

Sun in Florida

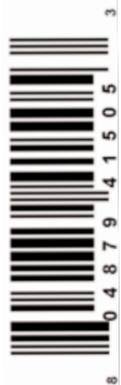

Ed and Sue Palmer of Avon Park, FL hosted Frank Snyder of Belmont for a visit back in March of this year. But a trip to the Sunshine State wouldn't be the same without taking along the Alfred Sun. Frank, who just turned 85 years old on Dec. 2, is credited with first spotting a typo that ended up being the 1997 New York Press Association Better Newspaper Contest Blooper of the Year.

Dr. Arun Varshneya wins Cooper Lecture Award

ALFRED—Add Dr. Arun Varshneya to the list of Alfred University researchers who were honored at a regional meeting of the American Ceramic Society (ACS) in Pittsburgh, PA. in October.

Dr. Varshneya, Professor of Glass Science & Engineering, Emeritus at Alfred University, was selected to receive the Al Cooper Distinguished Lecture Award.

As recipient of the award, Dr. Varshneya delivered the Cooper Distinguished Lecture at the conference, explaining that the two met when Cooper was taking a sabbatical year at Sheffield University (United Kingdom) where Varshneya was nearing the end of his undergraduate studies.

Cooper supervised Varshneya's senior thesis, and as the student's graduation date approached, Cooper said, "Arun, you should come to Cleveland [and be my graduate student]," to which Varshneya says he replied simply, "OK."

And so began a collaboration that lasted for the rest of Cooper's life. Varshneya says that working for Cooper was "absolutely a wonderful experience, like a symphony where every note was darn close to being perfect." He recounts that Cooper was one of the first to apply rigorous mathematical modeling to glass science, and even won NSF funding "to increase the mathematical competence of PhD students."

Varshneya's hour-long lecture included many personal stories from his long friendship with Cooper, as well as some amusing anecdotes relating to his student experiences. He describes the arc of his own career—earning his MS and PhD from the (then) Case Institute of Technology, becoming a researcher at Ford Scientific Research Labs in Dearborn, Mich., joining the faculty at Alfred University and, eventually, starting his own company, Saxon Glass Technologies.

Al Cooper was a kind-hearted soul and, by all accounts from those who know his work or worked with him, a brilliant glass scientist. While Varshneya is highly accomplished in his own right (as the technical part of this talk clearly shows), his admiration and respect for his advisor and mentor shine through, for example, at one point he refers to his own graduate students as Cooper's scientific grandchildren.

Varshneya contributed more than the lecture to further Cooper's legacy, though. At the end of the lecture, he and his wife announced a donation to the Cooper Session endowment to ensure the continuation of future Cooper Session lectures and awards.

Kent Farms donates tree

A-A recognizes Scholars of Month

Darling Starlings

Both photos are of the same flock of starlings. I LOVE the bubbly, boily look of them pecking along the ground, and when I got out of the car to take the photo (Rochester, NY, Thursday, December 6, 2012), they flew to the wire, giving another photo op I'd hoped for. I love the "teeth" on the wire, and the light through the wings of the airborne birds.

Apricots get overlooked for Christmas

I have always been a chocoholic, but when Christmas rolls around I lean more toward fruity cakes and cookies. I used to look forward to my grandmother's fruit cakes and always had my fill of them because no one else in the family liked them.

This is a lovely cookie and so delicious. You don't often think of apricots for the holiday season.

Norwegian Apricot Bars

1 c. dried apricots

Crust: ½ c. butter ¼ c. sugar 1 c. flour

Topping:

- | | |
|----------------------|--------------------------------|
| 2 eggs | 1 c. light brown sugar, packed |
| ½ c. flour | ¼ tsp. salt |
| ½ tsp. baking powder | ½ tsp. vanilla |
| ½ c. chopped pecans | 1/3-1/2 c. powdered sugar |

Preheat oven to 350 degrees. Rinse the apricots. Place in a saucepan and cover with water. Bring to a boil and cook for 10 minutes or until tender. Drain well. Cool and cut into small pieces. In a mixing bowl, combine the butter, sugar, and flour. Blend together until crumbly. Press into the bottom of a greased 9 inch square pan. Bake for 15 minutes. While crust is baking, prepare the topping.

Beat the eggs and add the brown sugar gradually. Add the flour, salt, baking powder and vanilla and mix well. Fold in the nuts and apricots. Remove the crust from the oven. Spread the topping over the crust. Return it to the oven and bake for approximately 30 minutes more. Cool, then cut in bars and sprinkle with powdered sugar.

Toward Community Chest goal of $37,210

Drive stalls at $34,173...will it fail?

Dear Community,

The Alfred-Alfred Station Community Chest drive has now reached 91.8% of the 2012 goal of $37,210 yet, we are still in need of $3,037 to reach the charity goal. So far we have received pledges of $34,173. Would you please consider us as one of your worthy 'gifts' this holiday season?

This week's spotlight is on the Literacy West NY organization. The purpose of this organization is to provide free basic educational services including reading, math, writing, English as a second language, and workplace skills to Allegany County residents. Literacy West accomplishes their goals by recruiting and supporting community volunteers who provide one-on-one tutoring to adults in need. The typical adult student may be unable to gather meaning based upon what he or she reads. In practical terms, this means that they are unable to fill out a job application, write checks, read newspapers or signs or maps. The economic and social opportunities for these adults are severely limited. Staff members and volunteers log thousands of tutoring hours per year.

These services are effective. A significant majority (nearly 70%) of active students increased their skills by at least one grade level; these skill level achievements enable the students to apply for employment where previously they would not be considered; and many of the learners obtain their GED or secondary school diploma after literacy training. The improved abilities and confidence achieved by adult learners makes a direct impact upon their families. Adults who embrace learning for life help end the cycle of poverty and build a strong foundation for themselves and their families.

Remember a portion of the funds you contribute to the Community Chest will go to help support Literacy West in Allegany County and this in turn will help citizens of Alfred and Alfred Station. So please consider giving to the Community Chest and its commitment to our community oriented charities. As you make a contribution to support our campaign, remember how the community is dependent on its citizens, and with your good fortune we are providing support to the community's many worthy organizations through your pledge.

