

Cedar Point gathering

Alfred State's wind turbine 'catching the breeze'

ALFRED—The newest member of Alfred State's growing renewable energy family is currently catching the breeze above campus—a 100 kilowatt grid-tied wind turbine that will offset some of the college's electricity usage. The turbine came online just a few weeks ago and is already producing clean, green energy.

"This community wind project is another example of sustainability at the college and highlights the progress of our Center for Renewable Energy," says Craig Clark, interim vice president for academic affairs at Alfred State.

The wind project has been 14 months in the making—an initiative made possible through grants from both the Appalachian Regional Commission and the New York State Energy Research and Development Authority (NYSERDA), which together provided more than 50 percent of the funding.

"The project will not only produce energy for the campus but also expose students to another wind turbine on campus," Clark says. In fact, one of the project's main goals is to establish a small wind laboratory for students within already existing programs, offering them even more hands-on experience with green technologies. "This knowledge will increase industry demand for these graduates," he says.

Alfred State already has several other smaller wind turbines on the Wellsville campus, as well as a zero energy demonstration home, active and passive solar technology, geothermal, and a host of other green technologies already in place in facilities like the new $33 million Student Leadership Center.

And a second zero energy demonstration home—dubbed Pioneer Landing—is also in the works, with students getting involved in the design and building of the project.

In a world with rising energy costs, climate change, and dwindling resources, Alfred State is taking a proactive approach to the future of energy.

"This wind turbine is an important step towards achieving Alfred State's emissions reduction goals," says Julian Dautremont-Smith, chief sustainability officer at Alfred State. The project will complement the college's growing emphasis on sustainability and strengthen the region's access to training and employment in green industries.

"Alfred State has been a leader in educating technical students since at least the 1940s and students in trades for more than 45 years. It's what we're known for," Clark says. "There is a real lack of this type of skilled workforce in the region, and a lack of models to sell community wind. This project will allow Alfred State to continue training the highly skilled workers the industry requires and help meet national, state, and regional needs."

AU School Psychology gets full approval through 2018

ALFRED—The National Association of School Psychologists (NASP) has completed its review of the Alfred University (AU) Specialist (MA/CAS) Program in School Psychology and has granted full approval of the curriculum through 2018.

"This recognition affirms the continuing excellence of the Alfred University Program," said Dr. Nancy Evangelista, dean of the College of Professional Studies. "This process of comprehensive peer review culminating in full approval brings prestige and visibility to the program, the College of Professional Studies, and Alfred University."

Alfred University's MA/CAS was one of the first such programs to achieve national approval and has maintained this status through four periodic reviews since 1994. NASP approval means the program meets nationally recognized standards for education and training in the field of school psychology. Such approval qualifies program graduates for national-level certification in school psychology, a credential that facilitates certification in 35 states beyond New York.

AU's MA/CAS program in School Psychology, consisting of two years of full-time study followed by a full year internship, satisfies the academic portion of the NYS Education Department requirements for permanent certification. The program also satisfies requirements for national certification

AU alum named first guest speaker in 'Women of Influence' Lectures

ALFRED—Alfred University's (AU) Women's Leadership Center (WLC) will host alumna Sibyl S. McNulty, lawyer with Riley, Hewitt, Witte & Romano, Pittsburgh, as the first guest speaker in the 2013-14 "Women of Influence" series on Wednesday, Oct. 9 at 5:30 p.m. at the Judson Leadership Center on campus. The program is open to the public; admission is free.

McNulty's discussion, "Traveling Through Life without GPS: Detours, Decisions and Destiny" will focus on keeping options open when it comes to employment opportunities and embracing the unknown. She will share her perspectives and experiences from a life which has "meandered from AU as an English major to housewife and mother to major litigator."

Throughout her law career McNulty has tried more than 50 asbestos cases to verdict in both state and federal courts throughout Pennsylvania, always as lead counsel. In addition, she has represented the interests of her clients in courts in Ohio, Kentucky, and West Virginia and has managed various programs for them. She continues to handle matters involved in asbestos litigation and maintains a small family law and estate administrative practice.

McNulty is a member of the Pennsylvania Bar Association, the American Bar Association, the Women's Bar Association of Western Pennsylvania, and the Allegheny County Bar Association. She has been active in the Pittsburgh Chapter of The Matrimonial Inns of Court and in the Executive Women's Council of Western Pennsylvania.

McNulty earned a bachelor of arts degree from AU in 1967. She went on to earn her J.D. degree from The University of Pittsburgh School of Law in 1981.

The WLC builds on Alfred University's heritage as the first truly coeducational institution on the nation. The Women of Influence program brings powerful female role models to campus, providing opportunities for inspiration and guidance through lectures and small group discussions. Past speakers have included a NYS Supreme court judge, a dean of a medical college, and a lobbyist from Albany.

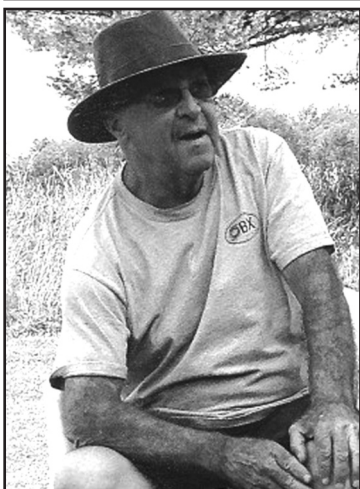

For more information about the Women of Influence Series at Alfred University call the Women's Leadership Center at 607.871.2971.

President Emeritus speaks at New Horizons Forum

ALFRED—Alfred State President Emeritus Bill Rezak returned to campus to open this semester's New Horizons Forum Fall Series with "An Arab-American Looks at the Palestinian-Israeli Conflict."

A first generation American with Palestinian roots, Dr. Rezak was a featured speaker at the forum on the occasion of the publication of his book, The Arab and the Brit: The Last of the Welcome Immigrants published by Syracuse University Press. Forum director and SUNY Distinguished Service Professor Emeritus Joe Flynn noted "Bill's book is an important contribution to current conversations surrounding immigration and foreign affairs in the Middle East. More than that, it is a deeply moving and personal family memoir at once richly historical and told in a compelling narrative style."

Rezak's talk was drawn from family history as well as his current research for a book in progress on the Israeli-Palestinian conflict.

William D. Rezak was president of Alfred State from 1993 until his retirement in 2003. Formerly dean of the School of Technology at Southern Polytechnic State University in Marietta, Georgia, he spent 18 years as a mechanical engineer involved in the design and construction of power plants.

The forum was held in the Small Events Room of the Student Leadership Center (SLC 310) at 7 p.m. Wednesday, Sept. 25. An open conversation was to follow Rezak's prepared remarks.

The New Horizons Forum, sponsored by the School of Arts and Sciences, showcases current scholarly, creative, and public service work by faculty, students, administrators, professional staff, and invited guests. It is guided by a campus-wide advisory board of faculty, students, professional staff, and administrators working together to enrich the intellectual life of the institution.

Scene About Alfred

By SHERRY VOLK
Alfred Sun Columnist

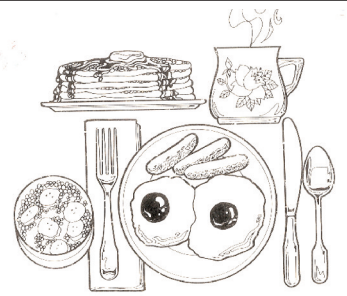

Here are the ripples and rills of beautiful pest plant, Japanese knotweed, sometimes called, simply, bamboo, though with its broad leaves is unrelated. This is a stand at the base of Waterwells Road in Alfred (or at the summit of West University, if that is your preference). The bees love it, and it has a lovely odor, but it has a reputation similar to another import from Japan, kudzu, with many of the same habits, though it does not climb on other vegetation.

