

Alfred Sun in New Zealand

For what it was worth, Kelly Lawrence of Alfred took along her Alfred Sun recently when she spent 12 glorious days in Wanganui, New Zealand with daughter Lindsey and Chris Blair and family. We're betting she never really found the time to read the hometown newspaper, obviously used here as a mere photo prop in order to make the cover of this (Bloopers) award-winning newspaper. Mission accomplished!

45TH ANNUAL HOT DOG DAY

Baby eagles named 'Freedom,' 'Liberty'

ALFRED—Following a "Name the Nestlings" social media campaign in which more than 36,000 people voted on five different name pairings, the two baby bald eagles at the US National Arboretum were named "Freedom" and "Liberty."

Following voting on the National Arboretum Facebook page, which took place April 19-24, eagle experts and several private groups and government agencies made the announcement Tuesday, April 26 in Washington, DC. Other name pairings included Stars and Stripes, Freedom and Liberty, Anacostia and Potomac, Honor and Glory, and Cherry and Blossom.

Attending the announcement from Alfred State were Jeff Stevens, chair of the Electrical Trades Department; Dr. Craig Clark, vice president of Economic Development; and electrical construction and maintenance electrician students Mike Lee, of Brooklyn; Thomas Wzientek, of Buffalo; and Ethan Yanda, of Wayland.

These students, along with fellow electrical construction and maintenance electrician majors Justin King, of Uniondale, and Oliver Jackson, of Williamsville, installed a unique solar-powered trailer at the Arboretum in October to supply the energy for the public to view the nesting and hatching of the bald eagle family online. The hatching of the eaglets took place in mid-March.

VILLAGE OF ALFRED WATER DISTRICTS

Village plans inaugural 'Alfred Summer Olympics'

By PETER McCLAIN
Alfred Village Trustee

ALFRED—This summer, Village of Alfred neighborhoods will compete in a series of events where each neighborhood will put forward their best competitors in a wide range of activities. Villagers will be divided into four teams, based on where they live in the community using the directional designation of your water bill account number. So, look at your water bill and if your account # begins with an "N" then you will be joined with your neighbors on the North team, an "E" for the East team, "S" for the South team, and "W" for the West team. Call around and get your team together!

Since events schedules are subject to change, please consult the Alfred Sun and www.alfredny.org for updates. However, if you have assembled your whole neighborhood to make the awesome team we know you can, you can all just show up and carry every event! Oh, a schedule of events can be found on the reverse side of this flier.

The Opening Ceremony will be held at 5 p.m. Sunday, June 12 at the Village Bandstand on the corner of South Main and Saxon Drive and will include a Picnic and a Ping Pong Ball Regatta. Ah, the Kanakadea, Alfred's best life vein and the valley's drain! Float your team's dreams of regatta wins in the creek!

On June 18, a Field Day at Alfred State's Pioneer Stadium will feature numerous races for all ages, an egg toss, tug-of-war, and treasure hunt. O.K. everyone, go into training now, especially for the tug-of-war, we assume you had egg toss practice at Easter.

The Box of Books has teamed up with Alfred Olympics and when the Summer Reading Program begins on Monday, June 20, every recorded book that a child from the village reads will generate points for their neighborhood team through July 31. (Note: the BoB reading program continues until August 28).

An art show highlighting the artistic talents of villagers will open at 7 p.m. Sunday, June 26 in the Cohen Center Annex and will be open when volunteers are available during Cohen Center hours through the conclusion of the MostArts Festival on July 9. Begin thinking of a piece you can submit for exhibit.

Each neighborhood is invited to field softball and tennis teams who will schedule games played at Alfred University's Harrington Field and the adjacent courts in a round-robin fashion during the months of June and July. Talk to your neighbors now and choose a few evenings to practice!

A Swim Meet will take the heat out of a hot, summer afternoon, so make plans to be at Alfred University's McLane Center on Sunday, July 24 to compete for your neighborhood in a series of races by age, and cheer on your neighbors.

The Alfred Community Theatre is partnering with Alfred Olympics to host an "Alfred's Got Talent!" Show on Friday, July 29. Pull out your juggling pins or that sonata sheet music and practice, then come out and support your talented neighbors.

August 8th is Str8 Eight Day in Alfred, so celebrate by participating in the Figure Eight Fun Run at 5 p.m. at the intersection of Pine Hill Drive and Sayles Street and then in the annual Str8 Eight tournament at the Terra Cotta Coffeehouse beginning at 6:30 p.m. You can win a gift card and points for your team!

The Closing Ceremony and Welcoming Potluck will occur on Monday, August 22, at the Bandstand.

Not only will the winning teams for each event receive points for their neighborhood, but points will also be accumulated for all participants and spectators. So, mark your calendars and coordinate with your neighbors to enjoy all the family friendly activities Alfred has to offer during the summer.

Dorothy ‘Dot’ Tinklepaugh, 95, resided on Park Street in Alfred for 64 years

DOROTHY TINKLEPAUGH
Passed along a love of music
ALFRED—Dorothy Tinklepaugh, 95, of 22 Park Street, Alfred, passed away on April 22, 2016 at Jones Memorial Hospital in Wellsville.

Born in Hornell in 1910, she was the daughter of Paul and Bernice (Hedges) Galutia. The following is a remembrance written by her granddaughter, Amanda Burdick:

“My Grandma died last week. She was the matriarch of the family, the center; family gatherings always revolved around her. My entire life she lived at 22 Park Street in Alfred. My oldest memories of Grandpa and Grandma are in that house.

Grandma met Grandpa at Hornell High School. Grandma played clarinet and Grandpa played bassoon. Their school band was award-winning and traveled around the country giving concerts. Their love of music was passed down to us. We all played instruments and sang. Grandma followed our marching bands, and attended all of our plays, musicals, concerts, recitals, high school and college graduations. She was excited that her first great-grandson Conner was going to play French Horn at his first solo fest this week. Chelsea, Zack and Robin also played sports and she was there to cheer on the team. We have a photograph of Grandma sitting in her wheel chair, holding an umbrella, watching Zack play at Gus Macker in the rain. That was Grandma.

She was a civilian aviation spotter during World War II. When Grandpa returned they married and lived at “Diaper Hill.” This was barracks style housing built by Alfred University for married students. It was located where the Rose Apartments now stand. They moved to Park Street 64 years ago. For many years she worked for the S.U.N.Y. College of Ceramics until they went completely digital and she just didn’t want to learn how to use computers. She was 83.

Grandpa and Grandma vacationed at Keuka Lake for years. After Grandpa passed away she traveled to Avalon, NJ each year with the Cornells. She made her last trip at age 90. She took many family trips with the Burdicks, often to Toronto. Grandma and I also took several bus trips, always to go see a musical. I fell in love with theatre on that first family trip to see Phantom.

Grandma loved living in Alfred and continued driving right up until a few years ago. I think she may be the last one in town to have the special AU license plates. 27 AU. Grandpa passed away in 1986 and Grandma has lived alone since, except when granddaughters moved in while attending AU. She loved her bi-weekly bridge group. She was a loyal Bills fan and had fun watching (as she put it) Mad March, following Syracuse. She was a great lady and it is just amazing how the world has changed during her lifetime. It has been hard for her the past few years as several of her friends have passed away. I’m just happy she has been reunited with Grandpa, Mom, and her friends. I’m sure they had a glass of wine ready for her and they had a heck of a party.”

Surviving are a brother, Dr. Richard (Joyce) Galutia of Sun Lakes, Arizona; a sister, Marge Perrino of Urbana, Illinois; a daughter, Lois (Larry) Cornell of Greenwood; five grandchildren, Amanda Burdick of Shinglehouse, PA, Tim (Brandi) Burdick of Webster, Robin (Dan) Parsons of Dryden, Zackary Cornell of ENglewood, CO, and Chelsea (Ryan) Turner of Mansfield, PA. She had five great-grandchildren, Conner and Evan Burdick, and Devin, Dawson and Christian Parsons as well as nieces and nephews. She was predeceased by her husband James and her daughter Joanne Burdick.

Calling hours will be held from 2 to 4 p.m. Saturday, May 7 at the Mulholland-Crowell Funeral Home in Wellsville. A funeral service will follow calling hours at 4 p.m. Saturday, May 7 at the funeral home. Memorial contributions may be made in Mrs. Tinklepaugh’s name at St. Jude Children’s Research Hospital, 501 St. Jude Place, Memphis, TN 38105 or to Rochester Education Foundation Spring for Music, 250 Mill Street, Rochester, NY 14614.

She worked in administration

In the words of her family, she was “the most selfless person ever.” At times she was outspoken with her motherly advice, saying what needed to be said. She loved her family dearly and strove to set the bar high.

“Flowers” as her closest friends called her, loved her flower and vegetable gardens; Irises were her favorite. As “Mama,” she was the football queen and family chauffeur, transporting and supporting all her children’s many activities. Donna loved to cook. She was famous for potato breakfast on Christmas and her “It Won’t Last Long” cake. Some of her children’s favorite memories are the family camping and fishing trips.

