Sam Hoyt presents Gov. Cuomo's budget plan

By ELAINE HARDMAN

Alfred Sun Reporter WELLSVILLE--Andrew Cuomo sees New York's government as a crazy, intersecting system of poorly planned, overlapping agencies. He wants to reorganize it to weed out redundant agencies and missions. Knowing that this is akin to stepping on toes, if not outright lopping off whole appendages, Cuomo has asked Sam Hoyt of Empire State Development to present the 2012 Executive Budget and Reform plan to groups around the state in search of feedback.

Hoyt's Wellsville audience included Allegany County retail business, not-for-profit agencies, Libraries, schools, the arts, newspaper, medicine and "rank and file citizens" - all with questions, concerns and opinions.

Hoyt said that Cuomo inherited a $10 Billion deficit and the "most dysfunctional state government in the country". The plan presented has the dwindling middle class paying the lowest tax rate in 58 years and reduces spending but still is marred by a $2 Billion deficit.

Hoyt touted the "Energy Highway" as an investment in the electrical transmission system totally funded by the private sector but benefitting everyone. This improvement in the energy system is expected to promote business development and pro-

Another source of revenue is the hoped-for legalization of Casino gambling. Cuomo feels that there are already Tribalowned casinos within New York and all surrounding states offer gambling so New York might as well roll the dice with them. Legalizing gambling requires both legislative bodies to approve in 2 consecutive sessions and then citizens also have to vote in favor of it.

The reorganization of state government is complicated. One example given is that there are 91 different job training programs in New York. Merging, blending and cutting should simplify the bureaucratic structure and the administrative costs while still providing services. This job is the mission of the SAGE (Spending and Government Efficiency) Commission. Also on their agenda is an examination of the pay packages for government program administrators and the values of outsourcing and insourcing work.

A big point of concern is the Changes proposed are having a pension based on the salary, excluding overtime payments. This would end the practice of racking up overtime in the last 3 years to inflate pensions. The new tier also increases employee contributions but the contentious part is that it has a defined contribution plan and not a defined benefit plan. (A defined contribution plan has each person invest money, paying fees to Wall Street and depending on the market. A defined benefit plan grants workers some percentage of their pay each year of retirement regardless of market fluctuations.)

Andy Glanzman of Northern Lights Candles asked if the state plans to provide needed infrastructure to keep businesses in New York. He sites that his insurance costs are 5 times what they would be if there was a water line servicing Route 417

East of Wellsville where any number of businesses might be public employee pension plan. encouraged by having such a

Someone in the audience criticized the Allegany County Legislators for pursing a "water line to nowhere" at the Crossroads in Belvidere rather than a water line to existing businesses such as Northern Lights which employs over 100 people.

"Every week I get letters from other areas offering me water, a building and tax relief if I'd move my business. I support Wellsville but these offers are looking good," said Glanzman. "It's easier to keep an industry than to find a new one. New York should be working to keep these jobs here."

Glanzman said he's been writing letters and making calls for nearly 15 years now trying to get water to this area.

Another business facing dire circumstances without infrastructure development is Jones Memorial Hospital. While the Stimulus Plan paid for the installation of a 96 strand broadband fiber point of presence in center of the county, getting that fiber to the hospital and its clinics so that they can meet the requirements in changing Medicaid reporting cost money.

Tracy Gates said that about 50% of Jones' patients are insured by Medicaid so these tiny changes in payment and big changes in reporting add up to a dismal situation.

Another person noted that New York State is putting broadband service into the Adirondacks and called it "Broadband for the Bears". Allegany County has more people and greater Hoyt said, as he did several times, that an area's greatest lobbyists are the Assembly and Senate members. He said that the Adirondacks have a "loyal representative" who "beats the drum long and loud" for her district. Support goes to those constant lobbying efforts.

Bob Sobeck from Alfred Housing said that the proposed budget would cut money to Alfred Housing and noted that the $50,000 invested in Alfred Housing last year resulted in a $448,000 return to the state. It hardly seems a sane cut to make.

Since 1977 New York has funded Neighborhood Preservation Programs adding Rural Preservation Programs, such as Alfred Housing, in 1980. These programs consistently build communities and return to New York State enormous amounts of money – in the case of Alfred Housing $37 for every $1 invested.

Hoyt suggested that the budget will change and that the demands made to the governor between now and April 1 make the difference. Citizens and their elected officials have to make their voices heard over the rising prepared statement trying to explain the difficulties that small districts face in getting adequate funding. She said that small districts are kept away from many funding programs.

Hoyt felt that Allegany County has too many schools for the population. He applauded the fact that Wellsville had explored a merger but said that more has to happen to consolidate and conserve.

Dar Fanton talked about consolidations made years ago. Now there is grant money to consolidate but 10 years ago, Wellsville just did it because it was reasonable. Hoyt said that there are ways to reward past good behavior and said he would follow up with that.

A citizen said that people are moving toward the internet and that it's not a secure method of communication. Hoyt gave him his card with a physical address to write to.

Brian Hildreth said that many people need and use the internet and that in hard times the Library is a source of that service. People come to the Library with their laptops daily to conduct business and that this supports the economy in a real way since high speed internet simply isn't available in most of Allegany County but the state has cut funding to public Libraries so that their funding now is at the same level it was in 1994.

Hildreth noted that $1 invested in assisting the Library to bridge the digital divide for citizens returns $77 to the economy yet New York has chosen not to invest in Libraries.

Hoyt said that every member of the Assembly and Senate wants their photo taken with a librarian but that doesn't translate into financial support. The Library, like all of Allegany County, needs a cheerleader, or a chorus of citizens, getting Albany's attention before final drafts on April 1.

KATHRYN JONES CHURCH

Focus always on family ANDOVER—Kathryn Jones Church (Mrs. Conrad Church), 94, died on Wednesday (March 7, 2012).

Born in Rose Hill, AL on Nov. 7, 1917, to Alma Wright and Mattie (Coleman) Jones, she graduated from Straughn High School in Straughn, AL and in 1939 from the University of Alabama. She met her future husband, "Connie" Church of Andover, while attending college, and they were married in Alabama in 1940. They enjoyed 61 years of devoted marriage until his death in 2002.

Her life was devoted to her home and to her family. She joined her husband in various works of community betterment and public service, including scholarships at the secondary and university level; for their church (the First United Methodist Church of Andover), libraries and hospitals; and in public landscaping. But her focus was always her family.

Mrs. Church is survived by her three children, Anne M. Church of Albany, Hugh J. Church of Niagara-on-the-Lake, Ontario, Canada, and Susan Church-Jamesson (Michael Jamesson) of Scottsville; by three grandchildren, Matthew Jamesson of Rochester, Nicholas Jamesson of Scottsville, and Philip Jamesson of New York City; by her brother and sistersin-law, Kent (Lucy) Davis and Ivey Jones; and by various nieces and nephews. She also is survived by an "adopted" daughter, Magda Montalvo de Mesec of Quito, Ecuador, and by an "adopted" grandson, Homayoon Amini of Duncan, British Columbia.

In addition to her husband, she was predeceased by her brothers, Wyman, McNeil and John Frank (Anne) Jones; and by sisters-in-law, Doris Church and Roberta (Lee) Meyn.

A memorial service is planned from 2-4 p.m. on Sunday, April 1, at Mrs. Church's residence, 48 Chestnut St., Andover. The family requests no flowers. Scammers operating on internet

By LAUREN BUTLER Special to the Alfred Sun

They are out there, the scammers, the con artists, the grifters. They are even more sophisticated than they have ever been.

I have some nice furniture listed on Craigslist. I am doing a favor for someone else, so you can imagine my excitement when three items sold immediately for full price. I was ecstatic, until..the questions started to shape in my mind. This was

Then an e-mail arrived asking me to be kind enough to deposit the check that was on its way. After depositing the check, which it turns out her secretary accidentally wrote for $1000 over the price of the furniture, if I would then get a moneygram and give the moneygram for $1000 to the mover.

This sent up such red flags that I was then more suspicious of the other people. One of the people who contacted me showed up on Google for sending bogus Money Orders. Another person is deceased. The checks did arrive from two people written for way more than I am asking. They all want me to deposit them and give money to a mover, a lot of money. It was very interesting to me that both checks were printed on the same paper. Different banks, different companies, yes companies, not a person's name. I was so skeptical that I called the banks that the checks were written on, I found the banks online, and was told that the account number on the check was not an account number. All in all on both checks there were three different addresses and no name anywhere of the person I was dealing with. The signature on the checks is illegible and obvi-

Thank goodness for my years at Steuben Trust as a teller duing my time at AU. The routing number, which tells all banks where the bank the check is written on is located is written on the check in the right hand corner two sets of numbers one over another with a line between, like a fraction. Then on the left. The routing number is also written on the left bottom of each check. These were legitimate, the account number wasn't.

Be skeptical, listen to that little voice that says something doesn't feel right. Not all people that I deal with are dishonest. I have been doing this for years and this is the first. The scammers are using the internet and our desire to sell and to please to take advantage of us.

