SPEAKS ON HELPFULNESS

Having been introduced by Dean addressed the Assembly, Thursday on the subject of "Helpfulness."

Mr. Jensen began his talk by giving a short explanation of America's foreign policy. He pointed out that it had always been one of helpfulness and friendliness, and showed how the United States had been of assistance to China in stabilizing her government, in introducing public conveniences and in converting her to Christianity. America has aided in educat ing her people and has on several occasions intervened for her when war was imminent.

The cause of China's present con dition, in Mr. Jensen's opinion, can be blamed on eight great factors: ignorance, vice, gambling, the use of opium, banditry, militarism, superstition, and perhaps greatest of all, jealousy. It is jealousy that causes her fitful outbursts of violence and prompts her to forbid foreigners to enter her gates. The remedy for this evil lies in young

The United States has always returned good for evil in its dealings with China, and by this Christian attitude has become an indispensible factor in the redemption of a backward nation.

THAT WOMEN ARE POOR EXECUTIVES

Pres. Clarence C. Little Speaks Before 300 Deans At Cleveland Convention

President Clarence C. Little of the University of Michigan, expressed his idea of women as executives, recently before a group of 3,000 deans of women in a convention in Cleveland, at which Alfred University was represented. He said he preferred the balanced judgment of a committee of three young women to the crystallized psychology of one older dean.

Because of its interest, the following was taken from a Cleveland news-

Chapel Hour

Since the recent change in the morning schedule, there has been considerable comment on the campus in regards to its advantages. Students are discussing it pro and con, and, needless to say, most of the sentiment has not been pro.

In fact, not only the students, but some of the faculty, are in favor of the old schedule. There are many arguments in favor of the former system, as was pointed out in last week's Fiat.

The half-hour at 10 o'clock was convenient in many ways to those who did not attend chapel. It was a rest and smoking period for those who have four morning classes. It was a half hour in which to "brush up" on a few points before an exam at 10:30 or 11:30, or to finish a lesson which had suffered neglect by reason of a date the previous evening. Above all, for late risers, it was a time to get a bite to eat at the Collegiate, wherewith to quiet the inner man until noon-time.

Because of these objections on the part of the student body, might not their collective opinion be obtained and considered? A student vote in assembly might not be amiss, and might show that the students do take an interest in matters which affect their welfare.

Easter Recess

Spring is almost here again, and with its nearness comes thoughts of Easter, with its brief recess from studies. This, in turn, brings up a question often discussed by students on the campus.

Why do we not start the Easter recess on a Friday evening, thus giving the students and fauclty members those extra four days to add to their vacation? There are several good reasons why we should do so.

The mid-semester grades are given out during the last full week of school before the recess. Then the students stay here over the weekend in order to attend classes for two days of the next week. That is, part of them do.

Some of the students cut these two day's classes, anyway. That does not help either the students or the instructor. Most of the classes start new work after mid-semester. They have two days of classes,—then comes a week's vacation. That does not seem very efficient, for one thing. Why not start the new work after the Easter recess, thus helping both the students and the faculty?

It is not only for this year that the calendar is so arranged. It has been thus for several years, and is so scheduled for next year. Why? What is to be gained through attendance on those two Lastly,—other colleges and universities have a ten day recess at Easter. Why should we not have the same?

Let us hear more about this subject from the faculty as well as from the students.

Here's one of interest to some of our wouldbe engineers. We clipped it from "The Polytechnic Reporter," of Brooklyn Poly, and are Lawrence S. Hopper '32 passing it on to you.

CONDEMNED

When the earth was created the Powers above Gave each man a job to work at and love,-He made doctors and lawyers and plumbers, and

He made carpenters, singers and confidence men. And when each had a job to work as he should, He looked them all over and saw it was good.

He then sat Him down to rest for a day, When a horrible groan chanced to come in His way. The Lord then looked down and His eyes opened wide,

For a motley collection of bums stood outside. "Oh! What can they want?" the Creator asked then. "Help us," they cried out, "a job for we men." "We have no profession," they said in dismay, "And even the jails have turned us away."

Said the Lord. "I've seen many poor things without

But here I find gathered the scum of the earth." The Lord was perplexed and then He grew mad, For of all of the jobs there was none to be had.

He then spake aloud in a deep angry tone-"For ever and ever ye mongrels shall roam. Ye shall freeze in the Arctic and there railroads make, Ye shall build in the Tropics and stay till ye bake, Ye shall cut down the mountains and not make

Ye shall burrow out mines in the bowels of the

Ye shall be paid nothing mid sorrow and tears, Ye shall work in the muck and be called ENGINEERS."

Wrestling season is over now for another year. While it proved to be a failure from the viewpoint of the won and lost columns, the strength of Alfred's opponents must be considered. Rochester Mechanics was undefeated this season, and Brown and Spring field are to wrestling what N. Y. U. is to football in the East.

Last year, wrestling was considered as a possible major sport here. To that sport's staunchest supporter a highly successful season should be expected next year. There is at least one man in every class that has seen action in three meets who should be eligible for competition next year. This fact carries the brightest future that any intercollegiate sport could

But one soon learns that organized sports for women is just a myth.

The expense for having women's organized sport would not be as great courts on which to practice. The chief expense would be the cost for an instructor.

This winter there have been several girls out for basketball practice. They tise on, and no ball. Now surely if they have enough interest to overcome those odds they ought to do something worth while under correct conditions.
