The campus has been hanging in suspense and waiting expectantly for the results of the 1955 Ugly Man Contest. At the November 3 assembly, Chuck Maass, president of A.P.O. awarded the Ugly Man key to Buzz Von Nieda. Von Nieda and George Meyers, last year's winner are both members of Klan Alpine. Forty seven dollars and fifty cents were collected from the contest and contributed to the Campus Chest Drive.

Results of the contest are as follows: Buzz Von Nieda from Klan Alpine with 1020 votes; 2nd, Harry Gurnick from Psi D with 934 votes; 3rd, Howie Jarolomen from Kappa Nu with 382 votes; 4th, Erf Porter from Lambda Chi with 261 votes; 5th, Ed Bertha from Delta Sig with 191 votes; 6th, Hank Graham from Kappa Psi with 189 votes; 7th, Larry Greenstein from Phi Lambda with 176 votes; 8th, Duke Rodemoyer from Bartlett with 142 votes; 9th, Harvey Mandell from Tau Delt with 116 votes; 10th, Frenchie LaBlanc from Theta Gamma with 64 votes; 11th, Bob McKinney from Kappa Sig with 21 votes; and 12th, Bill McAllee from Cannon and Barresi with 2 votes.

Next on the program was an exhibition given by the Alfred Fencing Club. Members of the club explained and demonstrated the use of the foil, saber and epee. Those participating in the exhibition were: Peter Richman, David Jones, John Miles, Marvin Triguba, Harris Freeman, Mark Bohannan, Sue Nielsen, Bea Romero, Linda Furman, and Georgia Machotka. An invitation for membership was extended to everyone interested in fencing regardless of their previous experience. The Fencing Club meets 3:30, every Saturday afternoon in South Hall Gym.

Education Week

Alfred University has joined educational institutions throughout the country in the observance of American Education Week, November 6-12.

American Education Week is set aside each year to highlight a deeper and more widespread public understanding of American education's fundamental contribution to a free society.

Dr. Lyman Judson, Assistant to the President, has pointed out that "Alfred University, by participation in the observance, seeks to better acquaint the resident of the immediate area with the role Alfred is playing in our American way of life."

The University's schedule of events, prepared in connection with the observance began Sunday, November 6, with a carillon concert by Dr. Ray Wingate, from 3 to 4 p.m.

A series of three outstanding classroom lectures will be open to the public Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday mornings. They are scheduled for 8 a.m. in Alumni Hall. The lectures are part of the civilization course.

On Wednesday of American Education Week, student representatives of high schools in Steuben and Allegany counties will gather at Alfred for a student council conference.

On Thursday, Alfred University students will hear Dr. George I. Blanksten of Northwestern University at a special assembly program. Dr. Blanksten will speak on "Latin America and the United States."

Alfred's observance of American Education Week will wind up Friday with the spotlight centered on the College of Ceramics. Dean John F. McMahon has issued a special invitation to the public to visit the Ceramics College next Friday afternoon from 2 to 4 p.m.

Winter Parking Rules Now In Effect Says Chief

Police Chief Wilbur W. Rounds is reminding car owners that the winter night parking regulations are now in effect. This means it is a violation to park on any village street between 2:00 and 6:00 a.m. from November 1 through April 30. The chief has given warning that lack of necessity for plowing the street does not mean violators will be overlooked.

Freshman Class Votes For Reps.

"Biggest in spirit and biggest in number!" The class of '59 manifested this spirit in the most enthusiastic freshman election campaign that this campus has even seen.

A nominations meeting was held at 7:00 p.m., November 27, in Alumni Hall to determine the candidates for officers of the freshman class. Five candidates were nominated for president, seven for men's vice president, five for women's vice president, eight for secretary and six for treasurer.

The candidates got to work with paints and brushes and the very next day posters were up on every available wall and tree trunk.

The FIAT LUX offered space to all presidential candidates in which they could present their platforms and qualifications. This offer was unique since it has not been made in preceding years.

The class of '59 inaugurated another "first." All men running for office were invited to make campaign speeches in the Brick lounge. The girls were also invited to speak at Bartlett.

Wednesday afternoon voting sheets were handed to freshmen as they entered the dining rooms for lunch. Each student encircled the names of the candidates of his choice and handed the sheet back to a member of the Student Senate as he left the dining room.

Votes were counted and the following results were posted on dormitory bulletin boards later that afternoon. The results were: Charles Bradt, president; Sam Iorio, men's vice president; Ernest Cicci, secretary; Lawrence Eaton, treasurer. Ann Holmes and Betty Reinke tied for women's vice president. There will be another election to announce the winner.

The FIAT LUX wishes to congratulate the new officers of the freshman class.

Four AU Students Attend Model UN

Alfred University has been invited to send a delegation of four students to attend a Model Security Council meeting which will be held December 9 and 10 at Syracuse University. This meeting is held annually.

Alfred has been invited to these meetings during the last two years. This year's delegates are Sherry Fine, Sidney Landau, Judy Lerner and Spencer Young.