Community Coalition seeks nominations for annual awards

ALFRED—The Alfred Community Coalition (ACC) will hold its biannual awards ceremony from 5 to 6 p.m. Thursday, April 12 in the Alfred Village Hall. The coalition is composed of campus student affairs, health and security personnel, the Alfred Village Police Chief, student participants, and village and town representatives.

The awards are given to organizations, families, individuals or businesses that have acted in keeping with the coalition's mission. That mission promotes the reduction of high-risk behaviors among college students and works to inform students of their rights and responsibilities as good neighbors and citizens in the village and town

Members of the community are encouraged to submit nominations for two of the awards this year, the "Community Service" recognition for providing an outstanding service to the campus and community and the "Spirit of Alfred" award to a recipient who best embodies the spirit of the coalition's goals.

Please send your nominations, with a paragraph explaining why you are proposing this person, business or organization, to the Alfred Community Coalition, c/o Kathy Woughter, VP for Student Affairs at Alfred University (woughter@alfred.edu), Carnegie Hall. Deadline for receipt is March 28.

The public is warmly invited to attend this ceremony in celebration of those who helped to address these cares and challenges.

DAR to honor good citizens at annual awards ceremony

HOUGHTON--Catherine Schuyler Chapter of the National Society of the Daughters of the American Revolution is pleased to extend this invitation to join us in honoring twelve Allegany County and Cattaraugus County high school seniors who have been selected as our 2011-2012 DAR Good Citizens, based upon the DAR Good Citizen Quali-

Dependability - Service -Leadership - Patriotism

The 2012 Good Citizens competed to represent our Chapter by submitting personal information, transcripts, references, and by writing an essay about freedoms and responsibilities of a good citizen.

Independent judges selected one Good Citizen from those as Chapter Winner. This year's Chapter representative, whose submission has been sent to the New York State DAR Regional Director for regional competition is Jarrett Vosburg, a senior at Fillmore Central School.

The chapter will honor Jarrett and his peers from the other area schools at the Annual DAR Good Citizen Award Ceremony and Reception to be held at 2 p.m. Saturday March 24, in the Lennox Room at Houghton College Campus Center.

Each student will receive a certificate, pin, and small gift. Elected officials are being invited to attend and share their congratulations with these exceptional students and their families. Refreshments will follow the awards ceremony, and press coverage is expected.

There will be a $3.00 charge for DAR Members.

Village Volunteer Fire and Ambulance Service CALL COUNT: February 2012 Fire 52 calls Ambulance 41 calls

Dial 911 in an emergency.

Sounds like good advice, and it is. But here in Alfred, the response is by volunteers. The A. E. Crandall Hook and Ladder Company is staffed totally by a group of about sixty volunteers.

And in 2011, these volunteers responded to 818 incidents, which average out to about 2.25 responses a day, every day, all year. Of the 818 incidents in 2011, seven of these involved fire; 382 were Emergency Medical Situations, and 38 were motor vehicle accidents. Gas leaks and spills, water problems, steam leaks and standby for athletic events were also on the list, along with false alarms, malicious alarms and alarm system malfunctions.

The company is in constant urgent need of new people to help provide this community service. Training is offered free of charge for firefighters and emergency medical technicians. Practices for fire and ambulance are Sunday evenings.

Although fire and ambulance are the areas of greatest need, people can also contribute by writing grants and doing record keeping and other office tasks

CAT ON A HOT METAL ROOF--I considered and considered which photo I ought to send to the Sun this week from this SUNny spot in Texas. The funny one won, but so did the beautiful one. We've seen warnings, everywhere in Big Bend National Park, about the cougars, mountain lions, panthers, painters. Imagine my suprise and excitement when I spotted one, sitting on a neighbor's truck roof, right here in Rio Grande Village, where we are camped!

These pink limestone cliffs are one of my favorite sights in the park. They loom over this southernmost area in west Texas and have moods, depending on the weather. We've seen them gloomy and gray, or pouring fog, or glowing in the sunset. This was a beautiful view, late one evening.

EDUCATION CHALLENGES

In this article I want to address a "non-County" issue that has the potential to significantly impact all of us. Our public schools are facing a financial crisis created by the proposed State Budget. On February 13th the Business Officials from Belfast Central School and Fillmore Central School made a presentation to the Board of Legislators regarding proposed changes to the State Aid formula. Bob Lingenfelter of Belfast Central and Thomas Ricketts of Fillmore Central provided handouts showing how cuts in State Aid to education will have a disproportionate (negative) impact upon Upstate school districts. The bottom line is that the proposed cuts will impact every resident of our county.

During the presentation we learned what has happened to Upstate school districts in recent years. Their financial circumstances have changed dramatically. Several years ago the State required school districts to use accumulated fund balances in excess of 4% of their budgets to offset State Aid. As a result school districts now have much smaller fund balances than in the past. Last year the State passed the real property tax cap that requires a mandatory referendum for any proposed school district tax increase greater than 2%. Finally, the proposed 2012 State Budget calls for significant reductions in State Aid to Schools. Without large fund balances and without the ability to raise taxes school districts are facing drastic cuts in their programs.

The "across the board" State Aid cuts are not fair. The impact of these cuts upon Upstate schools is much greater than it is upon Downstate schools. Most Downstate school districts are much wealthier than Upstate schools, with far more taxable real estate. They raise more of their budgets from property taxes than Upstate districts, and get less of their budgets from State Aid. That has several significant consequences. A cut of 7% of their State Aid represents a far smaller share of their total budget. In addition, their allowable increase under the "tax cap" is much larger.

Most Downstate school districts can cover their proposed loss of State Aid while staying under their "tax cap" limit. By contrast, most Upstate school districts are facing large cuts that far exceed their "tax cap" limit. Most of the school districts in Allegany County would have to raise their taxes by 20% or more in order to cover the proposed loss of State Aid. That simply isn't feasible given the current economic climate and circumstances.

Boards of Education and voters in each School District will need to decide how to resolve the specific challenges facing their District. None of the options are attractive or easy. All of the choices are difficult and painful. Programs will need to be cut, faculty and staff laid off, and class sizes will likely need to be increased. Unless something changes dramatically in the next year, school districts will face even greater challenges for the 2013-2014 fiscal year. Some Districts, such as Cuba-Rushford, are considering closing smaller satellite facilities in order to cut expenses. Other districts are considering eliminating extra-curricular programs, such as athletics, drama, and music. Is this what you thought the "tax cap" would

These are exceedingly complex issues that defy easy resolution. Our Boards of Education need our support and ideas. Hopefully we can put aside our personal prejudices and preferences and make prudent choices that will benefit our children and our communities for years to come. It is clear that we cannot continue with a "business as usual" attitude. It is time to look for "outside the box" solutions.

Voters, taxpayers, and parents all need to get involved. The decision making process will work better if there are more people involved in it. I encourage you to attend the budget meetings that are taking place in most districts during March and April. Get involved and get informed. May God grant us the wisdom to make good choices during this difficult time.

To the Editor:

For months I have read the articles and letters to the editor regarding the marcellus shale. It appears to me that only one side of this issue is being told. While I agree that there are environmental and safety concerns to be addressed there is also the economic impact to our area to be considered.

I've had the opportunity to visit and see first hand, well drilling sites in the Mansfield PA area. I was able to see wells in the process of being drilled and completed projects. There is disruption during drilling but when finished the companies return your property to the way it was leaving a few pipes in the ground where the new wells are.

My impression in talking with landowners in the area is that the drilling companies are very landowner friendly and eager to do everything possible to make Without the them happy. landowners they can't make their money. Area people were pleased to have the drillers there, it has created a boom for business in the area.

Articles I have read suggest that it is only short term monetary gain to be had. That is not true. First you are looking at acreage lease money, and as wells go into operation the landowners receive royalties that last for the life of the well, 10, 15, up to 20 years. That is money the landowners will be spending in our local communities and generating economic growth for the next 20 years. I wouldn't call that short term!

Some articles I've read have suggested that few jobs are created by the drillers. That also isn't true. Yes these companies bring many of their own experienced people with them, but 70% of their work force is hired locally. These companies also hire people to work on road crews making improvements to area roads to allow access for their equipment and leaving roads in better shape when they are done. Unemployment in PA is down, I was told if you wanted to work there were jobs, good paying jobs! That also trickles down to area business' that are busier and have added more employee's to their payrolls.

I've also read that the gas companies are taking advantage of the landowners natural resources to get rich quick. The reality is that it isn't a valuable natural resource unless we as landowners sell it. We certainly do not have money or means to drill for the gas ourselves.

Are the gas companies making money? Of course they are, that's business. They are paying very well for the drilling rights, they wouldn't do this unless they stand to make a profit.

I am a fourth generation landowner and taxpayer in this county. I feel that the landowners should have every opportunity to capitalize on their natural resources. To me, it means the chance to pay off my debts, upgrade my farm into a turn key operation, pay for my son's education, build my wife the house she deserves, repay my parents for all they have done for me, and recoup some of the hundreds of thousands of dollars in taxes that my family has paid for last seventy plus years. That's what the development of the marcellus shale means to every land owner in this state and they should able to decide if it's right for them.

