CHARLES H. JOYCEJoyce Pipeline co-founder*

ANDOVER—Charles H. Joyce, age 84, of Andover, a man who had an incredible understanding of the oil field and who was honored for his stewardship of the land he loved, passed from this life on Sunday (June 9, 2013) after an extended illness. He was born on Dec. 11, 1928 to Vincent and Alice (Graves) Joyce. On Nov. 26, 1949, he married Lorraine (Hyland) Joyce, who survives.

Charlie grew up on the family farm in Andover and began working in the Oil and Gas industry at the age of 14. In 1950, he and his brother James V. Joyce formed Joyce Pipeline Company. In 1981, with his son Charlie P. Joyce, he purchased Otis Eastern Service, Inc. located in Wellsville. Otis Eastern is now one of the leading pipeline contractors in the U.S. Although he "officially" retired in 1994, he kept an office there and continued to work on a wide variety of projects. He hosted a steady stream of visitors who came to recall fond memories and discuss forgotten days.

At the time of his death, he served as President of Andover Oil, a company he founded after his retirement. He had an incredible understanding of his industry and was a respected expert in his field. He would say that he was especially blessed to do what he loved and to work alongside his family and dear friends for his entire life.

He was an avid reader and spent a good bit of time on the golf course in his later years. He was extremely proud of his Irish heritage. He was a quiet philanthropist, always willing to help those in need. He was a member of Blessed Sacrament Church in Andover and the Blessed Pope John XXIII in Fort Myers, FL. He was a member of the Andover Lions Club, the Ancient Order of Hibernians, and the Wellsville Elks Club. He was a long time officer of the New York State Oil Producers Association, serving as its President since 2008.

Charlie was honored for his distinguished service to the energy industry by being named as an Honorary Member of the Pipe Line Contractors Association where he and Lorraine attended the annual convention for over 50 years. He was also an ardent conservationist, having received many awards and citations for his stewardship of the land he loved. He understood that development and preservation could be done in harmony.

Although he traveled the world, and in his later years spent part of each year in Ft. Myers, Fla., Charlie's heart was always in Allegany County. He loved the area and its people. He had a wealth of knowledge about the history of the families here and could track the heritage of countless residents past and present.

In addition to his wife Lorraine, he is survived by two sons, Charles P. Joyce (Sherry Walton) and Richard (Tina Iantorno) Joyce, both of Wellsville; two daughters, Cheryl (Michael) Jackson of Atlanta, Ga.; six grandchildren, Matthew Jackson, Molly (Burt) Turner, Melanie Jackson, Casey Joyce, Anna Joyce, and Cory Joyce; five great-grandchildren, Kylan Jackson, Maeve Turner, Josie Turner, Cal Turner, and Wes Urbano; a sister, Mary Anne Davis; a brother, James V. Joyce; three brothers-in-law, Charles Howland, Paul (Carol) Hyland, and Carl Atwell; one sister-in-law Suzanne Slocum; many nieces, nephews, cousins and life-long friends.

In addition to his parents, he was predeceased by an infant son John; a brother, W. Donald Joyce; two sisters, Sandra Howland and Joanne (Merle) Dibble; three sisters-in-law, Marianne Joyce, Helma Joyce, and Corinne Atwell; and two brothers-in-law, Everett (Abe) Davis and James Hyland.

Friends called at the family home, 4 East Avenue in Andover, from 6-9 p.m. Wednesday, June 12 and from 2-5 p.m. and 7-9 p.m. today (Thursday, June 13). A Mass of Christian Burial will be held at the Blessed Sacrament Church, 24 Elm Street in Andover at 10 a.m. Friday, June 14 with Rev. Sean DiMaria as celebrant. Burial will follow in Gate of Heaven Cemetery. Arrangements are under the direction of Baker-Swan Funeral Home in Andover. Online condolences may be offered at www.baker-swan.com.

In lieu of flowers donations can be made to The Hart Comfort House, Wellsville, the Andover Free Library, or a charity of the donor's choice. We love you Dad. Until we meet again, may God hold you in the palm of his hand.

AAUW branch marks 75th year

HORNELL—The Alfred-Hornell branch of The American Association of University Women celebrated their 75th Anniversary May 14 at Marino's Restaurant in Hornell. Honorable Hornell City Mayor Shawn Hogan made an appearance and offered congratulatory remarks by acknowledging AAUW's work as a source of hope and enlightenment in the quest for advocating equity for women and girls. He praised the national and our local investment in education, scholarship, open and free elections, and promotion of decision-making based on facts.

Also in attendance was New York State's AAUW President Mary Lou Davis. Her remarks included gratitude for members across the country for helping to influence Congress for their approval of The Violence Against Women Act. This reauthorization protects all victims and includes critical campus safety protections. Also mentioned was the recent NYS-AAUW Conference at Lake Placid and the announcement that Mellisa Guardaro, A Rockland County member who helped spearhead the AAUW-NY project of My Sister's Keeper, has been appointed as the AAUW representative to The United Nations.

Another topic mentioned was AAUW's support of Governor Andrew Cuomo's Women's Equity Agenda, which would break down barriers that cause discrimination and inequality based on gender. President Davis also displayed a just-published book titled Remarkable Women in NYS History, which is compiled of articles submitted by AAUW members. President Davis traveled from Poughkeepsie to attend the celebration, and was hosted by Ada White.

