

Sticking with the Sun...

George Ormsby of Alfred Station, who works at Stearns Poultry Farm Store, was reading Jud's copy of the Alfred Sun when the editor stopped in to make a purchase on Thursday, Oct. 2. And, sure enough, that was the issue that puzzled readers who struggled to open to pages 4 and 5 and 12 and 13 because of glue leaking onto the press.

AU joins in national program promoting mental health

ALFRED-Alfred University is one of 56 colleges and universities nationwide that have joined the Jed and Clinton Health Matters Campus Program to Support Student Mental Health. The program is designed to help schools prevent the two leading causes of death in young adults—accidents, including those caused by prescription drug overdoses or alcohol poisoning, and suicide.

According to Stanley Tam, director of the Counseling and Wellness Center at Alfred University, the program is based in mostly smaller east coast schools like AU. "It sounded like a great program," said Tam in explaining his decision to participate. The campus program, launched in June 2014, is also designed to help colleges and universities promote emotional wellbeing and mental health programming, reduce substance abuse, and prevent suicide among their students.

Tam explained that the program provided "a lot of good advocacy for emerging schools because everyone is having the same issues and a lot of schools feel isolated in dealing with these issues." In addition, it seems that this program unites the smaller schools together with the bigger schools who are also participating to offer an allegiance of sorts against these mental health issues in higher education institutions.

Participating schools make a four-year commitment to work with the Campus Program to evaluate and identify opportunities to augment these activities on campus. Additionally, the program provides schools with a framework for supporting student mental health, as well as assessment tools, feedback reports, and ongoing technical assistance from the Program team as well.

In order to become a member of the Campus Program, a school has to take a confidential, self-assessment survey on its mental health promotion, substance abuse and suicide prevention programming. Afterwards, survey responses are reviewed by the Campus Program team in comparison to the program's framework consisting of a comprehensive set of recommended practices. Then, schools receive customized feedback and suggestions for enhancements.

How fortuitous that Editor Snyder decided to run some color pages! The original caption for this was "wishing you could see" these maple leaves in brilliant yellow-to-chartreuse on the new-fallen snow near Miller Performing Arts at Alfred University, and now you can! ...and my granddaughter's aging jack-o-lantern; no comment necessary.

Bob Pahl Award recipients announced at Alfred State

ALFRED—The Department of Architecture and Design at Alfred State has announced the winners of this year's Bob Pahl Award, given annually to two students who kept the top sketch journals while studying abroad in Sorrento, Italy, as part of their urban sketching course.

The honor began in 2012 and is named for Bob Pahl, a Boston-area architect, who graduated from Alfred State in 1981 with a degree in architectural engineering technology. Pahl donated the first- and second-place prizes, which were presented this year to Taquon Middleton, of Brooklyn, who received $800, and Kara Anderson, of Ontario, who received $200.

Nicholas Cultrara, of Buffalo, was the recipient of a $100 third-place prize, which was donated by Professor Joy Carlson. All three students are architectural technology majors.

"We are extremely grateful to Bob for his generous donation each year," said Jeffrey Johnston, assistant professor in the Architecture and Design Department and coordinator of the study abroad program in Sorrento. "The Bob Pahl Award provides a valuable incentive for Sorrento architecture students to carefully document, through drawings, their travel experiences and observations."

Pahl said as a freshman, new to college but with a love of architecture, walking into Johnston's introduction to architecture course was a dream come true.

"He inspired me, through his talk of travels and his incredible talent in sketching, to make architecture my passion and my life," said Pahl. "I sketch daily in my profession, and love to give back to the place that had such an impression in my life. I also want to keep the 'art alive in architecture,' supporting hand sketching any way I can."

Student mental health aim of AU program

took hours to complete. The surveys were very comprehensive though, which made it more appealing because I believed their analysis would correctly identify Alfred's pros and cons," Tam explained. One of the pros identified in AU's surveys included the fact that although Alfred's counseling and Wellness Center is small, they have a relatively large staff and nurses that have been in the profession for 30-plus years. This boded well for AU because "a lot of the questions asked about connections within an integrated system of health, counseling, and substance abuse. It was clear we stand as a united front as far as the wellness center, public safety, residence life, [and] career services. They are all connected and we are working together." According to the evaluation, the student affairs committee is very strong as well.

However, there were some areas AU needed to continue to work on.

"We didn't have as many support groups on campus as we'd hoped," he said, "The biggest thing is getting messages out to everyone on campus that these options are available."

Tam and other AU faculty are trying to reach out to a range of people on campus in order to spread the word. The wellness center staff has met in small groups with athletes and students from all different disciplines including art, engineering, graduate students, and first years.

Tam added, "There's such a separation within our diverse community, more intimate conversations about prevention, one of the main concerns, is necessary. In the end, our main concern will always be the safety of the students."

Community Chest goal of $40,125

Drive at 83.5% of goal

Dear Editor:

The Alfred-Alfred Station Community Chest drive has stalled during the final phase of the 2014 campaign. Currently, we have received pledges and donations totaling $33,516, or 83.5% of the goal of $40,125. However, the 2014 Charity Drive may now be in jeopardy. We are ever hopeful that more citizens will see fit to contribute to our worthy causes.