Donna was a past member of the Wellsville Loyal Order of Moose Lodge and the Wellsville American Legion Ladies Auxiliary.

Dean A. Long, 61, passionate about children, athletics

DEAN ALLYN LONG
The Man, The Myth, The Legend
GULFPORT, MS—“The Man, the Myth, The Legend,” otherwise known as Dean Allyn Long passed away on Monday, April 25, 2016 in Gulfport, MS, with his daughters by his side at the early age of 61.

Dean, the son of Arthur and E. Lucy Long, was born on July 18, 1954 in Hornell. He graduated from Canaseraga Central School with the class of 1972 and went on to play basketball via scholarship at Olean Business Institute while obtaining an associate’s degree in accounting. Dean went on to become an accomplished auditor for the Pennsylvania Department of Auditor General and audited several local school districts within the surrounding areas.

Even though accounting was his career field, he considered himself a master craftsman and took great pride in his creations. He had many hobbies but overall, athletics and mentoring children were his passion! Through countless years of coaching, umpiring, refereeing, and volunteering, he has left a legacy with many people that will last a lifetime!

Throughout his lifetime, every morning began with ESPN, peanut butter toast (a necessity with every meal), and at least two cups of coffee. Dean has always been known as the master of all sports as he played and enjoyed watching any of them from women’s softball to college basketball and everything in between. His daughters literally refer to him as a walking Sports Almanac. Some of his favorites include his beloved New York Yankees and his Buffalo Bills.

At the end of the day though above everything else, Dean’s pride and joy has always been his girls! He is survived by his two daughters, Danielle (Quentin) Bradt and Angela (Michael) Copponi; and his four granddaughters, Dakota Bradt, Madison Copponi, Makena Bradt, and Chelsea Copponi. Even though his family is small, he has touched the lives of so many!

It is not the end yet but a new beginning! To honor the man all held so dear, a memorial softball game and picnic is being planned for early June of 2016 and will be held in Allegany, (more information to follow). In lieu of flowers, please send donations in his name to the Hornell YMCA in support of the Gus Macker Basketball Tournament. The family would also like to thank Dr. Olivia Hightower and the staff at Cannon Hospice for all of their love and care!

Riemann Family Funeral Home, Gulfport, MS, is serving the family. An on-line guestbook and tributes offered at www.riemannfamily.com.

Scene About Alfred

A family-friendly Hot Dog Day

Official activities of Hot Dog Day, 2016, included opportunities for safe, family-friendly fun all day.

At 9 a.m., the popular 5K Color Run began as we counted down from ten and yelled "GO!" for ourselves. At 11:30, near the bandstand a heartwarming, and sometimes hilarious, Wiener Dog Run, wowed the crowd. (Biscuit, our favorite dachshund, in his bun-with-mustard costume, demonstrated his unwillingness to run farther after doing the full 5K, by simply sitting down at the start line while the other three entrants in his heat raced to the finish line.)

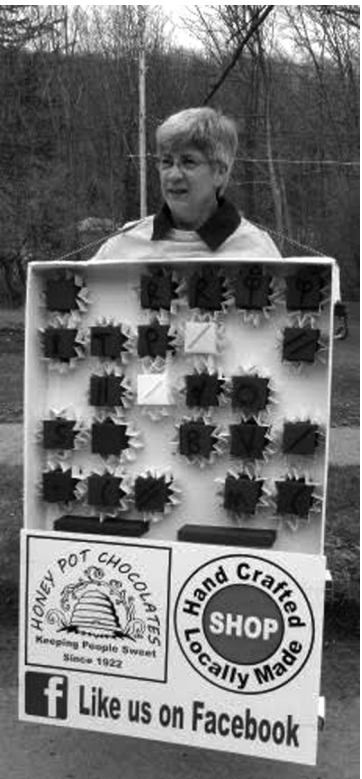

Meanwhile, on Park Street, Parade Master, Dan Totten was organizing more than thirty units into an outstanding moving spectacle for an appreciative crowd.

Honey Pot Chocolates, a favorite Alfred treat since 1922 (available at Canacadea Country Store and Alfred Pharmacy). Anyone interested may go to Connie's Honey Pot Chocolates Facebook page and follow the construction of the box of chocolates seen in the photo, and catch up with her Aunt Ginny Bassett, from whom, with her mother, she learned the secrets of this tasty only-in-Alfred delight.

Over the lunch hour, many enjoyed the traditional Alfred Lions Club Stearns chicken barbecue, supplemented by a mouthwatering selection of pies baked and served by members of the Baker's Bridge Historical Association. It was a chance to sit down and enjoy a few moments catching up with folks one might not see regularly.

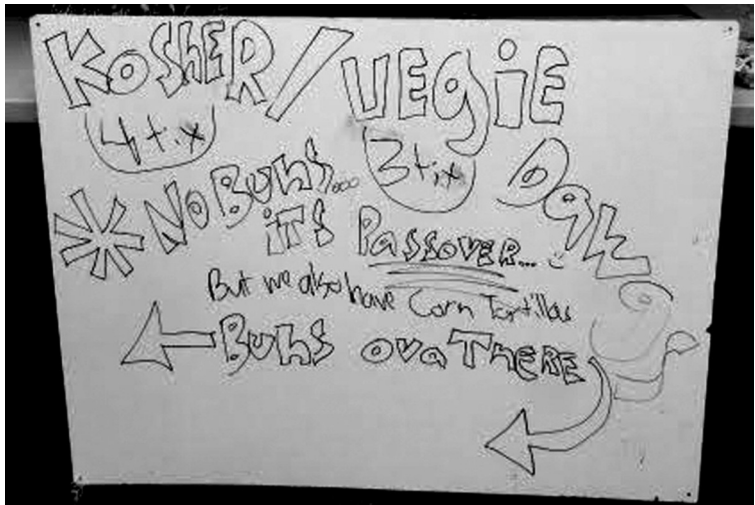

Finally, all day, on Alfred State College's lower campus, a smorgasbord of eats, games, bouncy houses, crafts, and music beguiled students, parents, visitors, and hordes of children.

The second photo is of the sign for bun-less (but we have corn tacos) vegie "hot dogs" for Passover, purveyed by Kyle Silverstein, AU Student Senate President, and Larry Greil, who are featured in the third photo.

Meanwhile, out of sight, silently serving, members of A. E. Crandall Hook and Ladder, Alfred's fire department, and nearby communities' fire and rescue departments, stood by at the fire hall Friday night, all day Saturday, and Saturday night, enabling rapid responses to emergencies regularly occasioned by over-indulgence in "something" by Hot Dog Day

STORK REPORT

Str8 Eight tourney on Mother's Day

ALFRED—May's Str8 Eight Night tournament will return to its usual 8 p.m. start time on Mother's Day, Sunday, May 8 in the Terra Cotta Coffeehouse.

April's tournament featured weather more appropriate to the season as compared to March when it felt like summer. A lively crowd of all ages took advantage of the earlier start time, but the evening was in the cards for the games' inventor, Peter McClain, who won the tournament, but passed the gift card down to Alfred University Junior, Kyle Merrifield, who finished second.

Will you or your dear Mumsie be able to defeat the games' inventor this month? Find out by taking Mom out for a nice dinner, then bringing her by the coffeehouse at 8 p.m., or a little earlier if you want to teach her how to play, and then enjoying an evening of free fun among fellow Alfred community members.

You can visit <http://str8-eight.com> for more information on how to play.

Deadline Friday, May 6 for camp scholarships

ALMOND—Last year, the Alfred Almond Alumni Association granted awards to AACS underclassmen to assist them in attending summer camps for sports, fine arts, music, and technology.

This year, thanks to generous donations from AA's alumni, financial assistance will also be available, according to Bill Pulos, AAAA president.

Business Association will meet May 11

ALFRED—The Alfred Area Business Association will hold its' next meeting at 5:30 p.m. Wednesday, May 11 at Alfred Village Hall. Members have held a planning meeting to formulate the Terra Cotta Company Picnic as a kick-off to the MostArts Festival. This will be a community picnic, building on the ceramics heritage of the Alfred Area. We will continue our plans at the upcoming meeting. All interested in serving and participating in this event are welcome.

SUNNY SIDE UP

Madge Sutton Van Horn's orange slush

[Editor's Note: Like most of the recipes she shared with our readers over the past couple of decades, Ellen Shultz's Sunny Side Up columns are worth repeating.]

Madge Sutton Van Horn moved to Alfred Station in 1942 and lived in the brick house next to the Country Store until she died. She nursed her husband, Harley Sutton, for nine years while he suffered from ALS. During this time she was the tax collector for the Town of Alfred. She taught math for one year at Alfred-Almond Central School and worked for several years for Ed Crandall in his jewelry store. Twenty years after Harley died she married Donald Van Horn. She was a very active member of the Alfred Station SDB Church and spent many hours working at Camp Harley Sutton.

