

A. U. Forum To Present Comic Opera By Mozart Wednesday In Men's Gym

Presentation, An English Translation
Of "Cosi Fan Tutte," To Include Cast
Of Six; Drama Club To Help In Production

Alfred will have its first opera Wednesday evening when the Alfred University Forum presents an English translation of Mozart's "Cosi Fan Tutte," at 8:15 p.m., in Men's Gym.

A cast of six will give the performance of the comic opera which is translated by George and Phyllis Mead. Assisting the production staff will be the Footlight Club and E. F. Meade, Wellsville electrician.

Concerning the production, Prof. C. D. Smith, Forum committee chairman, said it promises "to be intelligible and good fun." He said it is "an artistic English translation in the American idiom."

There will be a reception for the cast at Social Hall following the performance.

Members of the cast under the direction of Moritz Bomhard and Frederic Cohen are: Fiordiligi, Teresa Storch, soprano; Dorabella, Jane Hobson, mezzo-soprano; Despina, Rosalind Williams, light soprano; Ferrando, Norvel Campbell, tenor; Graziano, Josh Wheeler, baritone; and Don Alphonso, Adolph Anderson, bass-baritone.

Mr. Bomhard, musical director, has conducted opera in both the United States and Europe. After a Juilliard Fellowship, where he studied under the late Albert Stoessel, he served four years in the Army conducting musical productions in the Pacific Theater. Since the war he conducted a season of opera at the Deertrees Theater, which has been considered an outstanding place for training opera singers in this country.

Mr. Cohen, dramatic director, also enjoys an international reputation, having helped to establish the Jooss Ballet. He is co-director of the Opera Department of the Berkshire Music Center where he staged the American premiere of Britten's "Peter Grimes." At present he directs the Juilliard Opera Theater.

Margaret Laird, stage and costume designer, formerly was associated with the Pittsburgh Opera Company. Adolph Anderson, managing director, has been associated with colleges for the past 12 years and is particularly well suited to know the needs and tastes of college students.

Easter Recital On March 21 At Village Church

The University Chorus, under the direction of Mr. William Fiedler, will present an Easter program at 8:15 p.m. on March 21 in the Village Church.

The program will include Bach's Cantata No. 4, "Christ Lay By Death Enshrouded" and Anton Bruckner's "Te Deum." Each of the seven numbers is based on a splendid old chorale. The text is composed of Luther's entire hymn.

The solos in the "Te Deum" will be sung by a group consisting of Roberta McClure, Miriam Tooke '48, Hermine Deutsch '49, Norma Jacob '48, Edward Flurshutz '51, Edwin Lorey '48, Ronald Hargis, and Boyd Van Dyke AT.

The instrumental group will be enlarged by musicians from several towns and colleges, including: first violins; Adelbert Purga, Wellsville; Joseph Chalker, Glanville Davis, Howard Deanto, all of Ithaca. Second violins: Constantine Poulmas, Ithaca and Freda Eddy, Wellsville. Celli: Joan Baird '48, Juel Andersen '49. Bass: Olin Johnson, Almond. Flute: Edwin Widger, Wellsville. Oboes: Agatino Ronchetti, St. Bonaventure and Erving Mix '51. Clarinet: Clark Eddy, Wellsville. Trumpets: Stephen Saunders '50, Fred Chapman, Wellsville, and David Crump '50. Trombone: Harold Crump, Ithaca. Organ: Lawrence Hardy '50. Piano: Lois Sutton '48.

During the program an offering will be taken toward cost of the production.

Senate To Nominate For New Treasurer At Meeting Tonight

Nominations for Senate treasurer to replace John Carabillo '48 who resigned last week will be held in Senate tonight. Carabillo's books will be audited this week and ready for the new treasurer who will be elected at the next meeting.

The issue concerning student operation of the Merrill Field Concession was tabled until after elections of officers in all organization concerned. A motion was also put on record by the Senate that all activities pertaining to the entire campus be announced at both assemblies.

The proposed amendment concerning the mailing of mimeographed copies of Senate minutes and a list of absentees to all represented organizations was passed last week and incorporated into the constitution as Article V, section 1 as one of the duties of the secretary.

Other amendments concerning requirements for president, absences and amending of the constitution were also passed.

Campus To Vote For New Officers Thursday, Friday

Campus elections will be from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m., Thursday, and from 9 to 12 noon, Friday. There will be two polling places, in the campus Union and the Ag-Tech lobby.

Election Committee Chairman Paul Baker AT, advised the Fiat this week that the results would be announced in the March 16 lett.