Again this year we are supporting the Allegany County SPCA. Their purpose is to prevent cruelty to animals, both domestic and wild. They investigate all reports of cruelty and neglect in the county and take appropriate action. They also operate a shelter on Route 19 south of Wellsville. Animals that have found refuge there have been adopted by people from all over our county, as well as nearby counties.

Both the cruelty investigations and the operation of the shelter depend entirely on donations and the time given by volunteers who help care for the animals. Their "guests" are homeless animals, and those taken in because of cruelty charges. Unfortunately, at the end of each academic semester, the SPCA is also called upon to rescue animals abandoned by students. Most animals at the SPCA are adopted. If the shelter is full, "foster parents" are found for the animals.

To help prevent over-population, the SPCA has a policy of neutering shelter animals before they are adopted. Animals that are too young for neutering are subject to follow-up and adopters are required to submit proof of neutering at the proper time.

For years the SPCA has had a school visitation program in order to help educate young people about the need and methods of humane treatment for animals, as well as the prevention of rabies in both the animals and themselves. The goal for this program is to visit all students in Allegany County Schools, in grades K through six. As these goals imply, the SPCA needs our financial support and the help of many volunteers.

A gift to the Community Chest is an opportunity to give something to the animals of our county. We hope that you will agree that support for the SPCA, as well as our other campaign organizations, provides services that are essential to our community.

We ask those of you who have not yet made a donation or pledge to join your friends and neighbors in making our drive a success again this year. Many thanks to those who have been so generous already. If, for some reason, you did not receive a pledge card, your donation may still be left at the Alfred Pharmacy in Alfred, the Canacadea Country Store in Alfred Station, or may be mailed to Alfred-Alfred Station Community Chest, Box 603, Alfred, NY, 14802. We look forward to your support.

Sincerely,

William Carlson

Hart Comfort House receives $1,100

WELLSVILLE-The Allegany County Area Foundation recently presented a $1,100 check to the Hart Comfort House. This money will be used to purchase blinds for use throughout the house. They will save energy in summer and winter and provide for a more comfortable environment for the residents.

Scott Swift, Executive Director of the Hart Comfort House said, "The blinds will bring comfort to all that come here. Whether it's the resident that takes pleasure in the soft shaded light that comes through the closed shade, or the volunteers at night that find comfort in the privacy the blinds provide. As winter sets in I hope to experience a reduction in the drafts, which sometimes blow in from the cold outdoors. Also, they will look great. Thank you for helping us to bring quality to our residents lives."

The Hart Comfort House offers free comfort care for those in their last three months of a terminal illness. Comfort care honors the well-being of every person and respects the dignity of human life. The Hart Comfort

House is a warm and welcoming alternative to hospital or a nursing home care when a person can no longer be looked after in his or her own home.

Hart Comfort House's staff and trained volunteers are able to care for two residents at a time, 24 hours a day, 365 days a year. They provide warm and compassionate care and support, not only to residents, but also to residents' families and friends.

A change-up on turkey leftovers

By the time you read this it will be turkey day and that probably means leftovers from the Thanksgiving feast. We love several nights of re-runs of the Thanksgiving meal, but sometimes I like to change how I use up the leftovers.

This recipe is from the November issue of Taste of Home magazine. It says it's a fun twist on traditional lasagna.

Stuffing and Turkey Casserole

- | | |
|------------------------|-------------------------------------|
| 4 c. leftover stuffing | 2 c. shredded mozzarella cheese |
| 1 c. dried cranberries | 1 c. ricotta cheese |
| 1 c. chopped pecans | 4 c. cubed cooked turkey, divided |
| ¾ c. chicken broth | 1 c. (4oz.) shredded cheddar cheese |
| 1 egg, lightly beaten | |

Preheat oven to 350 degrees. Place stuffing, cranberries and pecans in a large bowl; stir in broth. In a small bowl, mix egg and mozzarella and ricotta cheeses. In a greased 13x9 baking dish, layer 2c turkey, 3 c. stuffing mixture and ricotta cheese mixture. Top with the remaining turkey and stuffing mixture. Sprinkle with shredded cheddar cheese. Bake, covered, 40-45 minutes until heated through. Bake, uncovered, 5 minutes longer. Let stand 10 minutes. Makes 12 servings.

"Singing Bridges"

Poking around in the creeks of Alfred was an endlessly entertaining activity for children. Even now in my "old age" I occasionally take a notion to ramble those rocky paths, and still find them fascinating. Most of the attraction came from the natural things to be found there - mossy stones, ferns, fossils, a laughing trickle of water, trees arching from bank to bank making a green-shadowed roof, and the myriad wildlife that called the creek home.

But that wasn't all. There were artifacts to be found, since people in those days had a habit of dumping unwanted items over the banks from their backyards - not big things, like appliances or furniture, but little things like broken china, old shoes, buttons, tools with no handles, empty medicine bottles.

Once, my sister and I found some racy photographs of an elderly neighbor lady from her youth, charred at the edges, which must have been blown from her incinerator. We thought about pinning them up around town, but she was a nice lady, and empathy won out. We quietly finished the burning of them.