Branch President Mary Jane Lloyd shared a quotation by Marion Talbot, the 1881 Founder of AAUW. "Women have proved their ability to enter every realm of knowledge. They must have the right to do it." Later followed a trivia contest written and conducted by member Cynthia Oswald regarding national and local AAUW history. Cynthia began by setting the scene of 1938, the year the Alfred-Hornell chapter was formed, by citing the country's poor economy and possibility of a second world war, and also listing contributions made by women in that year.

During the contest many were surprised by the fact that the chapter had The Von Trapp Family Singers perform in Alfred for a 1940 fundraiser "Bundles for Britain." Prizes were won by Elva Owlett who scored a perfect score, followed by Betty Arcangeli and Mary Smith. Cynthia was thanked for a great history lesson.

After dinner members shared what AAUW means to them. Many members spoke, including longest term member, Betty Arcangeli. Betty initially joined to establish a connection to the community, and has since held various offices including president for a number of years. She was also involved with the nursery school that was established by the chapter and was in operation from 1950-1960. Betty has been an active member for 63 years. Later in the evening she was given an award and flowers for her dedicated service.

During dessert, a cake decorated to include the name and age of the chapter as well as AAUW's new logo, members viewed a DVD dedicated to the chapter's 75 years. Numerous events, awards and other AAUW local chapter pictures were highlighted in the DVD, which was planned and edited by Mary Jane Lloyd and Ada White, and produced by Becky Shick. The production was educational, inspiring and expertly executed!

The celebration ended with an awards and recognition ceremony. President Mary Lou Davis was recognized with flowers, as was Ada White for hosting her at her bed and breakfast. A 25-year award went to Ada White; 26-years to Elaine Swiler. The chapter's newest member, Lisa McCool, was recognized. Betty Arcangeli was given flowers and a certificate for 63 years. Dani Wassink was given the Emerging Leader Award and a corsage. The branch was recipient of an AAUW-NYS Communications 2013 Newsletter of Merit Award as well as a NYS Equity Agenda Leadership Branch Award for its work with the My Sister's Keeper Project.

Members of the committee that made the evening so special included Becky Shick, Ada White, Cynthia Oswald, Patty Soper-Oakes, Mary Smith, Mary Jane Lloyd and Dani Wassink; thanks also to all the members past and present who have contributed throughout the years in so many ways!

Sooo...there is a beautiful place to exercise on Alfred University's campus. Fondly known as the Green Monster, because of the color it's painted, 98 steps carry students, or the avid exerciser from the entrance to Merrill Field near Kanakadea Creek, to the sidewalk near Miller Performing Arts.

Here you see Blake Mayo, 53, who is training for the Memorial Stair Climb in Lancaster, PA. Wearing turnout gear weighing 65 pounds, Blake will add air tanks for a total of 100 pounds as he trains. On a recent Saturday, I found him doing the Green Monster 20 times.

Blake sent me this additional information on his event:

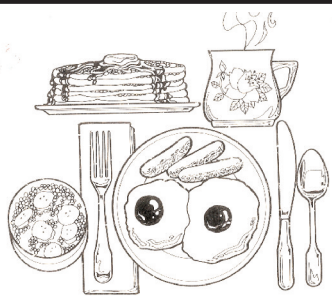

September 11, 2013, marks the twelfth anniversary of the attack on the USA at the World Trade Towers which resulted in the deaths of thousands, including 343 FDNY firefighters. To honor the firefighters who made the ultimate sacrifice on 9-11, the National Fallen Firefighters Foundation is holding numerous 9-11 Memorial Stair Climb events throughout the country. Participants in the Stair Climb events will climb the equivalent of 110 stories representing the number of stories in the Twin Towers.

All firefighters will have the option of wearing turnout gear and carrying equipment, just as their fire service brothers did that morning, or wear their work clothing or gym clothes and simply walk in tribute to the fallen firefighters.

All participants will receive a photo and badge of one of the fallen heroes of September 11th. A total of 343 individuals can participate in each event.

One last Vidalia onion recipe...maybe

One last Vidalia onion recipe, at least for this year. This is from a 2005 cookbook called Whale Stew, Alligator Casserole and Other Authentic Myrtle Beach Favorites by Stoke Cromley who owned and operated the popular Lowcountry Gourmet Restaurant in Murrell's Inlet, South Carolina. He says this recipe is especially good with Vidalia onions.

Spinach-Stuffed Onions

- | | |
|---|----------------------|
| 1 (10 oz.) pkg. frozen, chopped spinach, cooked & drained | ¼ c. lemon juice |
| 8 lg. onions, peeled | ¼ c. milk |
| 1 c. mayonnaise | 2 T. mayonnaise |
| | 1 tsp. seasoned salt |

Cook onions covered in boiling, salted water for 20 minutes; drain and let cool. Combine mayonnaise, lemon juice and milk in a mixing bowl and mix well. Remove centers from onions, leaving shells intact. Chop onion centers. Combine the chopped onions, cooked spinach, 2 T. mayonnaise and seasoned salt in a mixing bowl; mix well. Spoon spinach mixture into the onion shells. Place in a greased baking dish. Pour mayonnaise mixture over top. In a preheated oven, bake at 350 degrees for 20 minutes. (Serves 8.)

Time for the Fair Tax

Dear Editor:

The income tax code is complicated beyond comprehension. An institution like the IRS should not exist in a society of free people. The great power that came to Congress with the income tax and 16th amendment has corrupted many members of Congress.