It spreads perniciously on disturbed soil, especially stream banks, and forms dense thickets that crowd out other vegetation. It is an annual, but because of its method of reproduction by underground stems (rhizomes), pops back up year after year, and increases its domain as well. This particular stand froze back to ground level in the late spring, but you would never know it by the lush display it presents now.

A different type of stuffed zucchini

This recipe was given to me many years ago by dear friend Donna Higby. She had brought it to a dish-to-pass cast party after one of our productions. I thought it was delicious and something I hadn't seen before. Many of the kids loved it too. Most stuffed zucchini recipes I've seen use meat or bread stuffing. This makes a great change.

Stuffed Zucchini

6 medium zucchini
1 T. minced onion
1 cup sour cream
chopped black olives and parsley for garnish

1 pkg. (3oz.) cream cheese
¼ tsp. pepper
paprika

Place whole unpeeled zucchini in boiling water to cover but do not cover pan. Reduce heat and simmer until nearly tender, approx. 10 minutes. Allow to cool until you are able to handle them, then cut each in half lengthwise and scoop out seeds into a small bowl. Mix seeds with cream cheese, minced onion, salt and pepper. Stuff mixture back into zucchini halves and arrange them in a buttered baking dish. Spoon sour cream evenly over the top of each. Bake 10 minutes at 325 degrees. Garnish with paprika, olives, and parsley.

'Model U.N. Club' topic of Bergren Forum

ALFRED—Dr. Christopher Churchill, Alfred University (AU) professor of history, along with some of his students will be speaking about the University's Model U.N. Club as a part of Alfred University's Bergren Forum Series. The presentation will take place on Thursday Sept. 26 at 12:10 p.m. in Nevins Theater, Powell Campus Center. The event is open to the public free of charge.

Churchill and the AU model U.N. Club took a trip to Montreal, Canada last summer to attend an international student debate/convention where current events and politics were discussed with peers from across the globe. They also spent part of the trip touring the French-speaking city. The lunch-time presentation will focus on the time spent at the convention and in Canada as well as what the Model U.N. Club is and what it has to offer as an experience for students.

Churchill earned a bachelor's degree in history from Concordia University. He continued his education and received a master's degree and a Ph.D. in history from Queens University, Kingston, Ontario, Canada. Along with teaching at AU, Churchill has been published on numerous occasions including in the "World History Encyclopedia."

The Bergren Forum, sponsored by the Alfred University Division of Human Studies in the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences, meets Thursdays during each academic semester at the University. Participants are encouraged to bring a lunch; coffee and tea will be available.

Trade agreement scam

Letter to the Editor:

September 23, 2013
Watch Out For Another Trade Agreement Scam!

I just finished a poll survey, probably authorized by the Obama Administration. I keep trying to tell them that I am an Independent voter now. One question was: "What would you say to another Democrat to inspire them to get involved with or contribute to this organization (DNC)?"

I more or less replied, "Absolutely nothing; but, I will share the truth that the Obama Administration is attempting to quietly push through the Trans-Pacific Partnership Treaty (TPP), an anti-democratic, international trade agreement that would, with its passage in Congress, using "fast-tracking" procedures, eliminate every single protection American citizens have under our U.S. Constitution and established laws, and will leave people no other option but to overthrow the illegitimate, corporate governance coming fully to power in the U.S., essentially by "treaty," coup d'état, while completely bypassing any real public involvement."

We may even have a bigger surprise in store with many of the Congressional Democrats and Republicans getting together to push this disastrous treaty, without an open public hearing, quickly toward a floor vote, up or down, while cooperating as the "closest of friends" for a change. Who would have believed it?

Now days, very few of our elected representatives are willing to forego the monies flowing into their "pockets" from corporate America, by them not doing the bidding of corporations.

Will you hear anything about this on the national news broadcasts and by other large news media? Certainly, it will be the usual chorus of networks and corporate presses, "singing the praises" of what the passage of TPP is going to mean for "increased new, high-paying jobs" being created. We fell for that once; and some of us, maybe even twice ... remember under Clinton, with NAFTA, and then George W., with the forerunner of TPP?

Being desperate for jobs doesn't merit our having to surrender our rights or our democracy just for another "hollow" promise. You know that the Republican Party plan for depriving 4 million people of food stamps was designed to make us accept what is coming, without much of a fuss.

Don't take my word for this latest Obama episode of "hoodwinking" the public again; see for your self by just going to the real "leftist" organizations who actually do care about citizens' rights, no matter who you are: Public Citizen's Global Trade Watch - www.tradewatch.org and Citizens Trade Campaign - www.citizenstrade.org.

I think this just might unite the American people.

Oncoming train wreck

Letter to the Editor:

Key Obamacare architect, Senator Max Baucus, says that it's an oncoming "a train wreck." Dr. Howard Dean, liberal presidential contender in 2004, now admits that IPAB in Obamacare is indeed a rationing panel. Still, there is time to delay its implementation. In fact, President Obama himself delayed the employer mandate on big business for one year, after he said that everybody has to play by the same rules. With a wink and a nod from the President, Congress, like big business, recently received a special waiver. That leaves the rest of us left to play by the rules. Since President Obama said that everybody has to play by the same rules, wouldn't it make sense to at least delay Obamacare for everybody and not just for some?

Obamacare has taxpayer subsidies for people who qualify. However, the verification rules for acquiring the subsidies are inadequately prepared for next year's due date. So, the president has arbitrarily decided that "the honor system" will suffice. His "we'll-just take-their-word-for-it" policy makes taxpayer subsidies easy pickings for defrauding billions out of the system. If welfare fraud isn't bad enough, we haven't seen anything yet with Obamacare woefully unprepared. Wouldn't it make sense to at least delay its implementation since vitally important verification checks aren't even in place yet?

In July, I received a letter from my insurance company saying that my policy will be terminated due to Obamacare. I must go to the state exchange to purchase a policy, but President Obama said that if we liked our current health care we could keep it. I like my policy and my doctor. I want to keep them both. Now, I can't. If President Obama wants to keep his word, wouldn't it make sense for him to at least delay its implementation?

As part of the upcoming continuing resolution to fund the government, let's have Congress and the President agree to delay funding of Obamacare while funding the rest of government. That way, government runs as it always has without Obamacare. The looming train wreck of Obamacare along with the government rationing panel and the wide-scale potential for massive fraud in Obamacare can be wisely avoided. Besides, since everyone isn't playing by the same rules and many of us won't be able to keep our health-care policy, delaying Obamacare would extend the opportunity for the President to make good on his word.

Great and Not-So-Great Pigskin Memories

By GARY OSTROWER

Special to the Alfred Sun

With the Alfred University Saxons about to play Brockport for the first time in decades, the following seems timely, a rewrite of an article I wrote for the Fiat Lux six years ago, with a few revisions.

AU has played a handful of memorable football games during the last half-century. Among the most memorable was the opening game loss to Bridgeport University in 1973 when, with AU leading 8-7, the bad guys scored on a 93 yard pass as time expired. The ref inexplicably ignored Bridgeport's offensive interference—Bridgeport's wide receiver, Carmine Bova, admitted guilt in a post-game interview—after Alfred saw two long punt returns, one for 99 yards, another a mere 82 yards, nullified by penalties. Final score: a 14-8 victory for the visiting Connecticut team that had been selected for the Knute Rockne Bowl in 1971 with an 8-1 record, ahead of the unbeaten Saxons (8-0).

Alfred under its legendary coach Alex Yunevich had recently won the Lambert Bowl for D-III supremacy, while Bridgeport, a Division II school, won its 22nd straight game.

