietrick.com/>.

O'Connor to join Trick in Comfort House benefit

WELLSVILLE—Internationally acclaimed jazz pianist, Stephanie Trick, will be in concert at the Wellsville Country Club on Friday, Oct. 18 from 8 pm to midnight benefiting the Hart Comfort House of Allegany County for an evening of swing, stride, and boogie woogie piano.

Joining Stephanie at the event will be Allegany County's own jazz pianist, Peter O'Connor, along with Pete's band, the Jazz Ninjas.

Stephanie is a professional piano player who plays pieces with a punch that is matched by her precise interpretation.

A classically trained pianist, Stephanie began playing piano at the age of five. During the time between her beginning years and high school, her piano teacher exposed her to early jazz, and the syncopation and swinging rhythm piqued her interest.

Stephanie was the 2012 recipient of the prestigious Kobe-Breda Jazz Friendship Award, and has performed in many parts of the United States as well as in Europe in a variety of venues, including the Teatro Dal Verme in Milan, Italy, the Breda Jazz festival in the Netherlands, the Arbors records Invitational Jazz Party, the Sacramento Music Festival, the Cincy Blues Fest in Cincinnati, and the West Coast Ragtime Festival in Sacramento, California.

While having studied under a number of celebrated musicians, Stephanie is a graduate of the University of Chicago with a Bachelor of Arts in Music and was inducted into the Phi Beta Kappa academic honor society.

Tickets for the event are $15 in advance, $20 at the door and may be purchased at the Wellsville Country Club, or by calling the Comfort House at 585-596-1045, or online at comforthouseofalleganycounty.org.

A cash bar will be available along with a variety of savory hors d'oeuvres prepared by Chef King. It should prove to be an entertaining evening for your listening pleasure and dancing.

Box of Books Friends cancel 'Tastings, Treasures, Tunes'

ALFRED-- Due to a number of unavoidable conflicts, the October 26th Tastings, Treasures and Tunes event to benefit the Alfred Box of Books has been canceled. Committee members regret the decision, but realize that our already small number would be considerably depleted if we were to try to hold the event, and there are just too many responsibilities and preparations involved for so few to take on.

The Box of Books relies on our community to help boost their modest budget, and we encourage community members to do as some of our committee members have already done, and make an extra contribution to the Box of Books at this time. Further, please note that Friends of the Box of Books will hold a savory and dessert evening at Howell Hall on the AU campus in honor of St. Patrick's Day, Saturday evening, March 22, 2014.

The AU Chamber Singers will provide entertainment under the enthusiastic and capable direction of Luanne Crosby. Mark your calendars and plan to join us in March for a delightful evening of Irish music and delicious savories and sweets.

New artisans join Open Studio Tour

ALLEGANY COUNTY—Pottery, jewelry, glass, fine art, woodworking and letterpress printing by nine new artists and craftsmen join the 26th annual Allegany Artisans Open Studio Tour event in Allegany County. Fifty exhibiting studios make 2013 the largest Artisans event to date.

As the first blush of Fall color starts to show in the hills of Allegany County, Allegany Artisans announces nine new artists and craftsmen exhibiting for the Studio Tour this October 19 & 20.

The Studio Tour was begun in 1988 by a group of local artists and creative entrepreneurs who regularly exhibited at arts festivals and fine craft shows. Unlike their usual exhibition and sales events where many artists gather in a single venue, the Studio Tour invites the public to visit the artisans in their own workshops. The various potteries, wood shops, and other studios are organized for visitors with work put on display, so that the art may be appreciated and purchased in the same environment where it is created.

New exhibitors who join Allegany Artisans must be approved by a jury process to select for quality and professional preparedness by the Artisans Board of Directors.

In Alfred glassblower Stephen Edwards, who specializes in intensely patterned designs and artistic jeweler Len Curran, whose work combines a variety of alternative and recycled materials will be exhibiting for their first year with the Artisans Tour.

In Andover the colorful and sculptural ceramics of Mark Corwine will be shown at his studio on Route 417. Les McKay will exhibit his furniture creations made of native black walnut on Lever Hill.

In Angelica, Mary Warner is the first ever printer to join the tour rekindling the love of paper and ink with antique presses and movable type.

In Houghton, Nancy Petrillo's functional pottery is inspired by nature and captured in porcelain.

In Wellsville paintings of the rural Allegany Highlands by Pat Gay will be on display at her Donnybrook studio on Palmer Road. Marshall Green's ceramics are on display at Gods Mud Pottery on Stevens Street. Paintings, drawings and conceptual portraits by Sheila Kalkbrenner will be shown at her studio on South Main Street Wellsville.

These new exhibitors raise the total number of exhibiting studios to fifty, the largest number of Artisans in the twenty six year history of the annual Allegany Artisans Studio Tour.