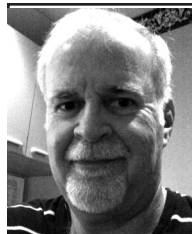

This recipe is a favorite of Madge's children and grandchildren. It must be served at all family holiday gatherings.

Orange Cocktail Slush

rind of 1 orange and 1 lemon, grated juice of 2 oranges and 2 lemons
1 small can crushed pineapple
2 bananas, mashed
1 pg. ginger ale
1 c. sugar

Mix all ingredients together. Put in small Dixie cups. Freeze. Defrost before serving, but serve while icy.

Snyde Remarks

By DAVID L. SNYDER
Editor, Publisher and Janitor

Kudos to the A.E. Crandall Hook and Ladder Fire Company, the Alfred Village Board and Alfred Police Chief Paul Griffith for an amazing job of maintaining the public safety during 2016 Hot Dog Day.

There's been plenty of discussion about Hot Dog Day during the past few years. There's been talk of calling the whole thing off. Permanent village residents have expressed fear that the partying has gotten out of control to the extent of becoming life-threatening.

The Alfred Village Board took steps to improve the situation by refusing the Hot Dog Day Committee to utilize Main Street for the carnival and street vendors, thus maintaining a flow of traffic along Alfred's artery. Alfred University hosted the afternoon events on campus last year, while this year it was Alfred State's turn. It works.

Likewise, after many years of the A.E. Crandall Hook and Ladder Fire Company's Ambulance Corps suffering "burn-out" during Hot Dog Day Weekend, a thorough, effective plan was implemented this year to provide sufficient coverage to meet the demands of the weekend. (See Becky Prophet's report on Page 13).

Likewise, Police Chief Griffith did a yeoman's job of maintaining the public peace and safety. I drove through town at 10 p.m. Saturday night to Herrick Library, which was ironically open for extended hours because of the advent of Final Examinations. There were more police cars than I've ever seen in Alfred at any given time, seemingly every 50 yards.

I since heard that one of the three students studying at Herrick Library Saturday night was pulled over by police when driving out of town to return to her home in Bath.

"Where have you been tonight," the officer inquired.

"At the library," she replied. A pile of books on back seat backed up her claim.

"Okay, I guess you can go ahead then," the officer said, "And drive carefully."

What a difference...

To the Editor:

A boy grows up in America saying he wants to become president. He is an outstanding student; he studies law; he enters politics. People say he is determined; he is dedicated. He is a public servant; he is a leader. He exemplifies moral certitude. His voice commands authority.

A girl follows the same path. People say she is ambitious; she is pushy; she is calculating; she is polarizing. She has forsaken her family; she is not feminine. She is insincere. Her voice is strident.

Oh, what a difference a penis makes!

'Unlimited' is sexist

Dear Editor:

I do not consider myself an arch-feminist, but I do think that Mr. Heineman's identification of Mrs. Clinton's presidential ambitions as "unlimited" is sexist, inflammatory, and irrelevant.

I would have thought "presidential" sets a limit to ambition. "Unlimited ambition" implies a self-centered plan for world domination, perhaps galactic rule....that is a bit silly. Does he not really mean that she dearly wants that position and will do what it takes to achieve that goal? If that is so, then Mr. Trump is similarly motivated and focused, so why not describe his ambition as unlimited, too? After all, he already has considerable corporate power and influence, as well as notoriety. Or does that kind of intent need to be spotlighted as inappropriate for a woman, while it is expected from a man?

As far as that goes, if you want to be President, you cannot have anything less than the intense perseverance and determination exhibited by both candidates. Superficially, the goals of both may be interpreted as self-indulgence. We must pray they have more to offer the nation than powerful, bloated egos.

A positive experience

Letter to the Editor

We had a number of the Alfred University football players come to do some Spring clean-up for us on Saturday, April 23. As has been our experience in the past, this was a positive experience for us. They were both hard workers and pleasant to be around. We enjoyed our interactions with them. They represented their team and college well.

FROM THE DESK OF DAVID PULLEN

By DAVID PULLEN
Allegany County Legislator

ECONOMIC DEVELOPMENT VISION, GRANTS AND HEALTH ISSUES

Several unique actions took place at the April 25th session of the Allegany County Legislature. Early in the meeting, County IDA Chairman Jack Wood was granted Privilege of the Floor to present proposed Resolution #122-16 consisting of a County Economic Development Vision and Mission Statement. This document was drafted by a Task Force Team jointly chaired by Jack Wood and Alfred State College President Skip Sullivan. That team was comprised of leaders from our colleges, our major manufacturing corporations, and several government officials. They worked on it for more than a year before presenting it to the Legislature. Jack Wood said this Vision and Mission Statement is a "big deal." It will focus and guide almost everything that our County does involving economic development over the coming years. I intend to dedicate next week's article to this, but wanted to recognize and emphasize the importance of what was just approved. To the best of our knowledge nothing like this has been accomplished in any other County in the State.

The Board session began at 2:00 p.m. Former Navy "SEABEES" Heavy Equipment Operator Roger Moyer led us in the Pledge of Allegiance. As a member of the "Seabees" he had served in Vietnam on three separate deployments. He now lives in Wellsville and is retired from National Fuel Gas Corporation. He is active in the Wellsville Lions Club and American Legion. Privilege of the Floor was also granted to Legislators Kevin LaForge and Judy Hopkins to speak regarding a newly established "Heroin and Opioid Abuse Ad Hoc Committee." This committee will study and publicize the crisis related to heroin and opioid abuse. It will seek to develop strategies to fight this problem.

Resolution #104-16 adopted Local Law No. 1 of 2016 that removes the requirement that all solid waste generated in the county must be disposed of at the county landfill. This reflects the fact that the County Landfill will soon be filled and closed. Resolution #105-16 introduced a proposed local law to increase the fee charged to those required to attend meetings of the STOP-DWI Victim Impact Panel, from $25 to $40. Resolution #106-16 supports ending State cuts in Health Department related fees, and supports increasing the reimbursement rates for mandated services.

A number of resolutions focused on the County Health Department. Resolution #107-16 approved the creation of a full-time account clerk/typist within the Health Department. Resolution #108-16 approved the reappointment of Dr. Leo Cusumano to the County Board of Health. Resolution #109-16 supported Rabies Prevention, and called for appropriate state funding to prevent rabies. Resolution #110-16 approved an application for a Comprehensive Adolescent Pregnancy Prevention Grant. Resolution #113-16 accepted and appropriated $17,610 from the Susan G. Komen Foundation to fight cancer and provide services. Resolution #120-16 approved a lease between Sanzo GT, LLC and the County Health Department for space for the Cancer Services Program in Cuba.

Several resolutions involved Public Safety matters. Resolution #111-16 approved an application for a LEMPG 2016 Grant of $23,335. Resolution #112-16 approved an application for a $52,500 State Homeland Security Program Grant. Resolution #116-16 transferred $90,000 from appropriated reserves to a capital account for the E-911 Equipment Room. Resolution #118-16 approved a contract between the NYS Department of Correctional Services and the County for purchase of food supplies for the County Jail.

Resolution #114-16 accepted $48,047 in federal funds for Community Services. Resolution #115-16 accepted $5,998 from the State Division of Criminal Justice Services for Community Service and Pre-Trial Programs. Resolution #117-16 approved a 25 year lease for land in the Town of Bolivar for an E-911 radio tower. Resolution #119-16 approved an agreement between AK Associates and the County to provide E-911 phone services to the E-911 Dispatch Center. Resolution #121-16 calls upon NYS to fully reimburse the county for increased District Attorney salaries mandated by the State.

ALFRED UNIVERSITY RILEY LECTURE

Eaklor's one-time pupil tells of breaking gender barrier

By CHEYENNE RAINFORD
AU Communications Junior

Sitting at the front of the stage is a woman, cross-legged on the floor behind what appears to be some kind of wooden xylophone. Mallets in hand, she strikes the bars and the instrument emits a deep, resonating thrum. It is the sort of sound you feel more than hear. As the notes swell and diminish, it is impossible not to marvel at her physical and mental investment in the manipulation of her mallets and the instrument before her.

The 21st annual Riley Lecture was held on April 4 in the Knight Club, Powell Campus Center. This lecture series is sponsored by the Riley sisters; Pamela Riley Osborn (class of '62), Patricia A. Riley (class of '65), and Melissa Riley; who put on the series in memory of their parents, Elizabeth Hallenbeck Riley and Charles P. Riley, both AU alumni.

This year, the Women's and Gender Studies program brought Saturday Night

Live (SNL) percussionist Valerie Naranjo to AU to deliver a conversation-style lecture called "Breaking Gender and Cultural Boundaries: A Conversation with World-Renowned Percussionist Valerie Naranjo." AU's own Dr. Vicki Eaklor, who was one of Naranjo's early percussion teachers, guided the discussion and facilitated the Q&A afterward.