Close in excitement were two early seventies games. The first was AU's 1971 42-33 win at Fordham, which had recently reinstituted its football program. Although Alfred's 33-0 halftime lead, aided by placekicker Don Hockenberry's four field goals (one for 50 yards), was threatened by a furious Fordham rally that tied the game at 33-33, the Saxons clinched the victory when halfback Henry Bzdak scored with just 43 seconds left on the clock and AU then scored a safety.

Equally memorable was AU's 31-28 victory over Hobart the following year in a battle of unbeaten before 8,232 fans, the largest crowd ever to see a football game at Merrill Field. The Saxons won despite the heroics of Hobart's two—not one but two—Little All-America running backs, Don Aleksiewicz and Rich Kowalski, Kowalski rushing for over 200 yards. Alfred had forged a 17 point lead in the first half, only to see Hobart storm back. Each team traded touchdowns in the third quarter, and with time running out in the last quarter, AU's Henry Bzdak plunged over the goal-line. Then it was Hobart's last gasp, driving down the field only to fumble an attempted field goal with just 19 seconds left in the game. Don Hockenberry's first quarter field goal provided the margin of victory.

More recently, few of us who journeyed to Rochester in 2005 will forget Brenton Brady's one-man demolition of St. John Fisher, dashing the Cardinals' NCAA playoff hopes. Dave Murray's superbly coached team proved to the D-III world that not even divine intervention could rescue SJF from a 13-7 upset by one of the scrappiest teams in AU history. I was sitting in the middle of the SJF grandstand. SJF parents to my left and right sobbed openly as the dust settled after the last play. Brady had just sacked the quarterback. He didn't simply tackle him; he destroyed him on fourth down as SJF, with less than six seconds to play, failed to score from AU's 13 yard line.

But Number One on the memorable-game list had a less satisfying ending. It was exactly 56 years ago when Yunevich and his Saxons played upstart Brockport State under a nearly equally legendary coach, Bob Boozer. Brockport's football field is named after Coach Boozer, who passed away in 2006.

Back in those days, small colleges scheduled only a seven-game season. This was the final game for each team, to be played in what turned out to be a bad early November storm. Bad, as in sub-freezing. Bad, as in blizzard. Conditions made running the ball hazardous, passing the ball psychotic, and tackling an opponent while skidding on the slippery field an adventure.

Alfred had gone undefeated during each of its two previous seasons. Great things were expected of the 1957 Saxons, but AU had a freshman quarterback, Tom Kehoe, and Brockport, hoping for its first winning season ever, had fire in its belly.

Both teams came close to scoring a couple of times. No dice. Numb hands and icy conditions kept the score at 0-0. What most fans didn't know—and that's because most sensible fans had already left the game for warmer quarters—is that Brockport nearly scored on its final series of plays after having stopped Alfred on the Brockport one-yard line.

In fact, AU had been stopped twice on Brockport's one yard line. Now Brockport took over with just minutes left. The Eagles drove downfield for 94 yards, reaching the Alfred five-yard marker. Then came charity. Brockport fumbled. The Saxons recovered on their own four-yard line with less than a minute left. The few remaining AU fans, most of them warmed by Southern Comfort, cheered wildly.

The fumble recovery turned out to be a tease. Opportunity turned into catastrophe.

On the game's final play, quarterback Kehoe faded back into his end zone to pass. In fact, because the end-zone line was obscured by the snow, he may have been beyond his end zone. In a howling blizzard. Passing in those conditions made less sense than playing without a helmet. OK, ok, the prospect of running 96 yards made no more sense.

The play unfolded in painful slow motion to the horror of Alfred fans and the joyful disbelief of Brockport. With only seconds left, Brockport defensive end Al Gotham knocked Kehoe backward while Brockport's Little All-American tackle Leo Torre draped his huge body over the off-balance quarterback. Safety. Game over. Brockport 2, Alfred 0. There was no one left to play taps. I guess that's why the refs insist on playing all sixty minutes.

AU grad's book on bike ride spotlights depression

ALFRED— Alfred University graduate Ed Bradley (AU '75) completed a book recently about his cross country bicycle journey. He rode his bike from Fort Kent, ME to Key West, FL and then on to San Diego, CA. A challenge for anyone; but especially for a man who had never biked more than 25 miles in a day.

Ed biked to raise awareness of depression. After struggling with depression for years he decided to do something bold.

"I would come home from work and just sit on the couch; I had lost interest in almost everything. I would be so angry at myself for what I thought was just laziness," said Ed.

With the help of his physician, friends, family and medication he was able to too much improve his mental health.

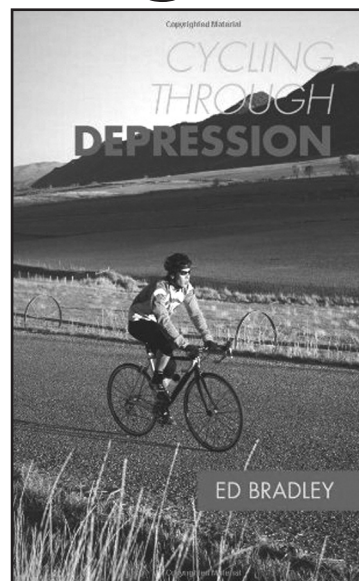

"I wasn't cured, but I was much better," he said. "I decided that I wanted to show everyone that you could accomplish anything despite having depression."

Ed felt that a solo trip of this length would show that you do not have to be limited by this illness.

"I also felt it would be great treatment for my own depression," he said.

In his own words this is how Ed describes his trip:

I spent two and a half years of my life, most of my money, two gallons of blood, a squared mile of skin (blood and skin left road side across America), a rib and a hunk of my scalp on this project. I have suffered a concussion, hypothermia, near drowning, bone bruises, soul crushing loneliness, home sickness (for a home that no longer existed), insect attacks, heat exhaustion, hail, snow, pouring rain and fatigue. Fatigue beyond what I thought was possible to endure.

I was shown kindness by people who live in gated communities, by street people in Baltimore, by toothless old men in panhandle Florida, by crazy young Hispanic women in West Hollywood.

I biked through the evergreen forests of northern Maine, the streets of Manhattan, across the George Washington Bridge, through the twisting urban sprawl of New Jersey, the back roads of Virginia, the Outer Banks of North Carolina, the pecan plantations of Georgia and the Florida Keys.

I have seen the fog of my breath on cold Maine mornings, sunrises in coastal Carolina and sunset in Key West.

I slept behind an abandoned hunting camp in Maine, a forgotten church in Louisiana, and in the empty desert of West Texas.

This is my story, true and from my heart. It is a story of hope and inspiration. A tale of how to go on when it feels like there is no point in going on. It's a chronicle of my journey across this country, and through my depression.

Ed's book, Cycling Through Depression, is available on Amazon in paperback form, as well as on Kindle.

One Time, One Meeting

The Practice of Zen Meditation

By BEN HOWARD

LOST WORDS

As the world knows, the Irish poet and Nobel laureate Seamus Heaney died last month at the age of seventy-four. On the day of his funeral, former Irish Senator Maurice Hayes, father of the actress Margaret ("Maggie") Hayes, recalled that Heaney brought a handwritten poem to Margaret's christening. "I must put that away," Hayes said to himself, "because by the time she is getting married he will have the Nobel prize." Regrettably, the manuscript eventually went missing, Hayes's best efforts notwithstanding. "I put it away so carefully," he ruefully reflected, "that I couldn't find it again."

Something similar happened here in Alfred, New York, though the circumstances were rather different. Seamus Heaney visited Alfred University in January, 1984 to give a reading. He stayed in the home of Carol ("CB") Burdick, adjunct professor of English, who often hosted visiting writers. At the time, Seamus was suffering from a toothache, and for most of his reading he kept his palm pressed to his cheek. Early the next morning, he assuaged his pain by writing a piece of light verse, a self-ironic poem modeled after William Dunbar's "Lament for the Makers" (1508). As he was leaving, Seamus thanked CB for her hospitality and presented her with the handwritten manuscript.