Each college or university represents a different nation belonging to the United Nations. The country Alfred will represent has not been decided as yet, but the desired selections are Iran, Russia or New Zealand, in that order.

The agenda for the meeting are not known at present. Eventually four issues currently before the Security Council of the United Nations will be selected to be discussed at four consecutive meetings of the Council. Each delegate will prepare to discuss one of the issues as a representative of the designated nation. He will be expected to express that country's point of view on the subject.

Admission News

Beginning October 21, a four-day conference titled "Colloquium" was held in Herriman, New York for the purpose of discussing relationships between high school and college. Mr. Kevin Bunnell, Alfred's director of admissions represented Alfred University. The meetings were held at Arden House, a large state owned by Columbia University and used each year for this purpose under the sponsorship of the College Board. Top ranking principals and guidance counselors attended, with the purpose of combining their knowledge.

From this important conference, Mr. Bunnell drew two main ideas which he hopes will soon go into effect at Alfred. In the past, it seems, the admissions board has been secretive about the quality of the student to be accepted. This was done because the University did not wish to be placed in a category by the high schools so that they would be sent only one type of student with a particular average. It is now felt that if the high school guidance counselors are provided with information on the standard required by the University it would eliminate guess work and let each student know beforehand what his chances are for acceptance.

It was also decided that in the future, applications will be processed in the early fall of a high school student's senior year rather than in February or March. Interviews and college visits will begin in the spring term before their graduation year. If accepted, the student will be sure at this early date of a place in the entering freshman class. Those who are sure they wish to attend Alfred will have no need to make out other application forms for other schools.

Ceramic College Will Grant PhD

President M. Ellis Drake of the University has just announced the establishment of a graduate program leading to the degree of doctor of philosophy in ceramics at the College of Ceramics.

The new program will place special emphasis on fundamental research in ceramics, solid state physics, solid state chemistry and the earth sciences.

John F. McMahon, dean of the Ceramic College, in commenting on the announcement, said "The doctoral program will give Alfred students a better opportunity to prepare for the great technological and scientific challenges that will confront them in the future."

The University has been awarding undergraduate degrees in ceramics for more than fifty years and awarded its first master's degree in ceramics in 1932. This long and intimate association with ceramic education, together with an appreciation of the needs of the ceramic industry, led to the establishment of the advanced program.

The College of Ceramics is a recognized leader in the field of ceramics. Its offering down through the years have been in tune with advances in education as well as with the advances made in the ceramic industry. The research program of the college, which has steadily grown since its inauguration in 1936, is highly regarded by ceramic people everywhere.

"The doctoral program has been initiated with confidence," said Dean McMahon, "and the University is pleased to be in a position to offer increased graduate opportunities in the field of ceramic science."

Poli Sci Meets; Opinions Differ On Court Ruling

At 8:00 P. M. Thursday, November 10, the Political Science Club met in Kanakadea Hall. The topic for discussion was Race Relations.

Before this subject was presented to the group for general debate, the constitutional, national and international aspects of the problem of race relations were discussed by certain members of the club.

There was a differing in opinion between two exchange students present at the meeting. One felt the race problem definitely had international repercussions and was detrimental to the prestige of our country. The other student said that foreign nations are not aware of our federal system of government and think that the Supreme Court's decision on segregation meant actual and not theoretical termination of segregation throughout the country.

It was brought out that social prejudices stem from tradition and childhood teachings. Therefore, this existing discrimination cannot be wiped out by legislation alone, but requires voluntary assent. It was also pointed out that desegregation is an evolutionary process and not a revolutionary one.

The group generally felt that there has been a gradual move for equality as a result of past legislation and further understanding. Almost everyone agreed that this gradual movement will eventually lead to a type of social equality in the future.

Another important cause and root of racial prejudice was considered to be the status of the American economy. It was brought out by a student that segregation is now no longer as profitable as it was in the past and therefore the existence of it can only hinder our progress in building up a strong nation both economically and politically.

The meeting ended on that note and the club planned to meet Thursday evening, November 10, at which time Dr. George Blanksten of Northwestern University will appear before the group. Dr. Blanksten will be the speaker at the assembly program Thursday morning and will discuss Latin America and the United States.

Museum-On-Wheels; Artmobile Here

Alfred is to be included in the first public tour of the Artmobile when it comes tonight from 7:00 to 9:00 p.m. This is a museum-on-wheels with an exhibit selected and loaned by museum throughout the state.

Linn Phelan, local representative for the trustees of the project, has announced the Artmobile will be parked on Main Street, near the library. During the day it is to be parked in front of the Alfred-Almond Central School where groups of children will go through it.

He explained the purpose of this museum-on-wheels is to share art treasures more widely with the public so the teaching and appreciation of art may become more vivid and direct through inspiration from the familiarity with what is most creative.

Supported by the New York State Art Teachers Association, American Association of University Women and New York State Audio-Visual Council of Public School Adult Educators, as well as many private individuals, it is now on its first "barnstorming tour" after making its initial appearance at the New York State Fair in September.

Future Assembly

On Thursday November 10, an assembly will be held at Alumni Hall concerning Argentinian politics. The guest speaker will be Dr. George I. Blanksten of Northwestern University. Included in the program will be movies of various political scenes in Buenos Aires and several sequences of street demonstrations.

