

Alumni News, Notes, Activities

3/22/12

Michelle Plucinsky '93 will be presenting a new glassblowing show, "Glass Eggstravaganza," at The Glass Academy, an educational art glass studio in Dearborn, Mich. where she is a founding partner, on March 24-25 from 10am-4pm. The show will feature hand-sculpted Easter-themed glass items. Patricia Strickland '02 is the CEO for Ceralink Inc., a materials engineering and technology commercialization company located in Troy, N.Y. Ceralink recently announced the opening of a new Materials Testing facility in St. Clairsville, Ohio. Tabitha Brewster '04 was recently named agency administrator for Catholic Charities of Livingston County in Mount Morris, N.Y. She has served for the past year as the organization's assistant executive director and interim executive director. Jessica Gardner '04 recently opened a new solo exhibition titled groWING UP in the Harry Krug Gallery at Pittsburg State University in Pittsburg, Kan. The exhibit will run through May 4. Jessica is also currently exhibiting her work in the NCECA 2012 Invitational Exhibition, Push Play, in Bellevue, Wash., which will be on display through June 2012. She has also recently been included in publications such as Ceramics: Art and Perception and Art Calendar.