There was another aspect of the creeks which adults never thought of, but we kids used to maximum advantage. They were our hidden corridors. The larger creek runs parallel to Main Street and Park Street, in between the two rows of backyards. The other creek parallels West University Street behind the houses on the north side, and the two meet just below the business district. It was possible to disappear just by sliding over the bank, and reappear a few minutes later on the other side of town without being seen on the street. Along the way, one could snoop on the secrets of people's backyard parties and projects, and never be spotted.

All of this was wonderful, but then my sister and I made a discovery that threw all the rest into the background. The bridges! We'd always noticed that things sounded different under a bridge, kind of echo-y and spooky. But then Kathy somehow got inspired to try singing there, and we were amazed. It was far better than a bathroom - more like a concert hall.

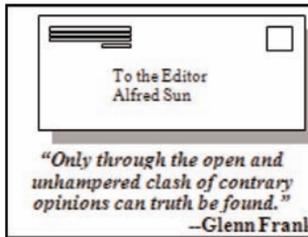

From then on, we spent countless hours trying out all of Alfred's many bridges, testing the individual acoustics of each, and finally settling on two or three favorites. The bridge where the creeks join was no good at all - too noisy with water and traffic. There was a good one up West University Street, but the people who lived next to it had a dog who barked at us.

The best bridge for singing was a short concrete tunnel running under Saxon Drive, which connected two small parks the creek bordered. The rounded ceiling over a flat creekbed created the perfect amount of reverberation so we could hear ourselves and each other clearly, and amplified our harmonizing voices. It felt wonderful!

We went there as often as we could, and developed an extensive repertoire of songs - folk tunes, hymns, pop, spirituals, rounds, even some comedy numbers from the Smothers Brothers and New Cristy Minstrels. It was all grist for our mill. I suppose we dreamed of becoming a famous sister act, but mainly we did it because it was fun.

I don't remember, or perhaps never knew if anyone heard us under there, singing our hearts out. Our career as the Singing Frechette Sisters got put on hold, as we grew up and went in different directions.

But some forty years later, on a balmy winter evening in Key West when Kate was visiting me, I persuaded her to join me at my Wednesday night gig in the Bottlecap, and we reprised a few of those old gems, to the amusement of a friendly crowd. That was fun, too. Microphones and amplifiers made us sound pretty good, but never as good as under the singing bridges of Alfred.

Thanks for support

To the Editor:

Dan and I would like to say Thank You, Thank You, and Thank You!

The election for Alfred's Highway Superintendent was both exciting and close. (5 votes close!) Dan and I agree that even though he lost the election, he still feels like a winner!

To have the community come out with that much support for Dan just warmed our hearts. We truly feel blessed to live in a community where everyone feels like family. It's nice to go to the bank, post office, and even gas station/coffee shop and hear people say hello, or how's everything with you! That's what is so nice about living in Alfred, NY.

Thanks to the certain individuals that went above and beyond with their help for the election; you know who you all are. Thanks again for the support and remember there's always another November. Age is just a number and I don't see Dan slowing down anytime soon because he is way too young! Thank you!

Sincerely,
Dan and Julie Smith

If you shuffle off to Buffalo, be sure to bring a shovel
Cuz they're measuring the snow there by the feet.
Beneath the snow is buried every mansion, every hovel;
Let's be thankful for our flurries and our sleet.

The Bills and Jets were set to play at in Orchard Park on Sunday
But instead thought best to trot off to Detroit;
So the fans stuck back in Buffalo will have a much more funday
Than to have to watch the Bills be maladroit.

But now the air is warming and the snow will start to melt
And will make it all a soggy, whitish glop;
Undoubtedly, they'll pine for when the snow began to pelt—
So if you go...be sure to bring a mop.

A CONSTITUTIONAL CRISIS – THE RULE OF LAW

On Thursday night, November 19th, President Barack Obama delivered a speech regarding immigration policy. There will undoubtedly be arguments about American immigration policy. However, there is absolutely no room for debate regarding the legality of what President Obama has done by Executive Order. It is clearly unconstitutional and illegal. He has repeatedly expressed that precise position on numerous occasions over the past six years. His predecessors have declared that same position. No president in modern times has ever exercised such an unbridled power grab. In my opinion this represents an unprecedented constitutional crisis.

My distress is not primarily about immigration policy. I agree with the President, and most leaders of both major parties, that our immigration policies are broken. I also agree that something needs to be done. The problem is that Congress hasn't been able to agree upon exactly what that should be. The issue is whether this President, or any President, can act unilaterally, to fix the problems. Our Constitution has clearly delineated the proper roles for Congress and the President. Congress should enact the laws. The President should enforce and implement those laws. The President is limited to vetoing laws that he doesn't like. However he cannot repeal, ignore or legislate on his own. He must obey the laws regardless of whether he likes or agrees with them. He is not free to enforce only those laws that he approves of. Until Congress acts to change the laws, every citizen, including the President, is required to obey them.