Music has always held a prominent place in Naranjo's life. She said her grandfather would often invite people to his home to play music and that her mother strongly encouraged her to play drums in the school band. As she got older, Naranjo would play small venues like bars and the local VFW in her hometown, Alamosa, Colorado.

When Naranjo was 14 years old, she and her father had a falling out. He was a strict man, she said, and was upset when she came home late one night. Naranjo packed the necessities, including a practice pad for drumming, and moved in with a friend of her then-boyfriend. Since then, however, she and her parents have reconciled.

"I should take the past and put it where it belongs," she said. "Everyone is a human being ... we all deserve to respect each other."

After studying at the University of Oklahoma and Ithaca College, Naranjo moved to New York City. There, she joined Music Under New York, an organization which places musicians in the city's underground transit system to play music as a celebration of culture. Playing music on the streets is known as busking.

One day, while busking, a man approached Naranjo at her marimba. He stood inches from her face and scrutinized as her mallets bounded over the bars. When she finished her piece, the man, none other than famous American composer Elliot Goldenthal, asked if she would be interested in doing some work on Broadway.

Goldenthal and famous American stage and film director, Julie Taymor, brought Naranjo on board to play percussion in their production of "The Tempest." Taymor would later reach out to Naranjo again to offer her a place in Taymor's production of "The Lion King" on Broadway. Naranjo was the first musician hired for the production thanks to her West African training.

While in graduate school, Naranjo had to research the history of the marimba. She chose to focus on the gyil, a small West African marimba. Alas, there was little information on the instrument. It wasn't until she stumbled upon the African Record Center in Harlem that she found what she needed -- an album titled "Kakraba Lobi - Xylophone Master from Ghana."

"It was really an epiphany for me," she said.

In 1988, Naranjo finally gathered her courage and travelled to upper west Ghana, where the gyil drum is played as a part of traditional culture. When she arrived, Naranjo took a bus to the village where she would be staying and studying. As fate would have it, she met members of Ghana's Ministry of Tourism, Culture, and Creative Arts on that bus.

The Ministry members informed her that she had arrived just in time for the village festival to celebrate the gyil.

"I ran smack into a festival ... three days and three nights of celebrating this instrument," she said.

Upon her arrival in the village, Naranjo met the village chief, who wished to determine her worthiness to learn to play the gyil. Women had never been permitted to play the instrument before. Naranjo explained that the chief had travelled to London, England and had seen women in roles outside the home, which was different from village tradition.

He wanted to show, according to Naranjo, that "if women are allowed to think outside tradition, they can move tradition forward."

After learning the instrument, Naranjo went before the village council to demonstrate what she had learned. The council members were a mix of older and younger men from the village, she said.

After she finished her piece, the council erupted into a heated debate. Two cultural rules were at odds. The first dictates that the villagers are obligated to help an outsider learn about their way of life. The second, of which Naranjo had not been aware, was that women were not permitted to play the gyil.

In the end, the village chief settled the matter by saying, simply, "From now on, women will play the gyil." Unbeknownst to her, Naranjo had tripped over a cultural and gender barrier and, in doing so, had broken it.

Eaklor expressed a great deal of pride in her former pupil. She and Naranjo reconnected after Eaklor saw a screening of "The Tempest" in Washington, D.C. When Naranjo's name scrolled by in the credits, Eaklor decided to reach out.

"I hoped she'd gone on in music," Eaklor said. "And boy did she!"

TALK ON THE FOOTE COMPANY OF NUNDA

Foote Brothers revolutionized highway construction

NUNDA—As you enter Nunda from the north on Rt. 408 have you wondered about the large brick manufacturing building on the west side of State Street? This is currently the home of Seating Inc., but this land and building has a most interesting past that was important to Nunda and to the entire world.

It all started in 1832 when Chester Foote purchased farmland near the village of Nunda. Charles and Chester, two of his five talented grandsons, spent their youth in-venting things, became contractors, moved to the village, and began experimenting with concrete as a way to eliminate the dirt sidewalks that turned to mud whenever it rained.

On Wednesday, May 11, at 7 pm, the Nunda Historical Society invites you to a program, "The Foote Company: Nunda on the World Stage," by Joan Schumaker. Using photographs, documents, and stories, we follow the Foote Brothers as their experimentation led to the invention in 1903 of the first power mixer-paver machines, refinements that resulted in their machines being shipped nationwide and all over the world as early as 1918, and the MultiFoote Model 34E, the paver of choice for the United States Army and our allies during World War II.

The MultiFoote 34 E and the Adnum Black Top Paver, invented in 1930, were used to build critical airport runways overseas during World War II. For their contributions to the war effort, the Foote Manufacturing Company and its employees were awarded four prestigious Army-Navy "E" (for Excellence) Awards.

Foote Brothers inventions revolutionized all future highway and heavy construction and placed Nunda on the world stage. The company was purchased in 1948 by the Blaw-Knox Company of Pittsburgh, PA, a company building other heavy construction equipment. They continued building Foote pavers and other machines at the Nunda plant until October 1955 when they consolidated manufacturing at their headquarters in Mattoon, IL.

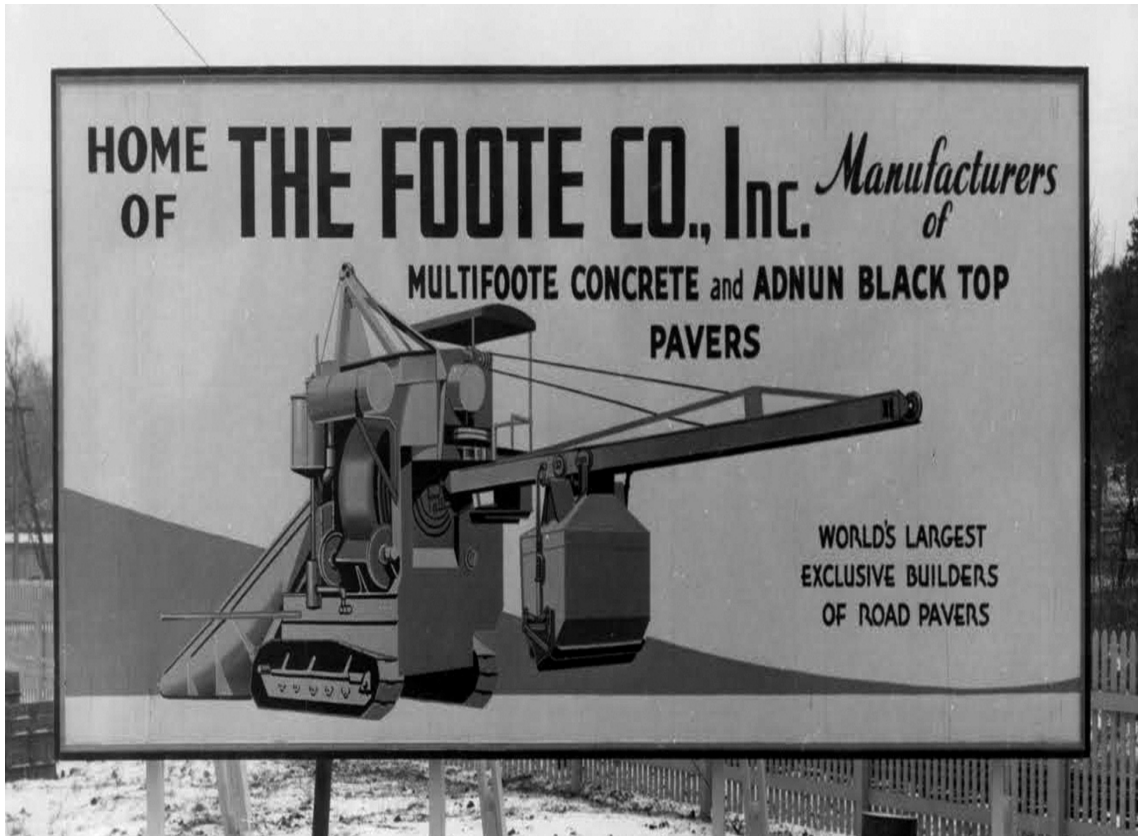

The Foote Company complex was sold by Blaw-Knox in January 1956 and has been occupied by several companies over the years. Any employees of these companies and their families, as well as the general public, are encouraged to attend this free program.

Note that the society building is handicapped accessible. For questions call: 585-465-0971 or 585-476-2354.

This sign once greeted visitors entering Nunda.

'Nighthawks' to perform in Wellsville

WELLSVILLE — The Nighthawks will perform at 8 p.m. Saturday, May 21 at the Wellsville Creative Arts Center. Advance tickets are $16, $18 at door. Members save an additional $2. Tickets may be purchased online at www.WellsvilleCreativeArts-Center.com or at the Art Center Coffee House. For more information visit the website or call (585) 593-3000.