Although largely ignored, the solution to our present woes with the IRS has been before Congress since 1999. It's called the FairTax. If passed it would replace the income tax and annihilate the IRS.

Most congresspersons have disregarded it because they thrive on the power they have because of the income tax. Many grant tax favors to the well-connected in exchange for contributions to their re-election campaigns. Since 2001 Congress has changed the tax code nearly 5000 times; on average more than once/day. With every change the code gets longer and more complex.

Your representative, Tom Reed, sits on the House Ways and Means committee where all legislation regarding taxation must originate. He has a responsibility to all Americans to fulfill his duties faithfully but he answers only to his constituents. Call his Washington DC office at (202) 225-3161 email him through his web site. Tell him to actively advocate for and vote for the FairTax!

The 'why' behind the IRS scandal

By DR. DANIEL S. BROWN

Let's begin with a premise. Challenging, delaying, questioning, or bullying organizations about their non-profit, educational purposes chills both free speech and a free press. The current ruckus involving Internal Revenue Service policies aimed at conservative political groups supports that notion to be sure.

What we are learning now is that non-profit political organizations connected to the network of tea party groups were not the only organizations targeted by IRS administrators. In the past few days, the Billy Graham Evangelistic Association sent an open letter to President Obama outlining its contention that it was subjected to discrimination because IRS agents investigated, audited and threatened them with the loss of their tax-exempt status. To the current administration the man who has appeared in Gallup's Top-10 Most Admired Men in the World for 56 years needed to be investigated. So, too, did his son Franklin Graham's non-profit charity, Samaritan's Purse. The BGEA letter to the President states, "This is morally wrong and unethical -- indeed some would call it 'un-American.'"

Then, of course, there is the case of Z STREET, the right-leaning, pro-Israel, supporter of a one-state solution to the Middle East tensions. When this educational non-profit organization, headed by the courageous Lori Lowenthal Marcus, found out that the IRS was delaying and might deny their 501(c)(3) status because their viewpoint differed from the current administration's policy on the Middle East, they sued. After two years, their case is now slated for its first hearing in federal district court in early July.

Many Americans are rightly appalled and confused about the scandal that continues to unfold. News media including The New York Times, MSNBC, CBS News, and even The Daily Show with John Stewart, are pressing for answers. They are not, however, pressing on the most important question. While the current voices denounce "What" has happened, while they wonder "How" it happened, while they demand to know "Who" was behind the decisions, we have yet to consider "Why" the IRS pursued what appears to some to be the aggressive pursuit of certain categories of non-profits.

The IRS itself explained in legal documents related to the Z STREET case precisely "Why" it believes it can proceed and do what it is doing. It's time for everyone to know.

The U.S. Supreme Court issued a landmark ruling in 1983 in a tax-exemption case. In that case, the 8-1 majority held that Entitlement to tax exemption depends on meeting certain common law standards of charity -- namely, that an institution seeking tax-exempt status must serve a public purpose and not be contrary to established public policy. Thus, to warrant exemption under § 501(c)(3), an institution must fall within a category specified in that section, and must demonstrably serve and be in harmony with the public interest.

The phrases "established public policy" and "public interest" are the phrases that the Court embraced in this case, Bob Jones

University v. U.S. Because the appellee in this case, BJU, the private, Christian college in South Carolina, based student policies and decisions on race, it was "contrary to established public policy" and lost its tax-exempt status.

In court documents arguing for the dismissal of Z STREET's case, the IRS cited Bob Jones University v. U.S. no fewer than seven times. Court documents filed by Z STREET argue that the IRS agent assigned to their case stated directly that, "These cases are being sent to a special unit in the D.C. office to determine whether the organization's activities contradict the administration's public policies." Some will conclude that this special unit within the IRS is likely the same special unit that tea party organizations believe is handling their cases.

The IRS agent claimed there was a special unit and that unit was in D.C. Why? It is simply because the organization engaged in "activities [that] contradicted the administration's public policies." The IRS cited case law to support their actions. The link to Bob Jones is explicit in court documents.

The Agency's decisions to pursue individual organizations that oppose the administration's public policies, is legally, morally, politically and ethically unacceptable. Perhaps more simply, however, it is linguistically unacceptable. Where Bob Jones lost its tax exemption for running afoul of "established public policy," the IRS is targeting groups that disagree with the "administration's public policies." "Public policy" and "administration policy" are different worlds legally and linguistically. Either Congress or the courts, perhaps both, will ultimately provide the grammar lesson that the IRS so badly needs.

Daniel S. Brown, Jr. is a professor in the Department of Communication Studies at Grove City College (Pa.) where he teaches media law and ethics as well as communication theory. FISCAL SCHIZOPHRENIA -- STATE MANDATES VERSUS BUDGET REALITIES

Like it or not, we are in the midst of a fiscal battle with the State of New York. The State has imposed an unwanted "fiscal partnership" upon every county in the state. Under the terms of that partnership we (counties) must administer and fund a significant portion of many state programs, especially in the social welfare and health care areas. We have little to no control over those programs, yet are paying an ever-increasing amount for them. At the same time counties are subject to regulation of virtually every aspect of our operations. The latest example of this is the enactment of the "2% real property tax cap."

The so-called "partnership," is really a partnership in name only. The only thing that the county gets to contribute to this partnership is money. The rules, procedures, eligibility and benefit criteria, and almost everything else, are dictated by the state. The problem is that the state is schizophrenic about this relationship. It wants counties to reduce taxes, while imposing greater and greater burdens upon the counties. This sets the battle lines between the state and counties.