Heaney's poem was witty as well as light, as I remember, though its model is neither. "Lament for the Makers" is a meditation on mortality and a dirge for Dunbar's forebears in the art, the Scots "makars" of the fifteenth century. Toward the end, Dunbar devotes a stanza to a living contemporary, his friend and professional rival Walter Kennedy (ca. 1455-c.1508):

*Good Master Walter Kennedy
At point of death lies verily,
Great ruth it were that it should be,
Timor Mortis conturbat me.*

In this archaic usage, the word ruth means grief or pity. The line Timor Mortis conturbat me, which serves as a refrain throughout the poem, is taken from Roman Catholic liturgy, specifically the Office of the Dead. It is commonly translated as "the fear of death confounds me."

I remembered Dunbar's poem, and Seamus Heaney's playful appropriation of it, when I learned that Seamus's last words, texted from his hospital bed to his wife, Marie, were Noli timere ("Don't be afraid"). As has been widely noted, those ancient biblical words in an extinct language were transmitted via a contemporary, virtual, and inherently unstable medium. Words in cyberspace can disappear in a second--or last, it would seem, forever. Given Seamus Heaney's stature, noli timere may well take its permanent place among the last words of major authors. But over time it may also be lost, the uncertainties of literary reputation and the swift obsolescence of digital media being what they are.

Such was the fate, in any case, of the handwritten manuscript Seamus gave to Carol Burdick. For decades the poem hung in its frame near her woodstove, a souvenir of a gracious poet's visit. Over the years, however, the ink began to fade, and my wife urged CB to make a photo-copy. This she dutifully did, but following her death in 2008, both the original and the copy disappeared. Efforts to find them proved unavailing.

Readers of this column may remember that its title is a translation of the Japanese motto ichigo ichie. Closely associated with the practice of Zen, "one time, one meeting" reminds us that every moment of our lives is unprecedented and unrepeatable. Each encounter is unique. By practicing with this motto, we awaken to that reality, and we train ourselves to experience each new "meeting" afresh. At the same time, ichigo ichie reminds us that what we are presently experiencing will not recur. However indelible it may seem, it is by nature impermanent.

Taken to heart, this recognition may cause us to become better archivists: to preserve what we can of the present moment. But it may also prompt us, in accordance with Zen teachings, to contemplate and realize the truth of impermanence, not as a lofty concept but as an immediate, concrete fact. "For Ben," wrote the late W.D. Snodgrass on a broadside he gave me thirty years ago. "May his nails, his poems, his loves / last." Unfortunately, De wrote that inscription in impermanent ink, and it has all but vanished.

Chamber music quartet to perform

ALFRED—The Alfred University (AU) Division of Performing Arts presents the contemporary chamber music quartet Cordis, Friday, Sept. 27, from 7:30-8:30 p.m. at the Miller Performing Arts Center in the Miller Theater. Admission is free to the public.

The performance is supported by the David and Elizabeth Miller Arts Fund.

The quartet of Jeremy Harman on cello, Richard Grimes on concert cimbalom, Brian O'Neill on piano, and Andrew Beall on percussion have been critically acclaimed by NewMusicBox.com and have been recently featured in Billboard Magazine's "Continental Divide" segment. The group has been redefining contemporary chamber music by fusing traditional ethnic instruments with custom made originals instruments such as the electric mbira, melodica, and the world's longest playing cylinder-driven music box.

Cordis is currently working with Icelandic superstar, Bjork, on a collaboration featuring her vocals. The group's style is often mentioned with the likes of instrumental collectives such as Mogwai and Explosions in the Sky.

AU life trustee and alumnus David Miller has been a special friend to the Division of Performing Arts at the University. A partner with the Hanson, Bridgett, Marcus, Vlahos & Rudy law firm, San Francisco, Miller is also a jazz pianist, playing with the Dave Miller Trio since 1975. He and his wife Elizabeth have set up an endowment for the Performing Arts Division, with proceeds used to assist in arranging residencies and bringing guest performers, lecturers, and performance ensembles to Alfred.

For more information on the Cordis visit their website www.cordismusic.com.

Dani Shay to perform at AU Sept. 27

ALFRED—On Friday, Sept. 27, Dani Shay, a versatile singer/ songwriter/actress/speaker, will perform at Alfred University (AU) at 8 p.m. in the Knight Club, Powell Campus Center. The event is open to the public and is free of charge.

Shay's first national appearance was in 2011 when she sang "What the Hell" on the sixth season of the television program "America's Got Talent." Her comedic songs and Justin Bieber look-a-like style won over audiences as she went on to appear on Oxygen network's "The Glee Project 2".

Shay uses softness and strength -- pop melodies with punchy breakdowns -- to deliver clever messages in a heartfelt way. Her latest music video,

"One" was released in December 2012.

"One" premiered with the Grammy-Award-winning band, FUN, and their LGBTQ (lesbian, gay, bisexual, transgender, questioning) organization, The Ally Coalition. Shay is currently touring with a pro-love, anti-bullying movement called the Be More Heroic campaign.

Shay's performance is brought to AU by the collaboration of three student organized clubs; Alfredian Dramatists, SAGE (Students Advocating Gender Equality), and Spectrum (gay/straight alliance).

For more information on Shay visit danishay.com, or e-mail info@danishay.com.

Alfred Nutrition Luncheon has many benefits

By MARY-LOU CARTLEDGE

Special to the Alfred Sun
ALFRED—The Alfred Nutrition site needs more people to take advantage of the services offered by the Allegany County Office for the Aging. Lately, we have had trouble meeting the requirement of 6 people to share a meal provided at a very reasonable rate. If more people don't attend, we are in danger of losing the Alfred site.

We meet in the University Church Center on Church Street at noon on Monday, Wednesday and Thursday. The age requirement is only 60 years unless one is a younger spouse or caregiver. There are no financial requirements other than the ability to pay the suggested amount of $3.00 per meal. The meals are nutritionally balanced and usually contain more items than you might eat all at once. This is so one may take home leftovers toward a snack or another meal. They consist of juice or a salad, main dish, vegetable, bread, milk, dessert, and hot water for tea or coffee.

Reservations must be made at least one day in advance either through the County Office for the Aging or our Site manager, Cindy Berry. Contact information and the menu for the next week can be found in each issue of the Alfred Sun in the Moonlighter section's Cultural Arts Calendar pages under the column "What's Cookin'?" Mrs. Berry can also provide a menu for the month and a book to make reservations at the site.

The site also provides Senior Citizen exercises every Monday and Wednesday at 10:30 a.m. led by Bonnie Pruden certified instructor, Mary Lou Maxon, for which there is a nominal charge. Exercises are done to music and include both chair and floor work, stretching and weights tailored to individual needs.

In addition, every month on the 2nd Wednesday is a free Blood pressure clinic provided by the County Board of Health, which also administers a yearly flu shot in September or October.

This is a fun way to eat and or exercise with other people and also provides fellowship. Please consider coming. It would be a shame to lose this privilege.

