Last Monday night in a game not as smooth as the one played a week ago the Fifth Avenue Restaurant. About its 27th annual meeting at Columbus, against Davis-Elkins, but marked by 125 Alfred people were present. Ample good, hard fighting, Coach Kasper's Varsity came back in the second half to overcome the eight point lead of Niagara's strong outfit, and won Ruth F. Randolph. Classes were the fray by a single point 25-24. Niagara started going from the first, and by the end of the first quarter had the Varsity 9-4. Capt. Babcock then started the ball rolling the other way by a neat, long shot, but Menzino was injured on the next play and had to be taken out. Both teams were playing a furious defensive game as the half ended, for while Alfred was holding their own and better on pass work, hard luck in shooting lost them the ball at the end of each journey down the floor. Niagara took the ball down fast but McConnell took it away from them just as soon as it came in his territory. The visitors, however, "stevad" several times from long distance and this ran the score up out gress. He emphasized the human or of proportion to the brand of game that they were playing.

Alfred opened the second period with a score and evened the tally before the first five minutes. Another agara. Here the crowd, packed like the roof echoed "Rays" for Alfred. then the Varsity would be a point Alfred. ahead; never more than two points

POOR SPIRIT!

Some students, who may have come too late to the Gym to get a seat, say that all the town's people should be excluded from the game, because there is not room enough for the students.

Fellow students, do you think that such a policy should be taken by the student body? The people of this community are doing their utmost to support this college, and help us. Much of their money and patience is directed toward helping us. Many put up with dope from a student what they would not tolerate from even their own children.

This seems to have been a holiday week, for quite a lot of excitement has taken place up at the house. We wonder whether these beautiful springlike days are having an intoxicating effect upon some of the younger brothers, especially "Wally" who happened not to have a date one night last week, so he invaded a senior brother's room and played with matches (not fire) whereupon the slipper was used to good effect.

Also brother Abie Reibert, who growing tired of home cooking, boarded with us the past week. While some of us were away he conceived the brilliant idea of tieing up a dozen pajamas to our flag pole one evening. A secret meeting in Brother Reibert's room to the tune of the hickory. Besides his work at Swarthmunications should be addressed to the more, President Ayedelotte has made a study of the honor courses in other colleges. His findings were published Entered at the Alfred Post Office as in a Bulletin of the National Research Council entitled "Honor Courses in American Colleges and Universities."

Some college students believe that a college education should be more They want to dig things out for themselves, in their rooms or in the "lib," and for that reason dislike to be jacked down to a patchwork routine of going to classes every day and reading out of one or two text books. Quizzes and exams beguess work, they would rather dispense with these periodic interruptions and take one big examination, or write a paper at the end of their college work. CAMPUS

There are three basket ball leagues on the campus this season, the class league, the Ag School class league and the Inter-House League. These three leagues have given fourteen fives besides the varsity a chance to play basketball. The Inter-House League has created the most interest due to the large representation it has on the campus. At present there are several evenly matched teams in this league and the games are very ex-

There is no objection to singing, dancing and such pleasures in the building when the workers are off duty. Employees are encouraged in matters of thrift, and provisions are made to open savings accounts for them and to offer stock in Allen, "Old Fashioned Garden;" Mary the Bell system a bit below par so that those who save may reap a retial payment plan so nearly everyone has an opportunity to make an investment. A medical department is always at the service of the employees and they are encouraged to have physical examination twice a year.

The talk was especially interesting to Alfred students because each year some members of the senior class sign up with this company. A report from them, recently stated that Howard M. Griffith, who went to work there last year, is now assistant manager in his department.

A Pulsating Heart

When the curtains were pulled aside, the audience was ready to be moved to sadness or happiness at the will of the actors as who came out from behind the large heart, which adorned the stage. The play was a love story, the whole plot centering about the efforts of a young man, sitting alone, dreaming of his sweethearts of long ago. Each girl coming out of the heart impersonated an appropriate title of an old song. A chorus of girls and boys sang as each of the other girls came upon the scene of the lonesome young man. The play ended with the coming of the girl who is the man's ideal lover. You can guess the rest.

The girls who represented these titles impersonated them cleverly, Dorris Wambold, represented "School Days;" Charyline Smith, "Pretty Red Wing;" Daisy Schirmer, "Salvation Army Lassie;" Gertrude Huber, "Rose of No Mans' Land;" Beatrice Sills, "Mary Dear;" Winifred Buck, "Dutch Song;" Leola Henderson, "Mickey;" Genevieve Huntington, "Rose of Sunny Italy;" Marjorie Robinson, "Where the River Shannon Flows;" Frances Shaut, "Just a Girl Men Forget;" and the bride represented "Love's Old ward. The stock is offered on par- Sweet Song;" and Beatrice Sills and Alfred McConnell become married.

After the play further variety was Courses inadded to the evening's entertainment. Hearts bearing duplicate numbers were distributed to the boys, and to the girls whereby each had to find the corresponding number. In this way every one had a partner. Dancing, Paul Jones, and games were the principle features of the evening.

Refreshments were served by the committee during the latter part of the entertainment. The committee, the co-workers who prepared and arranged the program to make it successful, are to be congratulated.