President Obama's speech was probably a good speech. Unfortunately, the actual policy statement issued by him was very different from that speech. While claiming he was only exercising "prosecutorial discretion" he actually established totally new policies and programs. He released a 17 point plan that included several new programs that only Congress could legally establish. There have been no budget appropriations for those programs, no spending authorizations, and no hiring approvals. The Department of Homeland Security ("DHS") has been directed by the President to "create" a "new deferred action program." This program will give millions of illegal immigrants "work authorizations" for at least three years. It establishes extensive criteria under which people can register to be exempt from deportation. Programs such as this have been established in the past, but only by Congress. DHS will need to hire thousands of new employees to register these applicants, perform background checks, collect fees, and determine whether applicants qualify for these new permits.

Equally troubling is that portion of the new policy that states that "DHS will direct all of its enforcement resources at pursuing" people who are "national security threats, serious criminals, and recent border crossers." There are about four (4) million immigrants who are supposedly eligible for the new work authorization permits. However, there are another seven (7) million immigrants who are here illegally. Unless those individuals fall within the security threats, serious criminals and recent border crossers, they will simply be ignored. This directive is the equivalent of a Presidential veto or repeal of existing federal laws. There is no question that no President has authority to do this.

The President must be subject to the rule of law, just like every other citizen. President Obama knows that what he has done is wrong. On more than 20 occasions he has made public declarations that he cannot unilaterally legislate. One of his clearest statements was "There are enough laws on the books by Congress that are very clear in terms of how we have to enforce our immigration system that for me to simply through executive order ignore those congressional mandates would not conform with my appropriate role as President." He was right then. He is wrong now.

More than 40 years ago I was drafted into the Army and required to participate in a war that I didn't personally agree with. At that time I was faced with a stark choice. I could obey the laws that were on the books, or I could go to jail. President Obama should face the same choice now.

Alfred State approved for 'baccalaureate in 3 years'

ALFRED—Alfred State has received approval from the State University of New York and the New York State Education Department to deliver two, four-year baccalaureate degree programs over an accelerated three-year time frame.

Qualifying students will now have the opportunity to earn a Bachelor of Science degree in human services management or a Bachelor in Business Administration degree in three years.

"These accelerated programs target quality students who are seeking to shorten their time spent earning a degree and to capitalize on the financial savings that truncating a full year of study can provide," says Charles Neal, associate vice president for Academic Affairs. "The BS in human services management and the BBA in business administration are two of the college's most preferred four-year programs. The availability of three-year tracks will undoubtedly further increase student interest in them."

Through online summer and winter session course work, accepted students will be able to complete degree requirements by following a carefully designed accelerated track, while avoiding undue academic loads during the typical fall and spring semesters. These fast-track options have been promoted by SUNY in recent years as it looks to provide avenues to shorten time to graduation.

Interested students can contact the Alfred State Admissions Office at 607-587-4215, the Department of Social and Behavioral Sciences Department at 607-587-4282, or the Business Department at 607-587-3413.

Culinary Arts Holiday Buffet Set for Wednesday, Dec. 3 in Wellsville

Alfred State will host a holiday buffet from 5-7:30 p.m. Wednesday, Dec. 3 at the Culinary Arts Building on the School of Applied Technology campus in Wellsville.

The cost, which includes beverages, is $20 per person and $10 for children under 10 years of age. The menu will feature classic French cuisine, such as crown roast of pork, coq au van, crème brulee, French onion soup, cream puffs, cassoulet with duck, broccoli mornay, and much, much more.

Proceeds will benefit the Culinary Honors Program. This event is open to the public; no reservations will be accepted. Questions may be directed to 607-587-3170.

Alfred State to host Girls Empowerment Workshop

ALFRED—Female middle school students will learn to cultivate confidence, self-respect, and assertiveness during a two-day Girls Empowerment Workshop in February at Alfred State.

The workshop will take place from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. Feb. 17-18 at the Student Leadership Center on the Alfred campus. The registration fee is $30, which also covers the cost of lunch and snacks.

A number of experts will be on-hand for this event, including Alyshia Zurlick, assistant director of student engagement and Emerging Pioneer Leadership Program (EPLP) mentor; and Dr. Scott Waldeis, lecturer in the Physical and Life Sciences Department.

PART FOUR OF FOUR-PART SERIES

Holiday gifts can be handmade

By ELAINE HARDMAN
Alfred Sun Reporter

WELLSVILLE—This series started because my mind is often on gifts and my hands are often making or admiring handmade things. Have you been encouraged to make any gifts or objects or time during these overlapping family seasons?

This is based on our family tradition of the Christmas Eve gingerbread house.

Simple gifts series, Part 4 of 4

Make a gingerbread house. For our family, Christmas Eve means gingerbread and wine.

I design and bake our house. We've had houses, barns, cottages and even a train but there's no need to go crazy. You can buy a simple kit already baked or forget the actual gingerbread and cover a cardboard box or a toy with frosting and pretend it's gingerbread. Some people make mini houses out of graham crackers. It's about the doing, not the gingerbread.

If you want to go with some kind of readymade, all you need is frosting and candy or colorful cereals as materials and scissors and butter knives as tools. But, if you want to jump into the project, here's my hard learned information.