At Northwestern University Dr. Blanksten is chairman of the Committee of Latin American Studies. His official capacity at Northwestern University is that of associate professor of political science. Dr. Blanksten spent the years 1950-1951 in Argentina, and has made several trips to different Latin American countries in the past few years.

Dr. Blanksten attended the University of Chicago and received his Ph.D. in political science at UCLA. He is the author of "Peron's Argentina," and "Ecuador: Constitutions and Caudillos." Dr. Blanksten will remain at Alfred on Thursday and Friday and will be available for meetings with students interested in Political Science.

Hold KP To 59 Yards Rushing; Hobart Next For Clean Season

Special to the FIAT LUX

The Statesmen of Hobart College stand as the only roadblock between an undefeated and an untied season.

With seven victories recorded the hard hitting Yunevichmen need only one more victory, and the contest at Geneva on Saturday will tell the tale.

In the rain and mud at Kings Point on Saturday the Saxons defeated the US Merchant Marine Academy 19-0 for their seventh straight victory.

John Zluchoski scored once in the second period and again in the fourth. Between these two touchdowns was a Moresco-to-Schultz TD pass good for 34 yards.

The Saxon line gave up only 59 yards while Alfred finished with a net of 200 yards rushing plus another 78 through the air.

Alfred failed on a golden scoring shot in the opening quarter. Taking the first kickoff, the Saxons rolled from their own 19 to the Kings Point 3 — a total of 78 yards — but missed four times from a 1st-down setup on the Kings Point three.

In the last two plays of the opening quarter, Jimmy Hartnett made 10 and Zluchoski 4. Then Weaver made 8 to the KP 21 as the second period started. The Saxons were pushed back to the 36 on a penalty.

Moresco passed to Shultz who made the catch on the 10 and was brought down on the 7. Weaver hit for 3 and then banged to the 1 yard line. Zluchoski banged over for the touchdown.

The second half was only 9 plays old when Alfred scored again. A short kick gave the Saxons the ball on the Kings Point 24 but penalties had Alfred back on the 34, when Moresco passed to Shultz for the touchdown. Charlie made the catch in the clear on the 15. Weaver kicked the point to make it 13-0.

Kings Point had its one big shot in the third when Alfred fumbled on last down. The Mariners reached the Alfred 13 but then were stopped cold.

Alfred blocked a Kings Point punt on the last play of the third period. Farnan returned it 20 yards to the KP 20. Jimmy Hartnett passed to Shultz on the 5, Ryan made 3 and Zluchoski hit for the touchdown.

experimental. Whether or not they will remain in effect for the school year 1956-57 will be dependent upon their successful operation during the current school year.

What Is Liberal Arts

It might almost be considered a contradiction to attend a Liberal Arts School and then "major" in one field. But the necessity for specialized and extensive knowledge in a comparative narrow portion of what is known as liberal arts is recognized; until our system of education is drastically changed, until it allows for a liberal and broad education as well as specialized training, students must take advantage of the existing facilities in the liberal arts college. There are opportunities which the curriculum allows for taking advantage of the variety of courses in a liberal arts college.

To graduate, the student must restrict himself to a minimum of 24 hours in one field; this allows him to take a considerable number of courses in "allied" as well as foreign fields. But how many students take advantage of this planning in the curriculum? Most students graduate with twice the required number of hours in their major, and the minimum number of hours in the "allied" and other fields. This is where the general complaint arises that Liberal Arts colleges are graduating relatively "narrow" people, thereby defeating the purpose which is implied in the name "liberal arts."

There are some students who recognize that a true liberal arts education will benefit them as people, throughout their lives, no matter what restricted field they may enter. This fact is recognized by some medical schools. They recommend pre-medical students to major in a field other than one of the sciences. They argue that the necessary sciences will be taught in medical school, and that undergraduate work should be developed to making a fuller person out of the pre-med student.

Some students, especially those not planning to do advanced work, find it absolutely necessary to take a great number of courses in the field in which they will, upon graduation, attempt to make a living. But even under these circumstances, it is not necessary to completely confine yourself (aside from the required 12 hours in "allied fields") to the major field. Students should recognize the lasting value of a broad education, and attempt as far as possible, to widen their scope of knowledge through courses in many fields. A narrow education may make a man competent in his field, but does it prepare him to face life in all its complexity? Only a liberal education can attempt to prepare the student for the part of his life that he will spend outside his profession.

Senate Defense

Dear Editor:

In the Senatorially Speaking column of the November 1 edition of the Fiat Lux, the Student Senate was accused of legislating without regard to the wishes of the represented student groups. In order to remove this stigma from the records of the conscientious people who represent their groups in the Senate, I would like to inform the student body about the action on sending the band to Hobart.

The routine business of the Senate is accomplished without the representatives checking the opinions of their respective organizations. This method of conducting business is the reason for having the Senate because it eliminates the necessity of every organization on campus discussing Senate business in its own meeting.