Many thanks to those of you who have already made a contribution to the campaign. We ask those of you who have not yet made a donation or pledge to join your friends and neighbors in making our drive a success. If, for some reason, you did not receive a pledge card, donations may be left at the Alfred Pharmacy in Alfred, the Canacadea Country Store in Alfred Station, or may be mailed to Alfred-Alfred Station Community Chest, Box 603, Alfred, NY, 14802. We look forward to your continuing support.

Sincerely,

Your Community Chest Board

COUNTY FACILITIES UPDATE

The December 5th regular monthly meeting of the Facilities and Communications Committee spent almost the entire session addressing various "space" or "facilities" issues facing the County. This article will review the issues and discussion from that committee meeting. This is important for several reasons. It lets residents and taxpayers know some of the space challenges facing the County. It also demonstrates how our Committee works through these challenges.

One issue involves proposed changes to the elevator that formerly provided access to the third (former Jail) floor of the County Office Building ("COB"). Because there is no handicapped access to that floor we are prohibited from using approximately 16,000 square feet of high quality space. If the existing elevator shaft and car can be modified to provide public access to that space it would become fully usable. It would also provide a second handicap access to all floors in the COB. Currently this elevator opens only on the ground floor and third floor. It needs to have doors that also open on the first and second floors. Those doors should be located so that access would be limited to individuals who have been through the security screening. They should be placed to minimize disruption to existing offices and personnel. DPW Superintendent Guy James and Deputy Superintendent Dean Scholes presented a proposal that would satisfy most of these criteria. The new elevator car will have doors on either end (like in many hospitals) and will open onto existing hallways and corridors. The Committee approved the general concept and approved use of available contingency funds to cover the expenses. The proposal now goes to the Ways and Means Committee and full Board of Legislators.

Another issue involved the need for another records storage building. State and federal laws mandate that the County maintain many records for long durations. Some records must be retained permanently (forever), while other records must be kept for 7, 10 or 20 years. We recently completed construction of one storage building, but learned that it will soon be filled to capacity. That doesn't mean that we need one new building each year. It means that we haven't built new storage facilities for many years. The Court system generates many of the records that must be stored permanently. We discussed the possibility of using excess bond funds from the Courthouse Project to pay for a storage facility that would store only court records. The Committee ultimately directed our DPW officials to gather additional information and report back to us. We need to know how much record storage space is needed "per year," where we could place such a facility, and the most cost effective way to design and build such a facility. The Committee will reconsider this when that information is available.

The Committee also considered a proposal to renovate the Probation Department offices located in the basement of the Courthouse building. This area was not included in the renovation work done over the past several years. We learned that asbestos is present in that area and that any work that would disturb the asbestos would require expensive abatement procedures. The projected asbestos abatement cost was $110,000, plus inspection services. The Committee considered several alternatives that would allow the asbestos to remain undisturbed, while still permitting the needed improvements to be constructed. We directed DPW to research the cheaper alternatives and report back to the Committee.

The Committee also considered a proposal for an efficiency study for the Department of Social Services ("DSS"). This is one of our largest departments, and its programs comprise a large percentage of our total County Budget. Increased efficiency and productivity in this Department could save millions, and could justify some expenditure on facilities. The Committee directed DSS officials to review earlier plans and proposals, and to obtain copies of a State Study Report on DSS efficiency. We need this information before any decision is made. Our work continues.

Things you probably never knew about J.R.R. Tolkien

By TIM BENNETT

Special to the Alfred Sun

If you are like I was before I studied the life of John Ronald Reuel Tolkien you probably know the basics about his life: he is the author of The Hobbit and The Lord of the Rings; he was an English professor; and he was a member of the writers' group, 'The Inklings,' with C.S. Lewis and others, who liked to meet in pubs, drink warm beer, and read their works in progress.

Fewer people know of the dramatic events of his life, which fed his imagination for his fiction; the details of how his first book came to be published, and his personal faith in God.

For example, did you know that Tolkien was born in Bloemfontein, South Africa and was actually bitten by a tarantula there as an infant? This incident could very well have aborted the destiny of the genius of Middle Earth, if it wasn't for a quick-witted house nurse who boldly ran to him and sucked out the poison. This experience no doubt inspired the scene in The Lord of the Rings where Frodo naively follows Gollum into the cave, only to be shrink-wrapped for an afternoon snack by a giant spider, and later rescued by Sam, his faithful friend.

How about his inspiration for the shire and the mischievous hobbits? After Tolkien, or Ronald as he was called, moved back to England with his mom and younger brother, Hilary, (his English father died in South Africa with rheumatic fever) she decided to live in a cottage just south of Birmingham. The authorized Tolkien biographer, Humphrey Carpenter, wrote this about this time period in Tolkien's life: "The effect of this move on Ronald was deep and permanent. Just at the age with his imagination was opening out, he found himself in English

For Tolkien, this time of unfettered adventures in a rural setting with Hilary, gave him a love for nature that would last a lifetime. Believe it or not, he and Hilary also got into trouble with a farmer--they nicknamed him 'The Black Ogre' because he had chased them after they stole his mushrooms--reminiscent of the hobbits running for their lives after absconding with purloined goods in The Lord of the Rings. His love for trees and languages came from his mom who taught him botany as well as the rudiments of Latin and French at home. It's no wonder that the trees and languages are so important to him in that epic story.

Though romance is not a strong theme in his works, it is there nonetheless. The love between the future king Aragorn and Arwen, the elven beauty, is a prime example. Tolkien, too, had a strong and passionate love story of his own. The circumstances, however, leading up to it are tragic.

After already losing his English father at a young age, Ronald also lost his mother when she sank into a diabetic coma, before the discovery of insulin, and never recovered. Thus, at 12 and 10 years old, he and Hilary became orphans. Fortunately, after the death of her husband, his mother found a personal faith in God and had a good relationship with the local Catholic priest, Father Francis Morgan, who had agreed to become their legal guardian.

Taking his charge seriously, he met with the boys often and made sure they had proper care and schooling. At first, Father Morgan found an aunt for them to stay with but eventually decided to put them in a boarding house when Ronald was 16. It was here that he met another orphan, 19-year-old Edith Bratt, who was also a boarder. Edith, of course, was thrilled to have children closer to her age as housemates, and even became co-conspirators with them to get more food when they complained about their daily portions.