Roots 'n' blues veterans the Nighthawks are a respected brand with a long and storied history behind the name. Formed in 1972 by singer/harp player Mark Wenner and guitarist Jimmy Thackery, the band was part of a thriving early 1970s Washington D.C. music scene that included talents like Roy Buchanan and Danny Gatton. Through the years, the band has released better than 20 albums and rotated through a number of musicians, but they've always been led by Wenner's undeniable vision and love of music.

Some 40+ years later, the band is still rockin' and earning new fans around the world. They are currently touring in support of their latest release, Back Porch Party.

Following up on their critically-acclaimed 2014 album 444, the Nighthawks – frontman Wenner, guitarist Paul Bell, bassist Johnny Castle, and drummer Mark Stutso – have put together another fine set of blues, soul, and rock 'n' roll with a bit of twang and R&B thrown in for good measure.

Back Porch Party was recorded "live and acoustic" in the studio, the band running through a dozen songs that include five originals as well as covers of classic tunes by Muddy Waters, Lightnin' Slim, Willie Dixon, Ike Turner, and Jimmy Rogers. A couple of performances defy expectations, even for a band as flexible as the Nighthawks – their own version of "Down In The Hole," better known as the theme from the acclaimed HBO series The Wire, and the Patsy Cline gem "Walkin' After Midnight."

DIY Chalkboard Refrigerator

Our refrigerator is 12 years old. Although it is working well it shows its age through dents, and an outdated color. I'm a list person so it was also covered in notes, lists and general mail. Looking at it would sometimes drive my OCD crazy so last week we decided to turn the whole fridge into a giant chalkboard! Now my lists are erasable and it's a fun work space for kids to express their creativity without causing damage.

DIY Chalkboard Refrigerator

1 quart Chalkboard paint (Tinker town Hardware carries a great brand in several colors)

1 6" roller

1 2" cutting brush

Paint tray

Chalk markers (Amazon has a 20 pack $18)

Start by filling a tray and using the cutting brush to cut in the sides. We left the edges of ours the original color for a nice contrast. Roll paint on, let dry 6 hours and apply second coat. Once fully dried, use chalk markers to make a calendar, to-do list or funny cartoon of your husband. Life's too short so have fun with your kitchen! What else have you chalk board painted?

MY TURN

By ALAN LITTELL
Alfred Sun Contributor

The Boy In The Shallows

I've pinned a photo to the wall behind my desk. It reminds me of a couple of things, and I'll tell you about them.

A small boy—he looks perhaps three years old—lies face down in the shallows a few yards from a Turkish beach. He is not paddling. He's dead. He wears a red shirt and blue shorts. The papers say he drowned somewhere out in the Aegean Sea and washed ashore. He and his family were part of that exodus of Syrians escaping, or trying to escape, from the holocaust of their country. His mother and brother died with him.

These are the facts of his life. There are no other facts. He did not live long enough to have facts.

I have a singular attachment to the boy in the shallows. We share the same given name. Alan. It must mean something in Syrian Arabic, or in the boy's Kurdish dialect, though I have no idea what that might be. The name probably doesn't even sound the way we say it, in two syllables clear and crisp.

Alan is common enough in the U.S., and in England, too, and, for all I know, in Syria as well. And so I have this connection. The boy in the shallows is also, at least for me, a portrait of our age. The image says something about brutality, greed, fear, ignorance, indifference, corruption, grief. Readers can fill in the rest of the blanks. There is plenty of room on the page.

What I think is this: we in our country have ships. We have the crews to sail these ships. I think we should have sent a ship. We might have saved that boy and others like him.

So there's this business of the name. At the same time, I am reminded of something else. In the years after the Second World War, we—I mean the United States—collected people like Alan and his family from camps all over Europe. They had a label. We called them displaced persons. We'd swept them up from the rubble of a dozen countries. We also salvaged those few surviving remnants of the concentration camps, Jews, gypsies, and so on.

I've read that between 1948 and 1952 we transported to America more than 400,000 of Europe's destitute. We carried them in a fleet of aging and battered ships that had once hauled troops across the globe.

I worked in one of those ships. I was 19. I sailed as ordinary seaman. The sea was my trade. Let me tell you about the first of the two voyages I made, in the fall of 1949, on the transatlantic refugee run. I've told the story elsewhere. Still, it's instructive. I will tell it again. Getting close to people seeking haven is my other connection to the boy in the shallows.

My ship had departed New York bound east for the north German port of Bremerhaven, then Europe's main assembly point for emigrants. We docked at that city's mile-long steamer quay and almost immediately began loading fuel and stores for a fast turnaround and the trip back to the States. It was a bright, warm morning in mid-September. I remember standing at the rail to watch a passenger train move slowly along the pier and clank to a stop a few yards from the foot of our gangway.

I think I saw about 1,000 people clamber out of that train. There were children of all ages. There were men and women, old and young. The adults clasped the youngest children tightly to them. All these people had big white nametags fixed to their lapels or looped round their necks. They wore a motley assortment of clothes and carried rucksacks or cardboard suitcases. Some only had parcels done up in string.

Once on board, the women, girls and smallest children were herded forward and several decks down to the old troop dormitories, fitted with pipe berths stacked in tiers. The men and boys went aft.

We sailed within hours. Our course lay west. The ship rode easily enough, but at the end of the second day, in the open Atlantic south and west of the English coast, her motion became more pronounced. A storm was making up in the west and a swell had risen out of the sea.

All that night and the next day, a westerly wind chalk-scarred the sea. The wind hardened, rising to gale force. Laboring under reduced speed, the ship staggered into cresting waves. She rolled, lurched and slid. Spray, carried by the wind, struck in sheets.

The passenger compartments had become impossibly foul. A couple of the ship's officers went below to spread ammonia, driving the people up and out. On deck, we rigged rope handholds. Soon, the refugees lay gray faced on cold steel with wind and spray sweeping over them. Yet the very young children pranced and tumbled, riding with glee the monster's heaving back.

The westbound passage took a week and a half. But not until we had fetched the lee of New York's harbor approaches did the wind at last abate. The sea became calm. We steamed up the ship channel into the city's upper bay. Abeam of Bedloe's Island and the Statue of Liberty, the refugees stood three and four deep at the port rail, staring. We shortly nosed into a slip at one of Manhattan's North River piers. Our passengers disembarked. They went down the gangway to whatever life their new country held for them.

I look again at the image of the boy in the shallows. I see the red of the shirt, the blue of the shorts. The boy's face is buried in the sea. He seems to be at peace. That, I know, is a delusion. I could say more. But I've said enough. So I will end this meditation at the place where it began.

We have the ships. We have the crews to sail these ships. We should have sent a ship. That's what I think we should have done.

We got screened for colon cancer
when we turned 50
and we're so glad we did.

Nothing signals arrival of spring better than dandelions' appearance

By DAVID SCHAUT
Master Gardener
Cornell Cooperative Extension of Allegany County

Nothing signals the arrival of spring more clearly and emphatically than the appearance of dandelions. There is a bit of excitement when you drive down a country road and pass a field of bright, green grass and thousands of bright, yellow dandelions. Your excitement might not be shared by the owner of the field, however.

Dandelions, the name comes from the French dent-de-lion, or lion's tooth, are native to North America and Eurasia. They are found nearly everywhere in the U.S., except in deserts, wetlands, and at high elevations. The plants begin to bloom in our area in late April, depending on the severity of the winter and are an early source of food for bees.

The dandelion originally evolved 30 million years ago in Eurasia and has been used by humans for food and as an herbal remedy for much of recorded history. Today there are 60 species of dandelion. The plant is very versatile as a food and is a source of vitamins A, C, and K, as well as calcium, potassium, iron, and manganese. The leaves can be eaten raw in salads or boiled. The blooms can be used to make wine. The root can be roasted and ground into a caffeine-free coffee substitute. It is also an ingredient in root beer and the British soft drink, dandelion and burdock.

As an herb, all parts of the dandelion have been used in history for disorders ranging from digestion, liver, kidney and it is considered a diuretic.

One species, the Russian dandelion, produces a rubber-like sap. It was cultivated during World War II in Russia and the U.S. as a rubber substitute, though it only yields about 10 percent of what rubber plants do. There is a recent resurgence in interest in the species due to blight affecting conventional rubber plants and changes in land use.

Despite the dandelion's long history and its usefulness, few gardeners or lawn owners are fond of it. Many go to great lengths to rid their property of the plant. Strategies for eradicating the plant depend on how many you have. You can simply dig up lone dandelions. It is important that you dig up all of the plant; the tap root of a mature dandelion can be as long as 12 inches. Any part of the root left behind will likely regenerate.

When you have a few—too many to dig up or pull—you can pour boiling water or spray a 5% vinegar solution directly on the plants. Spreading corn gluten meal four to six weeks before the plants appear is supposed to prevent growth (though determining when to spread the meal might be tricky). You can also use mulch to smother them or a garden torch to burn them out. Chickens and rabbits are fond of dandelions. If you can move their pens, they can help control dandelions.