The motion to send the band to Hobart was placed before the Senate on October 18, 1955. Because the original estimate for sending the band to Hobart was two hundred dollars of student funds, the Senate tabled the motion until the representatives could check the opinions of their respective organizations. On October 25, after this matter had been voted on in organizational meetings and Mr. Cappadonia had explained that the cost would be only one hundred and seventy five dollars instead of the anticipated two hundred dollars, the Senate voted practically unanimously to send the band to Hobart.

The Treasurer of the Senate presented his proposed budget for 1955-56 on October 18 and included an item of two hundred dollars to send the band to Hobart. Because this motion had been tabled, the budget was amended and the two hundred dollars was placed in a miscellaneous classification. By October 25 the Treasurer's committee had changed its mind about the feasibility of spending one hundred and seventy five dollars for a cause which almost the whole campus thought worthy.

The finances of the Student Senate are not so complicated that only a few specialized people can understand them. The Senators knew that the money was available and spent it in the manner which those represented wished.

I feel that the Student Senate has always tried to act in the best interests of the student body and that the members of the Senate resent the implication that they have disregarded the wishes of the students in this case.

R. Francis Tatnall

Election Thanks

Dear Editor:

I am happy to have been given this opportunity to sincerely thank all those responsible for my recent election to the office of president of this year's freshman class. In assuming this responsibility, I am sure I will receive the utmost cooperation from my very competent fellow officers: Sam Iorio, men's vice president; Ernie Cicci, secretary; Larry Eaton, treasurer; and either Ann Holmes or Betty Reinke, women's vice president. You can rest assured that you will not be disappointed with those you have chosen to represent you. On behalf of all of us, may I again thank you very much.

Charles Bradt

Print Collection

The University's collection of reproductions of paintings will be available for renting at 3 p.m. Tuesday, November 15th in the Student Union. The pictures will be on exhibit from 1 to 3 p.m., but no selections may be made until 3 when the order of "first come, first serve" will reign.

Prints may be borrowed for a period of one semester for a charge of 50 cents, or a dollar, depending on their individual original cost. All money received becomes part of a fund for adding to the collection.

In order that records may be kept in order, it is urgently requested that all prints at present on loan, or not previously returned be taken to Dean Russell's office in Greene Hall by Friday, November 11.

If Jesus were to return to earth again, there is a good chance the religious fanatics and reactionaries would attempt to remove Him from the scene again.

Senate Pres. Reports On Student Congress

by Al Potter

The conferences which I attended this summer were very beneficial to me from several viewpoints. They were a wonderful personal experience. The people whom I met and came in contact with were extremely interesting. However, there are other aspects of the conference which were even more enlightening.

Alfred University as an educational institution is not unique in having problems concerning student government and student attitudes. Almost all of the colleges and universities in the United States have similar problems regarding excessive drinking, student apathy and student participation in activities. However, Alfred University compares quite favorably in these areas to most of the other schools represented at these conferences.

Our student government is progressive. There are presumably three phases in the organization and development of student government at any educational institution. First, student government acts as a general activities coordinator. In the second phase student government represents and acts in behalf of the students in relations with the faculty, administration and other interests. When student government reaches the third and final phase, it is actively working in cooperation with the faculty and administration toward attaining the ultimate goals of the educational community. At the present time it is my belief that student government at Alfred is in transition between the second and third phases and actively working in segments of the third phase.

The conferences also served to bring to my attention many of the aspects of student government and higher education.

Previously, I had given these aspects little attention. Discussion and talks on the "Goals of Higher Education and Student Government" gave me a much better insight on what we are working for.

While at the NSA Conference I served on the Student Government Commission. The following is an objective comparison of student government at Alfred University and its activities to what the National Student Association considers good, effective student government. First, we must consider internal structure, representation and elections.

Representation: The Student Senate at Alfred University directly or indirectly represents every student on the campus. Direct representation is provided to those who live in fraternities, sororities and dormitories, this representation being proportional to population. For those who live outside of the dwelling units, representation is provided by the class presidents who are automatically members of the Student Senate.

Elections: Voting and participation in the past several elections has been good. In the general election last spring 55 per cent of the students voted. While this compares favorably with a national average of 40 per cent, there is room for improvement.

Internal Structure: The Student Senate has a reasonably efficient committee system. However, many improvements can be made in this area.

Second, we should consider student self-discipline. Unfortunately, at the present time an "Honor System" per se at Alfred University pertains only to women's hours. This is administered quite effectively by the WSG. There is much to be done in this area and eventually an expansion of student self-discipline should probably develop.

Third, we should consider the activities of student government at Alfred University. More specifically, we must consider the Leadership Conference, the Orientation Program, the Moving-Up Day Program and the relationship of the Student Senate to other campus organizations and the faculty and administration.

The Orientation Program at Alfred when compared to programs at other schools is excellent. It is a well-planned program, planned through the cooperation of students and faculty. The advisors are chosen carefully and given special instructions in how to "orient" freshmen. This program contains social events, tours, lectures and exams which definitely help orient the freshmen to college life.