An apology requested

To the Editor:

David Snyder, proprietor and editor of The Alfred Sun, demeans himself and insults his readers by publishing a Sun Spot item (March 8) that subjects a Georgetown University law school student, Sandra Fluke, to public ridicule for her Congressional testimony supporting insurance coverage contraception.

The piece—it carried the headline "Is This the Norm or Just a Fluke"-was asinine and shameful. For readers unfamiliar with the story, Ms. Fluke broke into the news late last month when radio talk-show host Rush Limbaugh mocked her testimony and called her a "slut" and a "prostitute." He later apologized. The Alfred Sun might well do the same.

In light of this past Sunday's massacre in Afghanistan, I have to agree with Mrs. Hoover that with regard to acts that could be characterized as "barbarous," none of us seem to have come very far in the past several millennia. I regret my insinuation that "we" have, but "they" have

Fussy French Fiddler vs. Pedal-Pounding Pianist

Fussy French fiddler fingers fiddling with his pegs, Fretting frantically about what we might hear. Finicky foolish Frenchman, walking 'bout as if on eggs: If the tuning's slightly off, just use your ear!

(Afterwards I found out HIS own fiddle's being fixed, And that THIS one he had never even played; No wonder by those tuning pegs he seemed to be transfixed: No tuning deal with them had yet been made.)

There's nothing like a Frenchman playing Debussy in G (Specifically, the G Minor sonata), With a pedal-pounding pianist from L.I., N.Y.C... Who really only plays it cuz he's gotta.

Then, Beethoven: "This sonata he began in Eighteen-two..." ...And didn't die till '27?! Must be long. You could almost sense the moment that he lost his hearing, too – Or was that when I dozed off? (Is that so wrong?!)

Merciful applause (before the lights of intermission) Drowned my startled cry down to a simmer -Just like (later) loud conversing hushed quick, of its own volition: Ah, the power of our 5'-5" house-lights-dimmer!

A Prokofiev was next: "Five" (hypnotizing) "Melodies". Originally written for soprano, But it didn't take too long until the people asked him, "Ple-e-e-ease – Transcribe for violinist and piano!'

Then..."a mini-opera written for two instruments," we're told 'The piano has more strings – I bet it wins!'') From when Strauss was an enthusiastic 23-year-old – No time for snores or other mortal sinzzz....

Cuz it sounds like young Herr Strauss had too much spare time on his hands, Also much experimenting yet to do,

And he seemed to have it in for Stradivariuses and grands... What they ever did to him, I've not a clue.

Must I really make a joke of every concert I take in?! Well...I'm just reporting back the notes I make; I have to let ya know that you weren't missin' anythin' – And besides, it's how I keep myself awake!

Most familiar to folk audiences as a founding member of the female harmony trio Red Molly, New York City native Carolann Solebello first fell in love with mountain music – and the bluegrass and country that grew out of that tradition – while working as an actor in East Tennessee and Kansas.

Carolann has three solo CDs to her credit, Just Across the Water (2000), Glass of Desire (2009) and is currently touring in support of her 2011 release, Threshold.

Pat Wictor, an innovative slide guitarist known for fresh and memorable versions of traditional and contemporary songs, is equally well-regarded as a singer and songwriter, writing material grounded in the rural country, gospel and blues traditions of our nation. In the past year he's been touring nationally as one third of Brother Sun, the powerful harmonizing trio with Joe Jencks and Greg Greenway.

A SPIN ON LIFE

This March I celebrate my forty-third anniversary of moving to Alfred. Immediately upon my arrival I learned that its inhabitants were full of good advice. Although it had a small population, or perhaps because of that, its residents had expertise in a wide variety of fields

This, of course, had to do with its constant turnover of oldtimers and newcomers, and their engagement in either or both academic and nonacademic pursuits. It seemed that anyone I asked could tell me where to go, in the most polite sense of the expression.

I came here from Michigan. One of my first acts was to ask the man at the College Mobil gas station who filled my car's tank about getting a New York State vehicle inspection. Nelson Snyder immediately sent me another couple of miles down the road to Mr. Stevens' business. Quite awhile later I learned that he had referred me to his father-in-law.

By now, as a retired librarian who delights in dishing out information, I fit right in. I frequently offer recommendations to friends and strangers alike. Here is one, concerning a 2011 book titled The Sound of My Own Wheels! by Adam Gayhart.

Whether you think you like poetry or not, free verse or not, this small volume by a South Main Street resident of Alfred may surprise you. It will take but a short time to read. However, it may cause you to spend considerably more time meditating upon your own life in thought or handwriting.

In fact, the author anticipates this. Opposite his poems, and strewn throughout the book one encounters a "Journal Page." Blank, but for that heading, and lines to write on, these encourage a reader to note his or her own contemplations. As the old saying goes, "You may be a poet, and not know it." And, you can dispense with rhyme if you please.

Gayhart's poems appear in four sections named for the seasons, Winter, Spring, Summer, Autumn. In order, their respective subtitles are Broken, Healing, Dreaming, Living Again.

These represent the mental states the author describes going through. Gayhart has been a victim of Muscular Dystrophy for all of his twenty-nine years of life. Instead of walking through the world, to "travel" short distances he must do so in a wheelchair. For longer ones, a family member will take him in their wheelchair accessible van.

There are line drawings by the author throughout the book. The one repetitive motif refers to the "Wheels" in the book's title. The cover design features an outdoor scene and includes a wheelchair. Each chapter is preceded by a picture of a wheelchair.

Other illustrations refer to the subjects of specific poems. For instance, the last poem in the Winter chapter is titled, "Guilt." It be-

"Guilt eats away at my heart of shame.

Others forced to do it all,

while I sit and watch."

The accompanying drawing is of a broken heart, inscribed, "I'm sorry."

He strikes a positive note in the Spring chapter's poem called "Purpose."

"We are all part of God's plan.

Though we may seem an odd choice,

we become the perfect candidate."

I have a feeling that some politicians aspiring for the U.S. Presidency might want to borrow that line, disrobed of its poetic con-

It will come as no surprise that my favorite poem in the book is "The Library," which appears in the Autumn chapter. Remarkably, Gayhart has evoked the spirit of such a lofty institution in eight verses. These are the first and the last ones.

"Halls of recorded thought,

words of wisdom

spread across the printed page."

"Lost in the library.

searching through stacks of works,

both important and pointless,

On the back cover of the book is a photograph of the author in his wheelchair, taken by his sister, Lindsay Gayhart. She is a graduate of the State University of New York at Oneonta. Brief biographical information mentions that Adam Gayhart is a graduate of Empire State College with a B.A. degree in Communications. In my opinion, he has mastered that subject.

This book and his 2010 collection, Poetic License, may be purchased at Hair Care at 15 North Main Street, and at Alfred Pharmacy at 36 North Main Street in Alfred. Tinkertown Hardware on State Route 244 in Alfred Station also stocks them. Anyone heading to the Maple Festival in Andover, NY, on the weekend of March 31-April 1 can buy them there.

The methodology included a survey on online education and the responses from three educators' (respondents) were included in an article in the JCR (Journal of Court Reporting).

Because online education is becoming more popular with those who can't, for whatever reason, attend traditional classes in an on-campus setting, the National Court Reporters' Association wanted to find out what its member schools have learned about offering their programs online, says Blake.

A comprehensive look at hydrofracking By GRAHAM MARKS Special to the Alfred Sun

Hydrofracking Chemicals and Water Part 1:a column in two parts

Hydrofracking is a relatively new method of retrieving natural gas that involves drilling thousands of feet vertically, passing through the water table, and then horizontally thousands of feet through shale where gas is trapped in tiny pockets. Millions of gallons of water are mixed with chemicals and are pumped underground at high pressure to fracture the shale, releasing the

The Federal Energy Policy Act of 2005 exempted gas companies from theoversight of the Safe Drinking Water Act and the Clean Air Act and despite their claims that the chemicals used in the fracking process are safe, companies have consistently refused to make public comprehensive lists of the chemicals used.

In 2011 the United States House of Representatives Committee on Energy and Commerce asked 14 Oil and Gas companies to provide information on the names and volumes of products used over a five year period (2005-2009). For each fracturing product reported, the companies were also asked to provide the MSDS (material safety and data sheet) that OSHA (Occupational Safety and Health Administration) requires.

Under OSHA rules, chemical manufacturers can withhold the identity of chemical components that they deem to be "trade secrets." This proprietary informabelongs to manufacturers, not the users of the chemicals, thus gas companies have only limited information about the products they purchase from vendors, mix with other products, and pump underground.

A report entitled, "Chemicals Used in Hydraulic Fracturing" is a result of this federal study. It is the first comprehensive national inventory of the chemical products used by gas companies during the fracking process in over thirteen states. To read the original committee report enter into your search engine,"Cornell Cooperative Extension Gas Drilling Library," click on the link, and on their home page look down the topics in the middle of the page. When you come to "Hydrofracking and Water" click on "chemicals used in fracking" and you will be taken to the original document. It is an eye opener!