A year later, Ronald and Edith were infatuated with each other--so much so that Father Morgan felt compelled to find the boys a new home. In fact, after learning of a clandestine meeting after his interdiction to see each other, he gave Ronald an ultimatum: Either you stop seeing and writing this girl until you are 21, or you lose my support for your education. Tolkien was heartbroken but he did not want to further disappoint Father Morgan, nor lose his generous support, so he agreed to the terms.

At 12:02 a.m., January 3, 1913, however, the day after he turned 21, Tolkien wrote Edith a letter declaring his undying love for her and ended with a question: "How long will it be before we can be joined together before God and the world?" At first, Edith did not know how to respond, and dropped a bombshell--she was engaged to someone else. She confessed to him that she had doubted his intentions after four years, and had simply said yes to a man because he had been kind to her. Tolkien found this unacceptable and took a train out to see her. By the end of that first day, Edith was convinced of his love and broke her previous engagement. They were officially 'betrothed' in the Catholic Church in 1914.

Later, after Tolkien chose the career path of an English professor, he did something impulsive one day that eventually inspired him to create the literary classics for which he is known. Working a side job as a test examiner for the university system, he just picked up an answer book from a student, saw a blank page, and spontaneously wrote: "In a hole in the ground there lived a hobbit." When he got home he embellished on it and told it as a bedtime story to his children. By the early 1930s he had finished a draft of the book. Despite encouragement from C.S. Lewis and his friends from the Inklings to submit it to a publishing company, he refused.

Finally, a young woman who knew someone at a small, but respectable publishing house called Allen & Unwin, convinced him to let her show it to the editors. When the chairman of the company, Sir Stanley Unwin, read it he was perplexed because it was obviously a children's story, and he was no longer a child. He decided to reserve judgment until his ten-year-old son, Raynor, read it and gave his opinion. The last two sentences of Raynor's review summed up his thoughts: "This book, with the help of maps, does not need illustrations. It is good and should appeal to all children between the ages of five and nine."

And he was right, but children were not the only ones who enjoyed the book. The Hobbit was published in 1937 and in 1938 won the New York Tribune prize as Best Juvenile Book of the Year. Soon it was on the required reading list for school children across the United States. Tolkien lived to see one million copies of The Hobbit sold in the U.S. alone. His trilogy would sell four times that during his lifetime, and both books still sell today.

As you read about Tolkien's life: his rescue from death as a child, the compassion of a priest who cared for him after his parents died, his subsequent placing in a boarding house where he would meet his life-long companion, his godly influence on C.S. Lewis (Lewis himself claimed after talking with Tolkien he felt convinced to become a Christian), his sterling reputation as a college professor, and the keen insight of a ten-year-old boy who persuaded his father to publish Tolkien's first book, it is hard not to see the God's sovereign hand of blessing on his life.

Like another celebrated writer in the Bible named David, Tolkien was taken from a humble task of shepherding (students in his case) and was eventually exalted to high public acclaim and popularity that lives on today. A Bible verse that Tolkien could well have attested to comes from 1 Peter 5:6: "Humble yourselves, therefore, under God's mighty hand, that he may lift you up in due time" (1 Peter 5:6). Tolkien was in his sixties when The Lord of the Rings was finally published and became a literary phenomenon. Both books have now sold over 100 million copies!

"The Hobbit: An Unexpected Journey" opens in theatres this week. The show opens at Grand Theatre in Wellsville with a special screening at 12 midnight tonight (Thursday, Dec. 13.)

NOTES from the BOX OF BOOKS

By ELIZA ORDWAY
Box of Books Library Director

Library Winter Hours: Please make note that our hours have been modified! Mondays 10-6, Tuesday 12-8, Wednesday 10-6, Thursday 12-6, Friday 10-5, Saturday 10-2, Sunday Closed.

With the ePLACE grant funding coming to a halt at the end of December that means that the Box of Books will be editing our service hours and our services offered. Sadly we were unable to find funding to keep the ePLACE services running at its current capacity into the New Year but we were able to create a position here at the Box of Books to allow Rima O'Connor to stay on as the Box of Books Technology Coordinator. Rima will be able to continue offering technology based trainings here at the Box of Books during specific hours of the week or by appointment. The Box of Books is excited that we are able to maintain this service to the public as we see it as a very important service to the community. There will be a celebration for the ePLACE in January to allow us all to thank Amanda Burns and Rima O'Connor for their service here at the Box of Books. Details will be released closer to the event.

Coming events here at the Box of Books:
Saturday, Dec. 15 at 12 pm - As Seen on Pinterest; this month we will be making festive card wreaths to hold all those holiday cards you receive in the mail, and we will be making chocolate covered spoons to give as gifts, along with other chocolate covered items because some say everything is better with chocolate!
Thursday, Dec. 20 at 4:15-Wreath Making with the Bookworms; all ages are welcome to come make evergreen wreaths to decorate their houses for the holidays. Please register to help us with supplies.

One Time, One Meeting

The Practice of Zen Meditation

By BEN HOWARD

WISE ATTENTION

According to a recent report on the NBC Nightly News, American police have been running stop signs and causing serious accidents, so distracted have they become by the computers in their cars. To address the problem, the Fort Wayne, Indiana police department has installed devices that freeze the computer's keys whenever the patrol car's speed exceeds fifteen miles per hour.

This situation may be uniquely ironic, but the underlying problem is hardly peculiar to the police. On the contrary, in the age of the Internet and ubiquitous mobile devices, distraction has become endemic. With so many objects summoning our attention, where shall we direct it? On what objects should we place our minds?

In many situations, such as when operating a chainsaw, we have little choice but to attend to the task at hand. Our safety depends upon it. But in many others, we do have a choice, and should we elect to engage in meditation, Buddhist teachings offer a variety of objects on which we might place our minds. If you are already practicing meditation, you know that the most basic object is the breath—its comings and goings, its length and texture. But beyond that, the Teachings of the Elders, as they are called, prescribe four general objects (or “foundations”) of mindful awareness.