--Here are some of the "facts" that need to be considered before you criticize the county for "spending too much" or having taxes that are "too high."

--More than 85% of our real property tax levy is used to pay for state mandated programs, over which the county has no control.

--Between 2008 and 2011 state reimbursements to counties (statewide) was cut by more than $400 million. During that same time there was no commensurate reduction in mandated county responsibilities.

--During the "Great Recession" the county share of social and health care caseloads increased, without any state aid increases to offset those costs.

--The State "Taylor Law" guarantees that no cuts in employee benefits and costs can be imposed upon municipal employees, unless they consent to them. Not surprisingly, municipal employee unions typically refuse to agree to such cuts.

--Mandated contributions to the State Pension System have increased nearly two thousand percent (2,000%) since 2001. This is costing Allegany County (and other local municipalities) millions of dollars every year.

--The mandated 2% real property "tax cap" doesn't begin to cover the state mandated program cost increases.

The state's fiscal schizophrenia has created an intolerable and unsustainable situation for every county. Each year we are forced to spend more of our local tax dollars financing state programs. That leaves the county with less money to spend on local programs. Unfortunately, those local programs are the ones that impact our "quality of life" the most. Road and bridge maintenance are two important local programs. As state mandates suck money out of our budget, we are forced to reduce what we spend on roads and bridges. We have been forced to delay or reduce capital expenditures and maintenance on bridges because of reduced local funding. Programs such as Cornell Cooperative Extension have been cut or eliminated in some counties. Meals on Wheels and other programs offered by Office For the Aging could be casualties of spending cuts. Unless something is done, we could soon reach a point where 100% of our budget will be spent on mandated state programs.

"Schizophrenia" is a form of mental illness. It involves delusions and distorted perceptions. It provides an accurate description of the state imposed fiscal policies. Numerous state and local officials have identified and described the problem. They have declared that it is unsustainable, and have called for something to be done about it. However, so far nothing has been done. The problem is that Albany is addicted to the fiscal partnership that allows state politicians to legislate programs without paying for them. It is easier to simply tell the counties to pay for them. The problem, as with all mental illness, is reality. We simply cannot afford it anymore. Something must change.

AU Chamber Singers will sing at Vatican in Italy Tour

ALFRED—The Alfred University (AU) Chamber Singers, along with added voices, are taking their music on tour in Italy, June 13-22, where a highlight will be singing the Mozart "Coronation Mass" at St. Peter's Basilica, the Vatican, and at the Santa Sopra Maria Minerva Basilica, Rome.

The Singers, under the direction of Dr. Luanne Crosby, professor of voice and chorus, have toured internationally in the past, performing in Scandinavia, Peru, Greece, and Bulgaria, but this is the first time the singing group includes 17 students, eight alumni, and 14 faculty and community members.

The tour came about when the Chamber Singers were invited to join conductor Dr. Larry Wyatt to sing in Rome. Wyatt, professor of conducting at the University of South Carolina, knew Crosby from her experience singing in Varna, Bulgaria; he was one of the teaching faculty for the Varna Conductor's Workshop. When he next asked if she could bring along some choral singers, she of course replied "Yes!"

The group leaves the United States today (Thursday, June 13) and will perform the "Mass" not only in the Vatican and Rome, but also three other concerts in Rome, Florence, and Venice. The Rome performance schedule includes:

- Saturday, June 15 - noon "Mass" at St. Peter's Basilica, the Vatican

- Saturday, June 15 - evening exchange concert with Coro Iride, Fabrizio Barchi, director

- Monday, June 17 - Gala concert featuring the Mozart "Coronation Mass" with Wyatt as conductor and Crosby as soprano soloist, accompanied by an Italian Chamber Orchestra

- Wednesday, June 19 - concert at Chiesa di Santa Maria dei Ricci, Florence

- Saturday, June 21 - Concert at Chiesa di San Moise, Venice

When they are not singing, the Alfred entourage will tour ancient Rome – the Coliseum and Roman Forum – as well as Rome's historical center with stops at the Trevi Fountain, Spanish Steps, Piazza Navona, and at the Vatican, the Vatican Museum and Sistine Chapel.

The group will also tour Assisi, Florence, Pisa, and Venice, where they will see St. Mark's Basilica, Doges Palace, and the Bridge of Sighs.

One Time, One Meeting

The Practice of Zen Meditation

By BEN HOWARD

TRUE REALISM

In a recent column Paul Krugman spoke of "fantasy posing as hard-headed realism." As might be expected, Krugman's subject was economic, his theme political. But his well-wrought phrase has resonance beyond the spheres of politics and economics.

To begin with, it evokes the stereotype of the hardheaded realist—the seasoned, no-nonsense person who lives in the real world. At the same time, it suggests that realism may be little more than a pose. If, as Krugman implies, realism can be false, the opposite must also be the case. What is true realism, we might inquire, and what are its salient traits? Is it by nature hardheaded—and hardhearted as well?

According to Zen teachings, true realism begins with the recognition that suffering is universal. Known in Buddhism as the First Noble Truth, this is not, as sometimes thought, an assertion that life is a vale of tears. Rather, it is a simple acknowledgement that suffering exists, both in the external world and in our bodies and minds, and that we would do well to acknowledge as much. Escaping into entertainment or otherwise denying suffering will do nothing to alleviate it and will probably make it worse.

