

Peter, Paul and Mary Are IFC Stars

Annual Ball, Folksingers Will Highlight Weekend

The six A.U. fraternities will hold their annual IFC Weekend next Friday and Saturday, Dec. 7 and 8.

Highlight of the Weekend will be the appearance of Peter, Paul, and Mary which "follows the precedent set last year for the finest in up to date, top level entertainment for this special weekend, contributing greatly to what we hope will be the best IFC Weekend yet," according to Otto Eleuteri, IFC publicity director.

This new folk singing group will appear at 2 p.m., Saturday afternoon in Alumni Hall.

Ken Renick and his dance band, featuring soloist Nancy Moore, will play at the Ball, Saturday night in the Men's Gym.

Highlighting the Ball will be the crowning of the IFC Queen, who will be selected from the seven candidates chosen earlier by the Interfraternity Council. (See pages 2, 3).

Sigma Chi Nu will be represented by queen candidates Gail Gregory, Tickie Kelly, and Jan Zittel. Nominees Ellen Meyer and Lucy Weichert are sisters of Theta Theta Chi. The other two candidates are freshmen Carrie Bennett and Sandra McKearin.

The jeweled crown will be placed on the queen at midnight by John Sprung, president of IFC.

The fraternities will have parties on both Friday and Saturday nights. This will be the first big weekend for the newly tapped fraternity pledges.

The Friday night parties will follow the Alfred St. Lawrence basketball game in the Men's Gym. Saturday there will be cocktail parties and buffet dinners following the concert and parties after the Ball.

Fraternity Pyramid

Peter, Paul and Mary

Peter, Paul, and Mary, one of the hottest folk-singing groups around, will highlight the Interfraternity Weekend with a Saturday (Dec. 8) afternoon concert in Alumni Hall from 2 to 4 p.m.

The trio recently turned out a smash hit recording of "The Hammer Song," an old, traditional folksong that was a standard in the Limeliter's repertoire. They have also made successful recordings of "The Lemon Tree" and "Five Hundred Miles," and their Warner Bros. long playing album, "Peter, Paul and Mary," is on the best seller lists.

Peter, Paul, and Mary is composed Cornell graduate Peter Yarrow, nearly six feet tall Mary Allin Travers, and one-time Greenwich Village comic Paul Stookey. Together, they have appeared at the Blue Angel, the hungry "I", the Gate of Horn, and other night clubs throughout the nation. They have also made appearances on the "Today Show" and "P.M. East."

Initial Repertoire

Their initial repertoire of 18 numbers was worked up over a period of seven months. They were arranged by Milton Okun, who formerly worked with Harry Belafonte.

Peter, Paul, and Mary have been described as "a tall, silly blonde who believes in looking as good as she sounds, and two young men who know how to wear Brooks Brothers suits with their beards and guitars."

"We are a cosmopolitan group," says the group's Peter Yarrow. "It would be dishonest for us to imitate the folk singing style of any particular ethnic group. But our urban background is an asset. We can present in a modern musical form the feelings of many ethnic groups, and do it with integrity."

Unmarried

Mary Travers was born in Louisville, Kentucky, and Paul Stookey grew up in Birmingham, Michigan, before they converged on Peter's native New York City. They are all unmarried, and in their early twenties.

They are billed as having achieved "a rare artistic empathy that results from their knowing themselves, knowing their music, and releasing the natural qualities of both, uninhibited by gimmicks. Whether the song requires the big, driving rhythm of a spiritual or a structure as complex as a Bach fugue, one ringing voice, or the coloration of a choir, they have found the resources for it without artificiality or strain."

Ken Renick Band to Provide Music

Ball Set for 9-12 Sat.

Ken Renick and his orchestra will provide dance music for the IFC Ball in the Men's Gym Saturday night. Featured vocalist will be Nancy Moore.

Prior to organizing his own orchestra, Ken Renick was featured tenor saxophonist with many name bands, including Sammy Kaye, Dean Hudson, Johnny Long, Herbie Kay, and others.

Vocalist Nancy Moore comes from North Carolina. Before joining Ken Renick, she was featured with the Tommy Reynolds Orchestra. She also sang with the Les Brown Orchestra on the Duke University campus, where this band originated.

Nancy Moore and Ken Renick team up vocally for several boy and girl numbers, which they do in the Louis Prima - Keely Smith manner.