The Studio Tour is a free event, open to the public without prior registration. Color brochures that include illustrations of the work to be exhibited and Artisan contact information, directions and maps can be picked up at many local businesses.

A complete listing of exhibitors is also online at AlleganyArtisans.com. The tour hours are 10 to 5 on Saturday October 19 and Sunday October 20. New exhibitors contact details:

JEWEL OF THE EAST

By Dr. Nicholas L. Waddy

Alfred State College prof publishes first novel

ALFRED--Dr. Nicholas L. Waddy, associate professor of History at Alfred State, has published his first novel, Jewel of the East, which is described as "a moving, masterful work of historical fiction, full of vivid characters, intense action, exotic settings, heartwarming romance, and wry humor."

The setting of the novel is British India in the late 18th century. The plot revolves around Lady Emily Augusta Fitzroy, "a beautiful but melancholy young noblewoman, packed off to India by her father in order to marry...the tyrannical Governor of Bengal." Before reaching Calcutta, Lady Emily is kidnapped by pirates. Colonel Charles Edward Fuller, a ruthless covert agent, is sent to rescue her, with the assistance of his handsome native lieutenant,

Mr. Neelan. Neelan and Lady Emily soon become lovers, but the Colonel is unwilling to give up his "prize." The result is a violent struggle between Colonel Fuller and Neelan for Lady Emily's heart, body, and soul...

Dr. Waddy has taught courses in European and World history for more than 10 years as an associate professor at Alfred State in Alfred. Although Jewel of the East is his first novel, he is the author of numerous articles and one book and is currently writing a Western Civilization textbook.

His writing style "features a passion for psychologically-revealing character development; steady infusions of fast-paced action; a fluid, narrative approach to storytelling; a knack for including accurate historical and cultural details; a sensitivity to the moral complexities faced by people in extreme situations; and a determination to draw positive lessons even from tragic circumstances." Waddy lives in Genesee.

'Let's Dance Club' begins 21st season

If you enjoy moving to music, come dance with us. It's all about having fun. You don't have to have taken lessons or know fancy steps. We play social dance music, such as from the 30's, 40's, and 50's, by artists from those times or up to modern times.

The Let's Dance Club includes members from Allegany, Steuben, Chemung, and Livingston Counties. It began its 21th season with a dance on Sunday, Sept. 29 from 2-5 pm. All dances are held at the Arkport American Legion, which has a beautiful wooden floor in its upstairs social hall—just wonderful for dancing.

The first dance featured the live music of "Musique" from the Rochester area. They play music suitable for social dance, including slow dances, swing, and Latin.

The Let's Dance Club season features five dances on the following Sundays from 2 to 5 pm at the Arkport American Legion on the following dates: Sept. 29, 2013; Nov. 17, 2013; Jan. 26, 2014; Feb. 23, 2014; Mar. 30, 2014.

The annual membership for five dances is $65 per couple and $32.50 per single, or a guest fee for each dance of $20 per couple or $10 per single. The Club is non-profit. The fees provide for the cost of bands, the rental of the hall, and snacks.

The dance club started in 1993 and was born out of dance classes instructed by Bill McCollum at the Hornell Intermediate School and by Joe Elliott of Dansville. Joe Canale, a local Alfred musician, organized these new dancers into a social dance club in 1994.

For more information, please feel free to contact presidents George and Carole Onoda (607) 276-5475; vice presidents John and Dorenta Cwynar (607) 324-0373; secretaries Duffy and Barb Elsenheimer (607) 295-7194; treasurers Charlie and Kathy Bill (607) 295-7130; ad hoc members Lou and Sandy Greiff (607) 587-8372.

Hornell Area Wind Ensemble to host Buffalo concert band in a free 'Fall Folk Festival'

HORNELL--For their opening concert, the Hornell Area Wind Ensemble's co-conductors Edward Belin and Christopher Lynn have planned "A Fall Folk Festival."

This musical event will be held in the Hornell High School Auditorium beginning at 7:30 p.m. Saturday, Oct. 12. The free concert will feature as guest musicians the Buffalo Niagara Concert Band under the direction of Amy Steiner. Each ensemble will first play separately, then join together for a rousing finish to the performance.

The Wind Ensemble welcomes back Mark Smith as Master of Ceremonies, who will entertain with his engaging narratives throughout the evening. You'll be treated to a variety of musical pieces, each of which relates in some way to ethnic folk music from various regions of the world.

The following pieces will be performed by the Hornell Ensemble under the direction of Christopher Lynn:

"España Cani" by Pasqual Marquina, a dramatic pasodoble (double step). It's a piece in march tempo traditionally played at bullfights.

