

Poor Taste?

Is it “poor taste” for a party guest to read from the newspaper he edits and publishes? That’s what Alfred Sun Editor and Publisher Dave Snyder did at a birthday party. He hopes it WAS in poor taste because it was a “Poor Taste Party” he was attending. It’s also in “poor taste” to feature his own photo in his newspaper. Anyone with photos of themselves reading the SUN (as many have been promised) should e-mail them with accompanying caption to: alfredsun.news@gmail.com

Town Board discusses feasibility of frack ban

By DAVID L. SNYDER
Editor, Publisher & Janitor

ALFRED STATION—The Alfred Town Board, meeting in a regular monthly session Thursday, July 11 in the Town Highway Building, openly debated the feasibility of adopting a zoning law prohibiting gas drilling in the Town of Alfred.

Having renewed its moratorium against hydraulic fracturing back in December for another year, the Town has continued to consider a law to ban the gas extraction process altogether.

After considerable debate at Thursday night’s meeting, a consensus was reached that the Town Board would continue to pursue adoption of a law recommended by pro bono attorney David Slottje of Ithaca...but to submit the proposal to Town Attorney Michael Finn “for a second opinion.”

Debate was spurred on by the speculating of Alfred Police Chief Tim O’Grady, who inquired of the board, “If you don’t think New York State is going to allow it, and it looks like he (Governor Andrew Cuomo) is going to stall this as long as he can, why enact a law and upset the apple cart? Why put yourself in a position to defend a law and possibly spend money for nothing if New York State is not going to allow it?”

O’Grady added, “I wonder why everyone is going to all this effort when it may not even be permitted.”

“But to me, it seems like a waste,” O’Grady continued, “Get something in place just in case, but it seems like the last two years there’s been a lot of talk, but that’s just an observation from the outside.”

“I was thinking the same thing,” Deputy Supervisor Jerry Snyder said.

Town Planning Board Chairman Dan Acton said he would rather “we not put our faith in Albany. My feeling is if we think we don’t want it, don’t leave it on the whims of Albany politics.”

Acton reportedly plans to run for Town Supervisor this November as Alfred Town Supervisor Tom Mansfield has announced he will not seek re-election.

Councilman Fion MacCrea said that “part of the reason that we’re doing it is because of the power of home rule,” but said he agreed that it’s been a lot of time and effort that may not be necessary.

Councilman Donn Lang said, “If you take the land area that we’re controlling and a decision is made, it’s like we’re a little pea in a large area where everyone around us will likely do it.”

Lang continued, “You can be a pea but can’t control everything around it. We aren’t taking care of anyone near our town borders or even protecting our own village drinking water. It’s only 1000 feet away from where they would likely permit drilling in the Town of Almond.”

Mark Klingensmith, who regularly attends Town Board meetings, said he would like to respond to that.

“You’re saying that it seems fruitless but we needed the Town to support us as individual landowners in opposition to it,” Klingensmith said, “The Town of Alfred stopped anything from happening with the moratorium... The majority of impact to people and their water is surface impact. This is industrial activity. At least the surface activity is outside the Town of Alfred.”

Lang then questioned Klingensmith, “What distance would that surface impact take place?”

Klingensmith said it depends on the topology and spills.

Lang offered a scenario, “Your house is on the hill in the Town of West Almond. You drill a gas well, there’s a spill, it’s going to run into the Town of Alfred.”

“There is an edge effect, that’s true,” Klingensmith agreed, “The only point I’m making is that there is a value there.”

“But it’s a small value,” Lang countered, “We’ve had conventional gas wells for years and you’re telling me we’re going to stop that now because Slottje can’t support it.”

In an undisclosed e-mail exchange between town officials and the pro bono attorney, Slottje reportedly indicated that the local law would need to prohibit conventional gas drilling in addition to prohibiting the hydraulic fracturing. Allowing conventional drilling while prohibiting hydraulic fracturing would suggest the Town of Alfred were “regulating” the oil and gas industry, which local municipalities are not allowed to do.

Slottje’s contention, as reported by town officials included in the e-mail exchange, is that all drilling must be prohibited or it would “not hold up in a court of law.”

MacCrea suggested the Town do “what Tim suggested” and “have a law in our back pocket.”

Acton countered, “If Albany said on Monday, ‘okay, we’re going to frack,’ we wouldn’t have enough time to get it enacted.”

Acton suggested, “Either do the zoning law change or a perpetual moratorium. If you’re waiting on Albany, it’s like read-

Building season for Town of Alfred

ALFRED--Alfred Town Clerk Jan Burdick reported the following building permits had been issued during the months of May and June in the Town of Alfred:

- Doreen Edwards, McHenry Valley Road, renovation of interior of existing barn for storage and workshop use.
- Jim and Pam Jones, Rt. 244, enclosure of a back patio area
- Jerry Jusaniec, Rt. 21, installation of inground pool and 12’ x 16’ pool accessory building
- John Lang, Kenyon Road, construction of a 24’ x 40’ workshop
- Chad Patrick, Pleasant Valley Road, 24’ x 36’ seasonal cabin
- Earl Pierce, Barber Lane, constructing a studio/workshop

ing tea leaves. Put it up for a referendum.”

