

Carillon tribute to health care personnel, first responders featured in Evening Tribune

4/10/20

ALFRED, NY – A story on Alfred University's daily musical tributes to healthcare personnel and first responders battling the COVID-19 virus was published this week in the Hornell Evening Tribune.

The story, “Alfred University’s Carillon call for healthcare workers.” appeared in Tuesday’s issue of the Evening Tribune.

Beginning Monday, Laurel Buckwalter, University carillonneur emerita, and Stephen Crandall, retired dean of libraries, began performing recitals on Alfred University’s Davis Memorial Carillon as a tribute to health care workers and emergency responders on the front line of the COVID-19 crisis.

The recitals begin at approximately 7 p.m. and last 10 minutes. Buckwalter and Crandall perform the short concerts on alternating weekdays.