First make a cardboard pattern. Draw it on an empty cereal or cracker box. Cut out the pieces and tape them together to be sure everything fits. These pieces become your pattern. If you'd rather not design, there are many gingerbread patterns on line.

Honor parchment paper. Why did it take me years to realize how great parchment paper is? After making some lopsided houses, I now put parchment paper on a cookie sheet, roll out the dough, cut around the pattern and remove the extra dough. Since I don't pick up any walls, I no longer stretch the rectangles into frustrating parallelograms or wonky trapezoids.

When the pieces are cool, I glue them together. The first time I glued a house it was without appreciation for the searing temperature of melted sugar. It felt right to rush and in my rush I dripped melted sugar on my hand. It took weeks to heal so learn from my mistake – move slowly and carefully and work by yourself in the kitchen without distractions.

A platter or a piece of wood covered in aluminum foil can serve as the base. Arrange all the house pieces around the base on a work area near your stove. Practice the sequence of assembly. This is a good time to talk to yourself because you need to know and practice the plan.

When I have memorized the order of assembly, I start to melt the sugar in a large, heavy frying pan. Sugar doesn't seem to do anything for a while but keep stirring and you'll see clumps and then there will be a pan full of HOT, sticky syrup.

Before all the sugar melts, I turn the temperature down so it won't burn and as soon as the sugar is a golden syrup I dip two sides of the first wall into the mess and then place that wall on the board. There's enough time to move deliberately with the heat on very low and I take the next wall and dip it and attach it to the first and then dip another until the 4 sides are standing. The sugar hardens quickly and holds the house together.

I worry a little about putting roof on. Perhaps there's a way to dip the roof edges into the pan but I spoon sugar glue on the tops of the walls and then place the roof parts on. The small pieces of the chimney add style. Sometimes there are porches or pillars and often we have a few trees or shrubs or a snowman in the "yard." Once cooled, our assembled house waits under a clean towel until Christmas Eve.

At our house all the food we share has to be vegan but for you the choices of candies might be endless.

On Christmas Eve we get some drinks, turn on the holiday music, bring out the house and surround it with bowls of candies and frosting. We use the kitchen scissors, butter knives and our fingers to good purpose and keep moist towels nearby to clean things off as we work.

Often each of us claims a section of the house and gets to work, a process that means the house has several very different styles. We reach over and around each other making wafer roofs or Swedish Fish swim out of our chimney. We cover the house with enough candy-tile to challenge the work of Anton Gaudi. It shines with color.

As soon as it's finished it is okay to start eating it but by the time we finish we are generally sugar-sick from sampling the candies.

Recipes for your Gingerbread House

Basic Gingerbread House Dough

- 4 cups all-purpose flour
- 2 tsp baking soda
- 1/2 tsp salt
- 2 or 3 tsp ground ginger (really good quality ginger is best)
- 1 or 2 tsp ground cinnamon (our favorite is Thai cinnamon)
- 1/2 cup vegetable shortening
- 1 cup firmly packed dark brown sugar
- 1 cup molasses
- 2 tbs (more or less) of some kind of milk

In a large bowl stir together flour, baking soda, salt, ginger and cinnamon.

In a saucepan, combine the shortening, brown sugar, and molasses over low heat. Stir occasionally until the shortening is melted and the sugar is dissolved, but still slightly grainy. Remove from the heat and let the mixture cool to lukewarm.

Gradually add the molasses mixture to the dry ingredients, mixing until well blended.

Add enough "milk" to make a firm dough.

Gather the dough into a ball, and cover with plastic wrap. Let the dough rest for at least 20 minutes. (When tightly sealed, the dough will keep for up to 1 week in the refrigerator if nobody eats it. Bring to room temperature before rolling.)

Preheat oven to 325 F. Position rack in the center of the oven.

Use ungreased baking sheets or parchment paper.

With a lightly floured rolling pin, roll out the dough 1/4" thick, and cut out desired shapes.

Bake until the edges are slightly brown, about 15 minutes.

Makes enough for 1 small gingerbread house (8" x 8").

Gingerbread House Glue*

Pour a layer of sugar about 1" thick in a heavy frying pan. Cook over medium heat, stirring constantly with a wooden spoon until it melts.

*This makes quick-hardening but dangerous glue. The danger is in the temperature. It gets VERY hot and if it falls on the skin, it holds the heat in. This part is not suitable for children under any circumstances.

Frosting – make any frosting you wish.

Librarian to talk on 'Saints Inside Dragons'

ALFRED—Alfred University's longstanding lunchtime series, the Bergren Forum, continues with "Saints Inside Dragons: The Bizarre World in the Margins of the Luttrell Psalter" Thursday, Dec. 4, at 12:10 p.m. in Nevins Theater, Powell Campus Center. The program is free and open to the public.

Eva Sclippa, art librarian at AU's Scholes Library of Ceramics, will discuss the elaborate and often strange creatures found on the pages of a 14th century English manuscript, the "Luttrell Psalter."