If you have a big yard and lots of dandelions, the best way to control them is to mow before the blossoms go to seed. Overseeding your lawn, to crowd out the dandelions, is another strategy. It also works against other weeds and improves the appearance of your lawn.

No matter what method you use, remember that you will likely be doing it again next spring. Dandelions produce lots of seeds which are carried by the wind. Even if you get rid of all that are in your yard, it's likely that someone down the road won't be as diligent as you.

Kay Chapman, accompanied by Craig and Diane Mix and their son Jonathan, spent the April 7-10 weekend in New York City, spending nights at the home of Diane's sister, Mary Rousseau in Centerville, Long Island. On Friday, April 8, they went to see "An American in Paris" featuring the music of George and Ira Gershwin at the Palace Theater. On Saturday, they attended a NY Mets game. While Kay is a diehard Yankees fan, she couldn't pass on the free tickets to the game. The Mets lost, 1-0, but Kay enjoyed watching people. Following the game, en route back to Mary's house at 1 a.m., Kay came to the realization that it's true that New York City people never sleep. They visited a friend of Mary's who has a room full of Yankees memorabilia, things that he had collected over the past ten years. The trip was a much-appreciated Christmas gift from Craig and Diane.

An almost eight per cent increase in the Village of Alfred tax rate will result from the 1966-67 budget, which was approved at the Village Board meeting last Monday evening. The new tax rate in the $108,572 budget will be $23.5199 per $1,000 of assessed valuation. This is an increase of $1.7626 over the current rate of $21.75373 per $1,000 of assessed valuation... The meeting took place on the corner of Superior and Municipal Streets—or at least that is what the sign on the table in Fireman's Hall said. The sign was actually a sample of the street signs the purchase of which the board authorized to replace all of the street signs in the village. The double faced corner signs of porcelain enamel baked on steel will be purchased from Welles Bros. of Canisteo. The board purchased 42 assemblies which include 84 signs and 42 double assemblies for $462, $11 per assembly...

The Dugout—Unbelievable! The Alfred University Saxons lacrosse team, currently ranked 10th in the nation in the latest USILA Division III poll, with a record of 13-3, with all three losses to ranked teams, are through for the season. A.E. Crandall Hooks Fire Co.

All last month, as preparations for Hot Dog Day reached a high fever of activity on both campuses and in the Village of Alfred, the volunteer fire company leaders were hard at work preparing for this annual event. Prepping the equipment for intensive service over this weekend, as well as planning crews and responses soaked up hours of time for many in the company.

Months before HDD, the fire company leaders coordinated with Alfred Police, Student Affairs offices on both campuses, and Allegany County dispatch. Working from the improvements in protection from last year, the Fire Company connected with other village agencies and continued further development of strategies.

Four weeks before the event, Chief Zachary Hamm, President Bob Pipal, the two assistant chiefs and the EMS captain checked and double checked to be sure that supplies were within easy reach and in sufficient quantities. This same group, led by Chief Hamm and Assistant Chiefs Nancy Furlong and Paul Weaver (alphabetical, guys!) planned for standby crews and contacted area companies for standby in Alfred. When it came to Friday and Saturday, crews were signed up and assigned, then assembled at the fire hall to hope for no calls, yet to wait for any emergency.

Two weeks before Hot Dog Day 2016, the volunteers were asked to help assist cleaning up the fire hall to make it ready for many to be there on standby. It so happened that "Spring into Action" also provided the fire company with a team who painted the meeting room—perhaps for the first time in a few decades. Thanks! With a bright and clean space to work, the company gathered to continue preparation, appreciating the contributions of many college students.

Ten days before the festival, Chief Hamm put out a call to other area fire companies to join us in the return of the Hot Dog Day parade, coordinated by Dan Totten. A.E. Crandall members were asked, along with other volunteers to assist in washing and waxing vehicles for the parade. Wes Bentz, the company's treasurer and wrangler of standby crews for sporting events, efficiently and a tad forcefully gathered standby crews for several different sporting events that needed crews—on HDD two contact sports games were simultaneously played on each campus! That meant two crews at the fields, and Andover on standby for Alfred. In addition, teams of cooks were assembled to plan and create a sandwich supper for standby crews on Friday night and to create Alfred's most awesome potluck dinner for all people serving the village on Saturday night of HDD.

The weekend before Hot Dog Day this year, saw a major concert on each campus and the Woodmen's Conclave on the Alfred State campus. Standby crews had to be on these sites for several hours. There were also sporting events on both campuses. A total of five crews for ambulance had to be assembled on the weekend preceding Hot Dog Day. Most volunteers struggled to keep calendars straight!

On Friday, the day before Hot Dog Day, standby crews had to be assembled for AU's Honors Convocation, the Pine Hill Derby, and fireworks at A-State.

On Saturday, Hamm, Furlong, and Weaver, and EMS captain Jane Cochran projected the plans to use the company's EMS and other systems to the best advantage in the intensive days to come. They also coordinated the involvement of Andover and Almond for mutual aid throughout the weekend. With support from AU and A-State to hire MTS, a paid ambulance service, the chiefs also planned on the best ways to use MTS, Andover and Almond, along with Alfred.

In preparation for Friday night, April 29 volunteers set up tables and chairs in the truck bay and Friday evening food, beverages, and snacks were set up for the teams for that night. There were five major events that needed ambulance coverage and one of them needed fire coverage on Friday. We were a very busy volunteer company on the eve of Hot Dog Day. During the evening on Friday, the number of calls, along with all of the standbys took time and energy, but the planning really paid off!

On Saturday, several hours after the parade, as many as 90 people were prepared to protect life, health, and property throughout the village. Allegany County Dispatch, police from Alfred, Allegany County Sheriff's Department, Alfred State University Police, Alfred University security, New York State Troopers, and three ambulance services were ready to go. In addition the radio room at Alfred's fire hall was run by Rebecca Weaver Hamm and Zach Mazejka. These two alternated taking calls and recording statistics on both nights, to at least 3:00 a.m.

For sustenance and comfort, the county's most amazing potluck dinner—to last until 3:00 a.m.—was ready to serve all people working through the evening and into the night to keep Alfred and Hot Dog Day safe and healthy for village residents, students, and visitors.

As evening gave way to night time and energy and noise in the Village picked up, Chiefs Hamm, Furlong, and Weaver having organized all of Alfred's volunteers into teams that could respond in seconds to emergencies, stuck to their plans. People in trouble from too much of too much were taken to health centers on their particular campuses, or transported to emergency rooms in Hornell or Wellsville. As the night wore on and the coffee got stale people also stepped in to keep the potluck awesome, as officers and volunteers from other communities used the waiting time and quiet periods to socialize and eat a hot meal or indulge in a small snack.

The most moving/inspiring part of the evening came whenever there was a call. As dispatch called in for an emergency, a chief would walk into the truck bay and call out the next team to take a run. Cards and crocheting were dropped, games abandoned, and food left to go cold as an assigned teams of four or five left the hall to take care of the emergency then dispatched. The hours and hours of planning and preparation paid off as teams responded within seconds of a call coming in.

So many people working so many volunteer hours to protect life and health in the Village of Alfred!

While on assignment in England, in the Court of St. James, John Quincy Adams grew concerned for his mother's faith and sought to bolster it by a declaration of his own:

"My dear Mother...I find in the New Testament, Jesus Christ accosted in His own presence by one of His disciples as God, without disclaiming the appellation. I see Him explicitly declared by at least two other of the Apostles to be God, expressly and repeatedly announced, not only as having existed before the worlds, but as the Creator of the worlds, without beginning of days or end of years."

Prof reviews federal marijuana laws with Alfred State honors students

ALFRED—Alfred State Associate Professor Wayne Bensley met with Honors Program members April 21 at the college to review current federal laws controlling marijuana and to present data available from states that have approved the drug for medical and recreational use. The director of the college’s forensic science technology program, Bensley spent his earlier career in police labs testing for drugs and testifying in drug-related court cases. Despite being approved for medical use in an ever-growing number of states, including New York, marijuana remains a Schedule 1 drug, considered by the federal government “to have no medical use.” Bensley addressed this seeming contradiction, telling members, “In the 1930s, political influence, Hollywood filmmakers, yellow journalism, and a measure of racism put ‘reefer madness’ in the headlines and resulted in marijuana being considered in the same class as heroin by the government, making actual scientific research on the drug nearly impossible.” Bensley cited short-term positive data resulting from Colorado’s approval of recreational marijuana but also cautioned that the “experiment” in that state is only two years old, too soon to judge its success or failure.

ALFRED UNIVERSITY SPORTS ROUNDUP

Saxon softball team sweeps Fisher, punches E8 ticket

ALFRED—The Alfred University softball team swept a doubleheader from visiting 22nd-ranked St. John Fisher Saturday afternoon at Harrington Field, in the final Empire 8 Conference games for both teams.