The Leadership Conference, initiated in the spring of 1953, is of definite value to the campus. While participation in the past has been small, the conferences have been quite successful. With increased attendance and interest on the part of faculty and students the annual Leadership Conference will be even more worthwhile.

The Moving Up Day Program at Alfred which once posed a serious problem has been successfully solved by joint student-faculty efforts. The program is now a very constructive one and in the true spirit of "Moving Up Day."

Relations between the student body and especially the Student Senate to other organizations and the faculty and administration are good. At the present time an attitude and spirit of cooperation exists. The administration of the University has been especially helpful by promoting student interest and participation in University activities. Representatives of the student body serve as members of various student-faculty committees. Unknown to many students are many student-faculty committees. Such committees are: the Assembly Committee, Forum Committee, St. Pat's Committee, Discipline Committee and the committee which is currently gathering suggestions for the "New Union" building. At the present time, the Senate and certain members of the administration are considering reviving the old "Student Activities Committee" which proved helpful in the past. As you can see, there are various committees with student representatives, continually working to make Alfred University an even better place to get an education.

Student government at Alfred University is relatively good. However, improvements can certainly be made. The main problem which was as students face is maintaining a constructive, positive attitude toward education in general and student government in particular.

"Shadow" Production Progresses; Work Begun On Set, Other Phases

by Carol Silver

That "theatre" is composed of more than actors and a play, may seem to be an obvious statement. Not many people, however, are aware of the complex and varied technical aspects of a production. Makeup, lighting, props, sets, costumes, publicity, sound and construction are all essentials in the production of any play. The skill with which they are handled may mean the difference between a mediocre performance and a memorable one.

"Shadow of a Gunman," to be presented by the Footlight Club of Alfred University on December fourteenth and fifteenth, represents an unusual challenge to the technical crews. It is realistically set, in Dublin's Hill-Joy Square tenement district, and occurs during a definite period of time, May 1920 during one of the phases of the Irish Revolution. The problem is created by the fact that though seeing one room only, the audience must still grasp and understand the outside environment and its occupants.

Essential to creating this "world within a world" is a good set. From several ideas submitted, Bert Katz's stage design was chosen. The room, that of Seumas Shields, features an interesting breakup of line and color. Bert has designed a basically realistic set since the environment must grow out of the play and O'Casey (the author) makes quite clear what is desired. Nevertheless, it is a varied and interesting design as it manages to capture the bleak realism of a tenement, peopled by rather weary "cliff-dwellers" and torn by the tensions of a society in rebellion.

Lighting, designed and executed by Steven Homer and Barbara Long, is needed to further the mood of the setting as well as to create several special effects. As the action of the play occurs within twenty-four hours, it must catch the changes of daylight, from the rising of the morning sun to the trickling in of moonlight, a special problem as the light must appear from the outside and yet be visible on stage.

It is the job of the construction crew, with Bruce Elkin at its head, to build the set created by the designer. The crew must change rather vague sketches into visible, practical props and flats. Work has already begun on this in the new Crandall Bard headquarters of the Footlight Club. Interested students are urged to help in this project.

Hand-in-hand with lighting and construction goes sound. The sound crew will be directed by Ron Shapiro and will create effects ranging from Irish folk music to the sound of an approaching lorry, and including such things as off stage voices and gunshots.

To further the impression conveyed by the actors, costumes and makeup are necessary. The costumes will be designed by Phil Bellomo and executed by Sylvia Johnson, head of the costume department. Makeup, always an essential, will be planned and designed by Linda Napolin. Here again, interested students are invited to participate. Sheets, for those interested in participation in the various activities to sign, have been posted in Green Hall, Room 2.

As the production progresses, several other departments will become more and more important. The publicity department, headed by Carol Silver, will inform students and townspeople of the play's performance date and time. Through the media of the press, radio and posters, it will try to work up interest in the play.

On the actual night of performance, the business manager, Paul Stillman, will take charge of the running of the theatre, while backstage Jenny Floch will be assembling and placing the props that her crew has accumulated. Phil Feld, the stage manager, will be in charge of the control and coordination of things backstage.

At the head of all these activities and in charge of all technical activities on stage and off, is Professor Jim Leonard, who is Technical Director for the play and responsible for its smooth functioning. A successful production is impossible without the sincere effort and technical know-how of all its members. All interested students are invited to try their hands at the various skills.

Senatorially Speaking

by Judy Lerner

At the end of last week's column, I stated that perhaps this week I would bring to light some of the finer aspects of Senate affairs. In line with this, last Tuesday night's meeting was certainly significant. Here, amidst other petty discussions and some out-of-order quibbling, the Senate took one big giant step which could prove to be the solution to one of the Senate's major difficulties.

There has been much disagreement among senators in the appropriating of money for quite some time. For instance, whether or not the band should be sent to Hobart was a major issue last year just as it was this year mainly because of the amount of money involved. It seemed that no matter what the nature of the appropriation or its intended purpose, there were certain senate representatives who would vote in its favor. And more often than not, the treasurer would find himself reluctantly signing checks. And while it seemed that a treasurer's veto to a requested sum was considered by a few senators, it was overlooked by the majority and, therefore, made null and void.