Her talk will focus on images of bodily emergence, in which one creature is coming out of the body of another, or a creature is revealing other layers of its body by peeling back its skin. These images are very similar in some images of Saint Margaret of Antioch, patron saint of childbirth.

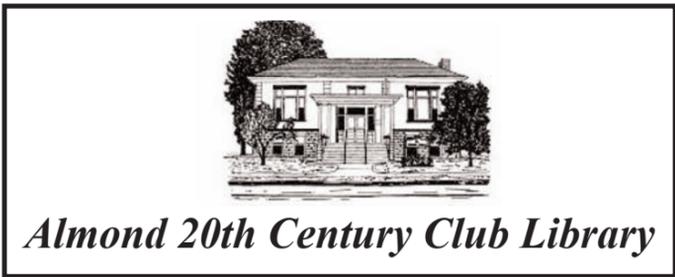

Sclippa will argue that Geoffrey Luttrell, the creator of the manuscript, was invoking Saint Margaret's aid and protection so that his son might produce an heir by referencing her likeness in his document through such imagery.

The Bergren Forum is sponsored by the Division of Human Studies, the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences, and the Provost's Office. Guests are encouraged to bring a brown bag lunch; coffee and tea will be provided.

The series known as the Bergren Forum began in 1970. Rick Bergren, who taught at the University in the '70s, started the forums after being inspired by learning of the gatherings that (AU) students in the 19th century were known to conduct in Alumni Hall to discuss community issues. After Bergren's death in 1974, the University decided to continue the tradition in his name. Various faculty members have taken on the coordinator duties since that time. William S. Dibrell, professor of philosophy, is the current coordinator.

Jill Snyder of Alfred Station, a senior in the baking production and management curriculum in the School of Vocational Studies' Food Service program, was doubly rewarded for her efforts with the decorated cake she entered into the Culinary Arts Show competition on campus Saturday, Nov. 18. Jill was awarded the "Best of Show" ribbon and a blue ribbon for having the best bakery presentation. Enjoying her good fortune are Lynn Lecceardone, instructor in the department, and Dr. Albert Vander Linde, dean of the School of Vocational Studies at Alfred State College.

Andover-the-Hill—The Andover Village office requests residents to not overload the electric with too many Christmas lights. Last year Andover had its highest peak of electric on Dec. 12 and this is what determines the electric rate for the next year. Residents may still have Christmas lights during pleasant weather but when the temperature gets down near 0 degrees, naturally heating homes makes the rate much higher. Lights should not be turned on when the temperature goes down drastically. This is a good way to conserve on electricity so next year's rate will not be so high... Mr. and Mrs. Wendell Bennett of Andover were honored at a surprise 25th anniversary party Nov. 18 at the Andover Rod and Gun Club. The party was given by their children, Tammy Gavin and William Bennett of Andover and Mark Bennett of Memphis, TN. Mary Lou and Wendell were united in marriage on Nov. 14, 1964 at the Andover parsonage by the late Rev. Roger Williams. Their attendances were Mr. and Mrs. Duane Scribner. The couple's son Mark's marriage made a double celebration for the family, attended by 100 friends and relatives... Mr. and Mrs. James Greene and family of Medlothian, VA, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Greene and family of Ballston Lake, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Boyer and family and Mr. and Mrs. William Greene of Andover had Thanksgiving dinner at the home of their mother, Martha Greene. James and Edward's families spent the long weekend with Mrs. Greene...

Adventurous Octogenarian—(By Joan Lindeman) I've said this before but it never ceases to amaze me—at no time do you know when you are really going to enjoy an adventure. And truly you really don't know, as adventures are usually something you have never lived through before. Such was my adventure at an Alfred University football game. I have never been a football fan so my last attended game was in the 1940s. Yikes, that's about seventy years ago! Back to this adventure. While delivering an article to David Snyder, my editor and publisher, he asked out of the blue if I played a musical instrument. I confessed I hadn't played any since my piano lessons at the age of ten or eleven; all I can do now is sing. "Oh, good," he said, "You can play a kazoo, then." I had no idea what he was talking about until he decided to tell me about the AU Pep Band, "The Sound of the Saxons." This band plays peppy fast tunes whenever the teams are not making plays. And, of course, whenever a touchdown takes place! Hooray! There is no age requirement and just about any instrument may be played. Just wear your shirt and come to practice an hour before the game. The attending members of the Pep Band played a sax, cornet, drum, sousaphone, bass clarinet, trumpet and a kazoo. I'm calling us musicians so that for once in my life, if only on a kazoo, I classify myself with that noble calling! Musician! Game Day—When it was time for the start of the game, we descended "millions" of stairs to Merrill Field, then climbed "millions" of stairs to seats about three-fourths of the way up. Needless to say there was no railing so poor David had to let me hold his arm for stability. I was grateful as the rest of our band seemed to fly up those stairs, instruments and all. (I was grateful, too, that I carried a 2 ounce kazoo rather than that huge sousaphone). We played at intervals from start to finish, enjoying every minute. The very best part was as people ambled out after the game, they told us how great we sounded, or what fun we added to the game. It was super to think they even listened to us.

