Campus Network Outage March 5

On Saturday, March 5, 2011 at 6 AM, ITS will be performing scheduled maintenance on the Campus Network. The following network services will temporarily be unavailable until the maintenance is completed:

- The "U: drive" server (Personal folders, Personal web sites, Shared folders)
- Campus Network Printing in common areas and computer labs
- Network Printing in common areas and computer labs
- Homework and quizzes accessed via WebWork Math Department server

The maintenance also includes one of the servers used to authenticate user accounts and passwords. While we have multiple servers that can authenticate user login requests, some people may experience intermittent issues connecting to network resources such as email, web portals and BlackBoard.

Visiting Painter: Heather Leigh McPherson

Visiting artist Heather Leigh McPherson will give a lecture
Thursday March 3 in Holmes Auditorium at 4:30 PM.
This lecture is free and open to the public

Heather Leigh McPherson is a painter, printmaker and sculptor who received her BFA from Washington University in St. Louis in 2006, and her MFA in painting from Rhode Island School of Design in 2008. She currently lives and works in Brooklyn, NY, and teaches painting in Providence, Rhode Island.

Says the artist, "my work imagines an afterlife grounded in the physical, questioning faith-based stories of how we die. It exchanges heaven for a new purchase on one's material body-in narrative paintings, characters both known and anonymous dig themselves out of the ground instead of passing on to a vaporous afterworld.

The narrative, admittedly absurd, is painted with utter sincerity. It becomes earnest in the scrupulous visual description of sites and events. In my recent paintings, passages of densely knit brushstrokes and neurotically detailed information have been grafted from Thomas Cole or Caspar David Friedrich landscapes. Materiality, critical to every dimension of my project, is linked to the idea that meaning is exactly located in the observable.

In March of 2007, I became fascinated with Anna Nicole Smith's death and her secular resurrection in the tabloid media. Painting her afterlife was a way to literalize the media's model of grief, and led me to the work I make currently. The three-dimensional pieces of Anna Nicole are both earnest effigies and dime-store parodies; they suggest the possibility of rascally sanctity while enacting remembrance through a decadent, manual activity."