Councilperson Mary Stearns said, “We’ve had how many meetings and how many people have come and asked us to protect our water? I’ve had so many in Pennsylvania tell me that they’d never do that again. They’ve cleared the entire forest. They are allowed to do whatever they fricking want to,” she continued, “I don’t see how it’s right to allow some that are making money hand over fist and just do whatever they want.”

Town Clerk Jan Burdick said that it’s always been town policy to have the Town Attorney review any law that the Town is enacting, no matter what attorney wrote it up.

Town Supervisor Tom Mansfield then summarized the discussion and asked consent of the Town Board to continue with what Slottje has proposed but have the Town Attorney look at it before taking any action. All agreed.

In other business at the July 11 meeting, the Alfred Town Board...

Alfred Farmers Market begins season

ALFRED--The Alfred Farmers Market has great things in store for the community this summer. In addition to local foods and crafts, this year's market will also include regular educational programming and special events.

Educational programming got underway on July 7 with a talk by Sasha Khodorkovskaya about soil health. Future talks will cover topics such as how to become a market vendor, eating locally, alpacas, grass-fed cattle, and seed exchanges.

Three festivals are planned this year. The tomato will be celebrated on Aug. 25, Oktoberfest is on Oct. 13, and a holiday market is planned for Nov. 17.

Also new this season is the ability to use food stamp benefits to purchase eligible products at the market.

This year's vendors include Bad Raven Botanicals, Bentley and Sons Honey, Blue Marble Farm, Flowers by Deb, Greenwood Hill Farm, Hedgerow Farm Bakery, Kellogg's Alpacas, Living Acres Farm, Serendipity, Sisters Kneading Dough, Stone Flower Pottery, Sugar Haven Farm, and Tricorne Farm.

The Alfred Farmers Market is a growers-only market: vendors must grow or produce everything they sell. The market aims to support agriculture as a way of life by providing growers with an opportunity to sell directly to the public.

The market takes place between 11 am and 3 pm every Sunday through Nov. 17. The current location is the village green at the corner of Main Street and Saxon Drive, with the market moving to the McLane Center on the Alfred University campus (North Main Street) beginning Oct. 20.

For more information, including schedules for educational programs and festivals, see <http://alfredfarmersmarket.com>

Congressman Reed town hall meeting in Canaseraga July 20

We receive great input via letters, emails, and social media but face-to-face opportunities are very important to me. What happens in Washington really does impact everyone in the 23rd district and being able to bring these voices to Washington is the most central part of my job."

Town halls will be held July 20th as follows:

8 a.m.--Canaseraga, Burns Town Hall, 10 Main Street, Canaseraga.

2 p.m.--Randolph Town Hall, 72 Main Street, Randolph.

Those unable to attend the town halls are encouraged to share their thoughts with Rep. Reed through his website (www.Reed.house.gov) or Facebook (www.Facebook.com/Rep-TomReed). Individuals can also sign up for regular updates through Reed's website (www.Reed.house.gov/contact-me/newsletter).

There are two towering, gorgeous catalpa trees that I have enjoyed in Alfred over the years. One is in front of Cafe' Za and was in full bloom a couple of weeks ago. The other is at the foot of Terrace Street on South Main Street. In the 1950's the bus stop for our street (High Street) was right near this second one. I remember being delighted by the blooms, which looked like orchids to me (they still do), and then later, by the enormously long green-bean-looking seed-pods they produced. I had quite a collection of the latter, and would pick them up from the ground and take them home to show my mother. Awesome!

A lesson on marriage

To Mr McGinnis:

To say that your letter was discriminatory and bigoted is probably not news to anyone reading this editorial.

I will give you a short lesson on marriage. It was established centuries ago when mankind became a more settled and agriculture society. When the holding of land was more important to our survival. We were matriarchal at the time because you always knew who the mother was. Because of this a king declared a contract be written between himself and a woman of noble birth and landholdings in order to acquire her land.

He also designed a ring to seal the deal that had no beginning and no end. It wasn't until much later that the church discovered the power that the holding of land and passage of land to heirs was the way to that power that they became involved in marriage ceremonies. They were also at that time very involved in the politics of the time. It was then that the church started caring about people's sexual preferences, because an heir was necessary to perpetuate the power of the church and nobility. Until then no one cared.

I write this out of pride in my community and the acceptance and tolerance that has always been Alfred to me. We don't care what your sexual proclivities are, or your religious, education, mental capacity, color, nationality or politics. If you join our community you are welcomed for who you are and for the unique qualities you possess and add to our diverse community.

You are not the voice of this community Mr. McGinnis, we are not discriminatory, or bigoted. If you care to become a part of our very special little community you are welcome one and all.

By the way, I am a happily married, heterosexual woman in her sixties, who believes in people and a greater power than ourselves. I want to tell you here, I do not believe in you or your opinions they do not express the community in which I live, Alfred the Village in Upstate NY.

The Death of DOMA

Letter to the Editor:

The recent Supreme Court decision to strike down the Defense of Marriage Act (DOMA) and Proposition 8 (Prop 8) of California was long overdue.

I often hear supposedly religious people, who spout the concepts of love, acceptance and understanding, do exactly the opposite of what they profess. For many, dogma and orthodoxy are more important than people.

As a heterosexual, married, middle-aged, balding white male, I don't feel threatened by the love and desire of others to share their lives in matrimony. I have yet to find anyone who can explain to me how two individuals of the same sex would destroy the institution of marriage.