Below is a summary of the findings of the Committee:

"In the five year period studied, the 14 leading oil and gas service companies used more than 780 million gallons of hydraulic fracturing products, not including water (my emphasis) added at the well site. Overall, the companies used more than 2,500 hydraulic fracturing products containing 750 different chemicals and other components. More than 650 of these products contained chemicals that are known or possible human carcinogens, regulated under the Safe Drinking Water Act, or listed as hazardous air

"The components used in the hydraulic fracturing products ranged from generally harmless to extremely toxic substances, such as benzene and lead."

known or possible human carcinogens, regulated under the Safe Drinking Water Act (SDWA) for their risks to human health, or listed as hazardous air pollutants under the Clean Air

"The BTEX compounds - Benzene, Toluene, Ethylbenzene, and Xylene, - are SDWA contaminants and hazardous air pollutants. Benzene also is a known human carcinogen. Chronic exposure to toluene, ethylbenzene, or xylenes can damage the central nervous system, liver, and kidneys.BTEX compounds appeared in 60 hydraulic fracturing products used between 2005 and 2009 and were used in 11.4 million gallons of products of fracturing fluids.'

"Fracturing Companies injected more than 30 million gallons of diesel fuel or hydraulic fracturing fluids containing diesel fuel in wells in 19 states. In a 2004 report, EPA stated that the 'use of diesel fuel in fracturing fluids poses the greatest threat to underground sources of drinking water.

companies contain chemical components that are listed as "proprietary" or "trade secret." The companies used 94 million gallons of 279 products that contained at least one chemical or component that the manufacturers deemed proprietary or a trade secret. In these cases, it appears that the companies are injecting fluids containing unknown chemicals about which they may have limited understanding of the potential risks posed to human health and the environment. Diana Degette, a member of the committee from Colorado stated, "It is deeply disturbing to discover the content and quantity of toxic chemicals, like benzene and lead, being injected into the ground without the knowledge of the communities whose health could be affected."

Ian Urbina reporting in The New York Times on the release of the report stated..."The use of these chemicals has been a source of concern to regulators and environmentalists who worry that some of them could find their way out of a well bore -because of above-ground spills, underground failures of well casing or migration through layers of rock—and into nearby sources of drinking water."

ASC Drama Club will stage 'Mousetrap'

ALFRED—The Alfred State Drama Club will present the play Mousetrap, at the Lake Lodge, Thursday, April 12, at 7 p.m. followed by an opening night reception; Friday, April 13, a dinner theater performance at Lake Lodge, with dinner beginning at 6 p.m.; and Saturday, April 14, 7 p.m. Cost is $2 for students, $5 for the general public. Cost for the dinner theater performance is $18 per person. A bus will provide transportation between Lake Lodge and Alfred State campus.

This British murder mystery, written by Agatha Christie, is the longest-running show in modern history, celebrating its 60th anniversary of continual showings since it first opened in London's West End in 1952.

The play's characters include Mollie and Giles Ralston, husband-and-wife proprietors of Monkswell Manor; Christopher Wren, a hyperactive young man who acts peculiarly. Mrs. Boyle, a critical older woman who is pleased by nothing; Major Metcalf, retired from the army, though little else is known about him; Miss Casewell, a strange, aloof, masculine woman who speaks offhandedly about the horrific experiences of her childhood; Mr. Paravicini, a man of unknown provenance, who turns up claiming his car has overturned in a snowdrift; and Detecpoliceman who arrives on skis due to the snow storm, saying he has come to protect the guests from a murderer.

The play begins late one afternoon. The Ralstons' first four guests arrive: Christopher Wren, Mrs. Boyle, Major Metcalf, and Miss Casewell. An unexpected guest, Mr. Paravicini, immediately makes his hosts uneasy. The group, snowed in together, read in the paper that a woman has been murdered in London. The next day, the police call on the phone, causing great alarm among the guests. Detective Sergeant Trotter arrives to inform the group that he believes a murderer is at large and on the way to the Manor, following the murder in London. When one of the guests is killed, the group realizes that the murderer is already present among them.

By tradition, at the end of each performance, audiences are asked not to reveal the identity of the killer to anyone outside the theatre, to ensure that the end of the play is not spoiled for fu-Sergeant Trotter, a ture audiences. Want to know whodunit? Attend this spring performance!

Peavey presents on 'student connections' at NODA conference

ALFRED--On March 3, Spencer Peavey, director of Student Activities and Orientation at Alfred State, presented "Making IT Happen, Encouraging Student Connections and Civic Engagement" to the attendees of the National Orientation Directors Association in Burlington, VT.

Peavey highlighted the steps that Alfred State has taken to incorporate leadership through Civic Engagement in its Orientation and transition programs.

The National Orientation Directors Association was chartered in 1976 and continues the tradition of orientation, retention, and transition professionals who have met annually for over 40 years. The NODA conference in Burlington, VT, included institutions from Massachusetts, New Hampshire, Rhode Island, Maine, Vermont, Connecticut, and New York (including eight other SUNY schools).

As director of Student Activities and Orientation, Peavey is responsible for directing, implementing, and assessing student extra-curricular activities as well as new student orientation programs at the College. Peavey has been a member of NODA since 2003 and has held several leadership positions within the professional organization.

Also attending the conference with 10 of his students, orientation coordinators Shelby Gadsden, sports management, Olean, and Zac Carlson, business administration, Tonawanda, helped facilitate the presentation with Peavey, adding insight on leadership initiatives within Greek life and student organization development.

Peavey holds a master's degree in counseling from St. Bonaventure and a bachelor of liberal arts degree from the University of Massachusetts, Lowell

ALFRED—Six students enrolled in Alfred State's sport management program, accompanied by faculty members Dr. Cliff McPeak and Dr. Rhema Fuller, recently traveled to the Quicken Loans Arena and Progressive Field in downtown Cleveland for a one-day workshop on ticket sales. (Ticketing is typically an entry point for graduates who seek careers in sport management with professional sport franchises.) Three 75-minute sessions occurred covering various topics involved in ticket sales. In total, 95 students from 16 colleges and universities in six states attended the conference. Additionally, there were approximately two dozen professional franchises in attendance to conduct 15-minute interviews with the students for full-time positions or internships in the future. Although students were responsible for the cost of the trip, funds from the Sport Management Club were used to mitigate some of their expenses. Pictured here, I-r: Dr. Rhema Fuller; Hayato Sasakawa, Hiratsuka, Japan; Nick Hermann, Staten Island; Ryann Langdon, Lima; Lateef Dickenson, Rochester (14621); and Anthony Espe, Endicott. Not pictured are Dr. Cliff McPeak and Joe Wallace, Avoca.

ASC enters articulation pacts

ALFRED—Alfred State (AS) has entered into articulation agreements with a variety of institutions, including high schools, community colleges, and master-degree-granting universities, in order to promote the easy transfer of qualified students between those institutions and Alfred State.

"We are excited about these opportunities to strengthen ties with our colleagues in higher education," notes Charles V. Neal, associate vice president for Academic Affairs. "By working together, we can offer our students the finest education and the most efficient delivery."

Among the most recent are an agreement between AS and Pioneer High School, Arcade, allowing interested Pioneer High School students who successfully complete six hours of veterinary technology elective credits and meet all academic standards required for admission into Alfred State to transfer those credits into the College's veterinary technology program.

Additionally, Broome-Tioga BOCES, Binghamton, has entered into an agreement with Alfred State whereby BOCES students who successfully complete its two-year animal science program and meet all academic standards required for admission into Alfred State, will receive six hours of veterinary technology elective credits.

Additionally, several community colleges have entered into agreement with AS, establishing articulation into Alfred State's baccalaureate nursing program. Among those colleges are Finger Lakes Community College, Monroe Community College, Jamestown Community College, Erie Community College, Mohawk Valley Community College, and Genesee Community

Through the terms of these agreements, Alfred State agrees to accept, as third- year students, those individuals who have successfully completed the associate degree level nursing program at their community colleges.

Other agreements with community colleges include one whereby students graduating from any associate in applied science (AAS), associate in science (AS), or associate in arts (AA) program fulfilling a minimum of five SUNY (State University of New York) general education categories at Erie Community College may enter into Alfred State's technology management baccalaureate program (BBA) and meet all academic standards required for admission into Alfred State will be accepted by AS with full junior status.

Jamestown Community College (JCC) and Alfred State have forged an agreement allowing graduates from the AAS human services or AS human services degree programs at JCC who meet all academic standards required for admission into Alfred State are guaranteed admission into Alfred State's BS in human services management program with no more than four additional semesters of normal course work at AS.

The Utica School of Commerce has also entered into an agreement with Alfred State, allowing its students who successfully complete one of its business programs (AOS in business administration with a concentration in accounting, management, entrepreneurship, or general; or AOS in administrative specialist with concentration in coding and billing, executive, legal, medical transcription, medical, computer applications, or general, AAS in health service management; or AAS in non-profit agency management; or AAS in information systems specialist) may enter Alfred State's BBA degree in technology management with four semesters of additional course work.

Conversely, Alfred State and RIT have forged an agreement that allows AS students to enter RIT's baccalaureate program in computer science as third-year students.

Alfred State and Monroe Community College have joined together to offer a 2+2 dual admission degree program agreement which allows students who successfully complete a prescribed set of courses leading to an associate's degree from MCC to continue their studies at Alfred State with the understanding they may complete all requirements in the baccalaureate degree program within four semesters of full-time study.