THE GLORY OF AMERICA

Thursday, November 27

When the Pilgrims brought in their first harvest, and it was bountiful, they decided to have a time of giving thanks. They invited their Indian friends to join them--and were inwardly dismayed when 90 braves arrived. But they had brought ample to eat with them--deer and wild turkey. There was more than enough for all.

In future years, the celebration of Thanksgiving became an annual tradition, but they would begin by giving each person a plate with five kernels of corn--which had been their ration in the second winter, when things were at their lowest ebb.

Alfred publisher reissues 'Bitter Fog'

ALFRED-A Bitter Fog: Herbicides and Human Rights, by Carol Van Strum, was reissued by Alfred-based publisher Jericho Hill Interactive on Nov. 22.

A Bitter Fog is a true story of people living in the forests of Oregon fighting to protect their families and environment from Agent Orange poisons sprayed on them from the air. It is a story of corporate corruption and government collusion that spawned a still vibrant environmental movement. The book was first published in 1983.

The reissued e-book includes an update chapter and additional material that was not included in the 1983 edition. This well-written, carefully sourced book puts human faces on the victims of profiteering corporations and is as relevant and important today as it was when it was first published.

Deception and outright fraud by corporations and government complicity in covering up human health and environmental problems are at the heart of this story of people who simply want to be safe in their own homes. Their battles against the toxic chemicals sprayed on them confront the same issues driving today's battles against fracking, genetically modified organisms (GMOs), pesticide poisons, and climate change.

"A Bitter Fog is about two fundamental rights that you need to exercise, wherever you live: your right to know and your right to govern," writes Mary O'Brien, plant biologist and author of Making Better Environmental Decisions: An Alternative to Risk Assessment (MIT Press, 2000).

A Bitter Fog: Herbicides and Human Rights is available from Amazon.com at http://www.amazon.com/Bitter-Fog-Herbicides-Human-Rights-ebook/dp/B00PZGSXAI/.

HITS AND MISSES:

In ECAC Division III football action on Saturday past SJ Fisher (9-2) ran over visiting Western Connecticut State, 28-14 to grab the trophy in the Northwest Bowl. Also, Salisbury stomped Albright to win the South Atlantic, Buffalo State pounded Waynesburg in a high-scoring Southwest outing and Utica fell to future E8/9 football member, Morrisville in the North Central. Pretty solid day for the Empire Eight Conference on the gridiron in the ECAC Bowls. "The Janitor" is happy! Also, former league member Norwich lost in the Northeast to Salve Regina and RPI fell in the North Atlantic to Framingham State. Six bowls with Alfred University ties, past or present.

In the NCAA Division III playoffs, Hobart (11-0) defeated E8/9 co-champ Ithaca, 22-15 in Geneva as the Statesmen scored the winning TD with 0:13 on the scoreboard. Ouch. All the "big guns" prevailed in the opening round as well and many by huge scores. Defending champion UW-Whitewater smashed Macalester, 55-2. Mount Union drilled Adrian, 63-3. Wesley powered by Hampden-Sydney, 52-7. Not exactly "parity" in the D3 playoff picture. Also, the Mary Hardin-Baylor and Texas Lutheran game was suspended due to lighting in Texas. Assume they played on Sunday or Monday. The semi-finals, if the brackets support my "expert predictions," should very well be UW-W, MU, MH-B and Wesley with a couple of possibilities in John Carroll and Widener.

Turning to the big-time college football ranks and off this past (light) weekend there were no significant changes in the race for the "Final Four." Would go with Alabama, Mississippi State, Oregon and Baylor right now for my picks. The Crimson Tide has a date with Auburn this weekend, Mississippi State still has to play Ole Miss, Oregon might have to tangle with UCLA in the Pac-12 Championship and Baylor has a weak slate remaining. Undefeated and defending champ Florida State will ease into this picture, Ohio State lurks on the fringe and how about the Bruins of UCLA if they end up Pac-12 champs?

Watched parts of three football games on the tube Saturday as Florida State won on a late FG over a decent Boston College team that ... runs-runs-runs. Notre Dame dropped another contest as the Irish lost to Louisville as they had a potential game-tying FG sail wide right late in the game. Ouch. Then, later on, UCLA drilled USC in the Rose Bowl.

Pittsburgh blasted Syracuse, 30-7 in a lower level D1 football game. The Orange now (3-8) on the season and slipping weekly with a young squad plus numerous injuries.

Former Alfred University WR, "Shuey" (#129) was on the Tampa Bay Bucs-Chicago Bears NFL game this past Sunday in Chicago as two disappointing teams went at it.

Thanksgiving Day NFL predictions: taking all the home teams as it'll be Detroit over Chicago, Dallas topping Philadelphia in a key division game and San Francisco surviving against Seattle in another key division game of their own.

Turning to basketball and "congrats" go out to Raegan Ryan of Canisteo and the Cedarville Yellow Jackets (4-1) women's hoop team as she was named GMAC and NCCAA Player of the Week off her first two outings this season. Ryan scored 23-points in each win as her team topped Ashland and Ohio Dominican. On the year she is averaging 19-points and 4-assists per outing, leading the team in those categories. The GMAC is the league they are in and NCCAA is a national honor! Also, the senior recently scored her 1,000th career point in a game versus Tiffin. "Pretty good" start to the season!