Surely, one can quote the writings of obscure philosophers from past centuries, or scour religious sacred texts for lines that support their misguided views. They forget the basics: God (of any form or denomination) is a loving and benevolent God, not an angry, capricious and petulant one.

For all those dogmatic individuals fomenting hatred: The Taliban smiles; Jesus weeps.

To the Editor:

What a fun time it was last weekend to see Mary (Beverly Snyder), Mike (Craig Mix), Debbie (Sola Prince) and Mark (Brooke Harris) perform for the Oil City Symphony at the Fireman's Hall Theater!

The kids' marvelous musical talents were showcased in a great variety of numbers, making it a delightful presentation! We were so thrilled to see that they were back together and performing after all these years! Mr. Crandall and Ms. Meltzer, accompanying on the piano and violin, added a very special touch as well.

Thank you, Mrs. Shultz and Mrs. Buckwalter, for bringing them together again and putting on this wonderful performance!

Mr. LaVerne and his AV crew are to be commended, too! I had a wonderful time!

There Goes the Neighborhood

It was hard for me to fathom what a tangled web I'd weaved
In a world that was dank and dark – and hidden.
In my mangled mind, half truths and lies were all that I believed;
I couldn't face the facts – that seemed forbidden.

I never would admit it – turned a blind eye to the truth –
Preferring an alternative reality
That would take me back to brighter times, and carefree days of youth...
Rather than confront my immorality.

But now my heart is softening; my vision pierces through
That misty veil enshrouding humankind;
I believe I can see clearly now to bare my soul to you –
Better hurry up, before I change my mind.

My sin? I left the cobwebs in the basement undissected –
'Bout making me the worst of all backsliders;
But worsen, other creatures' creature comforts I'd neglected:
It was even too cobwebby for the spiders.

Allegany County Legislator

COMMUNICATION CHALLENGES

The July 8th session of the Allegany County Legislature began at 2:00 p.m., with the Pledge of Allegiance, led by former Navy Seaman Ricky L. Carmer. Later in the meeting he was given a certificate recognizing his service in defense of our country. After the invocation and approval of the minutes from a prior meeting Chairman Curt Crandall recognized County Planner Kier Dirlam and the County Planning team. They received an award from the Upstate Chapter of the American Planning Association for their work in developing the Western New York Sustainability Plan. Congratulations for a job well done.

Only three resolutions were pending before the Board at this meeting. Resolution 116-13 authorized the Board Chairman to file a certificate designating the Secretary of State as the agent of the County for service of Notices of Claim. This resolution was made necessary because of a recent change in state statutes regarding required "Notices of Claim" against municipalities. These State mandated changes make it easier for private citizens to sue local governments. I find this ironic when the State is also telling local governments that we need to reduce taxes and stay within the 2% tax cap.

Resolution 117-13 authorized the County Administrator to issue letters of intent to three organizations regarding needed services to begin work on our Broadband Grant program. We received notification that we were awarded this grant, but still have not received the actual contract from NYS. However, we must still meet certain time limits established in the State Grant program. The consultants can now start work on implementation of this grant program.

Resolution 72-13 proposed transferring $148,000 from the Contingency Account to cover the cost of improving radio communications in the Village of Alfred area. It had been tabled because of concerns about the effectiveness of the proposed improvements. The contractor, Saia Communications, Inc., addressed those Board concerns, and also found about $26,000 in additional savings on this project. An amendment was proposed to reflect the cost reduction and appropriate the necessary funds. This resolution was then approved by a vote of 12 to 1.

Resolution 72-13 was about the need to provide emergency communications capabilities between police, fire service, and other emergency responders, including our 911 Communications Center. This may seem routine but has recently been complicated by mandated federal changes. We have gone from low band to high band frequencies, and from wide band to narrow band. Our rugged terrain complicates matters further. The bottom line is that we must establish and maintain a communications network for these essential public safety services. This has been a top priority of the current Board of Legislators.

Resolution 117-13 was about the need to provide quality communications services to the public. When completed, the Broadband Grant Program will extend Internet Broadband service to many more of the residents, homes and businesses in Allegany County. As digital technology has evolved the various communications technologies have converged. Telephone companies are moving away from providing "land line" service to their customers. They want them to transition to Internet based phone service or to cell phones. Unfortunately, reliable cell phone service and high speed Internet service is unavailable in many rural areas, including significant portions of Allegany County. This was recognized by NYS which recently made rural Broadband grants available to un-served and underserved communities. We are one of only two counties in Western NY that applied for and received one of these grants. Our goal is to create the "backbone" for an Internet system that can be used by privately owned Internet Service Providers ("ISPs") who will provide the "last mile" service to the public.

Last week I received a call about a senior citizen who needs a "Life Line" emergency call device. He doesn't have land line service, and has poor cell phone coverage. He needs high quality Internet service now. This service isn't a luxury. It could be a life and death issue.

AU alum pursues painting 'whole country'

ALFRED--Alfred University (AU) alumnus Jordan Rolleston has settled in Maine to work the wilderness as he brings landscape renditions of his experiences to canvas after nearly two months spent painting his way through the American South.

And he's only getting started.

For Rolleston, a December 2010 graduate who majored in fine arts, two and a half years in preparation culminated with beginning a trek to paint across the nation. So far the journey, beginning in his hometown of Cleveland, Ohio, has taken him south through Tennessee, Kentucky, and the Carolinas, and then on a course up to Maine, where his Subaru Forester packed full of art supplies will be stationed through October.