In examining the position of the treasurer, it could be found perhaps his senate-elected office was not being given the importance it needed, and that the treasurer himself could not do his job in a highly adequate fashion. In an effort to alleviate this situation, the present treasurer, Sol Schwartz, proposed that the treasurer be elected by the entire student body at the same time that the president and vice president are elected. His committee, which had been composed of volunteers, should then be elected from and by the Senate in such a way as to be made up of one representative from each class. The Senate quickly approved of these measures, and with the absence of sufficient freshmen representation, Joe Stein, Erf Porter, and Merle Arnold were elected to represent their respective classes.

The change in attitude showed itself almost immediately in the form of a Senate vote against giving twenty dollars to the R.O.T.C. band for one meal for each of its members at the Hobart game. The significant fact here was that roughly half-a-dozen representatives asked the all-time question of the treasurer, "Can we afford it?" Mr. Schwartz answered that of course, we could squeeze it out, but he considered it unwise to make such an expenditure at this time. Apparently, this simple statement carried more weight than the remarks of the R.O.T.C. representative whose plea was that the band worked "real hard" for the university so why shouldn't the Senate pay for the food? I don't really care to make fun of this statement, but quite a few people work hard for the school and without thought of pay-

The GOLDFISH BOWL

by Judy Dryer

The Kings Point game drew many people away from Alfred last weekend, but the campus had quite a bit of activity anyway.

Those from Delta Sig who went to the game were entertained by Bud Pepetone at his house on Long Island. Klan Alpine looked like darkest Africa Saturday night, with low-hanging vines and moss. Klansmen and their dates were transformed, for the evening, into warriors, wild animals, natives, missionaries, and even a palm tree. This was all for Klan's Jungle Party. Chaperones for the affair were Mr. and Mrs. Bill McCrea. Dr. and Dean Russell were guests at dinner Monday night.

Lambda Chi had a hayride Saturday night, followed by a party at the house. The Youngs and the Nortons chaperoned. Mr. and Mrs. Bower were guests at dinner Sunday.

Most of Tau Delta was at Kings Point, so there was no party. The biggest news this weekend comes from Campus House. Joan Harnett had her pony tail cut off last Friday afternoon. Georgia Jones was the fiend who did it.

Just to get things straight for all those concerned — Leon Ablon came from Harvard to see Marg Deck for the Castle's party, and Lou Krevolin came from New Haven to see Jenny Gobert. Lou is working at Glidden now, and will be in Alfred. The Gertzes were guests for Sunday-dinner at the Castle.

The girls from Pi Alpha have painted their kitchen "skyline blue." Mrs. Rabe painted the woodwork, and made the kitchen curtains. Rhoda Levine's mother was up to see Rhoda last weekend. Ann Peterson, Diana Smith, Ellen Lipsey and Dee Parker went home for the weekend.

Sigma Chi's honoraries gave the girls a dinner at Howell Hall Monday evening, October 31. The dinner was followed by charades and singing. Barb Frerich's aunt, uncle and cousin were at the house for lunch that Monday. Hopie Scott was married to Rod Benjamin in Cuba Saturday. Phyl Francis, Dorrie Wilson, Penny Svec, Mary Carmichael, Jean Britting, and Alberta Brown attended the wedding. Joan Murphy came from Geneseo State Teachers College to see her twin sister, Jane. Ruth Leisman's folks were down Sunday. "Windy" was visiting Jidge last weekend. Jo Tuccio was home several days because of illness.

At Theta Chi, Gretta Hansen's parents were visiting last weekend. Joan Trepasso went home late in the week, due to illness.

Jackie Ross was back visiting the girls at Omicron last Saturday.

No more news for this week. See you all again soon.

Student Outlook

by Marv Bell

No news is good news. Therefore, you should all be very happy this week, since we don't have a thing to say. Nevertheless, other people have got something to say, so here goes.

CAREER BLAZERS is a rather personalized organization, whose business it is to place selected girls in positions befitting their backgrounds, skills and male careers may be obtained free of ambitions. A pamphlet concerning fees by addressing an inquiry to Barbara Baer, Career Blazers Agency, 5 West 46th Street, New York 36, New York.

The United States Civil Service Commission has announced a new engineering examination for filling positions in the Bureau of Reclamation located throughout the western states and Alaska. The entrance salaries are $4,345 to $5,440 a year. Further information and application forms may be obtained from the U. S. Civil Service Commission, Washington 25, D. C. Applications will be accepted until further notice.

Dean Gertz has asked us to announce that all liberal arts seniors expecting to graduate this year, shouldn't!

The Fellowship Office of the National Academy of Sciences is now accepting applications for two post-doctoral fellowship programs in the natural sciences. One group which comes to mind is the cheerleaders. For some reason they haven't come for "lunch money" yet. I guess they know better by this time.

To say the least I was beaming all over the place. That's my usual reaction when things are going well.

sciences for the academic year 1956-57. Detailed information and application forms may be secured for these programs by writing to the Fellowship Office, National Academy of Sciences, National Research Council, 2101 Constitution Avenue, N. W., Washington 25, D. C. All applications must be postmarked on or before December 1, 1955.