Alfred U. Well-Represented In Western N. Y. Art Exhibition

By Juel Andersen

Although art critics termed the judges "ruthless" in selecting only 112 works from an estimated 1030 entries, Alfred and Alfred University is well-represented in the 14th annual Western New York Art Exhibition opening tomorrow.

Mariana Pineda, wife of Prof. Harold Tovish of the College of Ceramics, is one of the five to have three selections in the exhibit. She has two sculptures, "Mother and Child" and a terra cotta sketch, and a drawing entitled "Young Negro."

In the group of artists with two works exhibited are Charles and Margaret Jacobs. Mr. Jacobs is a graduate assistant in the College of Ceramics. He is showing a stoneware plate and a stoneware bowl. Mrs. Jacobs has two stoneware bowls at the exhibition.

Others from Alfred include Mr. Thomas F. McClure, art and sculpture instructor in the Craft School, who has a stone carving in the exhibition. Leonard S. Rubenstein, Edward Strong and Louise Trenkle, all Alfred graduates, also have works exhibited.

One of the smallest of the 14-WNY shows, it was judged by three men of international reputation, Alfred H. Barr Jr., Max Weber and Ivan Mestrovic.

St. Pat's Open House Features Glass Experts

The College of Ceramics open house, featuring the famous Corning glass blowers, has been revived for the first time since the war as an integral part of the St. Pat's Festival, coming March 18-19.

High school chemistry and art students, as well as the public, are invited to the open house, said Alfred Cooper, Jr., '48, open house chairman, this week. Besides the glass blowers, there will be movies on ceramic industries, and nearly 350 College of Ceramics students will take part in six other demonstrations.

The glass blowers from the Steuben Division of the Corning Glass Works, James Janson and Frank Schroeder, will demonstrate the ancient art during the open house which will be from 7 to 10 p.m., Thursday, March 18, in the College of Ceramics buildings. Simultaneously will be the demonstrations and exhibitions by students of mineralogy, X-ray, photo-microscopy, petrography, throwing and molding clay and art work.

The movies on the ceramic industries will run continuously during the evening.

Other members of the faculty-student committee for the open house are: Chairman, Prof. Robert M. Campbell, Prof. Harold E. Simpson, Prof. Charles M. Harder, Prof. Kurt J. Ekdahl, G. Edwin Lorey '48, and Gordon Prior '48.

Pi Delta Epsilon To Initiate Nine New Members April 12

Initiation of nine new members of Pi Delta Epsilon, national honorary journalism fraternity, will take place on April 12, Jerry Smith '50, president, announced this week.

The nine members nominated in a recent meeting are: Beverly Button '49, Marie Cherichetti '48, Nancy Curtis '49, Mary Ann Goodrich '48, Lawrence Kinton '50, Jeannette Klimajeski '50, Mar Lord '48, Elizabeth Newell '49, and Marilyn Schneider '48.

All the new members meet the requirements of the honorary fraternity, two years participation in campus journalism and at last a sub editorship.

Committees for two of Pi Delta's projects for next year were announced at the same time. The Freshman Handbook, which was substantially revised by Pi Delta last year, will be published again by that organization under a committee consisting of Katherine Leckes '49, chairman, Beverly Button and Jeannette Klimajeski.

The new telephone directory will be edited by: Arling Hazlett '49, and Elizabeth Newell co-chairmen, assisted by other members of the organization.

Campaign For President Of Senate To Culminate At Elections This Week

Four Candidates Include R. Hanright,
J. Jones, R. Lawson And J. Saunders;
Three Classes Nominate New Officers

Political action which rose in the form of Senate president campaign speeches and class, Union Board and NSA nominations this week will culminate at the all-campus elections Thursday and Friday. With the withdrawal of Michael Magrino AT and the entrance of Robert Hanright '49 the presidential race may prove to be close.

Board Names Band To Play At Formal Ball

Decides On Good Music
Instead Of Name Band;
Outfit Has 13 Pieces

Bill Flanagan and his band will furnish music for the St. Pat's Ball, according to an announcement by Co-chairmen Wortley Paul '48 and Gordon Prior '48, this week.

"The Board chose to do away with the 'name band' idea this year in an effort to provide good music without great expense," they said. Flanagan's outfit, 13 pieces and a male vocalist, has "an excellent reputation" in the Rochester area, Prior said.

Al Rawady's small band from Hornell, will furnish music for the tea dance which begins at 4 p.m., Thursday, March 18.

The tea dance will follow the parade which starts at 1 p.m. Thursday evening will be the College of Ceramics open house and on Friday will be the Footlight Club play, "Green Grow the Lilacs," fraternity open house and the ball which will be from 10 to 2.