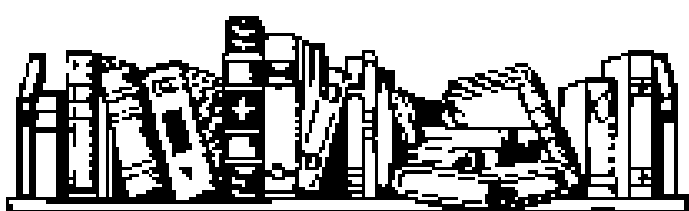

St. Bonaventure professor next at AU Speaker Series

ALFRED—Theodore Georgian, professor of biology and director of the Environmental Science Program at St. Bonaventure University will speak on "Fine Particulate Organic Matter Transport in Streams: How Far Can It Go?" as a part of the Alfred University's (AU) Environmental Studies Speaker Series. Georgian's lecture will take place on Friday, Sept. 27 at 12:20 p.m. in the Roon Lecture Hall (Room 247) of the AU Science Center. Everyone is welcome to attend, admission is free, and refreshments will be served.

Georgian's focus is in running water environments research and tracking organic particle movements through streams. In the 1990s, he and a colleague developed a technique for tracking organic stream particles, which in the past had been funded by the National Science Foundation, to continue such research in Idaho. Currently, Georgian continues stream research in the Nine Mile Creek State Forest about 10 miles away from the St. Bonaventure campus near Olean.

The Environmental Studies

Seminar series at Alfred University is held every Friday during the fall semester when the University is in session. Sponsored by the Division of Environmental Studies within Alfred University's School of Liberal Arts and Sciences, the series brings a range of speakers to the campus, including scientists, activists, and policy-makers, with the mission to better understand our environment and what we can do to better sustain our world.

NOTES from the BOX OF BOOKS

By ELIZA ORDWAY

Box of Books Library Director

I have heard many, many times how the digital book world is going to be the end of the library. I beg to differ. I feel that the digital age is just increasing the ways the library can service a community. Below is a great story of this happening here:

One of our regular families were visiting the library while preparing for a vacation; while they were stocking up on their usual books, audio books, and DVD's for the trip I noticed the oldest son whispering to his mom. She says, "I don't know, go ask Eliza how you take out a Kindle."

The young man approaches me and asks, "Eliza, how do I take a Kindle?" I informed him that he couldn't because he wasn't 18 but his mom could check it out for him. We discussed what books were on the kindle and he was discouraged because they really weren't kids books. We then started talking about how he was waiting forever for a book that he had on hold. I suggested that we check the Overdrive digital library to see if it was there. I walked him through the process of searching books on the online catalog and we found that the book he was waiting for was there and it was AVAILABLE. In 2 minutes I had the book checked out and loaded onto the kindle. His mother checked it out to him and he left on VERY happy young man.

We recently purchased 3 new eReader/Tablet devices, an iPad Mini, Nook Glowlight and a Kindle Paper White; these will be available for use in the library and then available for check out for our patrons (some restrictions do apply)

'WILD About Alfred' group takes to the outdoors

ALFRED--Mark McFadden, director of Alfred University's (AU) Career and Development Center and head of the WILD (Wilderness, Immersion, Learning and Discovery) About Alfred Committee, says he frequently spends time in Alfred's natural environment.

"I love the outdoors," says McFadden. "Every free moment I have, I try to spend outside."

That philosophy describes the thinking behind the WILD About Alfred Committee. The group was created after University Vice President for Student Affairs Kathy Woughter arranged a task force to explore AU's past attempts to connect students to the outdoors and to find new ways to encourage AU community members to participate in outdoor activities, maintain area walking trails, and have fun outside in the area's natural beauty.

"It's a program to increase the engagement between students and the outdoor resources that we have in the immediate area and beyond," emphasizes McFadden. "The idea is to promote opportunities for students to get outdoors."

McFadden says WILD utilizes area outdoor venues such as the University-owned Equestrian Center and Foster Lake as well as near-by locales like Phillips Creek and Pine Wood creek trails to host activities. At a Bergen Forum earlier this fall, McFadden presented a brief history of the program, outlining the events that led up to the formation of the committee and summarized what the committee would like to see happen in the coming years.

Planned WILD events this semester include:

- Continuing Friday Night Hikes (6 p.m. on the first floor of the Powell Campus Center next to the mailroom; all are welcome): a three-mile hike every Friday that includes cleaning the trail, picking up garbage and building simple foot bridges that concludes with a bonfire and s'mores at Joel's House residence hall on the upper campus level.

- Horse to Holler Hike (Saturday, Sept. 28): a seven-mile trail hike starting at the Equestrian Center to Pollywog Holler, a local eco-resort, in Belmont for wood-fired pizza and beverages. The hike will include an s'mores station, giveaways and door prizes. McFadden says between 80 and 150 students participated in the walk. McFadden 140 people participated in last year's hike after 80 participated in the previous year.

- Kayaking the Genesee River (Saturday, Oct. 19): WILD is working to coordinate travel and kayaks for those interested in a kayaking trip from Canacadea to Fillmore. Transportation and kayak rental are expected to cost $35.

- Fall Festival/Virtual Cornucopia at Foster Lake (Saturday, Nov. 16): featuring a bonfire, hay rides and lessons on geocaching, orienteering, fly fishing, selecting the best hiking gear, wilderness first aid, plant identification and more.

- Funky, Fiery, Final Friday Night Hike with Food and Fun "a.k.a. the F-Bomb Hike" (Friday, Dec. 6): the last Friday Night Hike through the snow with glow sticks illuminating the trail and concluding with a bonfire and snacks at Joel's House.

And perhaps additional activities including floating a raft down the Genesee River and holding a whitewater rafting event at Letchworth State Park.

In previous years, WILD has also worked with other AU student programs and events such as the Zombie Apocalypse Run, Women in the Wilderness Day, a Woman's Leadership Academy capstone project, and the 5k Color Run on Hot Dog Day last spring.

McFadden hopes in the future AU can find a way to provide students with a way to earn outdoor certifications that allow them to lead outdoor activities.

"One of the missions within Student Affairs is wellness within the wild," says McFadden. "I'd like to see this program have an outdoor leadership component to it," he adds, suggesting a partnership with the (campus) Judson Leadership Center to provide outdoor programming that requires leadership skills.

McFadden says participants in WILD events indicate they enjoy the activities and hope they continue. He says he hopes students discover the outdoors' natural beauty in some way.

"We're kind of in the middle of nowhere, wonderfully located in a bucolic setting," says McFadden. "Students can come here and not necessarily be aware of those resources. We just want them to know they're there. If they take advantage of them through our program, fantastic. If they take advantage of them on their own, also fantastic."

Remembering 16th St. Baptist Church Bombing

An Alfred University remembrance event featured a timeline of DOTS (Dates Of True Significance) ranging from the establishment of the 16th Street Baptist Church in Birmingham, AL in 1873, through the 1963 bombings, over the vast expanse of years before the bombers were held accountable, and winding down with the recent national ceremony awarding posthumous Congressional medals to the four young victims and their families. Participants in the Sept. 15 program connected the dots with brightly colored yarn to show the progression of events and reveal a huge image outline. (Alfred University Photo) as a school psychologist.

AU School Psychology approved through 2018

The school psychology program at AU blends a substantial foundation in the basic science of psychology with its longstanding tradition of extensive field experience and practical skills development. In the first year, students participate in extensive fieldwork in Alfred-area school systems. Such practical experience assists the students in developing an understanding of the complexities of the school environment and lays a foundation of knowledge that better prepares the student for the challenges they will encounter as a professional school psychologist.

During the second year, students have experience in the campus Child and Family Services Center. This practicum exposes students to the environment of a community clinic and gives them direct experience in intake assessment, consultation, and counseling with children and their families.

The final year of the program consists of a full-time internship in a public school system. The student generally receives a stipend from the school in which they intern. This experience is the culmination of the student's classroom and previous fieldwork and allows the student to perform the duties of a school psychologist.

"James Joyce for Beginners" as a part of the University's Bergren Forum Series. The presentation will take place on Thursday, Oct. 3 at 12:10 p.m. in Nevins Theater, Powell Campus Center. The event is open to the public free of charge.