According to the Four Foundations of Mindfulness (Satipatthana Sutra), a fundamental text of the Theravada school, those objects are the body (its posture, movements, and parts); the feelings (pleasant, unpleasant, neutral); transitory mental states; and “objects of mind.” The last of these foundations includes such objects as the “Five Hindrances” (craving, aversion, sloth, agitation, and doubt), which impede meditation, and the “Seven Factors of Enlightenment,” which are to be cultivated through systematic attention. By contemplating the hindrances, we gradually diminish their power. And by placing our attention on the Factors of Enlightenment, which include concentration, tranquility, and equanimity, we purify our minds, freeing them of “mental afflictions.”

Zen Buddhism is a late flowering of the classical tradition, and though its teachings incorporate elements of Theravada practice, its prescribed objects of mindfulness are fewer in number and less introspective in character. Broadly speaking, the Zen practitioner is enjoined to focus on the breath, whether by counting out-breaths (susokkan) or “following” the breath (zuisokukan); on koans such as “What is this?” or “What is the sound of one hand?”; and on one's sitting presence itself (shikantaza). By so doing, the Zen disciple endeavors to cut through conceptual thought with the “sword of attention,” to extinguish the ego's promiscuous delusions, and to abide continuously in the present moment—the “only moment,” as Zen master Thich Nhat Hanh often puts it, “where life is available to us.”

All of Zen's traditional objects are worthy of attention, but lest the practice become narrow and rigid, it is important to remain open to other possibilities. The Vipassana teacher Jack Kornfield, who speaks of meditation as an art, warns against fixating on any one object or method of paying attention. Instead he advocates a flexible approach, in which the practitioner's “wise attention” becomes a “zoom lens,” opening from a concentrated close-up to the middle distance to a panoramic view, depending on present conditions. Practicing “close-up” attention, we focus intently on a sensation, feeling, or thought, eventually becoming absorbed in the object of attention. Practicing in the middle distance, we witness whatever is occurring, be it a mental event or an occurrence in our immediate surroundings. And practicing panoramic attention, we open the mind's lens to its widest angle, allowing our awareness to become “like space or the sky.” In this unconditioned awareness, thoughts, images, feelings, and sounds come and go, as though they were clouds in the sky. And as a final step, we can focus on awareness itself, observing its “clear, transparent, [and] timeless” nature. Like open space itself, unconditioned awareness accommodates all things, without being limited by any one of them.

Jack Kornfield also recommends the practice of listening to the “sounds of the universe,” which is to say, the sounds in our immediate environment. This practice, Kornfield notes, “brings the mind to a naturally balanced state of openness and attention.” In similar fashion, the Theravada teacher Ajahn Amaro encourages us to meditate on the “inner sound,” or the “sound of silence.” In this esoteric practice, known as nada yoga, we listen first to the sounds around us, whatever they may be. Within that body of ambient sound, we may detect a “continuous, high-pitched inner sound.” By concentrating on this “nada” sound, we cultivate stability of mind, even as we heighten our awareness of the insubstantiality of thoughts, feelings, and states of mind. And if we persist in the practice, Amaro observes, we may come to realize the “orderly perfection in which the world is balanced within the heart of vibrant silence.”

To place the mind on the “nada” sound, or indeed upon any of the traditional objects of Buddhist meditation, is a far cry from placing it on the latest garish pop-up on our computer screens. Yet in this instance the issue of “high” versus “low,” or “wholesome” versus “unwholesome” objects of attention, is somewhat beside the point. For those of us who spend hours online, claims on our attention are countless and more or less continuous. Given such conditions, it behooves us to remember that where the disposition of attention is concerned, we have a choice, and that our power to choose can be strengthened by daily practice. Moment by moment, it might be said, we are creating the reality we inhabit. And to an extent that may surprise us, that reality is determined by where and how we have placed our minds.

Ben Howard is Emeritus Professor of English at Alfred University and leader of the Falling Leaf Sangha (www.fallingleavesangha), a Zen practice group in Alfred. To learn more about the practice of Zen, visit www.practiceofzen.com.

Alfred Lions Club holds second Lions Story Time

By BRAD BOWDEN
Alfred Lions Club

ALFRED—The Alfred Lions Club's second Library Lions Story Time at the Box of Books Library on Saturday, Dec. 8 coincided with the Library's 'Parents Day Off' program and provided stories and holiday themed crafts for eleven youngsters.

Lion Kathy Benzaquin read Pete the Cat Saves Christmas and a second story that described the lights of Hanukkah and Christmas. The children were quite involved in answering and asking questions about the stories and telling their own stories as well!

Afterwards, the children circulated through three craft tables to make holiday wreaths from paper plates and colored ribbons, snowmen from cotton balls and black paper, and fruit-loop necklaces which, in some instances, also served as an early lunch!

The children were assisted at the craft stations by Alfred-Almond Central School students Allie Henry and Marah Watson and Alfred University students Caroline Casey, Alex Mauss and Tom Stephan.

The Alfred Lions Club thanks the Box of Books staff for facilitating the Library Lions Story Time programs. The next program will be in January. Watch for details in emails to Friends of the Library, the weekly Notes from the Box of Books in the ALFRED SUN and on the event board at the Library.

Dr. Kirk Heriot 'wrote the book' on practical surgical pathology

WELLSVILLE--Kirk Heriot, MD, PhD, chief of pathology at Jones Memorial Hospital, recently published his third book, Practical Surgical Pathology: Integrating Molecular Pathology into Your Morphologic Practice.

A textbook for practicing pathologists and residents, the book began as Dr. Heriot's personal notes. "Whenever I attend a lecture or read a book or an article I take notes and keep them in one place for future reference," he explained. "After ten years, my notes became pretty voluminous and not much more work was needed to put it in book form."

Copies of his book may be ordered from the American Society for Clinical Pathology (ASCP) web site, ASCP.org. It will also be available through Amazon.com in January.