Only significant change in program over other years is the open house, revived this year, on Thursday evening and the fraternity open house preceding the ball on Friday.

"This sort of a schedule will give due prominence to the Ceramic open house and better fit the habits of the St. Pat's weekend crowd," the co-chairmen said.

Music Library Opens Under New System

The music library will reopen today under a "better, more open system which will stimulate its use," announced Prof. C. D. Smith, Music Library Committee chairman. Mrs. E. W. Barnard, Eli Fass '49 and Robert Roderick '48 have volunteered to act as librarians.

Under the new system, the library will be open after the Music Appreciation class and Chorus to allow the members of these groups to make use of the library. Catalogs and call slips will make the operation of the library more efficient.

The library will be open Mondays and Wednesdays from 4:30 to 5:45; Tuesdays and Thursdays from 2:30 to 5:45; and after Chorus and Sundays during the regular Music Hour. It will also be open every other Saturday starting March 20, for those who wish to listen to the Metropolitan Opera. The library will not be open on Fridays.

Rental fees for the records has been changed to 10 cents for one week instead of three days.

Steinheim Museum Open Every Sunday

"The Allen Steinheim Museum of Natural History has been reopened," announced Mr. Fred Palmer, buildings and grounds superintendent, this week. The Museum will be open every Sunday from 2 until 5 p.m.

The building will be under the supervision of Mr. Jay Wilcox, janitor. It may be open at other times by appointment with Mr. Wilcox.

Steinheim Museum is the third oldest college museum in the United States in continuous operation. It contains geological, anthropological and other collections.

Jack Jones, AT, incumbent, Robert Lawson '49, and James Saunders '49, announced their intention of running at an earlier Senate meeting.

Less momentous were class nominations. Candidates for the offices were:

Junior class president—Daniel Kane and Richard Pedu; vice-president—Juel Andersen and Arling Hazlett; secretary—Marie Sica and Carolyn Thomas; treasurer—Herbert Anderson, Richard Johnson and Donald Knowlton.

Sophomore class president—Shirley Champlin, Stanton Garr, Lawrence Griffith and George Harris; vice-president—John Boyle, Arthur Chatfield, Bernice Garber, Jeannette Klimajeski and John Quick; secretary—Joan Hatfield, Marcia Lawrence, Margaret O'Neill, and Louemna Reed; treasurer—Dwight Brown, Thomas Cantwell, Roger Gentsch, Nancy Kelly, H. Professors John Freund, Samuel Scholes, Jr., and C. Kenneth Snyder were also nominated. Mr. Gene Reynolds, Mr. Howard Merrill, and Mr. Leigh Woehling, represent the Ag-Tech.

NSA candidates are: Carolyn Thomas '49, and Bacia Stepner, Grad., from Ceramics; Allen Cordts '49, and Arling Hazlett '49 from Liberal Arts; and Lawrence Bonhotel and John Magrino from Ag-Tech.

Students Start Trial Teaching In High Schools

Senior and graduate students are going out this week for a two-week period of high school practice teaching to complete the New York State teacher certification requirement. There are 15 students going to five participating schools.

The students will teach for a two-week period. The first week will allow opportunity for observation on the part of the student and the second will be for actual teaching. The University faculty will observe the practice teachers during the second week, also.

The date was moved ahead to March 8 in some cases, said Dean Joseph Seidl, to coordinate better the activities of some of the participating schools.

The schools to which the students will go and the subjects being taught are as follows:

Wellsville (starting March 8)—English, Joan Heise; French, Lois Sutton; mathematics, Stanley Ruger; social studies, Elizabeth O'Connor.

Canisteo—French, June Allan; mathematics, Clara Worden; science, Joyce Dietrich; social studies, Edith Fagan.

Andover—commercial, Mrs. Phyllis Rigby; social studies, Clarence Burlingame.

All-Campus Festival

Approximately two more weeks will bring St. Pat to Alfred in all his green glory. In past years this festival has been the biggest event of the campus social season—a weekend anticipated months before and remembered months after. The St. Pat's Board is charged with the responsibility of continuing this tradition and preventing it from degenerating into just another planned weekend.

Old-timers tell us that through the years St. Pat's has gradually been losing some of its vigor. Along with increased faculty participation has come a more decorous celebration which is especially noticeable in the diluted lapooning of the Patron Saint. And last year many on campus decried the high price of the tickets—they called for a price within the reach of every student.

This is not only impossible, but impractical. St. Pat's should be something special, something worth saving and sacrificing for.