Percy Grainger composed "Colonial Song" in 1911 as a gift for his mother. He noted that it was an attempt to create a melody reminiscent of the Australian countryside.

"Concord," by Clare Grundman, was commissioned by the U.S. Marine Corps Band. It's an inventive rendering of three traditional tunes from the American Colonial era. Most impressive of these is "White Cockade," played by Hornell's own fife and drum corps!

In 1923, Ralph Vaughn Williams composed "Folk Song Suite for Military Band." In three movements, this suite contains many different folk songs from the Norfolk and Somerset regions of England.

The Buffalo Niagara Concert Band, under the direction of Amy Steiner will next take center stage with "American Overture" by Joseph Willcox Jenkins. It's a high-energy expression of music that puts every section of the band in the spotlight.

"Variations on a Korean Folksong" consists of a set of differing renditions of the folksong 'Ariang', which the composer heard in South Korea with the U.S. Army in the late 1950s.

"Shenandoah" is a traditional American folk song arranged by Frank Tichelli, and together with "Parade of the Tall Ships" expresses the beauty of early songs and the glory of tall sailing vessels.

The evening ends with conductors Christopher Lynn and Amy Steiner sharing the podium for an epic conclusion, with all members of the Wind Ensemble and Concert Band on stage. They'll play two movements of Vasily Kalinnikov's "Symphony No.1 in G Minor": Andante Commodamente, which contains hints of Russian folk melodies, and the fourth movement "Finale." It is a lush, celebratory piece which ends in harmonious triumph.

This concert is sponsored in part by public funds from the New York State Council on the Arts Decentralization Program and is administered locally by the ARTS' Council of the Southern Finger Lakes.

JONY JAMES

Jony James Blues Band to perform in Wellsville

WELLSVILLE--The Jony James Blues Band will perform at 8 p.m. Saturday, Oct. 12 at the Wellsville Creative Arts Center. Advanced tickets are $10, $12 at door. Members save an additional $2. Tickets may be purchased online at www.WellsvilleCreativeArtsCenter.com or at the Art Center Coffee House. For more information visit the website or call 585-593-3000.

Jony James is overflowing with soul. It drips down from his hands onto his guitar, in lyrically urgent bends and intense ethereal assaults. It pours out through his weathered, leathery voice, telling vivid, open-minded tales of a tumultuous life, with his impressive song-writing skills.

His jovial, yet pensive nature is evident in both his music and stage presence. He is often compared to Stevie Ray Vaughn, however, his persistence on being "Jony" and playing Jony James' original "Survival Blues," sets him apart from the rest of the blues shows currently on the circuit.

Born in Buffalo and raised in Chicago, Jony became enamored of some of the South Chicago Blues legends such as B.B. King, Albert King, Otis Rush and Muddy Waters, just to name a few. At the age of 17 he played in Blues clubs in Chicago with other famous players of the day including Eddie Taylor, Willie Williams and J.B.
Hutto.

He returned to Buffalo in the nineties and began playing and writing his own distinctive "Survival Blues." His wonderfully inventive guitar skills are as good as anyone on the current scene, but the notes are played to serve the song. Jony's songs touch the world we live in today as well as anybody who is writing in the Blues genre.

In The Alfred Sun 50, 25 and 10 Years Ago

Compiled By DAVID L. SNYDER

Alfred Sun Editor and Publisher

FIFTY YEARS AGO, OCTOBER 3, 1963

Alfred University paid tribute during the Charter Day Opening College Convocation today to Charles Fergus Binns, the first man to head what is now the State University of New York College of Ceramics at Alfred University. Professor Robert M. Campbell, chairman of the ceramic engineering department, presented the tribute which placed Professor Binns among the select company of "Alfred's Great." The normal academic convocation in Men's Gymnasium marked the 106th year since Gov. John A. King of New York signed into law the bill passed by the legislature which chartered Alfred University...Prof. Binns became the fourth figure in Alfred University's long history to receive the distinction of being designated one of "Alfred's Great."...

It's not unusual to find members of the same family in the same class in schools of this area, but few kindergartens can boast having children representing two generations of the same family enrolled. Five-year-old Debra Nye, a student in Mrs. Josephine Rawe's kindergarten at AACS, proudly claims the title of "Aunt Debra" to two other children in her grade. Her niece, Susan Allen, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Allen of Alfred Station, and her nephew, Matthew Green, son of Mr. and Mrs. Duane Green of Five Corners, are both members of the kindergarten taught by Mrs. Evelyn Burdick. Both Mrs. Allen, the former Betty Nye, and Mrs. Green, the former Shirley Nye, are Debra's sisters. Mrs. Allen is the oldest of sixteen children born to Mr. and Mrs. Russell Nye of Hartsville Hill, and Debby is the youngest. All of the thirteen living children have attended Alfred-Almond, but this is the first time the two generations have entered in the same class. The Nyes lived in Whitesville until about 13 years ago, when they moved to Hartsville Hill. Of their "baker's dozen," seven of the children have married and have families of their own, and five are still attending AACS. Another daughter, also an AA graduate, is single and lives in South Carolina.