"Simply seeing my work evolve is a unique pleasure in and of itself," said Rolleston.

Age 25, the abstractionist landscape painter attributes his style of meshing emotional significance with the natural aesthetics of plein air, or "in the open air" style to lessons learned at AU. This synthesis has motored Rolleston's work since his graduation.

When explaining his switch from studio space to the great outdoors, Rolleston noted how crucial the guidance of School of Art and Design Professors of Painting Lise Lemeland and Kevin Wixted were to his development. Both acclaimed painters are known for abstract works that push the boundaries of communication as it is represented on canvas.

"The inner expressions that I was trying to convey through my art just weren't translating until I stepped out of the studio," said Rolleston.

Since planting his easel outside, Rolleston has fallen in love with situating himself out of doors to create art. Testimony to this commitment lies in the enthusiasm Rolleston has for allowing the elements to affect his work. He paints in all climates and under all weather conditions.

Rolleston plans to paint the United States by region, settling for two or more months and then moving on. Behind the front seats of his Forester two-by-fours are hitched together as stopgap drying racks for his latest works. Beyond the racks lay the carefully piled canvases of his experience – brilliant oil and watercolor paintings. Although much of his trip is still to be solidified, Rolleston believes his artistic pilgrimage will last well into 2014.

"Struggle, it seems as an artist, is to constantly be making that effort to create when life gets in the way," said Rolleston who concluded, "I won't be satisfied until I paint the whole country."

Operating out of his Forester stuffed with painting materials, Rolleston has living supplies constrained to no more than two small duffel bags, as he claimed, "you quickly realize you won't be changing clothes that often."

That time lapsed between Rolleston's graduation and actually beginning the dream to travel and paint was known simply as "waiting" to him. Leaving AU with little means, he moved back to Cleveland and began incubating ideas to travel and paint.

"I couldn't sell my work coming out of art school, and it's even harder to make art away from art school," said Rolleston. Determined to reignite his artistic motor, Rolleston spent two and a half years working as a cook at Cleveland's award-winning restaurant the Greenhouse Tavern.

After years spent earning and saving, Rolleston's blog posts avalanched into interviews and publications covering his upcoming quest. Finally, when Rolleston packed up and shipped out of Cleveland on May 13 it was to the interest of much regional press.

Now, enjoying the opportunity to not only witness the scenes he paints, but also experience them by hiking trails and cohabitating with the environment and work it, Rolleston is seeing his work improve substantially.

"Try not to see so much with your eyes but with your feelings and heart. And if that sounds too mushy, then see it with your spirit and if that sounds too hippie, then see it with your vibes and if that's too groovy, then don't look at it," said Rolleston to a hiker in the Great Smoky Mountains when confronted about his paintings.

With dozens of panels already complete, Rolleston is planning numerous pit stops back to Cleveland. He will need to make room for more paintings as he travels toward completion of his trek sometime next year. Until then Rolleston is glad to live from beneath the cargo-box latched atop his Subaru, pulling onto the shoulder of interstates and painting from the inspiration around him.

Rolleston's future plans include touring national parks such as Congaree in South Carolina and Shenandoah in Virginia, then heading north, up the eastern seaboard toward Maine again before exploring western states. Somewhere in this time span Rolleston says he would like to pay an impromptu visit to AU.

"I love Alfred so much. It's such a great learning environment, especially for the field," said Rolleston.

From his current base in Maine, Rolleston plans to hike and paint routes through the Appalachian Trail, much of the Bigelow Preserve, Maine's Baxter State Park, Acadia National Park and New Hampshire's White Mountains.

Rolleston intends to have a gallery showing of his work once his venture is complete. Meanwhile, photos of Rolleston's art, experiences, and correlating picaresque journal entries can be found on his website, www.jordanrolleston.com, and on his blog at www.jordanrolleston.blogspot.com

AU alum's outdoor sculpture turning heads in Jersey City, NJ

JERSEY CITY, NJ--Ann LePore's "Upward Mobility" transforms ArtBloc - actually a pair of empty shipping containers - into an interactive outdoor sculpture at Hamilton Square Condominium, 232 Pavonia Ave., Jersey City, NJ. Ann is a member of the Alfred University Class of 1996.

By day, ArtBloc is a giant boom box emitting ambient sounds, while at night it's a massive light box featuring computer-animated 3-D images. "Upward Mobility will be on view through Saturday, Aug. 31, 2013.

Ann's subject is the landscape of Jersey City and its historical transformation from rural backwater to thriving urban center. She says the "images and installations I create are heavily influenced by my experiences not just as an artist, but as a member of a community ..."

More about her work can be read at the following: <http://brendanscottcarroll.wordpress.com/2013/06/26/ann-lepore-upward-mobility/?amp;co=f000000009816s-1158206718>

DAVIS MEMORIAL CARILLON at Alfred University.

Carillon Recitals continue Tuesday, July 23

ALFRED--Alfred village will be ringing to the tunes of yet another Wingate Memorial Summer Carillon Recital Series hosted by Alfred University (AU) and AU Carillonneur Laurel Buckwalter throughout the month of July.