This introduction to James Joyce will focus on his banned novel, his impossible-to-read novel, and the many ways in which we have consumed him since 1941, all in an effort to prove that Ulysses is the greatest book you probably didn't take to the beach this summer.

Myers earned a bachelor's degree in German from Davidson College, Davidson, NC. He continued his education earning a master's degree and a Ph.D. in anthropology from the University of North Carolina-Chapel Hill. He earned a master's degree in public health from Harvard School of Public Health.

The Bergren Forum, sponsored by the AU Division of Human Studies in the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences, meets Thursdays at the University. Bring a lunch; coffee and tea will be available.

Chemical Heritage Foundation Director Dr. Jody Roberts will deliver the Sigma Xi Distinguished Lecture at 7 p.m. Monday, Sept. 30 at the Knight Club, Alfred University Powell Campus Center.

Dr. Jody Roberts to deliver lecture

ALFRED--On Monday, Sept. 30 Dr. Jody Roberts of the Chemical Heritage Foundation will present the Sigma Xi Distinguished Lecture at 7 p.m. in the Knight Club, Alfred University Powell Campus Center. The event is open to the public free of charge.

Roberts's Sigma Xi lecture will focus on the ways in which the history of chemistry directs future action, particularly in the field of green chemistry. He will also outline the possibilities which could alter the science and politics of more ecologically sustainable chemistry.

During his graduate and doctoral studies, Roberts cultivated an interest in the relationship between molecular science and the politics of the broader world. This interest became the basis of his work at the Chemical Heritage Foundation and of his lectures.

Roberts serves as director of the Center for Contemporary History and Policy at the Chemical Heritage Foundation located in Philadelphia. He is also lecturer for history and sociology of science at the University of Pennsylvania and a research professor for the Center for Science, Technology, and Society at Drexel University. He holds a bachelor of science degree in chemistry from Saint Vincent College and a master of science degree and Ph.D. in science and technology studies from Virginia Polytechnic Institute and State University.

Sigma Xi, the Scientific Research Honor Society, was founded in 1886 to foster companionship among researchers in science and engineering and to honor excellence in scientific investigation. Alfred University's first chapter appeared in 1953 and was re-established in spring 2013. Students with an aptitude for research within the pure or applied sciences may be nominated; faculty may become members as well.

Compiled By DAVID L. SNYDER

Alfred Sun Editor and Publisher

FIFTY YEARS AGO, SEPT. 26, 1963

H. Alan Dirlam, assistant professor of general studies at the Agricultural and Technical Institute here, has been granted a leave of absence for graduate study. President Walter C. Hinkle said that Professor Dirlam has been granted permission to continue his doctoral studies in recent American literature at the State University at Buffalo during the 1963-64 academic year. The Dirlams have sold their home at Hunting Heights and have moved to an apartment on High Street. Mrs. Dirlam is a social studies teacher at Alfred-Almond Central School. Kickoff for the contest with the Bombers of Ithaca College is set for 1:30 p.m. at South Hill Field. AU is 1-0-1 after clinging to a 17-17 tie at Mansfield last Saturday. The Saxons dominated the first half against their Division II opponent as Dan Callahan's interception on the first play from scrimmage set up Pantxo Irazusta's 45-yard field goal. Junior flanker Bob Jones ran into the line, bounced off and around the heap from 3 yards out in the second quarter for a 10-0 halftime lead. Senior quarterback Paul McDonnell connected with junior tight end Joe Haven on a 19-yard scoring strike with 8:35 remaining in the third quarter to give AU a 17-0 lead. Mansfield reserve quarterback Craig Jobs then entered the game and engineered a comeback, completing 16 of 20 passes for 285 yards. Mansfield missed a 24-yard field goal to the right and had a 40-yard field goal attempt with five seconds remaining blocked by AU's Joe Iudice. Word has been received of the death of Elizabeth Van Horn, 91, of Lansing, MI on May 9, 2003. The daughter of the late Rev. and Mrs. Edgar Van Horn, she was predeceased by two brothers, Eugene T. Van Horn and Donald Van Horn.

Dr. Jim Burdick, professor of surgery at Johns Hopkins Hospital, was honored by the Alfred-Almond Central School Alumni Association with his induction into the Arts and Humanities Hall of Fame at the annual alumni banquet held July 26 at Central Dining Hall at Alfred State College. A graduate of Yale University and Harvard Medical School, "Dr. Jim" initially planned a career in biology research and teaching, but later settled on the field of transplant surgery. In 1978, he moved with his family, wife Mary, daughter Rachel and son Joshua to Baltimore, MD to join the Department of Surgery at Johns Hopkins Medical Institution where he has practiced since. . .

Sunbeams—Kay Chapman was in Virginia Sept. 6-19 visiting son Mark and family in Fairfax and son Don and family in Grottoes. She returned Friday evening on the tails of Hurricane Isabella. . .

Isabel came and went and left Alfred washed, combed, and ready to bask in sunshine, booksale mania, and barbequed chicken Lions Club dinners. A Terra Cotta Day it was – warm, blue-sky roofed, and full of people enjoying sorting through our tables sinking into the soft terra because they were covered so thoroughly with books. Perhaps all the gladness of people buying and selling books could represent the "cotta" of the day. . .

For the Birds—Western New York birders awaited the aftermath of Hurricane Isabel with almost ghoulish anticipation! Hurricanes bring a windfall of unusual species that are blown off course and get carried with the winds to the most unlikely places. In 1996, Hurricane Fran brought many unusual species to places they are seldom seen. The day after Isabel passed through our area, birders were not disappointed. The Hamlin Beach Lakewatch and other observation points along the water were the places to be! Three Cave Swallows and a Western Kingbird were seen at Hamlin Beach along with a Juvenile Bridled Tern. A Wilson's Storm Petrel was observed from Woodlawn Beach State Park and Hoover Beach in Hamburg, NY, south of Buffalo. Interesting birds were found the same day at Chautauqua Lake. Two Wilson's Storm-Petrels were observed from Pendergrast Point, and later two Sabine's Gulls from the northeast corner of the lake. Now, birders eagerly wait for the summaries of all the unusual "Isabel sightings" from everywhere affected by the storm.

Mr. and Mrs. Dale S. Butts of Alfred Station are pleased to announce the engagement of their daughter Susan M. Butts to Corey J. Sanborn. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert G. Sanborn of Howard. Miss Butts attended the State University of New York at Geneseo where she earned a Master's degree in education. She is employed as a special education teacher with Wayland-Cohocton Central School in Wayland. Her fiancé is a graduate of Leilehua High School in Wahiawa, Hawaii. He is employed at Gunlocke, manufacturing office furniture, in Wayland. A July wedding is planned.

Alfred University senior tailback Jesse Raynor (Weedsport) ran for 180 yards and a pair of scores as the AU football team (1-2, 0-2 Empire 8) knocked off visiting St. Lawrence, 24-14, at Merrill Field on a sunny Saturday afternoon. Raynor now has 17 games with at least 100 yards rushing, a school record. His 33 rushing touchdowns are tied for the AU career mark. . .

50 Years Ago, Sept. 24, 1953—There's something new around Alfred these days—the 522 blue "beanie" frosh caps with yellow buttons, worn by the Ag-Tech freshmen. It's the first time we've had anything but the traditional green caps. More than 200 new students, mostly freshmen, swelled registration and orientation crowds at Alfred University to nearly 1000 this week. . .

*The Beatitudes'Blessed are those who hunger, thirst'

ALMOND—"Blessed are Those Who Hunger and Thirst."

Ever hear this: "You are what you eat?" Well, you're not going to turn into a cow or a head of lettuce, but scientifically speaking you are what you eat. What we take into our bodies becomes part of us. Water: body is mostly made up of water, even our blood. So we need to drink plenty of good clean water.