The life of the pagan woman and that Christian woman in Africa were compared in a talk by Mrs. Worth Cott, former medical missionary in that continent, at a meeting of the United Women's Fellowship of the Union of Churches Tuesday evening. Ms. Cott, the former Miss Euloh Purdy, spent over 22 years in Nigeria as a medical missionary. During that time, the mission station at which she worked grew from a few small mud hut-like buildings to a modern medical clinic with a large hospital complete with delivery room and laboratory. The speaker explained that only about 15 percent of the people of Nigeria are Christian, with the remainder pagan or Mohammedan. She cited a great difference in marriage customs between the pagans and Christians, noting that the marriages of pagan girls are arranged by their fathers and whomever they please...

THOREAU’S CAPE COD:

Retracing a famous 25-mile hike along a remote pristine shoreline

By ALAN LITTELL
Special to The Alfred Sun
October 1990

He was a comical little figure, Chaplinesque in his baggy suit and flapping hat. He twirled an umbrella as he strode.

Yet even for Henry David Thoreau, man-about-town of his native Concord, an old, historic literary community on the outskirts of Boston, the attire seemed curiously inappropriate. The New England essayist, naturalist and author of that classic of woodland nature-writing, “Walden,” had set off to walk not a city street but the 25 miles of uninterrupted beach stretching along the Atlantic coast of Cape Cod from Eastham to land’s end, in Provincetown.

The date: Oct. 11, 1849. Intermittent rain squalls drove down on the wind and across the beach. Thoreau would take three days to reach his destination, spending nights on the way in the cottages of an oysterman and a lighthouse keeper.

Ever since that blustery fall morning, a trek along the outer Cape has been called “Thoreau’s Walk.”

And one October day, setting out in much the same kind of weather Thoreau had encountered, I followed in his tracks.

This is one of a series of occasional articles by Alan Littell, Alfred resident and longtime newspaper and magazine travel journalist, on those encounters with places and people that have been the most memorable of his writing career.

On the map, Cape Cod has a singularly distinctive outline. It juts deep into the open Atlantic from mainland Massachusetts like a bent, arthritic arm. Eastham can be found just above the elbow; Provincetown in the palm of the fist.

Created by Ice Age glaciers, shaped and reshaped by wind, tide and wave, the peninsula is a hiker’s paradise. But it is also a bleak and inhospitable fragment of land—“a wild, rank place” without “flattery” or sentiment was Thoreau’s description in his posthumously published travel memoir, “Cape Cod.”

“Strewn with crabs...and whatever the sea casts up,” he wrote of his journey up the beach, “a vast morgue, where...crows come daily to glean the pittance which the tide leaves them.”

Like Thoreau, I arrived in the wake of a great northeast storm that had lashed the coast. But unlike the author, I came equipped with Gortex rain gear and waterproof boots. I toted a rucksack containing a change of clothes, some water, bread and cheese.

I began my trek on Nauset Beach below the abandoned Coast Guard station guarding the dunes at Eastham. Now part of the Cape Cod National Seashore, the beach lies a mile and a half east of the National Park Service’s Salt Pond Visitor Center and Museum.

From Eastham to Provincetown, all of the shore I was to hike is under federal jurisdiction. Long after Thoreau’s time, it remains a pristine, isolated wilderness, removed from development: a primal landscape of sea, dune and salt marsh.

Fall on the Cape is the season when bayberry, plum and scrub oak turn crimson and bronze, when the summer crowds have left, when nearly deserted beaches beckon the occasional traveler. In three days of tramping, I met no more than a handful of surf fishermen. I was the only walker.

As I stepped out onto the sand and headed north, I could hear a powerful autumnal roar along the outer beach. The tide was on the flood; the storm-roiled surf thundered over the foreshore in swirls and geysers of chalky foam.

On my left as I walked, the dunes had been undercut by a sporadic tidal surge. On my right, the overfall of surf washed so insistently up the shore that I fled before it from the relatively firm footing at the ocean’s rim to a loose, shelving strand below the bluffs.

I quickly began to tire. I had underestimated the drag of trudging ankle-deep through sand. To my dismay, it had taken an hour of calf-aching effort to cover the first mile.

Beneath Eastham’s Nauset lighthouse, I stopped to rest. Soon I could detect the first withdrawing flow of an ebbing tide. As the beach widened, the walking became easier. In front of me at water’s edge, sandpipers skittered and pecked. I chased up flights of gulls. A smell of seawrack filled the air—that peculiar perfume of salt and rotting kelp.