"Career Opportunities in the Federal Civil Service" will be the subject of a talk by Mr. Robert Bulchis, U. S. Civil Service Commission representative, at 5 p.m. on November 28 in room 2, Greene Hall. Mr. Bulchis will discuss a variety of positions available to students who pass the Federal Service Entrance Examination. Copies of the announcement of the examination and information on filing procedures may be obtained from Dean Gertz.

Also available from Dean Gertz's office is the recent employment bulletin of the Armstrong Cork Company. This piece of literature lists important information concerning job opportunities in the fields of advertising, chemistry, design, engineering, physics, productions, sales, and personnel. Another matter worth looking into.

That about sums up the situation for this week. 'Til next time, keep a bright OUTLOOK, and remember: All generalizations are dangerous; even this one. (Figure that one out.)

Infirmary

Last week Dick Winchell of Ag-Tech. Howard Jarolman, Robert Perry, Holly Greenwald, Joan Kassel, William Rhodes, Martin Delin, Samuel Warner, and Peter Slomsky were "residents" of the University infirmary.

Chet Micicche, the Alfred football player who suffered a broken arm during the Alfred-Buffalo game, was still in traction at the hospital.

Buffalo, Rochester Alumni Groups Give Scholarships

President M. Ellis Drake of the University announced recently that Helen Marie Clark of Springville and Barbara Miller of Rochester are recipients of University scholarships awarded this year by Alfred alumni groups in Buffalo and Rochester.

Both alumni groups, the Niagara Frontier Alumni Association in Buffalo and the Rochester Alumni Association in Rochester, worked long and hard in an effort to raise funds for scholarships and were able to do so this year for the first time.

The two winners, now in their freshman year at Alfred, were chosen from a group of student applicants from the Buffalo and Rochester areas by a committee comprised of alumni and university officials.

Mrs. Charles Riley is president of the Buffalo contingent and was assisted in the scholarship program by Harold F. McGraw, a former president of the Niagara Frontier association.

President of the Rochester Alumni Association is Charles Reick of Fairport. Mr. and Mrs. Paul O'Neill are president of the men's and women's groups of the association respectively.

Miss Clark is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Clark of Springville. She is a graduate of Griffith Institute in Springville and is enrolled in the Liberal Arts College here. She is a member of the Footlight Club, dramatics organization at the university.

Miss Miller is the niece of Mr. and Mrs. Jerome T. Timmons of Rochester. She is a graduate of West High School in Rochester and is enrolled in the Liberal Arts College. She is a member of the university choir.

Football

Half hour before the game entire corps of cadets put on a pre-game marching display and the famed Academy band also added in the festivities.

Game got full coverage from the New York Press. Saxons were in their purple uniforms. Many of the players went home for the night after the game. Bus left Long Island at 8:30 a.m. on Sunday.

Game with Hobart starts at 1:30 p.m. at Boswell Field in Geneva. Seating facilities aren't as good as Alfred's, so get there way before game time if a good seat is desired. Team will be leaving for Hobart at about 9:30 a.m. from the Brick and it is rumored that there will be a pep rally at that time.

Cheering squad will be at the Hobart Clash. Chuck Maass and ROTC Drum and Bugle Corps will be on the field for the pre-game period and Mr. Anthony Cappadonia will have his All-Campus band there during the game and at halftime.

Disa And Data

by Al Siegel

Sturday, Alfred's Purple and Gold Warriors will come up against the Eddie Tyron coached Hobart College football squad.

They say that every game in a season means a lot. That may be true, but this is THE GAME. It'll be the battle of the top two small college squads in New York State.

Al Bilanski

Jim Murphy

There will be no holds barred. Both teams have shown well through their entire schedule. Both teams have great records. Both teams have been well scouted. The Hobart scouts have seen Alfred in all four home games, and Coach Yunevich and Coach McWilliams have had a few looks at Hobart.

Last year some six hundred and fifty students made their way to Geneva to see the big game. At that time Hobart finished an all winning year with a 13-6 triumph, the winning marker coming home on a run by Walt Harrison for 70 yards in the second half.

This year Coach Yunevich and the boys are out to get Hobart. This is the last chance. This game concludes the series between the Purple and Gold and the Hobart College team in football. The contracts run out at the conclusion of the game and they are not being renewed.

The victor will probably be acclaimed as the number one small college team in the state. A lot rides on the outcome of this contest. The All-Campus Band is slated to make the trip to Geneva for the affair and the ROTC Drum and Bugle Corps will march before the contest.

John Dennis

It is also expected that the cheerleaders will be at the game. This leaves one thing to be desired, spectators. Last year close to 650 students cheered the squad on as a new record was set for Geneva's Boswell Field. This year an even bigger crowd is hoped for.

Right now Hobart is sitting on top of the world, as no one seems to beat them and they haven't lost at home in years. Defeat number one could, and should be forthcoming at about 4:30 p.m. on Saturday as Coach Alex Yunevich's charges make their final visit to Hobart College and to Geneva.