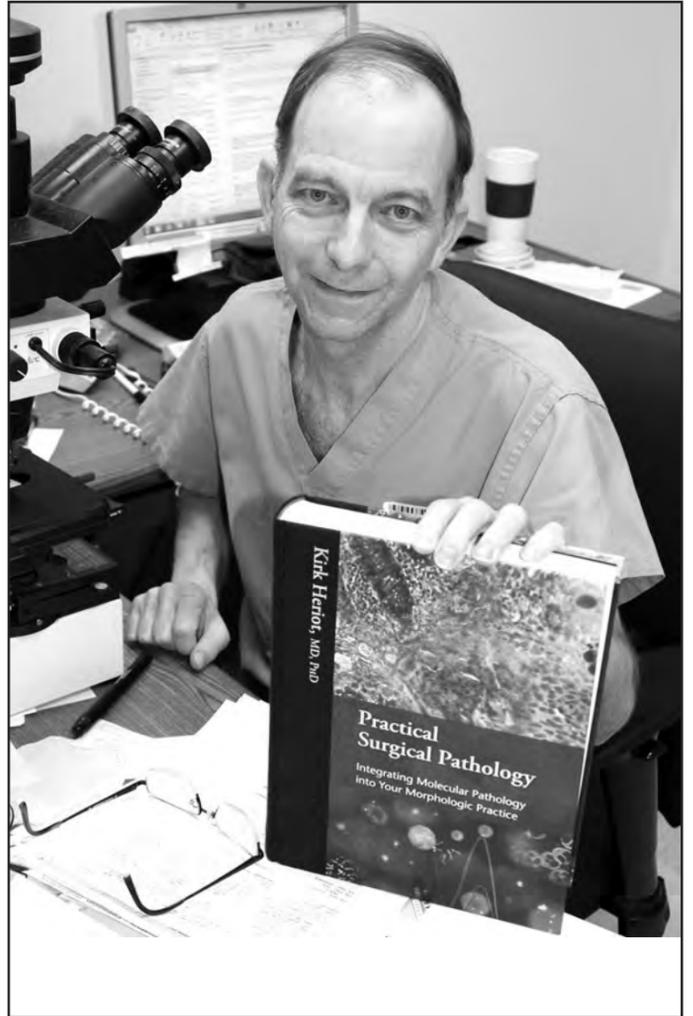

Dr. Heriot is a graduate of Case Western Reserve University School of Medicine in Cleveland, Ohio.

"I graduated from a combined MD/PhD program which was created to train people for careers in academic medicine at universities," he explained, adding that he decided not to get into the political world of academia.

Dr. Heriot is also on the staff at Thompson Health in Canandaigua.

Dr. Heriot has written two previous books. The first, Who We Are: A Chronicle of the Ideas that Shaped Our World traces the development of civilization, chronicling the emergence of the world's great religions, the most important scientific discoveries, and the flowering of the arts.

His second book, Understanding Each Other After 9-11: What Everyone Should Know About the Religions of the World, is a look at the world's array of faiths and how a lack of mutual understanding leads to conflict in the dialog between peoples and nations. Both are available at CypressHouse.com and Amazon.com.

Congressman Tom Reed to hold town meetings

CORNING--Congressman Tom Reed will hold four town hall meetings this Saturday, December 15th in Ontario, Schuyler, Steuben and Yates counties. "I hope people can join the conversation and share their thoughts and ideas on what our priorities should be," Reed said. "Input from all around our district is essential to good representation - everyone benefits from these open, face-to-face conversations."

In August, Reed held his promised 75th public town hall meeting in the 29th Congressional District. Reed continues to offer residents opportunities to voice their opinions at public town hall meetings and tele-town halls.

Town halls will be held Saturday as follows:
8:00-9:00AM--Corning Town Hall, 20 South Maple Street, Corning
10:30-11:30AM--Watkins Glen Village Hall, 303 North Franklin Street, Watkins Glen
1:15-2:15PM--Penn Yan Village Hall, 111 Elm Street, Penn Yan
3:30-4:30PM--Phelps Community Center, 8 Banta Street, Phelps

"While we receive hundreds of letters, emails and phone calls each day, the town hall meetings are a major part of the job," Reed continued. "I am always ready to listen and welcome the conversation - the topics are up to residents."

Those unable to attend the town halls are encouraged to share their thoughts with Reed through his website (www.Reed.house.gov) or on Facebook at www.Facebook.com/RepTomReed. Individuals can also sign up for regular updates through Reed's website (www.Reed.house.gov/contact-me/newsletter). Those in need of help with an issue regarding a federal agency can contact one of Reed's offices: Washington (202-225-3161); Corning (607-654-7566); Olean (716-379-8434) or Pittsford (585-218-0040).

Amherst, NY/Bishop Timon-St. Jude) was a Second Team pick.

First Team All-Region picks are considered by D3Football.com for All-American selections. Raplee was an East Region First Team All-Star in 2010 and 2011 and went on to earn All-American honorable mention honors each time. D3football.com is scheduled to announce its All-American teams on Dec. 14.

The 2012 Empire 8 Conference Defensive Player of the Year, Raplee anchored a Saxon defense that allowed only 118.8 yards rushing per game. He had a team-leading 72 tackles (20 ½ for loss) with 11 ½ sacks and two forced fumbles. In an Oct. 6 Homecoming win over Ithaca he tallied eight tackles, including 4 ½ sacks.

Raplee completed his AU career as a four-time Empire 8 all-star: he was an honorable mention selection as a freshman and was named to the First Team each of the last three years.

Jackson had 57 tackles (three for loss) to go with a team-leading six interceptions. He also rushed 14 times for 147 yards and two TDs. He is a two-time Empire 8 all-star, earning First Team honors this season and Second Team honors in 2011.

The Saxons finished the 2012 season with a 6-4 record (5-2 Empire 8), ending the campaign with a loss at Springfield in the ECAC Northeast Bowl.

During the season, Coach Dave Murray reached the centennial mark for coaching wins at Alfred University. His Saxons rallied from a 7-0 halftime deficit to defeat Hartwick, 30-13 in Oneonta Nov. 10. Murray is second in coaching wins at AU, behind the legendary Coach Alex Yunevich (177-85-12).