The sun was veiled in a gun-metal sky. The wind had a chilling bite. Ahead, dunes fringed with grasses the color of straw curled to the horizon like a long, low wave about to break.

Morning gave way to afternoon. When I reckoned from my map that I had hiked six miles, I opted to call it a day. A notch in the bluffs—I identified it as LeCount Hollow—opened out of the murk and funneled inland a mile on macadam to Route 6, the highroad running up the Cape’s spine.

From there, it was a short walk to a respite of profound and dreamless sleep in today’s equivalent of a Thoreauvian fisherman’s cottage, a 30-room motel on the outskirts of a one-time whaling village, Wellfleet.

The next morning, I tallied my reserves of stamina. Robust, I decided, but not unlimited. I wisely trimmed some distance from the trek. A purist would have backtracked to LeCount Hollow and picked up the trail again at the point where he had left off. Instead, I strolled north about a mile along the springy shoulder of Route 6, veering east on Cross Hill Road.

I rejoined the beach at a map coordinate called Newcomb Hollow, managing to shave three sandy miles from the hike. And by timing my arrival for ebb tide, I found a mple beach to walk on.

The day was cold but windless, the sky overcast. In the hard sand between the tide marks, I lengthened my pace. A storm debris of shells and driftwood littered the beach. The sea was still high. North of another cut in the bluffs, called Pamet River, the rollers crested in staggered volutes, folded back on themselves, collapsed in booming bursts of froth and foam.

There was, however, a new, steadier, rhythm to surf and waves. It was the rhythm of subsiding violence. Still, despite their weakened state, the breakers spilled up the shore in broad, scalloped sheets. They impressed me yet again as relics, or harbingers, of the sea’s destructive power.

Over the centuries, thousands of vessels have fallen prey to this battered and barren shoreline at an incalculable toll in human lives. I recalled Thoreau’s observation that in a Pamet graveyard alone, he had stumbled on a memorial to dozens of Cape fishermen lost in a single autumn gale.

Later, as he roamed the neighboring town of Truro, he dared not speak of the sea or of ships. “Who lives in that house?” he asked a passing oysterman in one memorable exchange.

“Three widows,” was the reply.

My ramble up the great beach was drawing to a close. After a second night’s lodging inland, this time in North Truro, I made an early morning start over local roads for the final leg on a falling tide.

I reached the shore well along the forearm of the Cape at Head of the Meadow Beach, with its undulating sweep of eroding bluffs. Here the peninsula began a long parabolic curve westward seven or eight miles to the north-facing headland known as Race Point and another two, south, into Provincetown.

Now, striding out with an easy motion, I reveled in the world around me. Today it was a world of elemental pleasures. The sun had broken through low-lying mist; patches of dune scrub ripened with October color.

It took little imagination to picture Thoreau plodding west on his own last day, scanning the horizon for a storm cloud or a schooner sail. And I reminded myself of his parting encounter with the outer beach:

“There is naked nature,” he confided to his journal, “nibbling at the cliffy shore”—precincts, he added, perhaps in wonder, perhaps in tribute, where a walker “may stand...and put all America behind.”

AU QB named Empire 8 Offensive Player of Week

AU freshman quarterback Tyler Johnson (East Syracuse-Minoa) has been named Empire 8 Conference Player of the Week.

Johnson was honored for his play in the Saxons' stunning 34-28 overtime win at Brockport on Saturday night. Inserted into the lineup at the start of the third-quarter with AU down 28-0, Johnson ignited the Saxons' rally with a 74-yard touchdown run with 5:18 left in the period.

He added a seven-yard run in the fourth to draw AU to within one score, at 28-20. The Saxons would tie the game later in the quarter and the contest went to overtime. After Brockport failed to score on their opening possession of overtime, Johnson hit senior wide receiver Jonathan Ruffin (Copiague, NY/Copiague) on a 21-yard game-winning TD pass on the Saxons' second play from scrimmage.

Johnson completed 11 of 17 passes for 157 yards and a touchdown. He also ran 15 times for 134 yards and two scores as the Saxons' improved to 2-1 on the season. Alfred plays next on Saturday, Oct. 5, at 1 p.m. when the Saxons play their Empire 8 opener against Buffalo State on Homecoming.

Alfred State gets first D3 win in Homecoming shootout

ALFRED--The Alfred State football team sent a large homecoming crowd home happy with a 55-41 victory over Apprentice on Saturday. The Pioneers rushed for 445 yards including a new school record 335 yards from Rasheed Williams (Swedesboro, NJ) in the program's first victory in the NCAA DIII era.