Alfred State has also entered into agreement with three MBA-granting universities: Alfred University, Niagara University, and St. Bonaventure University.

Prof cited for testing new technology for Liftech Equipment company

WELLSVILLE—Mark Payne, assistant professor in the Building Trades Department at Alfred State, was recently cited on the Liftech Equipment Web site (http://www.liftechequipmentjcb.com/) as he and his students tested a new technology and design in skid steer equipment.

A piece of heavy equipment, known as a tracked skid steer, was loaned to Alfred State for training purposes following an in-class lecture by Payne.

"Thirty-eight students were able to experience the new generation of skid steer/track loader technology," said Payne. He also noted that because it is not always easy or practical to have equipment with the latest technology available, the demonstration was doubly beneficial to his students.

In addition to the lecture, the equipment was used to carry material for a residential housing project by the senior class. According to Payne, the material was carried over "one of the wettest jobsites in the subdivision."

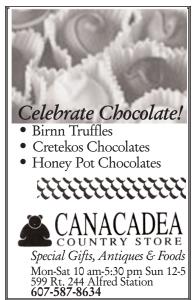

Payne noted that the singlearm design and door system led to much better visibility than many other similar machines.

FIFTY YEARS AGO, MARCH 15, 1962

Fire, apparently caused by defective electrical writing, completely destroyed a cow barn and a horse barn owned by Charles Lawrence on the Karr Valley Road, three and a half miles west of Almond early Monday morning. Fire Chief Ernest Bird said the company received the call at 4:50 a.m., responded immediately, but the barns were completely leveled by 6:30 a.m. Contents of the 100' by 50' cow barn and the 40' by 60' horse barn which were lost included three tractors, approximately 20 head of young cattle, 3,000 bales of hay, some straw, and other small equipment...

St. Patrick will be feted as the Patron Saint of Ceramic Engineers at Alfred University on March 16 and 17 during a gala festival of entertainment for students and for area residents who are invited to demonstrations, exhibits and displays featuring the ceramic industry... A colorful parade of floats, bands and marching units will launch the festival. The first arrival will be St. Pat himself, a student chosen to reign during the weekend, whose identity will remain secret until his appearance...

Alfredians—Miss Doris Simpson and Miss Daisy Clark called on Miss Mary Lee Stillman and Miss Loula Ellis at the Brown Home, Saturday afternoon. Almond News—Sunday dinner guests of Dr. and Mrs. Wayne Brownell and family were Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Brownell and family of Kenmore and Mr. and Mrs. Francis Tyson of Hornell...Mrs. David Bordeaux and son David spent the weekend with their daughter and sister, Judy Bordeaux, in Cleveland. David attended the Western Reserve basketball game Saturday night... Weekend guests of Mr. and Mrs. Lee Ryan Sr. were Miss Betty Orr and Larry Ryan of Buffalo...Little Amy Hurd of West Almond spent the weekend with her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Mensinger...Sunday dinner guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Donald MacIntosh were their children, Miss Donna MacIntosh and Mr. and Mrs. Paul Kober and children of Rochester...

Central School News—All of the art students at Alfred-Almond Central School who entered art work in the 20th Annual Scholastic Art Exhibition at Rochester have been awarded prizes, it has been learned by Linn Phelan, art teacher...Earlier it was announced that Gold Key Awards were presented to blue ribbon finalists Sheryl Butts and Robert Zimmerman...Receiving honorable mention were Cynthia Rogers, daughter of Dean and mrs. Albert N. Rogers of Alfred, a tenth grader who entered art work in the mixed media class; Phyllis Miller, a senior and the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harley Miller of Alfred, for her fabric block print; and Robert Turner, ninth grader and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Turner of Alfred Station, for a mixed media. Certificates of merit were awarded for a linoleum block print to Jane Bordeaux, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Bordeaux of Almond: Peter Randolph, son of Dr. and Mrs. Winfield Randolph of Alfred for a transparent water color; Dan Bennett, son of the Rev. and Mrs. Daniel Bennett of Alfred, for a mixed media; Sue Montgomery, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Montgomery of Almond, for creative stitchery; and Audrey Hunt, granddaughter of Mrs. Clarence Jacox of Alfred Station, for a mixed media.... TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO, MARCH 19, 1987

Alfred State College and Computervision Corp. of Bedford, MA have announced a major computer upgrade for the college's School of Engineering Technologies Computer Center. The center, which supports computer instruction in engineering and engineering technology, recently received the Designer 5 hardware upgrade for its Computervision Computer Aided Design & Drafting Systems (CADDS). Douglas Barber, acting chairman of the Engineering Graphics and Computing Department, said the software upgrade is expected "very soon." The upgrade means that Alfred students and representatives of area industries will now have access to CADDS hardware and software which experts believe will be standard in the industry well into the next decade, Professor Barber indicated...

Ask Bob Myers what it's like to have a column published in a nationwide newspaper like USA Today and more than likely he'll tell you it's fun. Myers, a cultural anthropologist and professor of anthropology and public health at Alfred University, wrote a piece about the impact of 9/11 on "fun" in American culture. He says fun is back. Myers wrote, "During the past several weeks, the word 'fun' and its first cousin 'funny' resurfaced. Their prominence had waned even before Sept. 11, but after the terrorist attacks, they disappeared nearly completely...

Ceramophile, the periodical publication of The Schein-Joseph International Museum of Ceramic Art, reports that the design process for the new museum building is continuing and a formal ground-breaking is scheduled to be held in early September. Bruce Wood, Kallmann McKinnell & Wood Architects (Boston), is working closely with campus representatives on both the museum project as well as the deisgn and construction of a new health/counseling center. To provide additional space for the museum facility and to improve campus health and counseling services for students, a new campus health/counseling center will be constructed just north of Tefft residence hall, above and behind Bartlett. The new health and counseling center is currently in design development stage. Preliminary geotechnical studies have indicated that extensive foundation work, such as that encountered with construction of Miller Performing Arts Center, will not be necessary. Meanwhile, the museum site at the south end of campus will be rimmed by Park, Terrace and Sayles Streets. The new building will be easily accessible on foot by students and visitors to campus and is close to the University's Saxon Inn

Vertical Talking with God: Praying like Jesus

By LINDA STAIGER ALMOND--"Vertical Talking with God: How to Pray Like Jesus," Matthew 6:5-15.

Last week: WHY pray? This week: HOW to pray. Jesus gave us a format to guide us in our praying called "The Lord's Prayer.'

How to pray--it's really more simple than one might think. Let's take the prayer apart and study it. "Our Father in heaven, hallowed be Thy name..." is a good start. "Hallowed" means revered--it's a form of worship or praise. So, start your time of prayer by praising God. Lift Him up. It also has a sense of intimacy. "Our Father," Our Dad. Like a family relationship. We have a closeness through faith in Jesus. We are reconnected with God no matter what we have done. So far, we have a closenss, but we also have respect for

"Your kingdom come, Your will be done on earth as it is in heaven." This is a 'surrender'--it is His will not ours. Here's what may be a tough part--we give God control of our lives. We like control---I get it, but have you ever noticed that the things we worry about most are the things that are outside of our control? This is where we need to learn how to "let go and let God". He's the "Dude" who can help us if we let Him.

"Give us this day our daily bread." He wants us to come to Him because we want to, NOT because we feel we HAVE to. Remember Exodus? Moses and Aaron trying to lead the Israelites out of Egypt, but the Israelites lost faith after so many years in the desert. Once they had regained faith, God provided what they needed for each day, one day at a time. I'm not sure I could have made it through 40 years like that. We need to trust God completely for everything we need, every day.

"Forgive us our debts as we forgive our debtors." Or one could read it as 'forgive us our sins as we forgive those who have sinned against us.' God will forgive us time and time again, but we have to forgive others time and time again, too. Hard, isn't it?

"Lead us not into temptation, but deliver us from evil." We need God to strengthen us, so we don't give in to sin when we get frustrated. He empowers us.

Look at it like this: 1.) WOR-SHIP: spend time worshipping, praising God. 2.) SURRENDER your life that day, talk about putting God in control. 3.) TRUST: Ask God to provide everything you need for that day. 4.) CON-FESSION: Think about where you have fallen short and ask forgiveness. Think about those who have wronged you and forgive them. 5.) Ask for STRENGTH to not fall into

As you begin your prayer time you will see how it begins to work in your lives. Trust.

Your friends and neighbors at the Alfred Station Seventh Day Baptist Church, "A 3 church: Connect- Care- Community" invite you to be Irish for a day. As you join them for the 11 a.m. Sabbath Worship Hour, wear the green, wear orange or a combination. The Sabbath Sermon is titled "Amazing Grace" and is drawn from Ephesians 1:1-14. Of course some of the illustrations during the sermon will be drawn from the life of Patrick.

Sabbath School precedes the Sabbath Worship Hour at 9:45 a.m. There are three adult classes. The Food for Thought is studying the Feasts of Israel. The Bible for Blockheads is studying the book of Ezra. The Bible from the Backside class is studying Elwood Kalas' book "Easter from the Backside".

This is Youth Fellowship weekend for those youth in grades 7 -12. Youth fellowship starts at 1 p.m. at Camp Harley and is a time of Fun, Fellowship, and of course the study of Scripture as it applies to life today.