So, if you look at this concept in the spiritual realm, you'll see that what you take in will begin to be a heavy-duty part of you. A steady diet of violence, excitement, erotica, materialism, whatever--eventually it will color everything you do, say and become. Was it Marcus Aurelius who said "As you think, you are?" The things you think about, you become. "Blessed are those who hunger and thirst after righteousness, for they will be filled."

What are you hungry for? What drives your life, motivates you? Are you looking to be the one 'who dies with the most toys, wins'? Or are your pursuits more spiritual? Sitting here in a church, we'd all like to say that they are. But get honest with yourself; are your motivations really more spiritual than physical? Are you thirsting for righteousness of God?

Oops--there's that word again--

'righteousness'. Some think it means being a prude, being narrow-minded, maybe even radically legalistic. It's not a very popular word, for sure. But, in actuality, it really just means being right with God.

How do we get there? The deal is to progress through the Beatitudes, one at a time: you realize you are not perfect, which makes you mournful, which makes you humble, which makes you desire to be made right with God. Hungering for a relationship with God. (This interconnection reminds this reporter of the old spiritual: "Dry Bones"--foot bone connected to the ankle bone, ankle bone connected to the shin bone, etc.)

How hungry are you for righteousness--being right with God? In Jesus' day, to hunger and thirst for something was serious--there probably were no safety nets like food pantries, free clinics, etc.--having no food, water was certain death.

Do you feel this way about being right with God? Do you have an intense need to see God, to be filled with God, to see God in the midst of your life? This is an all-encompassing need. What motivates your hunger--what are you hungry for? In our search, we often fill our lives with too much 'garbage' then we wonder why we feel like 'garbage'. Maybe we are hungering for the wrong things. Being blessed is like having God smile when He thinks of you.

Do you want to be filled? Once you are filled with being right with God, you will want more. Sort of like Lay's Potato Chips--"Betcha can't eat just one!" It is all-encompassing. Seriously, think of a thirsty man crawling through the desert... does he want water and a suit? Water and a car?...NO. He just wants water--he'll die without it.

Hmm... How's YOUR appetite? Are you satisfied with your standing before God? If you are, you may be in trouble. An old Puritan saying goes, "He has most need of righteousness who least wants it." A good talking point at the very least.

Do you say, I want Christ, but I like my sin as well? Keep in mind the story of the rich man and Lazarus--they both died, but the rich man is in constant torment in hell. He sees Lazarus, the beggar by whom he would pass every day in life, ignoring the obvious pleas for help. Now he sees L. in heaven and begs him to 'dip your finger in the water, come and cool my tongue, for I'm tormented by the flame'! [Those old spirituals really come right to the point, don't they?]

Folks, that's the kind of thirst that you ought to have for God. Where you feel you'll surely die without Him.

THE GLORY OF AMERICA*Thursday, September 26*

The first National Day of Prayer and Fasting in Lincoln's administration was the last Thursday in September (which in 1861 fell on this day):

"And whereas when our own beloved country, once, by the blessing of God, united, prosperous and happy, is now afflicted with faction and civil war, it is peculiarly fit for us to recognize the hand of God in this terrible visitation, and in sorrowful remembrance of our own faults and crimes as a nation and as individuals, to humble ourselves before Him and to pray for His mercy...that the inestimable boon of civil and religious liberty, earned under His guidance and blessing by the labors and sufferings of our fathers, may be restored."

At the conclusion of the hike, participants can sample Pollywogg Holler's signature wood-fired pizza along with other options courtesy of AVI Foodsystems. All refreshments are included in the registration fee.

To register for the hike, visit www.alfred.edu/students/wild and follow the link for Horse to Holler. Registration for AU students is $10; community members' fee is $20. Saxons' second quarter outburst leads to 33-10 win

ALFRED—The Alfred University football team (1-1, 0-0, Empire 8) used a 24-point second quarter to break open a close game en route to a 33-10 defeat of visiting Montclair State on a rainy Saturday afternoon at Yunevich Stadium.

The Saxons led 6-3 going into the second quarter and then 13-3 after an 18-yard touchdown run by senior tailback Austin Dwyer (Hornell) with 7:24 left in the half. Montclair seemed ready to seize the momentum when, on the first play of its ensuing drive, the Red Hawks scored on an 80-yard TD pass to get within three, at 13-10. But that was all the points Montclair scored, as AU used defense and a timely special teams play to score the next 17 points of the quarter—14 coming in a 12-second span—to go up 30-10 at halftime.

On Alfred's possession after Montclair's touchdown, the Saxons faced a fourth-and-six at the Montclair 49-yard line. AU lined up to punt, but Dwyer took the snap and rambled six yards for the first down to extend the drive. Eight plays later, AU freshman quarterback Dominic Scavo (Hornell) hit senior wideout Josh Phillips (Syracuse/West Genesee) on an eight-yard scoring pass on first-and-goal, putting the Saxons up 20-10 with 1:04 left in the third.

On the first play of Montclair's next possession, AU freshman nose guard Zack Bacon (Hornell) deflected a pass at the line, caught it for the interception, and rumbled 38 yards for the touchdown, holding off a tackler the final ten yards. That put AU up 27-10 with 52 seconds remaining.

On Montclair's next drive, AU sophomore middle linebacker Corry Wallace (Mastic Beach/Longwood) picked off a pass near midfield and returned it to the Montclair 49. Six plays later, freshman kicker Thomas Gioia (West Seneca/Bishop Timon-St. Jude) hit a 41-yard field goal with two seconds left in the half to put AU up 30-10. Gioia added a 21-yard fourth-quarter field goal to close out the scoring.

AU ran for 190 yards and produced 329 yards of offense. Dwyer ran for 118 yards and two TDs on 20 carries and senior tailback Tyler DeRosa (Miller Place) added 74 on 16 carries.

Scavo completed 13 of 25 passes for 135 yards and a touchdown as the Saxons finished the game with no turnovers. Phillips had four catches for 42 yards and DeRosa (38 yards receiving) and sophomore wide receiver Maleke Fuentes (Olean) (30 yards) each caught two balls.

The Saxon defense held Montclair to 32 yards rushing and 250 yards of total offense (a mere 56 in the second half). Alfred dominated time of possession, holding the ball for 39:10 to 20:50 for the Red Hawks. The Saxons held a 21-9 advantage in first downs and forced Montclair into two turnovers.

Wallace had seven tackles (one for loss) to go with his interception and senior end Justin Collen (Averill Park) had two sacks and a pass breakup to lead the Saxon defense. Sophomore cornerback Calvin Bain (Rochester/East) and junior linebacker Matt Jacobs (Victor) each had four tackles and a pass breakup. Bain added a 40-yard kickoff return that led to Alfred's third TD of the game.

The Saxons travel to Brockport State for a 6 p.m. kickoff

Saturday, Sept. 28 in the newly renovated Eunice Kennedy Shriver Stadium. It will be Homecoming at Brockport and the game will be the Eagles' first-ever night game and first on its new turf.

EXTRA POINTS: Steady rain throughout the game Saturday... Montclair State Head Coach Rick Giancola (215-98-2) is the winningest active Division III football coach, with 215 wins... AU had met Montclair State in the 1981 NCAA Tournament, a 13-12 loss at Merrill Field... The stadium was dedicated to AU's beloved legendary Coach Alex Yunevich at halftime, while the press box was named the "Klan Alpine Alumni Press Box."