Coach Yunevich will also be playing his seniors for the last time on Saturday. Hanging up their cleats after the game will be Al Bilanski, George Meyer, John Dennis and Jim Murphy. These four have their one and only chance to topple the Statesmen on Saturday and don't think they won't be giving their all for this one.

The whole season has been building

Thinclads Third In Champ Meet

Alfred University placed third in the New York State Track and Field Association cross country championship meet Saturday at Endicott.

Freshman Frank Finnerty of Alfred was third. He finished 21 seconds behind John Parillo of Union who won in 21:09 over the 4-mile course. Al Shaler of Hamilton was second.

Buffalo State Teachers College won the team championship. Hamilton was second.

Other Alfred runners finished in this order: Frank Gilbert, 6th; Doug Smith, 13th; Dave Walcox, 18th; Larry Eaton, 22nd.

Hoopsters

Tuesday night, November 1, Coach Jay McWilliams held his first varsity basketball practice of the year.

Sixteen candidates turned out for the call. They included seven lettermen, five from last year's squad. Returning lettermen are Bob Corbin, Len Rapkin, Bob Greene, Bille Balle, Buzz Von Nieda, Millard Evak and Ted Olson. Others out for the team are Phil Baker, Paul Boehme, Harry Buback, Harry Ebert, Harry Miller and Marty Schiff. Managing the squad is Al Siegel.

The frosh squad, down to its season limit, had its first week of intensive workouts and are starting to come around as a team. Both squads make their initial outings against Brockport State Teachers College at Brockport on Saturday December 3. On December 6 the teams make their home bows. At 6:30 p.m. the frosh will meet the Rochester Institute of Technology JV and at 8:30 Alfred's varsity tackles McMaster University of Canada.

Because of the interest in the Alfred-Hobart football game, radio station WWHG will broadcast it from Geneva.

John Nelson, the play by play announcer, will go on the air at 1:15 p.m., for the broadcast. Game time is 1:30 p.m.

up to this peak. Each game has been a little bit more important than the preceding one, but this is it. When that whistle blows at 1:30 on Saturday the entire season will be unfolding, as the game the boys have been waiting for will be on.

If anyone at Hobart reads this you had better warn your team because the Saxons are coming, spectators, hands and team, and when we leave the final score will show the Purple and Gold of Coach Alex Yunevich as the top team in New York State.

Hobart Preview

by Len Fagen

Saturday the Saxons of Alfred take on the Statesmen of Hobart in the last game of the year for both schools.

Before Hobart's scheduled game with Hamilton, an undefeated and untied eleven, the Statesmen hadn't lost in seventeen. This year's game is the twenty-ninth in a series that started in 1899. During this period Hobart has won 20 while losing to the Warriors but 5 times. There have been 3 ties in the series. Last year Hobart won 13-6.

Only a scoreless tie with the tough University of Buffalo has marred Hobart's undefeated season through the Hamilton game. They opened up with a rather sad 14-7 win over a poor Wagner College squad down at Staten Island.

They followed this up with a resounding 44-7 trouncing of Allegheny. Then came the 0-0 tie at Buffalo. During their Homecoming game they toppled Kenyon College 53-0 and followed this up with a 28-7 win over Union at Schenectady.

Coming from behind during the final quarter the Statesmen rallied to beat the Larries from St. Lawrence 28-14. Hamilton was the home team up at Clinton Saturday.

Last year the Hobart undefeated machine finished 7th on offense and 5th in rushing as compared to Alfred's being 6th in the country on defense. This year both teams are fairly high in both categories.

Gone from the '54 team are eleven lettermen, including eight regulars and three Little All-Americans. Returning regulars are Walt Harrison the fullback, Jerry Angell will be at center and Harry Bock, the tackle form the other returnees. Harrison, the burly speedster smacked for 640 yards last season and is again the big man in the backfield.

The probable starting lineup for the game will find Joe DiFabio and Ken Wells at ends; Captain Augie Gates and Wendy George at the tackles; Dave Angell and Harry Bock, guards and Jerry Angell, center. Only two of the seven were regulars last year. Bock was a starting guard last year.

The tentative backfield will have basketball Art Lambert at the quarterback, Dunc Sinnock and Mike Keenan at the halves and Harrison will be the fullback.

Coaching the Statesmen is Eddie Tryon, who has a 33-27-3 record in his tenure since '46. He is a graduate of Colgate University where he was an All-American in '25. Aiding him is Robert M. Teague of Miami of Ohio.

Game time is for 1:30 p.m. and since Boswell Field is smaller than our own Merrill Field so get there early if you want a good seat.

Women's Sports

The interhouse volleyball tournament ended Monday, October 31. Sigma Chi captured first place, Theta Chi, Omicron, and the Brick tied for second place, and Pi Alpha took third place.

Interclass teams have been chosen and the tournament begins this week. Managers are Mary Carmichael, sen-

There will be a tennis playday at Keuka College Nov. 5. There will be volleyball playdays November 12 at Ag. Tech. and November 19 at Ithaca College. All those wishing to participate are urged to sign up on the sheets placed in the houses.