We look forward to seeing you this Sabbath. The Alfred Station Church Meetinghouse is located down from Robert Lawrence Trucking, Canacadea Country Store, and Baker's Bridge Antiques, up from The Bicycle Man, HiTech Ceramics, Way to Gro and Alfred Knitting Studio; across from Hillbottom

Pottery. If you would like further information about Salvation, the Sabbath, or Seventh Day Baptists we invite you to call the church office at 607-587-9176.

Prince of Egypt, the ballet portrays the enslaved Jewish people under the oppression of Egyptian rule. Under the blazing sun, and within the shadow of the pyramids, the captive Jews cry out for deliverance. Pharaoh's oppressive regime of bondage is challenged as one man, Moses, attempts to free the people.

From the Kennedy Center in Washington DC, to Singapore's historic Victoria Theatre, thousands throughout the world have experienced the professional companies of Ballet Magnificat! Headquartered in Jackson, Mississippi, the company was founded in 1986 by IBC Silver Medalist Kathy Thibodeaux and her husband, Keith, former child star known for his portrayal of "Little Ricky" in the much-loved TV series, "I Love Lucy"

In 1989, Ballet Magnificat! opened a School of the Arts which offers dance classes to area students ages 3 and up. The school's student companies -Magnificat! Youth Ballet and MiniMag! – are frequent guests at local nursing homes, schools, and churches. That same year, the Summer Dance Intensive and Teachers Workshop were started, and now bring hundreds of students annually from around the world to Jackson, MS, for a unique technical and spiritual ex-

THE GLORY OF AMERICA

Thursday, March 15

On this day in 1767, Andrew Jackson, 7th President of the United States, was born. Utterly fearless in battle, "Old Hickory," the wrrior general from Tennessee was nonetheless aware of Who was watching over him. As he wrote to Secretary of War James Monroe after the Battle of New Orleans:

"Heaven, to be sure, has interposed most wonderfully in our behalf, and I am filled with gratitude, when I look back to what we have escaped."

ALFRED--Alfred State's March 20 New Horizons Forum will feature Leon Buckwalter, assistant professor, Building Trades, presenting an account of his work on an international team to re-create sections of the 17th century Gwozdziec Synagogue in Poland during the summer of 2011. The presentation will be held at 6:30 p.m. Tuesday, March 20 in room 215 of the Engineering Technology (SET) building on the Alfred campus. All are welcome to a reception immediately preceding the presentation.

Leon was selected for a 22member international team to build a replica of the Gwoździec Synagogue timber frame roof structure and the vaulted ceiling for permanent exhibition at the Museum of the History of Polish Jews in Warsaw, Poland as the first major element of its core exhibition.

Leon initially went to Poland in 2003, again as part of an international team, to investigate the feasibility of the project, and, since the Nazis burned all the wooden synagogues in Poland, to look at churches of other faiths of the same time frame to get clues to tools and techniques used by builders of the time.

Team members created an 85% scale replica of the timber roof structure from the now lost wooden century Gwoździec Synagogue. The project includes the very ornate duplication of the painting of the interior of the roof dome, which will take 18 months to complete. All of the nearly two-hundred 17th and 18th century wooden synagogues built throughout the Polish Lithuanian Commonwealth were destroyed by the end of World War II, yet the vernacular wooden architectural styles - both aesthetically and structurally – are still apparent in many other existing wooden structures in Poland.

Scheduled to open in 2012, the Museum of the History of Polish Jews will present the 1,000-year history of Polish Jews and the civilization that they created. Understandably, the Shoah and the void that it has left have overshadowed this story. By presenting the civilization that Jews created in the very place where they created it, the Museum will convey the enormity of what was lost. Standing on the site of the former Warsaw Ghetto, the Museum of the History of Polish Jews will honor those who died by remembering how they lived.

The Museum, the first publicprivate partnership of its type in Poland and joint effort of the Association of the Jewish Historical Institute of Poland, the Government of Poland, and the City of Warsaw, will fulfill its educational mission not only through its Core Exhibition, but also through it Educational Centre, public programs, and facilities, including a resource center, mediateque, large auditorium, two cinematheques, rooms for conferences and workshops, and galleries for temporary and traveling exhibitions. Total space is about 12.000 m2, including 4.000 m2 for the Core Exhibition. In the Museum's multimedia narrative exhibition, which is more a "theatre of history" than a conventional exhibition of objects, visitors will discover the vibrancy of what was once the largest Jewish community in the world and center of the Jewish Diaspora. The single most spectacular element in the Core Exhibition will be the Gwozdiec wooden synagogue ceiling and roof.

Handshouse Studio, through which this program is offered, is a not-for-profit, innovative, educational organization that creates adventurous hands-on projects through community-service, building projects with non-profit partners around the world and is a Cooperating Institute with the Massachusetts College of Art and Design Professional and Continuing Education Program. Handshouse creates projects outside of the traditional classroom that energize history through the reconstruction of large historical objects.

Leon's career has centered around building things; his experiences led to an interest in timber framing and an offshoot of his contracting business, called Ischua Valley Timber Frames. Along with this came membership in an approximately 2,000member world-wide organization called the Timber Framers Guild, then a seat on its Board of Directors, and eventually vice presidency of the Guild.

Leon pursued historic log and/or timber frame projects, which generally had connections to people, places, and events of long ago. An interest in and collection of antique wood-working tools led to investigation of how those tools were used by yesterday's master craftsmen. Gaining proficiency with those tools has opened doors to projects where the end product, or structure built, is sometimes no more important than demonstrating and passing along the skills, knowledge, and techniques of our fore-

In 1993, Leon participated in a Timber Framers' Guild-sponsored trip to St. Petersburg, Russia, where he assisted in building a timber-framed addition to a wooden-boat-building school.

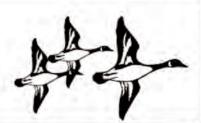

Additionally, Leon has participated in USDA Forest Servicefunded research, resulting in "The Effects of Time on the Longevity of the Linn Run Bridges" paper. He has also published and presented presented throughout the Northeast.

In addition to his affiliation ith the Timber Framers' Guild, Leon is also a member of the boards of the NYS Barn Coalition and the Preservation Trades Network

In 2001, Leon was hired at Alfred State to develop and teach courses in historic preservation and timber framing. He remains active in the Timber Framers Guild and the Traditional Timber Frame Research and Advisory Group. He holds a degree in construction engineering technology from Alfred State.

Alfred Sun Columnist

We left Bay City on February 20 and decided to spend a week stopping at some of our favorite places along the coast and then make a dash for Mandeville, Louisiana. Sherry Head, the owner of the RV park, gave us a 'going away' present of a halfbushel of luscious grapefruit from her tree.

We had one very nice day and overnight at Matagorda, where we watched a handsome male Northern Harrier fly back and forth for hours, hunting mice just below an overlook where we spent the night.

We spent the next night at Surfside, where we shared the beach with a man who had brought his horse with him. He told Dick he was just learning to ride the beast and thought it would be softer to be thrown and land on the sand than anywhere

The next day we crossed over to Galveston Island and had lunch on the famous sea wall which protects Galveston in hurricanes now. On the third day of this part of our trip, it turned extremely foggy and the mosquitoes became overwhelming. We were pretty much held hostage in our RV that day. And it continued the next day at Crystal Beach, Rollover Pass and High Island on the Bolivar Peninsula, which is slowly recovering from Hurricane Ike.

We thought that if we headed inland, we'd get some relief. The fog finally lifted but the mosquitoes got worse. We headed toward Sam Houston Jones State Park at Lake Charles and, on the way, stopped at the beautiful Louisiana Welcome Center for our tea break. I got out of the RV to photograph a sign I thought was interesting. I was so intent on watching for alligators that I missed the 2000 mosquitoes that covered every inch of my exposed skin!

When we arrived at the state park, there was a large sign on the check-in desk warning everyone that because of the especially warm winter and the rains that brought relief from the draught, there was an outbreak of Marsh Mosquitoes and because of the wind, they had not been able to do any aerial spraying. The reader was reassured (?) that the mosquitoes were NOT the kind that carried West Nile Virus.

of living in Alfred. You don't really get much experience dealing with mosquitoes. I've had to learn how to hold binoculars steady while getting bitten by mosquitoes. But I did get my first Brown-headed Nuthatch of the trip at Lake Charles.

We arrived back in Mandeville at Fontainebleau State Park on February 26. We thought it would be for about a week, while we got checked for skin cancers by our 'winter' dermatologist and had some pre-cancers frozen off. But this was the week that turned into 18 days! And I knew I was missing the first American Woodcock and Red-winged Blackbirds and probably Tree Swallows too in Alfred. But Fontainebleau had some surprises for us – so stay tuned for the last leg of our trip.

2000 mosquitoes covered every inch of her exposed skin.

Softball team goes 5-7 on Spring Break trip to Arizona

The softball team went 5-7 on its Spring Break trip to Arizona last week.