The Ball in the Men's Gym is the climax of the week-end; but present facilities could not possibly accommodate even half of the student and faculty couples. However, neither expense nor lack of space should bar every campus group from joining the celebration.

Like New Orleans' Mardi Gras, Louisville's Derby, and Pasadena's Festival of Roses, any group may enter a float in the parade, and any residence is free to have open house. Small groups can dance at Social Hall or in any living room to better music than will be playing at the Gym.

Yes, keep St. Pat's expensive. But make it definitely all-campus.

Know Your Candidate

After listening to comments following assembly and on campus, we found that a large portion of the student body has not yet decided for whom to vote in the coming Senate elections.

For practical purposes, the speeches of all the candidates were on a par and contained at least one or two good points. Those who do not know the candidates personally must thus look to other sources for the facts on which to base their decision.

We urge you to make an effort to find out something about their records. Talk to those who have worked with them and do not satisfy yourself with one opinion. Above all do not neglect to vote because of indecision—get the facts so that there will be no indecision. In this way only can we assure ourselves of good Senate leadership next year.

THE RAVING REPORTER

By Stanton Garr

In view of the fact that the people of the world are becoming more and more closely related by the increase in communication and transportation facilities, all of us will eventually be more directly effected by what any group of people or nation does. In recognition of this fact, we have asked the question, "In your opinion, is the average college student enough interested in world or national affairs?"

Karl Scheffer, Grad.—College students do not have the proper background of facts on national affairs to justify lengthy discussions.

Joseph Seidel '49—Interest in world affairs is not cultivated enough in early training in grade and high schools for students to have real understanding of these problems.

Martin Davidson '48—No, and it is understandable. We must find our own balance in society before we think in terms of national and world affairs. Education should present the tools for the simultaneous solutions of these related problems.

Robert Roderick '49—I don't think the average college student realizes what his responsibility is as an educated person. He is too concerned with the personal rewards of learning. I think it is time we all faced our obligation of seriously considering national and world affairs. The present situation is being so poorly handled that it is high time we began to doubt the infallibility of Washington politicians, and stop letting the wool be pulled over our eyes.

Allen Cordts '49—Perhaps the "average college student" is interested in world affairs—but the average Alfred student is uninformed, disinterested, and unaware of the world outside of Allegany County. This fact was demonstrated to me by the lethargic response to, and in some cases, even re-

The Intersorority Ball sponsored by the four sororities, Pi Alpha Pi, Sigma Chi Nu, Alpha Kappa Omicron and Theta Theta Chi marked the high spot of last weekend's social activities. Couples danced in South Hall gym to the lilting rhythms of the Esquires from Mansfield State Teachers College from 9 to 1:30, except for the intermission when all sororities held open houses.

Four "fantastic" scenes that fitted in under the theme of "Fantasia" decorated the corners of the mid-night Blue room. Each sorority was responsible for one of the decorative panels. Theta Chi's suggested a fairyland with elfs, flowers, butterflies, all on a platform of straw sprinkled with sawdust and snow. The waltz of the flowers festooned with a tree filled with bright flower blooms against a blue sky in the background was portrayed by Omicron. The midnight scene featuring the witch, owl, tree and sparkly moon was done by Sigma Chi. The bright colorful fishes, colored stone, netting and verdure composed the undersea view made by Pi Alpha. Colored lights turned on the panels provided the soft glow needed for vision.

Those in charge of committees were: decorations, Rosemary Springer '48; music, Neysa Jean Dixon '48; programs and invitations, Ruth Macauley '49; and refreshment, Joan Hatfield '50. Guests included were Mr. and Mrs. John Albiston, Prof. and Mrs. Robert Campbell, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Cooper, Prof. and Mrs. Henry C. Langer, Mr. and Mrs. Verlee Linderman, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Longfritz, Director and Mrs. Paul Orvis and Mr. and Mrs. William Patchen.

Kappa Delta held their annual pledge dance at the Ag-Tech lounge Friday evening from 8 p.m. to midnight. Bruce Bynington AT, and Robert Baldeck AT, were chairmen of the dance and Robert Pelcher was the master of ceremonies for the floor show staged by the pledges. Mr. Richard Stimson, Miss Shirley Wurz, Mr. and Mrs. William Patchen and Mr. and Mrs. Jack Smith were guests.

A pledge dance at Social Hall, Friday evening with recorded music was celebrated by Theta Gamma. At intermission entertainment was provided by the pledges. Mr. and Mrs. Walter Hinkle, Mr. and Mrs. Erle Myers, Mr. and Mrs. H. O. Crowell, Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Brown and Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Parish were the guests and chaperones.