Admission is free for each performance by a guest carillonneur, beginning Tuesday, July 9 and continuing each Tuesday thereafter from 7 to 8 p.m. The performances will be held rain or shine at the University's Davis Memorial Carillon, located on upper campus between the Steinhilber and Susan Howell Hall.

Guests may sit in the lawn adjacent to the carillon and can feel free to bring lawn chairs or blankets to ease their listening experience. If inclement weather persists, Howell Hall will be open to visitors.

This summer's remaining featured carillonneurs and the dates of their programs are:

- Tuesday, July 23: Tim Sleep, City Carillonneur, Naperville, IL, will play renowned pieces such as Pachelbel's "Canon in D" and a medley from "Les Miserables."

- Tuesday, July 30: Philippe Beullens, assistant carillonneur, City of Leuven, Belgium, will offer pieces by Bach, Borodin, and Rachmaninov.

The Wingate Memorial Carillon Recital Series honors Dr. Ray Winthrop Wingate (1886-1968), who was a professor of music at Alfred University for 56 years. After the installation of the bells in 1937, he was appointed to the position of University carillonneur and held that title until his death, having arranged more than 5,000 selections for the carillon and composed nine suites.

The Carillon at Alfred University is made of a double row of rounded oak levers, called batons, and a pedal board tuned in the fifth octave. The carillon tower's ground floor display has information on its historic legacy. Guests are welcome to climb the tower's 69 steps to the top, enjoy the view, and watch the guest artists at work.

ALFRED—"Letter to the World III," an Alfred University dance team, has less than 15 days to raise $2,500! Please consider supporting this amazing project and opportunity for students and artists from Alfred!

Why Do We Need Your Help?

Letter to the World III has made it into the festival and has received partial funding from the World Stage Design organization in Cardiff, UK and institutions such as the University of Rochester and Alfred University, but we will not have enough funding to cover the performers' flights and housing. Most of us have invested a great deal of our time, creativity and energy for two years into the creation of Letter to the World I and II, and our performances are integral to the success of this work. We can't do it without your help!

We need to reach our goal of $2,500 which will cover most of the flights, food, lodging, and transportation expenses when we arrive in Wales.

Help us share our Letter to the World on an international platform! Please donate from the heart!

Red Cross says 'stay cool' in the heat

Summer is here, bringing with it dangerous excessive heat. The American Red Cross has steps people can follow to stay safe as the temperatures soar.

"Excessive heat can be deadly; it has caused more deaths in recent years than all other weather events," said Kenneth Turner, Chief Disaster Officer for the Western New York and Finger Lakes Regions. "We want everyone to stay safe during the hot weather and have some reminders for them to follow when the weather is hot and humid."

NEVER LEAVE CHILDREN, PETS IN THE CAR. The inside temperature of the car can quickly reach 120 degrees. Other heat safety steps include:

- Stay hydrated by drinking plenty of fluids. Avoid drinks with caffeine or alcohol.
- Avoid extreme temperature changes.
- Wear loose-fitting, lightweight, light-colored clothing. Avoid dark colors because they absorb the sun's rays.
- Slow down, stay indoors and avoid strenuous exercise during the hottest part of the day.

• Postpone outdoor games and activities.

• Use a buddy system when working in excessive heat. Take frequent breaks if working outdoors.

• Check on family, friends and neighbors who do not have air conditioning, who spend much of their time alone or who are more likely to be affected by the heat.

• Check on animals frequently to ensure that they are not suffering from the heat. Make sure they have plenty of cool water.

• If someone doesn't have air conditioning, they should choose places to go to for relief from the heat during the warmest part of the day (schools, libraries, theaters, malls).

HEAT EXHAUSTION. Excessive heat can lead to sunburn, heat cramps, heat exhaustion and heat stroke.

If someone is experiencing heat cramps in the legs or abdomen, get them to a cooler place, have them rest, lightly stretch the affected muscle, and replenish their fluids with a half a glass (about 4 ounces) of cool water every 15 minutes.

If someone is exhibiting signs of heat exhaustion (cool, moist, pale or flushed skin, heavy sweating, headache, nausea, dizziness, weakness exhaustion), move them to a cooler place, remove or loosen tight clothing and spray the person with water or apply cool, wet cloths or towels to the skin. Fan the person. If they are conscious, give small amounts of cool water to drink. Make sure the person drinks slowly. Watch for changes in condition. If the person refuses water, vomits or begins to lose consciousness, call 9-1-1 or the local emergency number.

HEAT STROKE IS LIFE-THREATENING. Signs include hot, red skin which may be dry or moist; changes in consciousness; vomiting and high body temperature. Call 9-1-1 or the local emergency number immediately if someone shows signs of heat stroke. Move the person to a cooler place. Quickly cool the person's body by immersing them up to their neck in cold water if possible. Otherwise, douse or spray the person with cold water, or cover the person with cold, wet towels or bags of ice.

For more information on what to do when temperatures rise, people can visit redcross.org, download the Red Cross Heat Wave Safety Checklist, or download the free Red Cross First Aid. People can learn how to treat heat-related and other emergencies by taking First Aid and CPR/AED training online or in person. Go to redcross.org/takeaclass for information and to register.

THE GLORY OF AMERICA

Thursday, July 18

On this day in 1755, a 23-year-old colonel in the Virginia Militia, who had been cited for valor in the recent bloody Battle of the Monongahela in the French & Indian Wars, wrote to his brother:

"By the miraculous care of Providence, that protected me beyond all human expectations, I had four bullets through my coat and two horses shot under me, and yet escaped unhurt."