FIFTY YEARS AGO, DECEMBER 13, 1962

Storm Writes -30- to Indian Summer—When the weatherman finished peppering Alfred with snow, he began dropping the temperature until a low of zero degrees was reached Tuesday night, according to the U.S. Weather Bureau station maintained by Wesley Parish. Beginning last Thursday night, when a wet, driving snow began falling, the snow continued through Monday, dumping a total of 17 inches in Alfred, considerably less than some other snow belt areas in the state, but enough to cause power line and telephone interruptions in some areas and effect cancellation of some sports and school closings. Alfred-Almond Central School did not hold classes Friday, Dec. 7 because of hazardous driving conditions. The Alfred Tech basketball team, scheduled to drive to Morrisville Tech, between Syracuse and Utica, canceled the trip because of road conditions but did make a Saturday journey to Auburn College... Thursday's storm dumped icy, wet snow on Alfred's streets which made it difficult for village and town road crews to get down to the pavement...

A former Alfred resident, who grew up in this village and then left to become a lumber dealer at Appleton, Wis., and Spokane, Wash., has bequeathed money to the village for an annual music festival. Waldo E. Rosebush, a native of Alfred, and a boyhood chum of Alfred's mayor, John W. Jacox, left the sum of $8,492.70 in share accounts at the Alfred Mutual Savings and Loan Association, to the village. The will stipulates that the interest from the investment should be paid to the village for the purpose of holding an annual music festival each year... Village board members feel that the funds might be used to continue and perhaps expand the current village summer weekly band concerts. The will also has a provision in it that if the funds are not used by the village, that the interest should be paid to the Alfred University music department for the same purpose, a music festival...

'The Bistro' offers Fundraiser Friday

BELMONT--Each time Rita Geoppner is asked to make a donation for a fundraising event (which is frequently), her wish is that she could be more generous. But one can only give away so much before it becomes financially unwise. So, she came up with Fundraiser Friday.

Each Friday, Rita will donate back 20% of the day's lunch proceeds to a not-for-profit organization that submits a request. Those requesting a "Fundraiser Friday" must have a 501-c3 status and provide proof of eligibility.

The organization is responsible for promoting the event. The 20% based on sales is limited to that day's walk-in lunch business and excludes any private bookings such as meetings, banquets or parties.

Located at 40 Schuyler St., Belmont, contact Rita Geoppner @ 585-268-8057 to reserve your organization's "Fundraiser Friday".

THE GLORY OF AMERICA

Thursday, December 13

A young Union sergeant, whose leg had been shattered on this day at the Battle of Fredericksburg in 1862, had fallen while carrying his country's flag. Refusing to relinquish the banner, he had clung to it through the amputation of his leg. Now he lay dying, still wrapped in the Stars and Stripes. Those attending him saw his lips move and stooped to hear his last words:

"Come on, boys! our country and our flag for ever!"

They asked him, "Is the Saviour with you?"

He whispered, "Do you think He would pass by and not take me? I go, I go."

Tips for selecting the perfect Christmas Tree

By COLLEEN CAVAGNA
Cornell Cooperative Extension
Community Educator

We are in the Christmas season and a great holiday tradition is picking out the best tree for your home. Let me give you some tips on what to look for when either buying from a retail lot or going to a cut-your-own tree farm.

Both Retail and Cut-Your-Own Tips: Whether you are buying from a retail lot or cutting your own tree, there are a few things you should do before getting everyone into the car.

1. Measure the ceiling height of your room in which the tree will be displayed. Remember, when you are outside the tree will look small against the sky as a backdrop. Don't buy a 12' tree for an 8' room unless you plan on trimming it; use the pruned branches as decorations (garland or wreaths).

2. It isn't just the height of the room you need to measure but also the width where the tree will be displayed. Most trees are trimmed at an 80% taper which means a 10' tall tree will be 8' wide at the base. You don't want people to have to brush by the tree, knocking off ornaments or tinsel.

3. What decorating theme are you using? What style of tree do you like? Some species have more open foliage, stiffer branches or longer needles.

- White pines have a beautiful form, however they don't hold up heavy ornaments well. They are used in garland and wreaths due to their long needles.

- Fraser fir has a nice triangular shape, holds its needles well and has a pleasing aroma.

- Douglas fir is a very popular tree with very full branches.

- The Noble fir has stiff branches, good for heavy ornaments, garland or decorations.

- Concolor fir branches look less sharp than other firs and hold its needles well.

- Most Spruces have poor needle retention; however the Blue Spruce has good needle retention and that blue-green color some adore.

Retail Lot Tips:

1. If you are selecting a tree at night, make sure the lot is well-lit.

2. Ask how fresh the trees are; were they all delivered once at the beginning of the season or does the retailer get fresh cut trees each week. Fresher cut trees will last longer.

3. Test the fir trees by taking a needle and sharply bending it, it should snap crisply like a fresh carrot. Pine however has a different indicator because they are more fibrous than firs. A pine needle should NOT break; unless they are overly dry. Avoid these!

4. If you are strong enough, do the stump test, grab the center trunk and lift the tree a few inches and allow it to thump on the ground. If a large amount of needles fall off, the tree is either older than you want or dried out, pass that one by. If you aren't strong enough to lift the tree for a stump test, place your hand at the base of a branch (where it meets the trunk) and slowly pull your hand up the branch and see how many needles fall off. Also, make sure there isn't discolored foliage or a musty odor. If none of the trees on the lot look fresh, go somewhere else.

Cut Your Own at a Tree Farm Tips:

Remember, the Christmas trees purchased from local Christmas tree farms are as fresh as a Christmas tree can get.

- Dress for the weather, wear boots, mittens, gloves (for the person cutting or holding the tree) or warm clothing if it is cold. It might take longer than you think to make that critical decision. If Rover comes, please don't let him "mark" other people's trees.

- Saws are needed to cut your own tree. Check ahead of time to see if they are provided.

- Ask about pricing before you cut, some farms sell by the tree, others sell by the foot.

- Be careful when tromping through the trees. Snow may cover up holes from trees that were dug up and sometimes stumps are left standing well above the ground, creating a trip hazard. Nothing takes the fun out of selecting your tree faster than getting a boot full of freezing water after stepping in a hidden hole.

- Select tree with straight trunks. Keep in mind that pines will usually have, at least, some crook in their trunks. You may have to trim off bottom branches later to accommodate your stand.