Wednesday evening Theta Chi had a buffet dinner and pledge services for Beverly Chase AT, Lois Ludden AT, Marian Chudy AT, Esther Schults AT, Avis Hirschey AT, Renee Rothmund '51, Normalee Wiegand '49, Gretchen LeSuer '51 and Mary Lou Watt '49.

Janice Green '51, Norma Koch '51, and Adelle Wightman '50 were luncheon guests at Omicron, Wednesday, and on Thursday they were pledged. Madge Evans '49, was pledged to Sigma Chi, Thursday.

Annette Argana from Clifton Springs was a weekend guest at Pi Alpha.

Robert Rappleye, a student from Syracuse University and a member of the Lambda Chi chapter of Alpha Upsilon Zeta, was a weekend guest of Emily Nicholl '49, and an overnight guest at Lambda Chi.

Joyce Bovee and Mary Green were overnight guests at Sigma Chi, Saturday night.

Caryl Mullard '51 was a dinner guest at Sigma Chi, Friday.

Richard Van Caeselle and Harry Blachley stayed at Kappa Delta over the week-end.

Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Rhodes and daughter Linda were Sunday dinner guests at Pi Alpha.

Peggy Slavin was a weekend guest at Theta Chi.

If Alfred students are interested in world affairs, they are doing a magnificent job of keeping that interest well-hidden. The Public Affairs Forum was specifically created to provide Alfred with an opportunity to discuss important political questions with informed speakers. The speakers have come—where were the students?

Good News, Girls

A lady stargazer came up with a few hot tips from the heavens on how leap year maidens can corral the right man. "Girls born under the sign of the ram—between March 21 and April 20—have a 50 percent better chance of marrying in 1948," said Helene Paul, professional astrologer.

Memo

To: The Boss Lady
From: jerrysmith

It is quite possible that the campus will witness some topnotch campaign strategies this week. It looks as though the race is going to be a close one, and if all candidates fight it will be a good battle.

Magrino's withdrawal from the race was looked upon by many students as an ominous warning that the entire student body of more than 700 votes may support Jones. The situation for the University candidates was further imperiled with the entrance of Hanright into the race inasmuch as the University vote will be that much more split.

All indications, therefore, are that all the University candidates will be out to secure as much as possible of the Ag-Tech vote, not only to chip it away from Jones, but also because they cannot depend on too many votes from the University student body.

In the final analysis, however, the outcome will hinge upon several other factors.

The great majority of students are not well acquainted with all the candidates. This may result in some instances in the student voting for the candidate he knows best. In other cases, the candidate who employs the most striking campaign novelties will get many votes from the poorly organized elements such as the freshman class or the unpredictable co-eds.

On the other hand, the balance of power may be some other organized group which is sponsoring no candidate, Klan, Kappa Psi or Kappa Nu.

It is doubtful if the campaign speeches by the four candidates in assembly, Thursday, will have much effect on vote-getting. Few students seemed much impressed with Hanright's radio station, Jones' incumbency, Lawson's carefully-worded speech or Saunderson's common-sense admission that all candidates have a platform of some sort.

All candidates, it will be noted, pumped for a closer unity between the Ag-Tech and the University student bodies. On the other hand, the same thing was said last year and one candidate, with perhaps considerable foresight, led a pre-election drive for funds for Ag-Tech organizations to the point that they received more than the logical proportion.

Many students are not wholehearted behind any candidate; they will vote for the lesser of evils. That is what happened last year to a large extent, however, and Ken Goss gave the Senate a far better administration than it has had in several years.

We feel that all candidates are good potential presidential material. Aside from the exception of the Ag-Tech bloc, which may prove to be less formidable than it now appears, the one who wins the election will be the candidate who organizes the best campaign and, essentially, that is what is needed for a successful Senate presidency.

Fiat Reporter Sneaks Into Rehearsal To Preview "Green Grow The Lilacs"

By Horst E. Rodies

Let's sneak in to a rehearsal of "Green Grow The Lilacs."

Quiet now; see if you can find your way down the aisle in the dark. Watch out for that post in the middle, and never mind the floor squeaking. That will stop when they tear the building down.

See the fellow down front by the piano with the glow of the stage lights on him? The one with the bushy head of hair and the guitar? That's George James. Sounds like he's trying to pick out a song by ear. He started playing the guitar in the army, learning folk songs right from the men who had been singing them all their life. George likes the songs; they're simple with a fine lyric quality, he says. Sometimes they tell a story, or they can be just sad or beautiful. (His hands make vague circular movements as he tries to tell us about the range of feeling expressed by the old ballads.) This is his first theatre production at Alfred.