The Pioneers got on the board on their first possession when Greg Hampton (Uniondale) connected on a 28-yard pass play with Devin Simmons (Elmira Free). Apprentice answered back less than two minutes later on a five yard run by Johnathan Whelan.

Hampton and Simmons connected again two and half minutes later on a six-yard passing play but Whelan found Derek Banks on a 19-yard passing play just under four minutes later to tie it at 14-14 just over 10 minutes into the game.

Alfred was driving to take the lead back but Apprentice forced a fumble and Marlon Lane scooped it up and went 92-yards the other way to give the Builders their first lead.

41 seconds into the 2nd quarter, Hampton connected with Khiris Greggs (Rochester/Aquinas) on a crossing pattern that resulted in a 62-yard score.

Three minutes later, Whelan dove in from one yard out to make it 28-21.

After falling behind 28-21, the Pioneers scored the games next 27 points to take a lead they would never give up.

Williams scored his first of three touchdowns from eight yards out with 8:39 remaining to tie it up. Hampton dove in from one-yard out to give the Pioneers a 35-28 halftime lead.

Williams accounted for both scores in the 3rd quarter with Barry Sanders like runs. He scored from 27-yards out with 9:07 remaining and scored from 41-yards out with 23 seconds left.

Whelan connected with Chase Donahue on a 34-yard passing play with 11:50 remaining to cut it to a two possession game but the Builders could never get any closer.

Greggs scored on a one-yard sweep play with 7:12 remaining to make it 55-34 and Whelan threw his third touchdown pass with 4:39 remaining to Travis Turbin (19-yards) to cap the scoring.

Williams carried the ball 36 times for 335 yards. The 335 yards rushing breaks the previous record of 292 yards held by Nabil Ra'Qib El-Amin (9/2/2006). The 36 attempts is second most and the three scores ties him for the best performance in school history.

Hampton finished 10 for 19 for 179 yards and three scores. He also rushed for 78 yards and a score on eight carries. Greggs led the receiving corp with 77 yards on two catches.

Whelan finished 18 for 46 for 342 yards. Donahue caught nine passes for 204 yards while Banks had 69 yards receiving.

Keegan Phalen (East Aurora) had a monster game to lead the defense. He recorded 10 tackles, intercepted two passes, and blocked a punt. John Garbowski (Lakeland) chipped in nine tackles, a sack, a forced fumble and an interception.

Brock Bullock led the Builders with 15 tackles while Tequan Mayfield and Ishia Roundtree each had 13 tackles.

Key to the Pioneers scoring chances in the 1st quarter were two big kickoff returns by Ismail El-Amin (Rochester/Wilson). He finished the day with 157 yards on four returns including returns of 51 and 68 yards.

The contest featured 96 points, 1,087 yards, 54 first downs, 22 penalties, and seven turnovers.

Alfred State heads to Media, PA next Saturday for a 1 p.m. battle with the Mechanics.

HITS AND MISSES:

I'm not sure if it was the "greatest" Alfred Saxons football wins of all-time but am guessing it would have to rank as one of the most amazing comeback ... ever! Alfred University was at Brockport as the Golden Eagles were playing on their newly renovated field/stadium, under the lights, first home game of the year, on Homecoming Weekend and, oh yes, Brockport was ahead at the half, 28-0. Yikes. Coach Dave Murray's troops rallied to tie the game with 28-points of their own in the second half and then added on six more in OT to pull out an improbable Division III victory. AU thus had rattled off 34-unanswered points. Not sure that has happened too many times in Alfred lore? The Saxons (2-1) now host a vastly improved Buffalo State team this Saturday on their home turf. The Bengals are smarting from a, 24-20 loss to the Ithaca Bombers on Saturday past.

In other Division III football games of note on a crazy Saturday, it was: Ithaca pulling out their win over the Bengals on a touchdown with 0:22 left on the clock ... SJ Fisher stopped Cortland at Growney Stadium, 33-25 as the Cardinals scored 19-points in the fourth period ... the University of Rochester stunned Springfield, 36-35 with a TD catch as time expired and a two-point conversion (wow!) ... and Hobart squashed the Merchant Marine, 24-8.

The Major League Baseball regular season came to a close on Sunday with a no-hitter in Miami, two teams tied for an AL wild card berth and the Yanks saying "good-bye" to Mariano Rivera and Andy Pettitte in Houston. Marlins pitcher, Henderson Alvarez tossed the no-hit gem but he needed a wild pitch in the bottom of the ninth to secure the win. Despite his no-hitter, the score was 0-0 in the ninth as Miami scored the winning run on a wild pitch. Not too crazy. Tampa Bay and Texas finished tied for the second AL wild card slot, they squared off Monday nite and the winner then had to go to Cleveland to play the 'Tribe ... just to advance to play the BoSox. Whew. The "Traveling Sports Fan" in Cleveland on Tuesday? Pettitte wrapped up his illustrious NY Yanks career with a complete game win in Houston, in his hometown and against team he played for in-between stints with the Yanks. No 'Mo in Houston and now, No 'Mo for the Yanks. Ouch.