- See if the farm provides a shaking or blowing service to shake out the oldest needles, providing you with a perfectly clean tree to start the season.

- Cutting the tree is a two person job; the cutter lies on the ground to cut at the base of the tree while another person holds the bottom of the limbs up. The person that is holding the tree should tug lightly on the tree so the cutters' saw doesn't bind or fall on them.

- Bring the tree back to the processing area to be measured (if sold by the foot), cleaned and netted. Netting makes transport easier and getting the tree into the house is a breeze when it is netted.

Many people question whether they should buy a fake tree or get a real one. The National Christmas Tree Association has this to say, "It is much better environmentally to use a natural agricultural crop and recycle it after the holidays. Real Christmas Trees are a renewable, recyclable, natural product grown on farms throughout North America. Unfortunately many people have the misconception that Christmas Trees are cut down from the forest. Real Christmas Trees are grown as crops, just like corn or wheat, and raised on a farm. Once they are harvested, new seedlings are planted to replace harvested trees. These would NOT have been planted if trees hadn't been harvested the previous year. Fake Christmas Trees however are a non-renewable, non-biodegradable, plastic and metal product most often made in overseas factories."

Make getting your Christmas tree a family event and a tradition you can continue throughout the years. Have a great Christmas Season!

Wrestling: 1-2

The Pioneers lost their lone match of the week 50-0 to Niagara CCC. They will take on Mercyhurst North East at 7 p.m. on Wednesday in their final 2012 match.

A-A grads earn soccer honors

Alfred State freshmen soccer players Kali Muhleisen (Alfred-Almond) and Hannah Holmok (Alfred-Almond) have been named to the NJCAA Division III All-American team. Muhleisen was a 1st team selection while Holmok was named to the second team.

Muhleisen led the Pioneers with 31 goals and eight assists on the season. The 70 points was tops on the team and tied for 3rd in the country. Her 31 goals was also 3rd best in the country. Muhleisen recorded hat tricks in six games. She scored at least two goals in four more contests and recorded two 7-point games. Muhleisen found the back of the net in 15 of the Lady Pioneers 19 games this year and was held pointless in just two contests.

Holmok scored 12 goals and six assists. Her 30 points on the season was 2nd on the team. Her 12 goals on the season is tied for 30th in the nation and her 30 points ranks her 32nd. She scored two goals in two games. Her top performance came in a 6-0 win over Mercyhurst North East when she had two goals and an assist.

The duo becomes the second and third Lady Pioneers to ever earn All-American status from the NJCAA joining Alfred State Hall of Famer Jody Alvarez who was an All-American in 2003.

Alfred State finished the season with a 17-2 overall record and reached the #1 ranking in the NJCAA Division III poll. The Lady Pioneers were the #1 seed in the Region III Division III tournament and won the WNYAC DIII crown with a perfect record.

HITS AND MISSES:

The NCAA Division III football championship game is all set and it will be the Purple Raiders from Mount Union in Ohio taking on St. Thomas (Minn.) at the Amos Alonzo Stagg Bowl in Salem, Va. Both teams are undefeated (14-0) as MU beat Mary Hardin-Baylor in one semi-final, 48-35 and St. Thomas stopped Wisconsin-Oshkosh, 28-14 in the other semi-final outing. St. Thomas ended Hobart's season in the game prior to that. Mount Union will be making its 16th trip to the D3 title game and eighth straight after going (3-4) the last seven visits. All of those games were against Wisconsin-Whitewater. The D3 championship contest is this Friday evening. Usually on one of the many ESPN channels. Will A-A graduate, "Big Nev" be in attendance?

In Division III hoop action the Alfred Saxons (2-6) men's squad dropped two games last week as they were drilled at SJ Fisher and nipped in OT at Morrisville. Coach Wellman's squad has one game left this semester at Framingham (MA) this Saturday. Assume A-A grad, R. "Hilly" Moses will be taking in that game! Did venture over to the SJF gym on Tuesday last week to see the AU-Fisher games. Ouch. Coach Kornaker's men's team, coming off a 4th-place finish in the Wendy's tournament, drilled AU, 85-40. Had a chance to chat with Lyndsay Murphy after the AU women's loss, new AU athletic director Paul Vecchio and noted area photographer, Leo Nealon. Could've talked to coaches Wellman and Kornaker but didn't want to bother prior to contest. Former Greece Arcadia girls hoop star, Megan Shoniker is now an assistant on the SJ Fisher women's staff. Chris Sullivan (Avoca) back on Kornaker's Division I-sized staff with the Cardinals after a couple years away. Usually a good game, AU-SJF men. Not this year.

The AU women are now (4-5) on the season after a three-game losing skid last week. Coach Jay Murphy's team fell to the Albany College of Pharmacy and Hamilton College after the SJ Fisher game. They are done until next semester when they travel to Ithaca early in January.

Coach Tom Spanbauer recently won his 300th game at the D3 hoops level as his Cortland squad (6-1) is at Nazareth this Saturday afternoon. The Red Dragons lone loss of the year was to Geneseo last Tuesday evening. "Spanny" has won 288-games at SUNY Cortland and another 12 at AU where he was the head men's coach for one season prior to his return to his alma mater.

Coach Tom Curle, the legendary former Alfred State College coach, has his Plattsburgh men's hoop team at (7-2) as they are off until participating in the Sponaugle New Year tournament in Lancaster (Pa.) The Red Dragons will play Franklin (Rusinko) and Marshall (Moses) in their opener. Salisbury and E. Connecticut are also in the field. Think A-A grad, Jay Evans ... "Help me Spock" ... still lives there.

Coach Bob Montana's Union College men's basketball team (6-1) dumped RIT on Saturday past in Liberty League action. The Dutchmen play Utica next and then are off to Daytona (FL) to play in the Land of Magic Classic. First round game against Elmira. Did not take in the Union-RIT game. Work got in the way. Hate it when that happens!

See where the Syracuse men's basketball team beat Monmouth (NJ) over the weekend, at home obviously, 108-56. Thought Monmouth was a Division III school?