How does it feel to be an actor, George? He laughs, "You've got me wrong; I'm a citizen of the world first, and a ceramic artist by profession."

There goes Bob Young. He and George started Alfred together in 1940. Bob is this year's lighting director for the Footlight Club. He worked on the Frosh-Soph plays last November and on last year's "Murder in the Cathedral." Most of the time you see him stalking about between the lights and shadows—if you see him. He is constantly checking the lights and equipment in all parts of the house. Painting the stage with lights calls for constant attention to a thousand different items. There he goes, climbing up into the lighting loft again; keeps pretty much to business.

Notice how bare the stage looks with those unpainted platforms and odd pieces of furniture? The two benches on the side will be a fence when the set is finished. Until then the players will go by floor markings and imaginary doors.

The players on stage? The two girls in slacks are Ann Heylman and Joyce Angermann. Ann, who plays the part of Laurey, is a Liberal Arts sophomore taking a German major. Joyce, a liberal arts freshman is having an active first year in drama. Both played in "the Long Christmas Dinner" last fall and both show sincerity and ability in their work. It's not an easy life; rehearsal schedules are exacting.

And that big, bushy cowboy is Thaddeus Clark, a Ceramics senior who takes the male lead. Everyone calls him Curley on and off stage. He comes from Buffalo, but spent two and a half years as an army man in Alabama on "temporary assignment."

Sh-h. Can't you see Dick Tracy glaring at us from the wings? "QUIET. OFF-STAGE!" He's assistant director, promoter and Prof. Smith's right hand man.

We'd better get out before they jump down on us for disturbing the performance. Everyone seems so busy.

Infirmary Notes

Who Is St. Pat?

Back to the wars! Lots of excitement around the campus right now. Thursday I went to assembly to listen to this year's slate of candidates for the political plum of the campus. Very disappointing; no grandiose campaign promises, no mention of the crying need for beer faucets in Bartlett dormitory; no veiled implications that their rivals beat babies and heave rocks at grandmothers in their spare time. Pondering over the respectability of the candidates—their obvious capitalistic connections—I have decided that the baser element in Alfred, the University proletariat, needs representation in this election. Last year I ran under an independent ticket but due to fraudulent manipulation of the polls (they wouldn't let Freckles vote, even after I wasted three dog biscuits on her) I was unanimously defeated. Last year my motto was "Muddle through with Muddlehead." This year it will be "Chaos and Muddlehead." How can I miss?

I have only one plank in last year's platform that I'm going to retain. That is in regard with the time wasted by the students in hitchhiking down the road to the Beacon and the Kant U. If I'm elected your troubles are over. I have made arrangements for the Kant U and the Beacon to hitchhike up here every Friday afternoon. What other candidate can promise that? Under my regime, curvpushing (that bane of Alfred students) will be restricted solely to the dance floor; I also promise that these bloated Alfred capitalists, those persons who can get more than one date, will be severely suppressed. Address books will become public property. Under the Muddlehead system even Frank Trost will be sure of a date. Enuf said; I'm in! Speaking of dating—have you seen that new look of confidence, that cocky walk that has characterized Bill Harrison lately since he discovered that he could get a date on the campus?

Couples Seen Here and There Dep't.—Millie Albert and John Coletton, Bobbie Theurer and Bill Hall, Caryl Mullard and Dick (Anybody-can-get-thru college) Van Caeselle.

"Twinkle" McNamara almost hit the 300 point score for the season. I have often wondered how he would compare with my cousin Knucklehead. I never knew my cousin played basketball but my mother keeps writing me that Knucklehead sure raises hob with the guards at Sing Sing. He must be pretty good.

Daf-inition Dep't.—Nightclub: a place where they sell headaches.

Drugstore: a business that would go bankrupt if it weren't or night clubs.

Cagers Complete Home Season With 54-34 Win Over Allegheny

The Alfred cagers wound up their home stand of the current basketball season with a spirited 54-34 victory over a high-powered Allegheny College quintet last Tuesday evening at the Men's Gym.

Led by Dick McNamara, Alfred took an early lead while playing smart defensive ball. Four minutes of the first quarter had passed before Allegheny scored a free throw. Alfred led 21-1 at the end of continued the rampage the first period. Alfred continued the rampage in the second quarter, but Allegheny's five improved a bit. The score at the end of the half was 35-9.

Allegheny came back in the second half to play a much better brand of ball. They outscored Alfred in both of the remaining periods. This was due to Coach Jay McWilliam's frequent substituting, every man on the Alfred squad having a chance to play.

