"Using DNA Sequences
To Trace Lemur Evolutionary History"
Leslie S. Emery
Biology Honors Thesis Seminar

Lemurs are a unique group of primates found on the African Island of Madagascar. By following the occurrence and inheritance of genetic mutations, Leslie constructed a phylogenetic tree that illustrates the evolutionary relationships between species of lemurs. She will describe how one conducts this type of evolutionary analysis and discuss the implications of her work on both the evolutionary relationships with lemurs and on conservation efforts in the highly threatened ecosystem of Madagascar.

Arts for Peace: Breaking Women's Silence

Women of Influence speaker; Dr. Mallika Sarabhai.
Monday, April 28, 5 p.m. at the Women's Leadership Center.

Dr. Mallika Sarabhai is one of the most well-known and well-regarded classical Indian dancers in the world. She is also a passionate advocate for social justice issues, including the ongoing problem of violence against women.

Using stage performance and television to educate and communicate, Sarabhai melds her activism and art in inspiring ways. Sarabhai's work is based in the Indian state of Gujarat, a site of ongoing religious and political conflict. Her work is therefore both ground-breaking and courageous.

Sponsored by NEH, the Marlin and Ginger Miller Dance Residency Program, the WLC, and the Division of Performing Arts.