Watched the Temple and Duke men's b-ball game on the tube Saturday past from the Izod Center in NJ. The Blue Devils #2 in the land and the (Hoot) Owls undefeated prior. Enjoyed watching it, one because Duke won, but also because 3L and I went to the Xavier-Duke game at the Izod 3-4 years ago. Formerly the home of the New Jersey Nets of the NBA. Duke rolled in that game as well.

Alfred State College ... ongoing "Coach of the Year" ... Gary "Doc" Moore is off to Toronto this weekend to take in the Seattle Seahawks/Bills game as he won some contest. Not sure if he is taking along his former agent, Robert H. Torrey?

The "Traveling Sports Fan" from Almond/Cleveland has been on the NFL circuit of late as he has viewed the Steelers-Browns game in Cleveland, the Jags-Bills game at the 'Ralph and the Browns win over KC this past Sunday. Might as well head to Toronto!

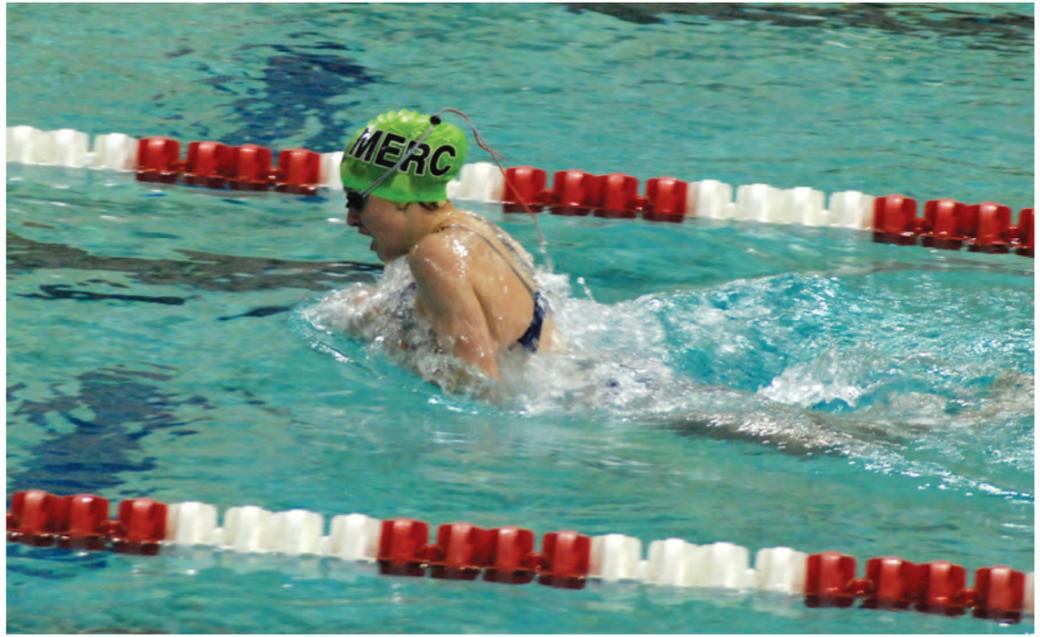

Seattle - 58, Arizona - 0. Now that would be a "fun" NFL game to watch after plucking down $50-75-bucks!

Former Alfred University WR, "Shuey" was an official (#129) at the Rams-Bills game on Sunday.

Manti Te'o of Notre Dame didn't win the Heisman Trophy but he hauled in the Maxwell (Most Outstanding Player), Bednarik (Top Defensive Player) and Walter Camp (Player of Year) awards prior to that.

Janis King won her age group (60-64) in the Leesburg CC 10K on Saturday past in Florida. "Greeter of the Year," Big D unable to run or attend due to work duties back at The Villages.

ASC cross country coach Moore was in Lexington (KY) over the weekend to run in the National X-C race with his Genesee Valley Harriers squad. Moore, bothered by a sore hamstring, placed sixth

ALYSSA GREANEY swims the breaststroke.

Alyssa Greaney bests all her times

BUFFALO—Over the weekend of Dec. 8-9 Mercury Swimming (MERC) competed at the STAR Invitational in Buffalo. Alyssa Greaney, age 12, raced against 61 of her 11-12 year old peers from Michigan, New Jersey, Massachusetts, New York and other parts of the northeast. She completed a rare feat of improving her lifetime fastest results in every single race including both preliminaries and finals. Alyssa's results included: 100 Fly (1:08.03-fourth place overall), 100 breaststroke (1:17.35 —sixth fastest time overall), 100 IM (1:09.08), 100 back (1:09.00), 50 back (33.40), and 200 freestyle (2:16.64).

MERC will kick off the New Year with a swim meet in Jamestown on Saturday, Jan. 5.

on his team as they were 5th in the nation in their age group (50-59). Olympian and A-A grad, John Tuttle did not run for his Atlanta Track Club in this event, which he usually does, due to illness. "Chud" lives in Lexington.

Daughter Lauren in Florida this week and also in Leesburg on Saturday, but not at the 10K race. Probably would've run if she had known about it. Anyhow, visiting her grandmother on Saturday and took in the NFL Eagles-Bucs game on Sunday in Tampa with A-A grad, Fred Taft. 3L is scheduled to see the Hawks-Magic NBA game in Orlando this week with Duke's J.J. Redick in home togs. No Milko though. Did get a chance to see her cousin, Megan Lorow though.

The New Orleans Hornets to become the New Orleans Pelicans? And then the Charlotte Bobcats to become the Charlotte Hornets ... again? How about Utah sending the Jazz nickname back to NO instead? Actually, with the New Orleans and Charlotte teams in the NBA, doesn't much matter.

Some vanity plates spotted: BLONDIE, 4 CASTLE ... on ABC, WOOD MAN, LUVPSU ... with the Penn State logo and BIGU ... Ungawa!

Zack Greinke to the LA Dodgers, 6-years/$147-million bucks? Yikes! He isn't exactly the second coming of Justin Verlander.

Bryce Harper (Washington Nats) will not play in the WBC for Team USA in the spring.

Third-sacker, A-Fraud of the Yankees will not play period ... until June or so.

Messiah College won the women's Division III soccer championship ... again.

North Carolina won the women's Division I soccer championship ... again.

Hoping to take in the Cortland-Nazareth men's hoop game this Saturday.