Lightning Raceway has class for special needs racers

WOODHULL--Located just outside Woodhull, NY, Lightning Raceway was once track owner Stacy Jackson's backyard. "The idea to build a track came to me about a year and a half ago while sitting on a log pile overlooking my backyard," says Jackson.

They say if you build it, they will come – and they did. Today, Lightning Raceway hosts an average of 70 carts on race nights; more for the track's special money and holiday races.

But beyond the clay track and packed grandstands, Lightning Raceway offers something only a handful of tracks across the state offer; a class for drivers with special needs.

"I decided to offer a class for individuals with special needs after becoming good friends with many of the driver's family members. Some of them have special needs, but their love for and knowledge of racing went far beyond their limitations," stated Jackson. "I wanted them to have the same opportunities as everyone else."

The new Fast Class is never short of volunteers to assist the drivers as they prepare their carts and themselves for the race. In fact, the class is almost always the first to fill up.

"Everyone wants to be part of this amazing experience," says Jackson. "There is never a shortage of people willing to assist in any way they can. Whether someone needs a spare part or assistance working on their cart, the family-like atmosphere within the pits is amazing."

"The buzz and excitement surrounding the raceway is amazing," said Carrie Redman, Allegany Arc's marketing director. "The family-like atmosphere is fun, while teaching people the sport of racing in an inclusive setting - ultimately helping each driver build independence, confidence, and self-esteem."

She added, "By competing side-by-side with typical peers, individuals with special needs earn the respect they deserve – and in some instances the checkered flag."

Integrating individuals with special needs and their typical peers at all practices, races and events, Lightning Raceway is a true inclusion racetrack.

If you ask Jackson, Lightning Raceway's main goal is "to have fun" and since go kart racing is a family sport for all ages, the benefits are endless. They include learning a driving skill, socialization opportunities, inclusion in structured competition, and more.

Lightning Raceway gives individuals with special needs the opportunity to participate in the exciting world of racing and connect with others.

If you are interested in learning more about Lightning Raceway, please contact Stacy Jackson at (607) 481-9780.

MY FAVORITE FOUNDING FATHER

Who is a Founding Father? My reference is to one of the men actively involved in the establishment of the United States of America. Founding Fathers may or may not have fought in the American Revolution, signed the Declaration of Independence, been a delegate to the Constitutional Convention - or more than one. Neither the names nor the other accomplishments of all such people are familiar to me.

As to the signers of the Declaration of Independence, I must mention one in the interest of full disclosure. Older members of my mother's family believed that Charles Carroll of Carrollton was an ancestor. Nowadays one of his claims to fame would be that his signature on the Declaration's parchment is in the center row, just a few names beneath John Hancock's. Another would be that Carroll was the last signer to die, having lived to be 95.

I was very young when a different Founding Father who signed the Declaration began evolving into my "Favorite." His is the first name on the alphabetized and briefest list of Founding Fathers which others have compiled: Benjamin Franklin, Thomas Jefferson, James Madison, and George Washington. Of these four, Franklin was the only one who never served as President of the United States. He did hold a variety of other important government positions.

A reproduction of an iconic portrait of George Washington hung in my grade school classrooms. But it was portraits of Franklin in an entirely different context which caught my attention before I had even learned to read. They were in the illustrated children's biography of him open on my desk right now.

The book, Ben and Me: An Astonishing Life of Benjamin Franklin is "By His Good Mouse, Amos. Discovered, Edited & Illustrated by Robert Lawson." Both the drawing on the dust jacket and the different one on the binding are eye-catching, even to an adult. Vivid black and white pictures of different sizes continue from the title page throughout the volume's more than 120 pages. They depict everything about a selection of Franklin's accomplishments that Amos describes, and show Amos contributing to them.

Customarily for Christmas gifts my father's aunt, who lived in Glen Ridge, New Jersey, sent one book each to my big sister and me in Joplin, Missouri. On the flyleaf in Ben and Me my mother has noted, "To Jeanne Helen from Aunt Bessie. December 25, 1939." It had just been published earlier that year. Jeanne could read it by herself, and my mother read it to me. I became engrossed in both the story and the drawings.

While he was a starving mouse, Amos smelled cheese in a house, entered the dwelling, and fed. Next Amos recognized the sneezing home owner and entered a hole in his cozy fur hat. Thus began Amos's position of closest friend, critic, and advisor to "the great Doctor Benjamin Franklin, scientist, inventor, printer, editor, author, soldier, statesman."

In the category of biographies, this is the one which I most often recommend as a gift to a child. Be warned, however, that the youngster may become so enamored of Amos that he or she will take on caged rodents as pets for a lifetime. I have.

Both the expected and the unexpected bring Franklin to my mind. In my youth, it might be seeing lightning, which Franklin proved to be electric. It might be kite flying, which helped him with this proof and nearly electrocuted Amos. Therefore, as an avid kite flier on the schoolyard across the street from my family's house, I carefully avoided the hazards of both lightning and electric wires.

Paul Stillman of Cameron Mills, New York, has further enlightened me about Franklin, first in Corning and then in Hornell, by presenting a "living history historical characterization." On the first occasion he was wearing a facsimile fur hat, and I enjoyed conversing with Franklin about Amos.