High scorer for Alfred was McNamara with 18 points. Bill Argentieri and Steve Saunders were next in line with nine each.

DILLON'S DRIBBLES

This week marked the close of the 1947-48 basketball season. The Saxons closed it with a record of 11 wins and nine losses which is Alfred's second best season in 40 years of basketball. The best year was the 1929-30 season with 12 wins and 7 losses. This also was the first team to win ten or more games since the 1934-35 squad.

This season was of the "hot then cold" variety in that the squad compiled both extensive winning and losing streaks throughout the season. In the early part of the season they ran up a losing streak of seven straight, while in the latter half they compiled a victory streak of six straight and won their last eight out of ten games.

The Saxons opened the season on Dec. 6th by trouncing Susquehanna University by 60-26 count and this impressive opening victory pointed to a great season for the Saxons. The quint went on to take their next two against Brockport State and St. Lawrence. In their next game however the Saxons dropped a 49-47 decision to Clarkson Tech and from this point on a seven-game losing streak enveloped the Saxons from which they did not emerge until early January.

This streak included three straight losses on the New York City trip, the only virtue of that hike being a one-point loss to a highly favored Brook-

Saxons End Season Losing To Buffalo Thursday, 50-39

Alfred and Buffalo closed their respective current basketball seasons as Buffalo defeated the Saxons 50-39 Thursday evening, at the Buffalo Memorial Auditorium.

Dick McNamara paced the Alfred squad with ten points. McNamara, playing in his home town, received a traveling bag from loyal South Park friends.

Alfred was off on its shots right from the beginning, and Buffalo took a quick lead which it never relinquished. At the half the score was 24-15.

During the second half Alfred came up considerably, but Bucky O'Donnell, Steve Saunders, and Joe Bob were put out on personal fouls. From that point on it was merely how much Alfred could hold the score down.

Buffalo Fans Pay Tribute To McNamara With Gift

When Alfred's cagers played at the Buffalo Auditorium this season, fans rocked the arena with shouts of encouragement to Dick McNamara, Saxon southpaw scoring ace, known to his friends and neighbors of Buffalo as "Pinball."

Recently, during the half of the windup Saxon game with U. of B. at the Buffalo arena, "Pinball" was remembered by his South Park friends and presented with a leather traveling bag. It was a fine tribute to one of the most colorful cagers Alfred has seen in years.

The Saxon Freshman cage Squad just missed hoisting that all-to-elusive first win of the season, by dropping their windup game to the U. of B. Frosh, 53-50, at the victors home court, Saturday afternoon.

lyn College quintet. On Jan. 20 the Saxons emerged from this disastrous streak with a 50-37 victory over Hobart, closely followed by a 55-45 victory over Ithaca College. From all indications it appeared that the Saxons were on their way toward fulfilling pre-season predictions and for the most part they were as they went on to take the next eight out of ten ball games, their two losses both occurring in games at the Buffalo Auditorium against Buffalo State and the U. of B. Standout in that streak were double victories over the University of Rochester and the scoring of 73 points, the season's high, against Hamilton College.

While the work of the entire squad deserves credit for the highly successful season the play of Dick McNamara and Bucky O'Donnell deserves extra praise, while much credit is also in order for the fine defensive play of Joe Bob and Bill Argentieri and also for the fine play at center of Steve Saunders. Coach McWilliam also deserves much praise for his fine coaching job in this his first year at the Saxon's helm.

Prospects for next season look very good as McWilliams retains the nucleus of this year's squad while losing only three men, Joe Bob, Ludie Johnston and Al Cooper.

Case Grapplers Defeat Alfred Matmen 24-6

The highlight of the current mat season resulted in a Case Institute victory over the Saxon wrestling squad by a score of 24-6.

"Our boys did surprisingly well against that rugged outfit," was the comment of Coach Yunevich, who added, "especially since Case held both Rochester and U. of Buffalo scoreless in recent matches."

As usual, peppery Art D'Avanzo, the Saxon's undefeated 145 pounder, came through with Alfred's first win of the Case match in impressive style. His teammate, Dale Thompson, gave Alfred its second win, beating his opponent on points, 7-1.

The Case tilt served as a prep match to determine Alfred's chances in the Interstate Invitational Meet at Cleveland and at which Case will be the host team. This meet is scheduled for March 12-13 and Alfred will be represented by Art D'Avanzo and Dale Thompson, who will pit their ability against some of the best intercollegiate grapplers in the country.