The Alfred University men's b-ball squad, under new coach Russell Phillips, are (2-0) early on as the Saxons beat SUNY-ESF, 95-57 and Wells, 84-77. The team plays Penn (not UPenn) and Hilbert this week and is in a Washington, DC tourney the first weekend of December. Phillips started his coaching career as a grad assistant for his alma mater at Cortland under the tutelage of "Spanny!"

After dropping two games in the Brockport tournament to start the season, the AU women are now (1-3) on the year with a loss to Wells tacked on and a victory over Keuka. Coach Jay Murphy's group plays Penn in Williamsport and Fredonia this week.

Former AU coach Tom Spanbauer and his Cortland Red Dragons are (3-0) early on in D3 hoops. No in-season tourney action for the Cortland team on the schedule as they are at Geneseo on January 13th.

Alfred State College Hall of Famer, Tom Curle and his Plattsburgh Cardinals are (2-1) after a recent win over Western Connecticut State, 89-84. Hoping to see Curle's troops in action, along with Gary & Mary Moore, on January 23rd in Geneseo.

Rob Kornaker's (AU) men's hoop team at SJ Fisher opens up play this week as they host Oneonta in a relatively late start to the season. Alfred University is at SJF on January 20th.

Todd Montana and his Lasell College (not LaSalle) women's basketball team is (2-2) in the early going after competing in the Salem State Tip-Off tournament. Montana has gone from Union College assistant, to Lemoyne College assistant, to head coach at Green Mountain College ... all with the men's programs, before heading to Lasell as the SID and now the head coach for the women. The son of Linell Soule (A-A) and ex-Union coach, Bob Montana.

In "local" Division III women's soccer action it was Nazareth (E8 co-champ) falling to perennial power, Messiah by a 3-0 score in third-round NCAA play. Nazareth had one shot on goal. Ouch. The Messiah women (and men) have dominated the D3 soccer landscape in the past 10-11 years. Actually had an opportunity to attend game at Messiah in daughter Lauren's junior year at Geneseo as the Knights were in the NCAA's in a four-team "pod" in Pennsylvania. Lost to Endicott on PK's in a shootout in the opener with Messiah awaiting the next day. Yuk. Overall great trip to the Carlisle area with Randy Beale, the Geneseo parents, the NCAA experience ... except for the loss, of course!

A-A grads Jake Taft (91) and The Scum (104) hit the links at Clearwater CC this past Saturday. Our Man Frank ... not in attendance! "Kinda" wish I was there with them instead of freezing in Webster.

Katy Herbst (Webster) made the SUNYAC first-team in volleyball while playing for New Paltz. Younger sister of Jess Herbst, an often ADK hiking companion of 3L and myself while spending time in Indian Lake.

Speaking of 3L, she and the SEAL took in the Temple-Duke men's basketball game at the Barclay Center on Friday nite past in the Coaches Vs. Cancer tournament. Duke beat Temple and Stanford, coached by Johnny Dawkins (Duke) to win the event. The Blue Devils were coming off a win over Michigan State in the State Farm Classic a few days earlier. Kentucky demolished Kansas in the other game of that event and looked like they could beat an NBA team ... like the Philly Sixers!

In golf, Adam Scott fell just short of grabbing his third-straight Australian Masters title as he finished T2 over the weekend. Next up for Scott is the Australian Open and PGA. Last year he went 1-1-2 in those three events. Pretty sure world #1, Rory McIlroy will be entered in one or both of those two events. He is coming off a T2 finish this past weekend at the DP World Tour Championship. Joost Luiten ... Savo's buddy, was in the T9 slot.

A few vanity plates here and there: C YA BYE and MY STG ... on a sweet, baby blue Mustang (not LCM's). Also, spotted by "Doc" Moore in Syracuse ... SHOTGUN1 and IGETEVEN.

The Alfred State College men's basketball team is playing Cornell this year? From the NJCAA ranks to NCAA Division III and taking on a D1 Ivy League school? What is up with that? January 10th in Ithaca. Did they get that mixed up with the Bombers?

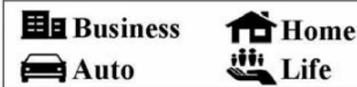

As we head into Thanksgiving week ... "many thanks" column-wise for all the AD's, coaches, ex-coaches, players, ex-players that I know who are helpful all year long either with material to use or any questions I may have on a subject. Paul Vecchio of AU is great at answering my (bugging) questions, as are many others. Pat Atwell, obviously. Coach Wiley at Geneseo. Big-time thanks and a "congrats" to Coach Woods at Geneseo as "Woodsie" rides off into the sunset. Got to know the cross country coach casually when Lauren at school there. A character and a great guy, retiring.

Headed to Alfred on Thursday to the Baker's with the Baker's of Penfield, after a stop at the Webster Turkey Trot 5K to see some runners in action. Carly Baker and maybe Jess Herbst. Cass Beasley? Ken Lindahl?

HAPPY THANKSGIVING EVERYONE !!!