AL playoffs - Boston and Detroit emerge. NL playoffs - Los Angeles and St. Louis survive.

Back to Mariano Rivera for a moment as the Yanks had a "send-off" in NYC for the all-time greatest closer of games. Very touching scene with Pettitte and Derek Jeter coming out to the mound in the ninth-inning to remove him from the game against the Tampa Bay Rays. Both teams and all the fans gave him a resounding cheer as he exited. As a life-long Yankee fan, very sad to see and as stated here previously, Pettitte is my all-time favorite Yankee pitcher. Will be tough to watch without them next year. Like "attempting" to watch the Celtics in the NBA after Bird, McHale and Parish all got old and retired. Not fun!

Was "not fun" in Philadelphia this past weekend either for the UPenn men's soccer team as the Quakers dropped games against Florida Gulf Coast and Florida International. Stephen Baker received two yellow cards in the FGC game, was tossed and had to sit out the next game due to that. Yuk. UPenn lost the Friday game, 3-2 in OT and fell on Sunday, 2-0. They now have a record of (2-6).

The Western Carolina Catamounts women's soccer team is at (5-3-1) in Christy Kaznowski's senior season on the squad after they dropped a 3-1 decision to Elon in Southern Conference action. Daughter of the once-legendary Kaz of local slow-pitch softball fame.

Going to head to Geneseo this Saturday to take in a Knights women's soccer game on a mini "alumni parents outing." Tried to get bunch of parents of former players together from few years back but no matter what weekend/home game you pick, conflicts are on the schedule. Coach Wiley's squad isn't exactly a scoring machine this season. Toss out a (7-0) win over Lycoming and the other eight games played by Geneseo have ended in scores of: 1-0, 1-0, 2-0, 1-0, 0-0, 0-0, 1-0 and 1-0 for a (2-4-2) mark in those games. Overall 3-4-2 and 1-1 in SUNYAC play. New Paltz and Geneseo this Saturday as the Knights have a very limited home slate this year.

Lane Kiffin out as head coach of the USC Trojans. Wow! The former head coach of the NFL Raiders and of the Tennessee Vols for one season is canned with an overall 3-2 record this year but an (0-2) Pac-12 record. USC was "nipped" by Arizona State over the weekend, 62-41.

Tiger Woods was named PGA Player of the Year and he grabbed the Vardon Trophy ... low scoring average, plus the Arnold Palmer Trophy ... leading money winner on tour, off his five-wins this season. Two wins in World Golf tournaments, The Players and two regular tour stops. No one else won more than twice. Woods will be on Team USA this weekend in Ohio at Jack's Place for the President's Cup competition.

Some vanity plates spotted here and there: ADKSPORT ... in Lake Placid, FCA LAX ... north of Syracuse, BLACLAKE ... by Pulaski and have been there!, BUBBA D, UHAVLOST (on a 'Vet) ... Dean "U" Long, plus with CT plates: DR COOL ... he didn't appear to be. A great trip to Black Lake many years ago with Orms, Obie, Firpo and George Benson.

The Buffalo Bills ... nice win over the Baltimore Ravens, the NJ Giants (0-4) ... ouch, the NJ Jets blasted by Tennessee and headed nowhere. The Bills are at upstart Cleveland tonite (10/3) and Obie is predicting "no contest" ... a Brownies win.

With a few options on the plate this past weekend, decided to head to Lake Placid to see daughter Lauren finish up running in the Ragnar Adirondack relay race event as she was competing with a group with Exceed affiliation, where she works in NYC. Headed over to the "Olympic Village" on Saturday morning after staying outside of Watertown on Friday nite. Took route 3 east, on a route not traveled by me in the ADK's, as I passed thru Star-Cranberry-Tupper-Saranac Lake(s) before arriving in Lake Placid on a spectacular, sun-drenched afternoon. Enjoyable ride, great area, and the foliage was awesome in places. Was able to surprise 3L as the group crossed the finish line and also see Rob & Julie Jock there as well. Parents of Rian ... former Geneseo soccer player and Mike, who was running for the Exceed squad too. After a brief rest (for them), the nine of us headed to the Lake Placid Pub and Brewery for some lunch. Great setting by Mirror Lake! An enjoyable, but quickly over, afternoon with that group as they headed back to NYC. This, after each had run (on average) about 28-32 miles from Saratoga to Placid. After saying good-bye to all, headed to the Saranac Lake golf course to get in nine-holes. Asked if the "assistant pro was available to play" but they sent me out with George and Mildred instead. That lasted one hole. Carded a (46) on a typical Adirondack course. Figured if Higgins was golfing in Saugerties at the Lazy Swan Golf & CC, I'd better get out this day as well. Enjoyable round. Then the day unraveled. The ADK's were booked. Called Becky at the Lone Birch Motel in Indian Lake ... nope, nothing in Inlet and Old Forge was swamped. Tourists galore checking out the changing colors and the festivals as well. The Moose Festival in Indian Lake. Yikes. After Old Forge, there is nothing until you hit Utica. So, drove back to Webster. Not what I had planned but was "winging it" anyhow.