The Saxons opened the trip with a 5-4 loss to Loras and a 4-1 loss to ninth-ranked Coe College. The Saxons split their next two games, losing 5-0 to Coe before bouncing back to knock off Pitt-Bradford, 6-1. Alfred won its next two convincingly, routing Medaille, 22-3, then beating Pitt-Bradford, 14-8. Alfred won 6-5 against Purdue North Central, then fell, 4-0, to Northwestern College.

On the last two days of the trip, AU went 1-3, falling to Siena Heights, 13-11, and seventh-ranked Central, 9-1, before splitting the final day's two games (4-1 win over Patton; 4-1 loss to Central).

In the game against Loras, senior shortstop Nicole Hedrick (Albany/Catholic Central) paced the Saxons, going 2-for-4 with a homerun, two RBIs and a run scored. Freshman rightfielder Alyson Hampton (Oxnard, CA) had two hits, two stolen bases and a run scored; sophomore centerfielder Breeal Delgado (Rancho Cucamonga, CA/Los Osos) had an RBI triple and scored once. Freshman pitcher Alison Wickwire (Towanda, PA) started for AU, going 4 1/3 innings and allowing five runs (three earned) on six hits while striking out five and walking four. Freshman Betsy Clark (Webster/Bishop Kearney) relieved and tossed two-hit ball over 1 1/3 scoreless innings.

In the first game with Coe, Hampton went 3-for-3 with a stolen base; Hedrick went 2-for-4; and Delgado went 1-for-3 with an RBI. Sophomore pinch runner Danielle Mastropierro (Randolph, NJ) scored the Saxons' lone run. Freshman pitcher Jessica O'Sullivan (Groton, MA/Groton Dunstable Regional) took the complete-game loss for AU, allowing four runs (three earned) on six hits over six innings, striking out five and walking four.

Delgado went 3-for-4 with a double, three RBIs and a run scored and junior second baseman Maressa Mistretta (Shirley/ Longwood) had two hits, including an RBI double, and scored twice against Pitt-Bradford. Hampton had two hits, a run scored, an RBI and a stolen base O'Sullivan earned the pitching win, tossing four innings of fivehit shutout ball while striking out three with no walks. Wickwire earned the saved for the Saxons, allowing one earned run on four hits over three innings.

Senior shortstop Nicole Hedrick (Albany/Catholic Central) and Warner each had a base hit as the Saxons lost to nationally-ranked Coe for the second time in two days. Hampton had a walk and stole a base. Sophomore pitcher Victoria Kramp (Yardley, PA/Pennsbury) took the loss, allowing five runs (three unearned) on four hits over six innings while striking out five and walking five.

Hedrick hit a pair of three-run homeruns and tied a school record for hits in a game in the win over Medaille. Her five hits tied the mark set by Jessica Snyder against Hilbert in 1999. She also scored four runs and drove in seven in a game that was stopped after five innings. Hampton went 3-for-5 with two runs scored, two RBIs and a stolen base; Mastropierro had two hits, including a double, and scored a run; senior leftfielder Netta (Rahway, Angela NJ/Mother Seton Regional) went 2-for-2 with a triple, two RBIs and two runs; and Mistretta and sophomore outfielder Rachel Guszick (Sparrowbush /Port Jervis) each had three hits and scored three times, with Mistretta also driving in three and stealing two bases. Freshman pitcher Ashley Sabourin (Brewerton, NY/Paul V. Moore) got the win for AU, allowing three earned runs on seven hits over five innings, striking out three.

Men's lax team goes 0-2 on spring break trip

The men's lacrosse team (1-3, 0-0 Empire 8) dropped a pair of games on its Spring Break trip to Colorado Springs, CO. AU suffered a 10-5 setback to host Colorado College before dropping an 11-10 decision to Adams State College.

Against Colorado College, the Tigers outscored the Saxons 9-1 over the course the of the game's final 34-plus minutes. AU started out strong, building a 2-0 lead heading into the second quarter behind a pair of goals from junior midfielder Matt Zon (Buffal/Sweet Home) (five-of-12 on face-offs, five groundballs). Colorado College scored the first goal in the second quarter finding the back of the net with 13:40 left in the second quarter. AU tallied a pair of goals in a two-minute span to claim a 4-1 lead with 5:48 left in the first half. The Tigers scored three unanswered goals to make it a 4-4 game at intermission.

Colorado College's momentum carried over into the second half, with three (six total) unanswered goals to claim a 7-4 lead with 2:08 left in the third quarter. Sophomore attackman Brett Carroll (Buffalo/Bishop Timon-St. Jude) scored and the Saxons went into the fourth quarter trailing 7-5, but AU was shut out, 3-0, in the final period. Zon and Carroll each finished with two goals; sophomore midfielder Green (Pittsburgh, Derek PA/The Kiski School) had a goal and an assist; and junior defenseman Eric Jelen (Nanuet/ Clarkstown South) picked up five groundballs. Freshman Cody O'Connor (Whitney Point) went the distance in goal for AU making a career-high 18

AU outscored Adams State, 5-2, in the fourth, and held a 16-5 advantage in shots, yet was unable to notch the equalizer.. For the game, the Saxons held advantages in shots (45-24), groundballs (43-42), and faceoffs (15-of-24). The Saxons held a commanding 14-4 advantage heading into intermission as they outshot the hosts 24-9. In the second half AU continued their first half momentum outscoring the Roos' 11-2, and holding a 19-5 advantage in shots, while committing zero turnovers.

For the game, AU held a 43-14 advantage in shots, picked up 16 groundballs to Canton's six, and forced 14 turnovers while committing just five miscues.

Junior midfielder Ali Garcia (Salt Lake City, UT/Judge Memorial) recorded a game-high and career-high nine points on six goals and three assists to pace the Saxons. Junior midfielder Devin Fitzgerald Olympia) (Rochester/Greece and sophomore midfielder Ashley White (Islip) netted five and four goals respectively, while dishing out one assist and freshman attack Kaitlyn Button (Canastota/Cazenovia) had three goals and three assists.

Freshman attack Maria Bentley (Seneca Falls/Mynderse) and sophomore defender Janelle Gallipeau (Rochester/Greece Olympia) each netted two goals and helped on another and junior midfielder Tracie McGinnity (Rochester/Gates-Chili) goals. Senior attack Emily Crosby (Fairport) scored a goal and assist. Freshman goalie Taylor Tarajos (Rochester/Greece Olympia) had four saves.

Men's tennis wraps up solid spring break trip

The men's tennis team (7-3, 0-0 Empire 8) concluded its five-match Spring Break trip to Florida with a 3-2 record. The Saxons recorded wins over Cornerstone (5-4), Kings (8-1), and Marywood (5-4), while falling to Berry (5-4), and Coe (7-2).

In the Marywood match, AU got singles wins from senior Nathan Garletts (Havertown, PA/Haverford), 7-6 (7-4), 4-6, 6-0 in second singles; junior Stefan Nonnenmann (New Providence, NJ/New Providence), 6-4, 2-6, 6-4 in fourth singles; and sophomore Peter Benoit (Gasport/Barker), 6-2, 6-2 in fifth singles. Nonnenmann and senior Nick Schneider (Liverpool) won first doubles, 8-2, while Benoit and Garletts claimed their third doubles match, 8-3.

Against Kings, Alfred earned wins in five of six singles matches. Schneider won first singles, 4-6, 6-3, 1-0 (10-6); Garletts won second singles, 6-0, 6-2; Nonnenmann won fourth singles, 4-6, 7-6 (7-5), 1-0 (10-8), Benoit won fifth singles, 6-2, 6-4; and freshman Michael Graham (Elmira/Southside), won sixth singles, 6-2, 6-2. AU swept doubles play against Kings. Schneider and Nonnenman won first doubles, 8-6; senior Nate Kucko (Binghamton/Chenango Forks) and Graham won second doubles, 8-4; and Garletts and Benoit won third doubles, 8-1.

In the win over Cornerstone, AU got singles wins from Schneider, 7-5, 6-1 in first singles; Garletts, 6-0, 6-2 in second singles; and junior Stefan, 6-1, 6-0 in fourth singles. Schneider and Nonnenmann won first doubles, 8-4, while Garletts and Benoit took third doubles, 8-0.

Earning singles wins for the Saxons in the loss to Berry were Kucko, 6-1, 6-4 in third singles and Benoit, 7-5, 5-7, 6-1 in fifth singles. Schneider and Nonnenmann won first doubles, 8-6, and Garletts teamed with Benoit to take third doubles, 8-3.

Alfred did not win any of the six singles matches against Coe, but took two of the three doubles contests. Schneider and Nonnenmann won first doubles, 8-3, while Garletts and Benoit took third doubles, 9-8 (7-3).

Let the "madness" begin! Yes, it is time once more for the NCAA Division I men's basketball tournament. Kentucky, Syracuse, North Carolina and Michigan State are the four, #1-seeds this year with the UK Wildcats the favorite to win it all ... if there is such a thing in the crazy world of college hoops. As an added bonus for "local" hoop fans, the Bonnies are in the tournament after an A10 tourney championship as they topped Xavier in the finale. That is the good news for Bona. Bad news, game one out of the gate is versus Florida State. The Seminoles eased by Duke and North Carolina, back-to-back, to grab the title in the rugged ACC.