To understand the realism of Zen, however, it is important to distinguish between two kinds of suffering. The first is the suffering wrought by sickness, poverty, aging, natural disasters, oppressive political regimes, and other forces largely beyond our control. We do not create such suffering, either by our thoughts or by our actions. When it comes into our lives, often the best we can do is bear with it and offer what help we can.

But there is another kind of suffering, known in Zen as conditioned suffering. And for this there may well be relief, because the suffering is often self-inflicted. With each of us the immediate causes of conditioned suffering will differ, but according to Zen teachings, the root cause lies in a fundamental ignorance of reality. Shaped by our conditioning, we tend to view ourselves as independent entities, separate from both our physical environment and our fellow human beings. Whether we portray ourselves as heroes, victims, or merely average citizens, we place ourselves at the center of our stories. And despite abundant evidence to the contrary, we persist in seeing our present jobs, homes, possessions, and relationships as lasting conditions. The words always and forever roll easily off our tongues.

Reality is otherwise. Death is certain, Zen teachings remind us, and the time of death uncertain. And far from being separate entities, we are parts of the dynamic web of life, where everything depends upon everything else. So long as we remain in our dream of separateness, we are likely to inflict suffering upon ourselves and others. But through the practice of "stopping and looking"—the practice of Zen meditation—we may come to realize that we are interdependent and continuous, both with the earth, air, fire, and water of the natural world and with the rest of humanity. And though we might view ourselves as "practicing meditation," in actuality the vast cosmos is practicing through us. Like it or not, we are one with all that is.

If we can truly awaken to these realities, and if we can sustain that awakened state, we may also find compassionate wisdom arising, not as an assumed attitude or an urge to do good but as a natural consequence of realization. In the words of the Venerable Thich Nhat Hanh, we may come to see with the eyes of compassion. Our egocentric outlook, which views others as re-sources in the service of our agendas, may give way to a selfless awareness, in which we will no longer regard other people as objects of our aversions and desires but as men, women, and children in their own right. We may come, in short, to see them as they really are, and we will know what, if anything, we can do to alleviate their suffering.

Such a view is sometimes called enlightenment, but it might also be called true realism. And toward that end, the difficult, age-old practice of Zen aspires.

Sen. Cathy Young announces Summer Reading Program

OLEAN—With the end of the school year in sight, many students are anxiously awaiting the summer months. To keep their skills honed and minds sharp, the New York State Senate, in conjunction with the New York State Library, has launched the Summer Reading Program for students across the State.

"Opening a book can take students on an adventure that could eclipse any type of summer vacation. A book can be enjoyed on a sunny day under a tree, on the beach or inside during one of summer's rainy days. Hopefully students take advantage of this fantastic program that promotes reading so that they can hit the ground running when their classes resume in September," said Senator Catharine Young (R,C,I-Olean).

Participating students will use an online journal, which can be accessed by visiting www.young.nysenate.gov, to keep track of their reading progress throughout the summer. Children who submit a completed journal will receive a Summer Reading Certificate. Hardcopies of the journal and other materials can be provided upon special request.

If students need more reading material for the summer months, they should stop by their local public library and peruse the expansive selection. To find the closest public library, please visit http://www.nysl.nysed.gov/libdev/libspublib/.

ANGELICA—If you love classic cars, pack up your family and friends and come to Main Street in Angelica on Thursday, June 27 for Cruise Night from 5-8 p.m.

Angelica Cruise Night will be held three times this year -- on the fourth Thursdays of June (27th), July (25th) and August (22nd). These events are great opportunities for owners of vintage and custom vehicles to display their automobiles and for admirers to, well, admire them! Last year more than 100 cars lined Main Street, which was closed to traffic during the event for the safety and enjoyment of visitors.

Find your ultimate dream car while you listen to flashback 50's music. Take a stroll around the Park Circle National Historic District or grab some delicious outdoor "cruise food" and an old-fashioned root beer float. Come early for dinner and shopping along Angelica's historic "Main Street of Shops." There is plenty to see and do on Cruise Nights.

Angelica Cruise Night is free of charge to car owners and visitors. Driver registration begins at 5 p.m. Registered drivers are eligible to win a number of great prizes donated by local business, including a "Driver's Choice" grand prize. Prizes include free admission for ten people to GCR Paintball; passes to Wyoming County International Speedway; a handmade oak gun rack donated by Skipper's Treasures; Gift Certificates to Cartwright's Maple Tree Inn, The Angelica Sweet Shop, Black-Eyed Susan Acoustic Café; loaves of Angelica Salt Rising Bread, and so much more!

God is big enough remove our doubt for June 13 issue

By LINDA STAIGER

ALMOND—This is the third of a series titled "God is Big Enough." All of us have something we struggle to overcome...gossip, anger, anger, etc. But, really, God is Big Enough to overcome all of our struggles.

Our sin was nailed to the cross, when we were forgiven...the sins wiped clean. That does NOT mean we can continue in our sin—it means that we have to persevere, to continue the fight against it..to strive to live a holy life. And the good news is that, through the power of the resurrection, we have the help we need to do just that! We can't do it on our own, but God is big enough to conquer our sin and He will as long as we stay with Him.

This week we move to doubt. This can be a serious issue in the life of a Christian. Doubt can leave us feeling empty. It can paralyze us and keep us from moving forward, keep us from seeking help, from finding the healing we might need. Doubt is uncertainty about the truth and reality of spiritual things. It shows up as a lack of faith and commitment to God.