Until I went away to college, a reason to be grateful to Franklin arrived in my family's mailbox weekly. It was The Saturday Evening Post magazine, which as Wikipedia puts it, "...traces its historical roots to Benjamin Franklin."

Sorting through neglected piles of printed matter recently, I found a January 17, 1959, issue addressed to a subscriber in Massachusetts. I had no idea when or where I acquired it, but could immediately see why I had done so.

The cover illustration shows a bust of Franklin and a statement tacked on a plaque beside it. "My rule, in which I have always found satisfaction, is, never to turn aside in public affairs through views of private interest; but to go straight forward in doing what appears to me right at the time, leaving the consequences with Providence." Beside his signature is the date 1770. I wish that all of today's politicians would adopt his rule.

"A Sea of Humanity ... Twice!"

The Utica Boilermaker 15K is one of the nation's largest races and this past Sunday certainly lived up to that billing. Daughter Lauren was going to run in it for the second time so it was off to Utica via Saratoga and Whitesboro this past weekend. The Boilermaker is a mixture of ultra competitive runners amongst thousands more who are entered for a variety of reasons. Added up, there are runners galore in this race. And, that isn't the only race held this day as there is a 5K as well.

It was off to Saratoga Springs on Saturday morning to get 3L at the Harness Track outside of the village as she took the MegaBus up from NYC. After that it was time to explore Saratoga. A tourist town for sure, pricey, but a great place to visit and walk around. As we were both hungry we settled in at an outdoor restaurant called, Druthers. Recommended by one of Lauren's soccer teammates at SUNY Geneseo, Steph Bergin. Good choice overall and we just beat the quick shower that ensued. Next trip it is the Irish Times Pub. Wandered around the town, went to a great park in the village that had an art show going on and talked to one of the artists there who does alot of Adirondack Mountain shots. He had some great photos on display. Soon it was time to depart for Whitesboro which is just outside of Utica.

We arrived at the home of Doris Springer around 4:30 pm as we would be spending the nite there. A place I have been to now probably 8-10 times over the years. The late Bob Springer and Doris friends of my parents from Molokai Park in Florida. I had previously stopped on the way thru Utica in the morning and picked up the race packets for Lauren and Jess Herbst. A time saver there, I'm sure. A great set-up at Mohawk Valley CC with a Boilermaker Expo and various tents around the sports complex area. Would've been great to spend more time there but just didn't have it.

Doris, Lauren and I got caught up on things, out on her back patio/porch on a perfect summer afternoon. We were shortly joined by a gentleman named, Lou and the four of us were off to dinner at Cavallo's in New Hartford. Have been to this restaurant probably 6-8 times, first when the girls were at the Utica Gus Macker basketball tournament when they were in 7th or 8th grade. Chels Lindahl, Cass Beasley, Kristen Abbott and 3L. This dinner most definitely did not disappoint any of us. Whew! Excellent. Cavallo's has a rather large outdoor porch, dining area, second floor and on this perfect nite it was a solid time out. Back at the Springer house and Herbst arrived earlier than we expected. She couldn't depart with me in the morning due to work obligations.

Sunday am dawned bright, sunny and ... muggy. Not exactly great running conditions. Doris drove Jess and 3L to the starting line, dropped them off and then she took us on a circular route to a parking spot she has used for years at this event as a volunteer. Great service! We made our way over to the 8-mile mark and soon Doris was in "volunteer mode" ... again.

The 15K started at 8:00 am and after watching from the same spot in 2011, near the Yorkville Fire Department, it wouldn't be long before the Kenyans would be zipping by. The top two came thru at roughly the 40-minute mark and Lauren told me she/Jess would be there about 80-minutes into the race or so. Wanted to get a picture of the two and without that rough estimate it would've been a little difficult. Looked for Tim Chichester (Geneseo) but must have missed him somehow. He was in the top 20. Did see Eileen Coyle, by chance, and she ran over to high-five me. She deserves all the credit. A former SUNY Geneseo soccer player as well.

Shortly after Coyle went by I see my goofy (at times) daughter and Jess headed my way, arms up, waving and laughing. Quite a pair. Got some shots as they approached, among many-many-many runners and then headed to the finish line to hook-up with them and thousands more. Very, very crowded just getting to the 9.3 mile mark, and after that I just blended in with the runners who had completed the run on this steamy day and headed for the huge parking lot at the Matt's Brewing Company. A sea of humanity!

Finally found Jess and Lauren, wasn't easy and we watched the fly-over together. Two years ago there was Black Hawk choppers. This time some warbirds (I think) from the Genesee Museum. Very impressive. Trying to maneuver around was something else and soon we took off for our pre-arranged meeting spot for Doris to pick us up. A great race! A well-run event.

Chichester was 18th in 48:57, Coyle crossed at 1:15:25 and Lauren/Jess "tied" at 1:19:43. They had a 8:34 pace, were 92/93 out of 708 in their age group and took 2295 and 2296 overall. Both enjoyed themselves and the race with this being the longest Herbst has ever attempted. Maybe we'll do it all again next year.

HITS AND MISSES:

Received a call from Gary "Doc" Moore while I was at Mohawk Valley CC. He was in NYC and was wondering "if Lauren was out running?" Moore and his wife Mary took in the Sunday game at Yankee Stadium, Twins and Yanks.