In the opener, AU claimed a 1-0 victory, clinching a berth in the four-team Empire 8 Championship Tournament, which opens Friday at Ithaca College. In a wild second game, Fisher scored eight sixth-inning runs to take a 12-11 lead before AU tied it with a run in the seventh, then scored in the ninth to earn a 13-12 victory.

With the sweep, AU moves to 26-10 on the year (9-5 E8), while Fisher falls to 30-8 (10-4 E8).

In the first game, Alfred sophomore pitcher Kerri Keeler (Jamesville-DeWitt) outdueled Fisher standout hurler Lindsey Thayer. Keeler scattered four hits and struck out four to improve to 9-6 on the year.

Thayer, the nation's leader in strikeouts with 295 coming in, fanned 15 AU batters and allowed just one hit. But one hit was all the Saxons would need, as junior Liz Thompson (Horseheads), leading off the bottom of the first, belted a 1-2 pitch off the left field foul pole for a solo home run.

That was all the run support Keeler would need, as she held the Cardinals in check, stranding eight runners. Fisher threatened in the fifth, loading the bases with two outs before Keeler induced a pop-up to third to end the inning. Fisher's Jennifer Knaak doubled leading off the sixth, but Keeler retired the next three batters, then set the Cardinals down in order in the seventh.

AU used the long ball to jump ahead in the second game, answering Fisher's two-run first. In the bottom of the frame, sophomore Haley Powers (Newark, DE/St. Georges Tach) blasted a three-run shot over the fence in left-center to drive in senior outfielder Samantha Jauregui (Lindsay, CA) and senior shortstop Nicole Maher (Newark, DE/Caravel Academy), who had each singled.

Alfred plated two more in the second. With one out, junior outfielder Brooke Hockeborn (Horseheads) singled and one out later Jauregui singled to put runners on first and second. Maher singled home Hockeborn and Powers followed with a single to bring home Jauregui. In the fourth, Thompson and Jauregui singled ahead of Maher's three-run home run to left-center, which game the Saxons an 8-2 lead.

Fisher plated a pair of unearned runs in the fifth off junior Sophia Chiavatti (Tustin, CA/Foothill)—aided by three AU errors—to pulled within four runs, at 8-4. The Saxons responded with three runs in the bottom of the frame. Thompson led off the inning with a single and came round to score on a Powers groundout. Senior second baseman Dana Torchia (Pompton Plains, NJ/Pequannock Twp.) singled Maher home and then scored on a double to center by senior catcher Jasmine Picini (Alexandria, VA/West Potomac) to make it 11-4.

Fisher sent 11 batters to the plate in the sixth, scoring eight runs (five earned) to go up 12-11. The Cardinals had five hits in the inning and benefitted from three AU errors.

Keeler E8 Pitcher of the Week

ALFRED—Kerri Keeler (Jamesville-DeWitt), a pitcher on the Alfred University softball team, has been named Empire 8 Conference Pitcher of the Week, the conference announced Monday.

Keeler was honored for her play in three games last week, in which she went 2-0.

She earned the wins in both ends of a home Empire 8 doubleheader against 22nd-ranked St. John Fisher. In the opener she pitched a complete-game, four-hit shutout, striking out four to outduel Fisher's Lindsey Thayer (15 strikeouts) in a 1-0 Saxon win. The victory clinched a berth for AU in the E8 championship tournament. In the second game, Keeler tossed three innings of two-hit scoreless relief, striking out one to get the victory in Alfred's 13-12 nine-inning win.

Keeler also started a non-league game against Hilbert, pitching one inning and allowing an earned run. For the week, she allowed one run in 11 innings for a 0.64 ERA.

On the season, Keeler is 10-6 with a 2.69 earned run average and 68 strikeouts. In Empire 8 play, she is 6-2 with a 1.91 ERA and 34 strikeouts.

Alfred is 26-10 overall and finished league play with a 9-5 conference mark. The Saxons were scheduled to wrap up their regular season Tuesday, May 3, with a doubleheader against Keuka.

The Saxons begin play Friday in the four-team Empire 8 Conference Championship Tournament. AU is seeded fourth in the double-elimination tournament and will take on top-seeded host team Ithaca at noon Friday. The other opening-round game be-

Down to their last out in the seventh, Powers worked a two-out walk and moved to second on a wild pitch before scoring on a Torchia double to knot the game at 12-12.

After a scoreless eighth, Keeler, who came on in relief of Chiavatti to start the seventh, set the Cardinals down in the ninth. Jauregui singled with one out in the bottom of the ninth and raced home from first on Maher's double to right-center, giving the Saxons the win. The RBI was the 124th of Maher's career, breaking the school record of 123 held by Jesika LeBarron (2007-10).

Maher was 4-for-6 with three runs and five RBIs and Powers had two hits, scored twice and drove in five for the Saxons. Jauregui was 5-for-6 and scored four runs and Torchia had three hits, scored once and drove in two. Jauregui's five hits tied the AU single-game record held by Jessica Snyder and Stephanie Arguello.

Keeler pitched three scoreless innings of two-hit ball in relief of Chiavatti, striking out two to move to 10-6 on the year. Chiavatti allowed 10 runs (three unearned) in seven hits. She came on in the fourth in relief of sophomore starter Shannon Schaefer (Westfield, NJ), who went three innings, allowing two unearned runs on three hits.

Alfred has a non-league doubleheader at 3 p.m. on Tuesday, May 3, against visiting Keuka College ahead of next weekend's conference championship tournament. The Saxons will be seeded fourth and will play top-seeded host team Ithaca on Friday. Fisher will play Utica in the other opening-round game of the double-elimination tournament, the winner of which earns the conference's automatic bid to the NCAA playoffs.

Lax team falls to Fisher

The Alfred University men's lacrosse team (10-5, E8 4-4) relinquished a 6-1 first half lead to fall to St. John Fisher College 9-7 at home Saturday afternoon.

AU jumped out to an early 3-1 lead in the game, scoring three times in the first five minutes. Sophomore Jake Lynch (Whitney Point) tipped off the scoring for the Saxons where he was followed by freshman Joe Fornataro (Rochester/Greece Athena) and junior Derek Bishopp (Livonia).

Midway through the second quarter the Saxons held a 6-1 lead behind two more goals from Lynch and another from Bishopp. However, the Cardinals rattled off four consecutive goals to close the half to bring the game to 6-5 at the intermission.

The Saxons opened the scoring in the third quarter when sophomore Samuel DiRisio (Prattsburgh/Penn Yan) ripped a shot from the top of the offensive third of the field. However, the Saxons remained scoreless the remainder of the game and allowed four goals to St. John Fisher, falling 9-7.

Lynch paced AU with a hat-trick while Bishopp chipped in with two goals. Fisher was led by Nick Papayanakos with three goals.

Junior John Winchell (Vestal) accumulated two assists as fellow junior Nick Skibitsky (Williamsville East) had one. Winchell collected four ground balls in the game.

Junior Jimmy Pratti (Slatehill/Minisink Valley) won 9-of-19 faceoffs and led AU with five ground balls. Senior Nolan Jessop (Rochester/Churchville-Chili) led the Saxons with two caused turnovers to accompany two ground balls.

Sophomore Drew Gardner (Whitney Point) played the entire game in goal for AU, making 10 saves. Fisher's Tanner Swan collected 14 saves in the game.

With the loss the Saxons were held from the Empire 8 Championship tournament and now await word on an ECAC bid. During the 2015 season, AU hosted the ECAC Division III championships, topping Stockton University 10-6 in the first round and falling to Western New England University in the championship game 14-13.

At the NYS Multi Championships, Jake Hawley (Susquehanna) was 8th while Teboe was 9th in the decathlon. Holly Fiore (Niagara Falls) was 13th and recorded the 5th highest point total in the heptathlon.

HITS AND MISSES:

It is off to the Empire Eight (E8) post-season softball tournament for the Alfred Saxons (26-10) as they took care of business this weekend past to secure the #4 slot in the double-elimination format to be held at Ithaca. The Saxons had a non-league tilt scheduled for this past Tuesday against Keuka College and it'll probably be a good tune-up before the E8 outing. If Alfred beats Keuka and goes 2-2 in the tourney, they should be in line for an at-large bid to the NCAA tournament. Have to figure Ithaca will win it all at home. Nice comeback of late for the Saxons in a season marred by weather cancellations/postponements.

The Alfred University men's lax team wasn't as fortunate in their "winners advance" game as they fell to the SJ Fisher Cardinals, on Hot Dog Day, at Merrill Field, 9-7. Ouch. Fisher thus grabs the #4 slot and gets to face the red-hot Ithaca Bombers in one semi-final E8 outing. Nazareth and Stevens will face-off in the other game in Rochester as the Golden Flyers topped Stevens in NJ over the weekend, 17-15. Huge win for 'Naz on the road to secure a semi-final home game. Will go with Ithaca over Nazareth in the finals on Saturday.