If the Kentucky Wildcats don't win the NCAA tournament it will be one of the biggest upsets in the history of college hoops. This, according to my brother-in-law, Brian Fischer. He who thinks there is only one team in all of college b-ball to begin with. The Wildcats have a few hurdles to overcome in their South Region bracket as UConn ... defending champs, Wichita State, Baylor and Duke ... yes, the Blue Devils!, all loom. One bonus for UK, they practically have a "home" game in rounds one-two as they are at Louisville. At Louisville, where they play every-other-year in a rare road game, against the Cardinals. Love to see a UK-Duke regional finale in Atlanta but the Blue Devils just don't have the inside game to compete with the likes of a UK.

The Michigan State Spartans are the #1-seed in the West Region as Coach Izzo's squad is either (seemingly) a top-seed every year or in the Final Four! Great coach. State will have to get by programs like Louisville or (Curly) Davidson or potentially Marquette or maybe Missouri to advance. Could be an exciting opener in this region as Memphis and St. Louis collide. Maybe Murray State ... the Racers and Marquette in the second round plus Missouri-Florida. Michigan State is obviously favored to win this region but not going to be surprised to see Marquette emerge. Nick Obuhanich says ... Murray State! That would be something, Murray State wins and beats UK in the battle for Kentucky.

In the East Region the Syracuse Orange are at the top to start despite not winning the Big East tournament. Actually, only Michigan State won their own conference post season outing, of #1-seeds. The Orange will quite possibly have their hands full with Vanderbilt. Vandy who upended UK in the SEC championship contest. With Fischer-Fischer in attendance, Brian and Robin. The Bonnies are in this region but can't see them getting by FSU. Ohio State also looms as the second-seed. Too many top programs for SU to overcome? Great comeback for the St. Bonaventure program after years of mediocrity.

The Midwest is North Carolina (if healthy) ... period. How about a Kansas-North Carolina regional finale? Coach Williams old program versus Coach Williams current program. "Obviously" the selection committee didn't do this on purpose. The Vermont Catamounts are here but if they survive a play-in game against Lamar, with Coach Knight at the helm, they run into North Carolina next. UVM soccer player, Jess Herbst told me "Vermont is really good." Doubt she even went to a game! A tough St. Mary's squad could stop the KU-NC reunion. Lots of equal teams in this bracket.

Elite Eight: UK (but UConn might surprise), Duke (with my heart), Michigan State, Missouri, Vandy, Florida State, North Carolina, Kansas.

Final Four: Kentucky, Missouri, Florida State, North Carolina. Championship: the Tar Heels of NC over the Wildcats of UK. HITS AND MISSES:

The often overlooked NCAA Division I women's b-ball tourney will also start within the week. Originally took UConn in this but don't see them beating Baylor. Taking Baylor over UConn in the title game.

The Bona women lost in the A10 tournament championship game to Dayton and now will need an at-large bid to play in the NCAA's. Bona (29-3) should receive that berth after winning the regular season A10 and being ranked.

Tom Parrotta was canned as the men's basketball coach at Canisius College after a dismal (64-121) stint at the helm of the Golden Griffins. "Obviously" former coach, Mike McDonald needed to be let go to bring in Parrotta. McDonald who is doing a great job at Medialle College, also in Buffalo.

Former Bona player and Bona head men's basketball coach, Jim Baron was fired from his position as head coach of the men's hoop program at Rhode Island. Was quite surprised to see that although I have no idea what the Rams slate was this year.

Raegan Ryan and her Cedarville University women's basketball teammates are off to the NCCAA Championships after beating Grace in the Midwest Region. Cedarville will play Roberts Wesleyan (Spencerport) in game one. Ryan had 16-points in the win over Grace and hauled in 6-boards!

Skip Sherman's (A-A) baseball team at Genesee CC is in Florida this week after dropping their opener against Potomac, 16-

Joe Q. French's (ASC) softball squad at UMBC is now 7-10 on the year after the UMBC Dawg Pound Invitational.

Tim Mead's (Andover) baseball team at Walsh in Ohio is (6-

Seniors set records in nine of eleven events

Swim careers come to a close

ALMOND--The Alfred-Almond winter sports awards, held Thursday evening, marked the close of the outstanding high school swimming careers of several A-A seniors. In a brief ceremony prior to the awards, members of the varsity swim team gathered to update the school's record board.

While seniors Nik von Stackelberg, Taylor Godshalk, Patrick Greaney, and Kevin Cook will no longer swim competitively in the A-A pool, their names are on the record board for those who follow to aspire to. Between them-along with junior Maddie McConnell-they set records in nine of a possible eleven events.

Just six days before the sports awards, von Stackelberg led a group of four area swimmers at the New York State swimming and diving championships in Buffalo. He was the only local swimmer to advance to the championship final round, placing 13th overall among New York state public high school athletes (NYSPHSAA) in the 500 yard freestyle event with a time of 4:48.14.

Von Stackelberg was also awarded the Section V Sportsmanship award. He was selected for the award by coaches and officials from across Section V.

In addition, von Stackelberg qualified to swim the 100 yard backstroke, but didn't make the cut to compete in the finals. It was his second trip to state-wide competition. In 2011 he finished 16th among NYSPHAA swimmers in the 500 yard freestyle.

Greaney was A-A's second swimmer at states. He qualified to compete in the 100 yard breaststroke, placing 44th with a time of 1:04.76 in the preliminary heats.

Dansville senior Isaiah Hale also qualified in the 100 yard breaststroke, finishing 29th with a time of 1:01.18. Cuba-Rushford/Genesee Valley junior Brian Edmister qualified in the 100 yard freestyle, finishing 36th in the preliminary round with a time of 50.46.

At the A-A sports awards, von Stackelberg-a team captain for the past two years-and Greaney shared the MVP award, while Godshalk was presented with the sportsmanship award.

The MVP award capped a season in which von Stackelberg was named 2012 Swimmer of the Meet at the Section V Class D championships, Steuben County Athletic Association championships, and Avon Invitational Meet. He was also named 2012 Swimmer of the Year for Steuben County.

During the 2011-2012, season von Stackelberg set the Section

V Class D record in the 500 yard freestyle, breaking his own record from sectionals the year before. He was also a member of the A-A relay team that set the Section V Class D record in the 200 yard medley relay in sectional competition in both 2011 and 2012.

Over the past three seasons, he set 12 individual and six relay records at schools throughout Section V.

9) after their Florida jaunt and has a couple fo games this weekend at Findlay.

Bruce Weber ... a "Jay Murphy look-alike" was canned at Illinois as the head men's b-ball coach.

Yes, Brian and Robin (Lorow) Fischer were at the SEC tournament in New Orleans this past weekend. "Sadly" UK lost in finals.

Vernon VanSkiver was in Las Vegas playing baseball last weekend in the MSBL Senior tournament. A former softball teammate.

Jake Taft and "Chicago Tab" were warming up on the links Sunday past at Lansbrook in St. Pete's.

Holly Seidewand (Webster/AU) has landed a sales position with the NBA Phoenix Suns.

Brockport will be joining the E8 in football starting in 2014. Good move for them and the conference!

It'll be the Empire State Yankees in "AAA" baseball this summer as the S/W-B club plays all games on the road.

The Washington Redskins ... wow. They better hope Baylor QB Robert Griffin III is the real deal after that trade.

Peyton Manning ... the Arizona Cardinals make the most sense. Former NY Giant great Alex Webster passed away recently. Had pleasure of meeting him once at his Sports Bar/Restaurant in Florida.

Former NY Yanks #1 draft choice, pitcher Brien Taylor ... still as clever as ever after arrest on drug charges.

Great cookout last Wednesday at the Beale residence in Penfield. Randy's birthday with ex-SUNY Geneseo soccer player/daughter Melissa on hand as well.

Tiger Woods withdraws from final round of WGC at Doral ...

Finally this week it is off to Florida on Sunday for a (richly deserved) vacation with the Sumo Tour South golf outing on tap for week one. Will be a "slimmed down" tour this year ... McDrip and Scummer can't make it, but am hooking up with the likes of Obie, Waffle, probably Syracuse Dave plus our co-hosts, Our Man Frank and Jake Taft. Hopefully will get to see Jamie Bennett as well. This event started out as the Alex Bay Open on the Sumo Tour and has moved south now for a number of years. A cast of characters made their way to A-Bay: Halfhead, Jim Norton, Smitty ... "I ain't no slave to fashion," plus Savo ... Smitty's golf partner, Waffle, Obie, Kingman, Vincent Waslewski, Drip, Bakes, Gerv, Hilly, Leek, Phillie, Wop, Simbo, Scum, Fee, Ivan, Jake, Tina! and of course, Stubb and yours truly. Cutter never made it ... mowing the lawn. Hopefully I didn't forget anyone. Besides playing golf, watching NCAA's, looking to take in Bay Hill Classic next week and a Yanks-Phillies spring training game in Clearwater. Week two ... off to Leesburg. Some golf in league Big Dale used to run or one day with guys from league, trip to Orlando to see "Milko," another to see Big D-Janis at The Villages and various other things with my mom and Don.

Go Bonnies!

Go Duke (need lots of help this year)!!