Did not happen to run into Scott Yelle (A-A) on Saturday as he was in Saratoga golfing at the Saratoga Golf and Spa Resort. Didn't happen to see Coach Beyer (AU) either as he usually spends a

ASC lists NCAA football schedule

ALFRED--The Alfred State athletic department has released the 2013 football schedule. 2013 is the inaugural year of Pioneer athletics as a provisional member of Division III of the NCAA.

Alfred State starts their 2013 football season with three consecutive road contests. The Pioneers play their first NCAA contest Sept. 7 when they travel to Ada, OH to battle Ohio Northern University. Alfred State travels to Ypsilanti, MI to face Concordia (MI) University in a game to be played at Eastern Michigan University. To complete the season opening road trip, Alfred State battles Husson (ME) University on Sept. 21.

The first home game of the NCAA era will double as Homecoming 2013 as the blue & gold welcome The Apprentice School to Pioneer Stadium for a 1 p.m. kickoff. on Sept. 28.

After a road trip to Williamson Trade on Oct. 5 and a week off, the Pioneers play two straight home games vs. NJCAA Region III foes Erie CC (Oct. 19) and Hudson Valley CC (Nov. 2).

The team finishes off their season with road trips to Southern Virginia (Nov. 9) and to Wesley (DE) College (Nov. 16).

Alfred State tangled with Apprentice, Erie CC, Hudson Valley CC, and Southern Virginia last season and has faced Husson and Williamson Trade in the past. The meetings between ASC and Ohio Northern, Concordia, and Wesley are the first between the institutions.

ASC finished its final year in the NJCAA with a 5-4 record. The schedule is available at: <http://www.alfredstateathletics.com/sports/fball/2013-14/schedule>

ASC hires swim coach

Ryan Bremser has been named the new swimming coach at Alfred State. Bremser, a former NCAA DIII swimmer at Plattsburgh, begins his duties immediately.

Bremser swam competitively for 14 years including four years at Plattsburgh State where he holds school records in the 200 IM, the 400 IM, and the 200 butterfly. At Plattsburgh, he earned a bachelor's degree in philosophy with a minor in studio art.

Bremser has previously coached swimming at Ridge-wood Swim Club, Southern Saratoga YMCA, and Guilderland YMCA. Bremser has also spent time working for Catholic Charities, the Niskayuna Central School District, Belle Electronics, and the Finger Lakes DDSO.

good chunk of the summer there.

The "Traveling Sports Fan" from Almond apparently did not take in the season opening NY-P League baseball game in Batavia as the Muckdogs were hosting Auburn. Guessing no free tix from Holmoks!

Pat and Eric Atwell and a couple high school buddies of Eric took in the St. Louis Cardinals at Chicago Cubs baseball game this past Sunday nite. The ESPN Sunday game.

Received a text from E ... Bruce Emery in Florida over the weekend as he is off to baseball games in Washington and Baltimore late next week.

Received a text from the "Cage Man" at James Madison as well as he wanted to know if I was headed to the A-A alumni banquet? Of course! Looking forward to seeing Don and Mark Mix there. Sat with them last year and had a great time.

Former Almond and Geneseo resident, R. Theodore "Hilly" Moses is busy on the AAU baseball circuit following his son, "Marvin" in his baseball adventures. "That is right ... I did see that!"

Received a text from Bakes (A-A) over the weekend and he just wanted to let me know his son, Stephen (UPenn) decided to run a marathon last week ... just to see if he could do it! Not a race, but 26.2 miles in Philly. Yikes!

Heard from Vernon "Needle" VanSkiver as he is still playing baseball these days. The former Canisteo resident and ex-teammate with the Bandits and Joker's Wild softball teams.

Also got in touch with Mark S. Gaisser (A-A) to see if he was still playing softball? Another ex-teammate on our Bandits tourney squad and later with the Brockport group. He is playing now more than ever!

Had a chance to touch base with Vincent Wasilewski (Chud) as he and his wife, "T" will have four daughters in college, at UK, in the fall. Ouch.

A batch of vanity plates spotted: QTBUG ... on a VW, MRIVERA ... #42, WREXPRT ... on a flat-bed tow truck, USN 1959 (Pa.), ADK ZAK, MITCHSYS ... Guppy, DCOWBYS (Mich.) ... spotted in Saratoga and MAD HENZ ... Betty Costello, Lillian Hanks, Judy Coleman and my mom.

Kenny Perry won his second straight "major" on the Champions Tour of golf and Phil Mickelson won the Scottish Open prior to the British Open this week. Predicted winner: Graeme McDowell.

Busy weekend and week ahead as Saturday 3L and I are headed to Waterloo and (maybe) Ithaca ... Farmer's Market and hiking. On Sunday ... Lauren, Herbst and I are headed to Orchard Park as those two will run in the Lindsay Matthews Memorial 5K again this year. Back in Rochester and we'll go to the Baker house for a cookout in Penfield/Fairport. Then on Monday we are off to Indian Lake and the ADK's! Think just 3L and me this year. Herbst (internship), Brooke Easton (Africa), Meg Verdino (soccer camp), Milko (Maryland), Chels (DC) and anyone else I can think of ... are unavailable! Sure we'll "gut it out" at the Lone Birch Motel.

My best to a recovering Audrey Connell in Almond.
Many "thanks" to Doris Springer in Whitesboro!