Coach Jeff Long's Bombers are rolling as they drilled Elmira, 22-3 and Hartwick, 16-3 in E8 play last week to wrap-up a (16-1) regular season slate. Ithaca also moved into the #1 ranking in the latest USILA lax poll as Salisbury lost to York. RIT (15-1) is second, Salisbury drops to third, St. Lawrence (15-1) stays at #4, always-tough Tufts is fifth and RPI is 15th. The Liberty League finals could pit the #2 and #4 ranked teams in the nation in the championship game and it'll probably work out that way. Pretty impressive!

Will be interesting to see how the NCAA places the three NYS teams in the upcoming tournament. Have to believe Ithaca, RIT and SLU are all in one way or the other. The current 1-2-4 ranked teams in the land and two will clash early on ... way too early, as the NCAA keeps teams in same regions in opening rounds. In the latest Division III women's lacrosse poll, Cortland (16-0) remains at #1 and will probably meet Brockport (#14) in the SUNYAC finals. Ithaca is ranked 19th and Union is in at #20.

Tim Mead (Andover) and his Walsh Cavs baseball team (23-21) in Ohio have six conference games left on the schedule for their 2016 campaign. Walsh plays two against Lake Erie and four versus Hillsdale before the league tourney.

Skip Sherman (A-A) and his Genesee CC baseball squad (14-29) is enjoying a late season run as they have grabbed wins in nine of their last 13 contests. The Cougars have games left against: Erie CC, Tompkins Cortland, Broome CC and Niagara CCC.

Joe Q. French and his UMBC Retrievers softball program (23-27) split league outings versus UMass-Lowell with the third game cancelled and are off to Maine this weekend for (3) to finish up the regular season. Yikes ... probably snowing up there still.

Former Alfred University coach Gino Olivieri and his Coppin State Eagles softball team completed a "nifty" (5-31) campaign. Ouch. Wonder how that went after his enormous success of late at AU?

It was a mini-reunion of the famed Torrey Painting Striders two weeks back at Alfred University as John Tuttle and Gary "Doc" Moore were part of a clinic put on with AU graduate, Bob Sevene the headliner at the event. Striders team owner/manager Robert H. Torrey was in attendance. Derck Frechette was not.

Big D did take in the recent PBA50 bowling tournament on the senior circuit at The Villages in Florida as the Spanish Springs Lanes hosted the event. Hall of Famer, Pete Weber took home the first-place trophy, his fifth-win on the 50+ tour. Tom Baker, formerly of Buffalo was fifth. Walter Ray Williams came in ninth, Jerry Brunette of Rochester was 18th, Parker Bohn III was 23rd and Jack Jurek of Lackawanna cashed at #27. No Norm Duke entered though?

Mike Tirico and Skip Bayless (who cares) are departing ESPN and headed elsewhere. Going to miss Tirico as he is one of my favorite announcers but Bayless is just plain annoying. Not sure where he is going but too bad he wasn't taking Stephen A. Smith with him! Tirico and Jon Gruden are excellent on MNF and will be interesting to see who takes over that slot. Guessing Sean McDonough (not of

ALFRED STATE RELAY FOR LIFE

Alfred State students raise $24,000

ALFRED—Nearly 250 participants from 19 teams helped raise almost $24,000 for the fight against cancer April 8-9 during Alfred State's sixth annual Relay for Life.

The theme of this year's Relay was "Toon Out Cancer," in which each registered team selected a cartoon theme for their campsite. Events were held throughout the evening that gave teams a chance to show their dedication to their theme.

Krystal Perlman, college Help

Desk coordinator and adviser to the student-run Alfred State Relay for Life Planning Committee, said this year's Relay was one of the most well-attended so far. She said the event even had a surprise visit from retired faculty member Michelle Green, who doubled the fundraising efforts of the Gamma Theta Gamma Fraternity team.

"Michelle is a wonderful supporter of our event and is always brainstorming ways we can try to get more faculty, retired faculty, and community members involved in our event," Perlman said.

Brittany Richards, event chair and a forensic science technology major from Geneseo, said this year's Relay was "beyond successful" from the organizing committee's point of view.

"We had nearly 20 clubs and organizations participate in the event and bring such a positive attitude," she said.

Alfred!).

Luke Walton the next coach of the once-strong LA Lakers in the NBA. Good for him but will be quite the struggle there. Not much incentive for the big-name free agents to go to the Lakers and this young team is years away from competing for a title.

Should be quite the Western Conference finals in the NBA as the Golden State Warriors and San Antonio Spurs collide. Both teams at the top of their game and the Warriors are still without Steph Curry at the moment. Would not be a huge surprise to see the Spurs knock off the defending champs.

On paper, a solid NFL draft for the Buffalo Bills as they filled some holes they needed to on the defensive side. On paper anyhow, the first three picks should be of help right away.

The Dallas Cowboys on the other hand, drafted Ezekiel Elliot of Ohio State ... not to be confused with "Zeke" Higgins out of Alfred University, a great player but they sorely needed defensive help. Taking Elliot at #4 when defensive help galore was available won't help the "D" in Big D!

The Oakland-Los Angeles-Oakland-Las Vegas Raiders?

The London Jaguars?

Jon French ... definitely not to be confused with Joe, won the Sonnenberg Spring 5K over the weekend past.

The Rochester Knighthawks (6-12) out of the NLL lax playoffs. Yikes.

"Nice" ancient and fading MLB team GM Brian Cashman has put together with the NY Yankees. Tough to watch. And why does ESPN stick them and the Red Sox on back-to-back Sunday nites? Lets see the Cubs (Kris Bryant), Nats (Bryce Harper), Mets (pitching staff) or White Sox, Angels (Mike Trout) instead!

An excellent cookout on a chilly Sunday past at Baker's in Penfield/Fairport! As the rest of the Baker family was wandering around Europe, it was time for Bakes to fire up the "Green Egg" for another great meal. Eight guys there total ... relatives, Geneseo friends, church friends and me. Thanks, as always!

Mom in Florida ... Happy Mother's Day this Sunday !!

A week ago Monday (4/25) Dean U. Long passed away in Mississippi. The former resident of Canaseraga and Olean. Guessing not many of you reading this actually knew him but (at least) heard of him thru this column. I first met "Ungawa" thru my brother Steve as they went to the Olean Business Institute together and shared an apartment in Allegany. In the days immediately following his passing, there were posts on FB with "thanks" from people all over the place and many of them mentioning his help with someone in their family on the fast-pitch field. A pitching coach at one-time for St. Bonaventure, which at the time, amazed me.

Long and I had many "adventures" over the years as he was a frequent visitor to 100 Main Street in Almond, back in the day. I sat down and jotted down the different places we went or things we did over the years and was surprised at how many different things we did "touring around!" And, sure I forget many here and there as well.

He and I took a trip to Geneva, Ohio once to see brother Steve and made it as far as Mayville. Brutal snowstorm. Stopped at a bar to wait it out, played pool games galore and ended up staying the nite in a nearby hotel. Car wouldn't start the next day because the engine was packed with snow. Eventually made it there.

Cutter, Gervin, Oscar and I (maybe Freddie) once went to Long's place in Olean for a spaghetti dinner he was always bragging about making. Meal was good ... with no napkins! Spaghetti with no napkins, minor details.

Cutter, Oscar, Ungawa and I once went to a bowling tournament over in Perry as Long knew people over there. Oscar-Long teammates, Cutter and me. Doubles tournament. Cutter and I smoked them!

Long and brother Steve played on a fast-pitch team in Dansville called Dansville Pump (I believe). They asked me to play when I could and I gained a measure of respect for that game as it was slow pitch only for me. Ungawa pitched, Steve at 1B and me in LF. Was in "LF" at the plate!

Ungawa played some slow pitch with us over the years, Farm & Home in the league and with our Bandits team as well. Once over at Wadsworth, with Denny Allen making a rare appearance for us, Long had the nerve to flip Allen backwards out of his chair. "Lumpy" not amused.

One time at the Lions Park he stopped by one of our Farm & Home games that Pat Atwell happened to be at. Long, of course, challenged Atwell to a fast-pitch "contest." Ungawa didn't strike him out.

He filled in pitching for me once in the AASPL playoffs when I hurt my knee. The "Clam Shooter" versus the Alfred Sports Center. Lost in five tough games but he pitched well.

A frequent visitor at the Bud Bash with Canfield, "Chiefy" by mistake at a Rod & Gun party, a response by Buggie, a battle with Boagie, a Gus Macker official. All part of Dean U. Long's resume and so much more, I'm sure.

Family was very important to him and thus his move from Eldred, Pa. to Mississippi after an early "retirement" from the state below us. His daughters and grandkids were in the deep south. He went!

The last time I saw Dean U. Long we golfed at the Livingston CC in Geneseo. Swapping stories all the way around about our past together. Some I can't print here. He surprised me on the links that day, something like 94-95. A solid, all around day.

A character to say the least.

"Ungawa" ... "Later, Much!"