When we doubt, we don't trust, and when we don't trust, we don't commit. And when we don't commit, we don't experience the power of God. Then God won't work in us and through us to work in others. When we lack faith and don't commit to God, He allows us to go our own way. He lets us trust in whatever else it is that we do trust in.

He won't force us. But if we don't trust in Him, He won't stay with us. We won't experience that He's Big Enough to conquer our sins or to heal our disease as long as we doubt. That's why baptisms are such a great testimony to the church. Three of our 'flock' made this commitment this morning---they inspire us all to take another look at the commitment we've made. Are we living up to it?

We still doubt, don't we? We didn't see Jesus after the cross, we didn't touch His hands--we are tempted to believe in society without God. But here are some ways to deal with our doubt, to put ourselves in a place where God can begin the work of removing our doubt so we know that God is Big Enough to deal.

First, hold onto God's truth Psalm 119:147: "I rise before dawn and cry for help; I wait for your words."

Second, Meditate on His words---the Bible is full of them. Reflect on the Scriptures--perhaps about the miracles that He performed.

Third, trust in God. He will deal with our doubts. Trust in Him, even before you fully believe--"Let go and let God." Isaiah: "though the mountains be shaken and the hills be removed, yet my unfailing love for you will not be shaken, nor my covenant of peace be removed," says the Lord.

Step out in faith that God is there and he will remove your doubts. God is Big Enough to remove your doubts, too.

THE GLORY OF AMERICA

Thursday, June 13

John Winthrop concluded his landmark document, A Model of Christian Charity, with this encouragement:

"We shall find that the God of Israel is among us, when ten of us shall be able to resist a thousand of our enemies, when He shall make us a praise and glory, that men of succeeding plantations shall say, 'The Lord make it like that of New England.' For we must consider that we shall be as a City upon a Hill."

For the Birds...

By BETSY BROOKS
Alfred Sun Columnist

After a very unusual but interesting spring banding season at Braddock Bay Bird Observatory, it is good to be home. Spring along the Lake Ontario shoreline started with a huge movement of chickadees. Irruptive movements of chickadees occur every couple of years, but we didn't have one this past fall. So we weren't expecting the return flight of 958 chickadees in our mist nets this spring. But over the years we've learned to cope with what we call extreme fall-outs of birds, and we've even written a protocol for handling it. We get extra net-pickers to come out, we drop some of the more time-consuming measurements we take and process birds on an assembly-line basis.

We did band a few chickadees last fall, and one of them was recaptured in early spring at Grand Island, New York. And we recaptured a chickadee that had been banded last fall just north of the Lake Erie shoreline. So we have some idea of where the irruptive birds were moving.

So our spring banding started out with a chickadee frenzy, but fizzled in the cold, rainy period in early May. Things picked up around the middle of May and we ended up banding a little over 5000 birds of 92 species.

Sometime in early fall, we will band our 200,000th bird since banding began at that location in 1986. Yellow-throated Warbler was a new species for our banding records.

So I am back in my summer birding mode, nest-searching in the Christmas tree plantations and doing my Breeding Bird Censuses and Surveys. This past Saturday afternoon I took a walk around Foster Lake. The water level is down but that apparently is due to a break in one of the dikes that will be repaired when the water level gets where Roger McGraw needs it to be.

The Wild Azaleas that Eddy Foster planted years ago were in full bloom along the edges of the lake. The breeding birds in the area were as good as ever. I counted 35 species on my walk including a pair of Canada Geese with seven young, a Mallard, a pair of Killdeer probably nesting among the rocks on the exposed edge of the lake, a Yellow-bellied Sapsucker, Eastern Kingbird, and both Red-eyed and Blue-headed Vireos.

I heard Blue Jays, a crow and a House Wren. I heard the song of a Golden-crowned Kinglet, and the call note of a Veery. There were robins (including one on a nest), several catbirds and a single Cedar Waxwing. But the highlight for me were the warblers. They included Chestnut-sided, Magnolia, Yellow-rumped, Blackburnian, Ovenbird, Mourning, Common Yellowthroat, Canada AND—the highlight of the walk—a beautiful male Pine Warbler so close I didn't need my binoculars!

I saw Chipping and Song Sparrows and heard several White-throated Sparrows singing. Rounding out the list was Dark-eyed Junco, Rose-breasted Grosbeak, Red-winged Blackbird, Common Grackle, and Purple Finch. As if that wasn't enough, I heard a Barred Owl calling from the woods at the south end of the lake.

So that reminded me that I needed to set the date for the first bird walk of the summer at the lake. I usually have a mid-summer's eve walk but unfortunately, I have to get up around 4 in the morning the following day! So let's have a 'day-before-midsummer-eve' bird walk! Meet at 7:30 p.m. on Thursday evening, June 20 in the parking lot at Foster Lake for a leisurely walk around the lake. The walk will last until dusk. Children with adults are welcome.

The cool, popular stream-fed swimming pool at Stony Brook Park will reopen Saturday, June 22. It's been closed since the end of the 2009 season.

Swim pool to reopen at Stony Brook June 22

DANSVILLE--The New York State Office of Parks, Recreation and Historic Preservation this week announced that the stream-fed swimming pool at Stony Brook State Park in Steuben County will reopen for the season on June 22. The pool has been closed since the end of the 2009 season due to water quality and clarity issues and budget constraints.