The Dugout

HITS AND MISSES:

The Alfred Saxons football team (1-1) evened their early season football slate with a convincing, 33-10 victory over visiting Montclair State from NJ at Yunevich Stadium in Alfred. Having dropped their season opener to RPI, Coach Dave Murray's program was potentially looking at an (0-3) start to the year with a tough game at Brockport this Saturday evening. The win over Montclair State, a perennial power in the NJAC along with Rowan and Cortland, was much-needed and decisive. The Saxons will travel to Brockport this Saturday as the Golden Eagles unveil their newly remodeled facility, in their home opener, with a Homecoming crowd on hand and a well-rested squad awaiting as Brockport had off on Saturday.

In other Division III football notes of note: Hobart dropped Utica, 34-21 as the team from Geneva looks strong again this season. Wisconsin-Whitewater demolished Buffalo State, 55-14 while Ithaca topped Union, 17-3, Cortland defeated William Paterson 26-15 and SJ Fisher was idle. The Bengals of Buffalo State stunned W-W last year in Wisconsin. Guess the Warhawks remembered that game.

The Hornell Red Raiders lost ... again in local high school football play as Livonia took out years of frustrated with a 27-0 win. Have to believe the cupboard is bare at the moment in Hornell. This is the four-time sectional champs, four-time state finalists and now winless. Yikes!

Stephen Baker and his UPenn soccer teammates are (2-3) on the year after dropping their third-straight outing. The Georgetown Hoyas stopped the Quakers last week, 3-0. Georgetown was in the NCAA "Final Four" last season.

Christy Kaznowski and her Western Carolina Catamounts women's soccer team (5-2-1) are enjoying a solid campaign in her senior season as they topped Mercer last week, 2-0. The Catamounts play Elon this week in conference play.

Decided not to travel to Alfred this past Saturday to watch football action nor to St. Lawrence to see the SUNY Geneseo women's soccer team play. Assistant coach Eileen Coyle, a former star at Geneseo, now on the SLU staff. Guess Pete and Bob Randolph (Alfred) still work at SLU? Will see Geneseo in action a week from Saturday versus New Paltz. Saturday ... rain-rain-rain. Geneseo and SLU ... 0-0 tie. Great.

A-A grads Jake Taft and Scummer took in the Orioles-Rays MLB in St. Pete's last Saturday as the home team emerged victorious and moved closer to grabbing an AL wild card spot. Our Man Frank ... not in attendance.

Washington Nationals pitcher Stephen Strasburg entered Sunday's game with a (7-9) record. How is that even possible? Saw Strasburg pitch in Rochester, for Syracuse, as noted area photographer Leo Nealon and I attended the game at Frontier Field. Unbelievable stuff and power.

Was a tough day ... a sad day ... two more pieces of the puzzle gone ... Sunday at Yankee Stadium. It was Mariano Rivera Day and the great reliever was greeted with a fantastic ceremony prior to the Giants-Yanks game. Part of the "Core Four" along with Derek Jeter, Jorge Posada and Andy Pettitte. "Mo" moving on despite another awesome year on the hill for the injury-plagued Yanks. And, Pettitte was pitching for the last time at Yankee Stadium as he announced his retirement last week. All the big lefty did was hurl no-hit ball for five innings, a one-hitter for six, but a win was not in the books. Sloppy base running did NY in, Mo pitched and recorded five outs but SF won, 2-1. Season over for NYY. Pettitte has long been my favorite Yanks pitcher. Had a chance to see him pitch twice in spring training but think I kept missing him by day or two on hill when taking in games with 3L in Cleveland or New York. A probably Hall of Famer, a great post season slate, but HGH admission will probably block that.

The MLB playoffs will start next week and ... no Yanks. Ouch. Will go with a "Final Four" of Los Angeles-St. Louis in the NL and Detroit-Boston in the AL. Obviously upsets could thwart that. If Tampa ever hits they have the pitching to make some noise. WS ... Cards over BoSox. Wouldn't mind seeing the LA Dodgers win with Don Mattingly as the manager! But then I would have to listen to "Foolish" Farley and Big D.

Joost Luiten ... Savo's buddy, won the KLM Open on the European Tour of golf the weekend before last. His third overall win on that tour and second this season. Luiten missed the cut at the PGA Championship in Rochester this year and was at Stafford CC on that Sunday in group ahead of Simbo-Taft-Savo-myself. Savo, prior to losing phone weeks later, somehow talked a touring pro into letting us play thru!

Nephews Josh and Kyle (Lefty) Fischer were at the Pittsburgh

Steelers - Cincinnati Bengals game a week ago Monday in Cincy as the home team (somehow) prevailed.

Former SUNY Geneseo All-American cager, Division III Player of the Year in Knight togs and current Fairport boys basketball coach, Scott Fitch recorded a hole-in-one at Monroe CC in Rochester. Puts him "only" three behind Cody! Saw Fitch play in college at the Chase tournament ... wow.

Elena Delle Donne was named Rookie of the Year in the WNBA off a stellar collegiate career at Delaware. Still trying to figure out how she was left off Team USA in the 2012 Olympics?

Former Alfred University men's lacrosse coach Matt Kerwick is now an assistant on the Cornell lax staff. The Big Red in "a little" hazing trouble these days with their fall schedule cancelled.

Jess Herbst (Webster Schroeder/UVM) completed her first Half Marathon this past Sunday as she ran in the MVP Rochester event. 3L's former high school soccer teammate recorded a time of roughly 1:51. Pretty solid first outing as she gears up for the Utica Boilermaker next summer. Not sure if she ran into Paul Welker there ... the SID at Alfred State and Webster native.

Wow ... whatever happened to Tiger Woods? Next up, the President's Cup in Ohio.

Fireball Run Students Leave Campus--Olivia Barszczewski, Nicholas Bigelow, and Ryan Dontoh were hand-selected to participate in The Fireball Run after helping restore Fireball Run Executive Producer JJ Sanchez's 1978 Rolls Royce Silver Wraith II.

ASC students compete in Fireball Run

ALFRED—Three Alfred State students set off for Colorado last week, where they are embarking on an epic 2,500-mile cross-country trivia game called The Fireball Run.

This contest will see participants traveling from the forest Northwest to the desert Southwest all in an effort to help raise awareness about missing children. Their trip—which began Sunday, Sept. 22 and runs through Sept. 29—started in Longmont, Colorado, and ends in Riverside, California.

"There's not only a common interest in helping the community among the contestants but also a passion for racing and traveling," says Canada native and 2013 Alfred State automotive graduate Ryan Dontoh.

"This experience is going to open every door possible for me," he said.

The 2013 Fireball Run is an innovative adventurously that pits all stars and movie cars against each other in a battle of wits filmed and broadcasted live on the Web.

To navigate the route and score points, teams must solve clues related to history, science, nature, theology, pop culture, and virtually any fact tied to their geographical location. And three Alfred State students—Olivia Barszczewski, Nicholas Bigelow, and Ryan Dontoh—were hand-selected to participate after helping restore Fireball Run Executive Producer JJ Sanchez's 1978 Rolls Royce Silver Wraith II.

They will be joined by Jim Gerbec, senior automotive repair instructor, in Alfred State's iconic Chevrolet Volt. The Volt is part of a fleet of alternative fuel vehicles used by the Automotive faculty to educate students in hybrid, electric, and natural gas power.

"The connections we will make going on this trip will be phenomenal. And I've never been to any of these places, so I'm definitely excited," says

2013 autobody repair student Nicholas Bigelow of Williamson. "Anything can happen."

These Alfred State students will be rubbing elbows with professional racecar driver Shea Holbrook, professional wake boarder Tarah Mikacich, legendary Lamborghini Chief Test Driver Valentino Balboni, astronaut Jon McBride, as well as CEOs and entrepreneurs from across the country. And their Alfred State experience helped them get there.

Don't miss the pulse-pounding competition. Watch live at www.fireballrun.com/live.