A busy October of weekends planned ... Geneseo-Lake George-Alfred-Philly/DC on the agenda, next four weeks. Hope to fit all those in! Still want to get to a Webster Schroeder girls soccer game as well. Will pull it off. Have a great week everyone, an Indian Summer week.

THIS WAS the scene at Brockport State's newly-renovated Eunice Kennedy Shriver Stadium at the historic first football game under the lights with arguably more than 7,000 fans attending.

AUmazing!! Saxons rally from 28-0 halftime deficit to spoil Brockport State's Homecoming BROCKPORT—The Alfred University football team rallied from a four-touchdown deficit to defeat host Brockport, 34-28, in overtime Saturday night.

Down 28-0 at the half, the Saxons scored 14 points in each of the final two quarters to tie the game at 28-28. After stopping Brockport on the host team's first possession of overtime, AU scored the game-winning points on a 21-yard TD pass from freshman quarterback Tyler Johnson (East Syracuse-Minoa) to senior wide receiver Jonathan Ruffin (Copiague) on the Saxons' second play of the extra session.

With the non-league win, AU improves to 2-1 as the Saxons prepare to begin their seven-game Empire 8 Conference slate this Saturday against visiting Buffalo State. The Bengals (2-2) are coming off a heart-breaking Homecoming 24-20 loss to Ithaca. The Bombers scored the game-winning TD with 22 seconds remaining after the Bengals had rallied from a 17-7 deficit with two late TDs to take a 20-17 lead.

Alfred's comeback Saturday night started on the Saxons' second drive of the second half. After a Brockport punt gave AU possession at its own 26-yard line, Johnson — inserted after intermission for starting QB Dominic Scavo (Hornell)—ran 74 yards down the right sideline for a touchdown on the Saxons' first play from scrimmage, making the score 28-7 with 5:18 left in the third.

On Brockport's next possession, AU sophomore cornerback Calvin Bain (Rochester/East) intercepted a Ty Stoldt pass at the Alfred 30 and returned the ball 70 yards for a touchdown to draw AU within 14 points, at 28-14, with just under four minutes left in the third.

Johnson added his second TD run of the game, a seven-yard scamper with 12:11 left in the fourth, and after the Saxons' PAT attempt failed, Brockport led 28-20. After forcing a Brockport punt on the Golden Eagles' ensuing possession, the Saxons took over at their own 23-yard line with 11:03 remaining. On Alfred's first play from scrimmage, senior wideout David Lee Tack (Newark) tossed a pass to senior wide receiver Josh Phillips (Syracuse/WestGenesee) that went for 58 yards to the Brockport 19. Two plays later, senior tailback Tyler DeRosa (Miller Place) scored on a 17-yard run. Johnson's two-point conversion pass to senior tight end Alec Ladonis (Nescopeck, PA/Berwick) knotted the game at 28-28 with just under 10 minutes left in regulation.

Each team had a chance to win in regulation, but missed potential game-winning field goals — Brockport from 35 yards with 2:23 left, and AU from 22 yards as time expired in the fourth.

Alfred finished with 499 yards of offense, while Brockport produced 387. Johnson had a monster game, rushing for 134 yards on 15 carries, with two touchdowns, and completed 11 of 17 passes for 157 yards — all in one half of play. DeRosa ran for 39 yards and Phillips had six catches for 167 yards. Sophomore tight end Isiah Young (Groton) added four catches for 56 yards and Ruffin had two for 49.

AU intercepted Stoldt three times. In addition to Bain's pick, AU senior cornerback Andre McCloud (Bath/Haverling) and freshman nose guard Zack Bacon (Hornell) also had interceptions. Senior end Fred Langenstein (Pittsford) and soph middle linebacker Corry Wallace (Mastic Beach/Longwood) led the AU defense with nine tackles each. Sophomore tackle Zach Brinkley (Brockway, PA) had eight tackles and junior outside linebacker Justin Liberta (Hamburg/Frontier) had six.

Alfred has a Homecoming encounter with Buffalo State with kickoff at 1 p.m. Saturday at Yunevich Stadium.