Milton College Choir Program Directed By Prof. B. Westlund Wins Applause, Praise From All

By Robert Roderick

Prof. Bernhardt H. Westlund directed the fifty-voice Milton College Choir in a concert in the Village Church on Friday evening, March 5. This excellent group of non-professional singers seemed to prove, in these days of huge symphony orchestras and spectacular performances, that there is still no instrument quite like the human voice. The choir sang a cappella.

Nothing was overdone; in fact the group avoided sensational effect, and the total impression was one of unpretentiousness and sincerity. It was the kind of performance one rarely has the good fortune to attend. Even the usual practice of abstaining from applause in the University Church was discarded by an audience overcome with pleasure. It seemed strange and yet quite appropriate that this tradition should be broken.

One of the finest selections in the choir's program was Prof. Westlund's "Commovisti, Domine." The bass section, consistently outstanding during the entire concert, exhibited beautiful timbre. Good balance and exquisite shading was shown in Bach's "The Spirit Also Helpeth Us." In "Wake, Awake," by Christiansen, the chorale theme was well stated and maintained; the polyphonic section was excellently done. Unusual also was Tchesnokoff's "Salvation is Created," in which on-pitch humming of good quality was achieved. Nowhere in the concert was there shouting or voice-strain. A good attempt at the Russian type of singing was heard in Kalinnikoff's "Agnus Dei."

In a few instances the soprano section faltered and appeared unsure, particularly in the "Te Deum" of William Schuman. Entrances were not good in Christiansen's "Spring Returns." This fault, however, was probably due not to any shortcoming, but to over-enthusiasm. Diction was not always good, but on the whole it was worthy of compliment.

It should be mentioned here that in coming to Alfred, the Milton Choir waived its regular performance fee, in return for "a night's lodging." Homes in Alfred and Alfred Station were made available to the fifty singers. We appreciate the group's kindness in stopping here under these circumstances, and hope the Milton Choir will come again during their next regular season. Alfred sincerely wishes the choir the very best of luck on the remainder of its concert tour.

NSA Requests Full Appropriations For UNESCO Program

Madison, Wis.—The National Student Association is pushing student action to demand full appropriation requests for the United Nations Education, Scientific, and Cultural Organization.

NSA is the only student group officially represented on the National Commission for UNESCO. The association is making plans for close cooperation in many phases of the UNESCO program.

"We are especially interested in the field of education, science and culture to bring about closer relationships and understanding between nations," the national office said in a bulletin to all member student governments.

The budget for U.S. participation in international organizations is $3,771,518, of which $96,230 is for travel, printing, and other operating expenses for the national commission; $39,000 to the office of the U. S. advisor on UNESCO affairs resident in Paris; $418,000 for the U. S. advance to the revolving fund, and $3,217,488 as the U. S. share of the UNESCO budget for the current fiscal year.

The U. S. share of the UNESCO budget is 41.88 per cent, as compared with 44.03 per cent last year. It is expected as more nations join the organization the U. S. proportion will decrease.

"The request of $205,881 for the national commission and for the UNESCO

Applicants To Take Exams On Entering

The College of Liberal Arts, here, has become a member of the group of colleges comprising the College Entrance Examination Board, Dean M. E. Drake announced this week.

"This means," said Dean Drake, "that a much wider use of the College Board aptitude and achievement test will be made in the future than in the past years. It is expected that eventually these examinations will be required of all applicants for admission to the College."

For the college year 1948-49, all applicants will not be required to take these examinations, but will be urged to do so and to present the results as part of entrance credentials. Applicants whose high school record is below the top third of the class will be required to take these tests.

Under the direction of V. C. Smith, head of the floriculture department, they toured Harts' rose range, a cut-flower range, and a potted plant range.

CO relations staff of the state department cannot stand any further reduction if these agencies are to carry out their obligations effectively," the NSA national office stated in its bulletin.

Prof. C. E. Packard Chides State Exams In Science Article

"One of the most difficult tasks confronting the teacher is the devising of a satisfactory test," says Prof. Charles E. Packard in his recent article, "The Effective Administration of High School Biology Teaching Under State Supervision." This article appeared in the February issue of School Science and Mathematics.

Prof. Packard criticized the state examination questions used on the 1947 examinations. He points out that there are usually too many confusing directions which appear to mean one thing and actually mean something else.

The fault is not always the teachers, the article stated. Often it can be shown that the state syllabus has been in error or has not been specific as to directions. Many questions asked on examinations have not been in syllabus.

"The critics of our schools give free utterance to their opinions all too often. Our job is to see that they have as little justification for complaint as we can," says Prof. Packard.