"Generations of New York families have visited Stony Brook State Park to escape the summer heat, relax and have fun with friends and family," said State Parks Commissioner Rose Harvey. "The pool has been a staple of the park experience for decades. I'm excited we are able to reopen the pool for our visitors and ensure Stony Brook State Park remains a popular destination for New York families and visitors to our state."

First opened in 1936, the pool was created by workers from the Civilian Conservation Corps, who built walls with thick and thin layers of stone to mimic the natural gorge and dammed the stream. Skilled state park stone masons have recently rebuilt a fallen stone wall at the edge of the pool.

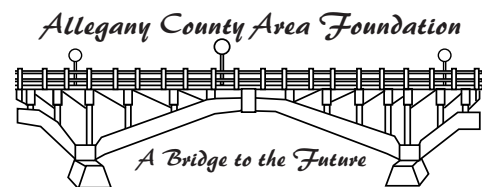

Budget savings achieved through concession agreements for the operation of several golf courses in the Finger Lakes region enable State Parks to reopen the pool this year. To reduce frequent short-term closures after rainstorms in recent years, park staff will proactively drain the pool if they see water quality or clarity issues increasing, or if a large rain is predicted. Staff will also erect informational signage to warn patrons that wading in the stream above the pool can increase water clarity problems that lead to closure, and will work with park neighbors to reduce agricultural run-off into the stream.

The swimming area will be open beginning June 22 from 11 a.m. to 7 p.m., seven days a week.

Stony Brook State Park's terrain comprises hilly woodlands, a deep gorge with rugged cliffs overlooking three waterfalls and fascinating rock formations. 119 tent and trailer campsites are scattered in the woodlands above the gorge in the upper or south end of the park. Visitors can hike rim, gorge or nature trails, play tennis on park courts, or picnic.

The New York State Office of Parks, Recreation and Historic Preservation maintains and operates 179 state parks and 35 historic sites, which are visited by 60 million people annually. A recent study by commissioned by Parks & Trails New York found that New York State Parks generates $1.9 billion in economic activity annually and supports 20,000 jobs. It was a quick, but fun-filled, weekend trip past to Lake Placid in the Adirondack's as daughter Lauren was set to tackle the hills around this Olympic Village as she was going to compete in the Half-Marathon. Couldn't ask for much more this weekend (except time!) as it was another journey thru the ADK's, hooking up with 3L and also getting together with some friends, old and new! Solid trip.

Departed from Henrietta on Friday afternoon, post-work and headed for Clifton Park. Stayed at a Best Western there, the same place I met 3L last fall when she was competing in the Ragnar Adirondack Relay Race. Wanted to avoid being on the road for 6.5 hours on Saturday but Friday's drive was a real joy. Rained the entire way from Rochester to Clifton Park. Yuk. Lauren was arriving via bus from NYC on Saturday at noon at the Saratoga Raceway. Was nice when I got up Saturday knowing it was a quick, 30-minute drive to pick her up. Bus was on time at the August "Home of Beyer" and off we went to Queensbury for some shopping at Dick's. Somehow Lauren always seems to "need" a race outfit for each race? And what would-be golfer doesn't like shopping for golf shirts there? Mission accomplished.

A stop in Lake George along the way for lunch at the Prospect Mountain Diner. Our second visit to this eating establishment. Quite the place. Motorcycles galore were in town for some rally so we didn't spend any time in the village like we had originally planned. Something like last fall when I was there and the World's Largest Car Show was at Lake George. Wow. Next stop was Lake Placid.

We checked into our hotel, went and got some food supplies and then headed out to meet up with Eileen Coyle and others for dinner at a house they were renting for the weekend. Coyle and Lauren played soccer together at SUNY Geneseo and she is now an assistant soccer coach at St. Lawrence. Scott Coyle (Boston) also there, along with Eileen's boyfriend, Tom Blumenauer...assistant on football staff at SLU and Jeff Welch ... son of Ithaca football coach, works/coaches at Canandaigua and former Bomber player/coach. Works at Canandaigua with the illustrious Bill "Dish" Bowe. Just a great, relaxing evening in the ADK's! Welch was "stunned" when I asked him if he knew Bowe. Small World time, per normal.

The Lake Placid Half-Marathon and Marathon was set for 8:00 am with the start and finish in front of the Olympic Ice Arena and facilities. The finish line itself on the oval made famous by Eric Heiden and his five gold medals/Olympic records in 1980. Pretty impressive to walk around that with all the history involved. Saw a girl prior to the race with an Alfred University sweatshirt, Lauren spotted a runner with a Geneseo t-shirt and she hooked up with Kate Brett (Webster) before the run to catch-up on things. Perfect day for a race. Mid 50's at start, overcast and no sun beating down on the field.

The runners took off from the Olympic site, headed up thru the quaint village, circled around Mirror Lake and did a couple of loops down by the Horse Show area east of the village. Had a chance to get photo of 3L in village, saw Eileen Coyle go by and then headed back to attempt to see them at start of loop. Didn't work. Poor planning on my part. Time to kill so toured the Olympic venue, the Herb Brooks Arena and all inside. On a couple of walls were pictures and "bios" of members of the Lake Placid Hall of Fame. The usual names you would expect like Heiden, Brooks, the "Miracle on Ice Team" and ... Brooklyn Dodgers pitcher, Johnny Podres! Most surprising but read it and found out he was from area. Retired to Queensbury after baseball.

Headed back out to the finish line area to see the runners come in and wait for Lauren. Have been to alot of races over the years ... early on at the Hornell Odd Fellows, later with the Torrey Painting Striders and most recently to see Lauren run. By far, it was the biggest gap I have ever seen between runner #1 and #2 in the H-M. The winner came in over five-minutes ahead of the runner-up. And the second-place runner won the race last year! Yikes. Welch was first in of the group I knew as he was a solid 40th overall. And then pleasantly surprised to see 3L rounding the corner and grabbing a #92 finish ... out of 1186 in the half! She was timed in 1:41:32, her personal best and was the 21st female overall. Eileen, running her first ever half-marathon, was in with a respectable 162-finish and a time of 1:45:48 and Blumenauer cramped up but still pushed thru to finish 228th. Some quick photos and good-byes for now as 3L and I had to depart. Made plans to see them all at the Utica Boiler-maker in July.

The ADK's in general, meeting up with friends and a best-ever race by Lauren made for a super weekend in Lake Placid. All too soon we had to hurry to get 3L on a bus in Albany and for me to head back to Webster. My "ace navigator" resting up (sleeping) along the way from Placid to Albany!

Was not looking forward to drive back alone. To humor myself along the way I "tie-in" names or things along the way of town exits I pass on the thruway. Gloversville ... hometown of former AU cager Gar Zeitler, Canajoharie ... Beechnut gum, Fonda ... Sully the bald-one and ex-AU football star, Herkimer ... Coyle's college soccer career started there, Utica ... couple of Macker's Lauren played in there, Whitesboro ... Doris Springer! and Syracuse ... home of Mills

Story and photos

By LEO A. NEALON

PITTSFORD--Locust Hill Country Club located in Pittsford has been hosting an LPGA golf tournament for the past 37 years. For the past four years this tournament has been elevated to the status of a Major LPGA tournament. All week long rumors were flying around that this would be the last year that LHCC will be hosting a LPGA tournament. To that effect LHCC released a statement saying that there are currently no negotiations on going to bring the tournament back to LHCC next year.

During the awards ceremony while standing on the 18th green LPGA commissioner Mike Whan said that the LPGA greatly appreciated the sponsorship of Wegmans, the loyalty of Rochester LPGA fans and that he expected to see the LPGA back in Rochester next year. Left out of his remarks was where the event would be played.

The severe rain had caused the cancelling of Thursday's opening round. So the field of 146 players would have to play 18 holes on Friday, 18 holes on Saturday and 36 holes on Sunday. The weather forecasters were correct and after so much rain and grey skies Sunday was an ideal day for playing and watching golf. The temperatures were in the upper 60's, and low 70's with big billowing cumulus clouds.

Inbee Park would eventually defeat Catriona Matthew on the third hole of a sudden death play off. Having to play thirty-nine holes of golf in one day is certainly a feat of endurance and perseverance.

This year's winner Inbee Park is currently ranked the number one woman's golfer in the world. She has already won one major tournament this year, the Kraft Nabisco, and is posed to challenge for a third Major win at the US Women's Open toward the end of June.

Unlike most professional sporting events the proceeds from the 2013 Wegmans LPGA Championship Tournament benefit a charity. The United Way's "Graduation is the Goal", which aids evidence-based programs that show significant promise in delivering on the graduation is the goal mission. This year's contribution was in excess of $400,000.

Just as a historical reference for western New York, the Corning Country Club previously hosted the longest running LPGA Tournament with the same sponsor, Corning Inc. The Corning Classic was played from 1979-1983, and then its name was changed to the LPGA Corning Classic from 1984-2009.

HITS AND MISSES:

With a trip to the ADK's planned last weekend the LPGA went on without me. Have lived in Rochester/Webster now for about 26-years and not really sure if I have missed any years before, going at least one day? Inbee Park won the championship as the future of the local event remains a little on the cloudy side. That would be a shame with the great crowds this event always draws.

As rain plagued day one of the LPGA, it also caused problems with the Hornell Dodgers schedule in the NYCBL. They eventually did play some games and went (1-2) versus Olean over the weekend past. Former Alfred State College coach, Tom Kenney is coaching the squad this summer. Jake Kenney (A-A) and Dylan Dunn (Hornell) are on the roster of college players.

Dave Lawrence, son of Dave Kingman (and Tammy), is the junior varsity baseball coach at Voorheesville as the varsity team fell in the "C" states to Geneseo, 2-1 at Broome CC over the weekend past. Would imagine the younger Lawrence was coaching first or third when the team was at bat.

Spotted a batch of NYS vanity plates of late: SAMEDAYZ, OWLSNEST ... AAU, 2ZWOODZ, 500 HATS, LOVE MMA, GOTSPRAY, EYEBALLS ... Calkins, WILDMAN1 ... Bowe, HOT-MAMA1 ... she wasn't and with Mets logo/OUR YR ... McDrip dreaming!

NHL Champs ... Boston Bruins.

NBA Champs ... Heat in 7.

Had chance to have dinner with brother-in-law, Brian Fischer a week ago Monday nite. Good time catching up, as always.

George Karl ... NBA Coach of the Year ... then fired by Denver. Crazy.

Headed to Niagara-on-the-Lake with noted area photographer, Leo Nealon this Saturday for a strawberry festival, sponsored by a church in the area. Went last year and it was ... awesome!
