About 750 get Alfred State degrees

ALFRED—Alfred State recognized approximately 750 May 2018 graduates during commencement ceremonies on Sunday, May 13. Dr. Skip Sullivan, president, presided over the event, held on the Alfred campus.

The student speaker was Hannah Vuozzo, of Salt Point, a May 2018 graduate of the interdisciplinary studies program. Among her many accomplishments as an Alfred State student, Vuozzo served as the executive vice president for Student Senate, was a member of the Honors Program, and received the SUNY Chancellor's Award for Student Excellence.

A major component of the ceremony was the presentation of the Paul B. Orvis Award for Excellence to five graduating students. The award honors Paul B. Orvis, a former president of Alfred State and State University of New York dean for two-year colleges. Recipients must meet the criteria of service, leadership, character, and scholarship.

Receiving the award were Cory Farley, Cold Brook (School of Applied Technology associate degree recipient); Carina Scalise, Baldwinsville (School of Architecture, Management and Engineering Technology baccalaureate degree recipient); Amber Sirline, Angelica (School of Architecture, Management and Engineering Technology associate degree recipient); Kylie Buchek, Windsor (School of Arts and Sciences baccalaureate degree recipient); and Bailey Winslow, Warren, PA (School of Arts and Sciences associate degree recipient).

Abigail Campbell, a construction management major from Geneseo, was chosen to sing the national anthem, and the Alfred State Men's Quartet performed the college's alma mater. Students were led out in recessional to the music of the Gates Keystone Police Pipes and Drums.

Valedictorian Maeghan Rodd and Salutatorian Emelia Enke.

A-A names top scholars

ALMOND—Alfred-Almond Central School has announced its top seniors in the graduating Class of 2018. Valedictorian is Maeghan Rodd and Salutatorian is Emelia Enke.

Maeghan, the daughter of Christel and Jason Rodd of Alfred, plans to attend LeMoyne College to major in biology.

Emelia, the daughter of Jennifer and Evan Enke of Alfred Station, is interested in pursuing studies in materials science and engineering but has not determined her college of choice.

'Step up, make a difference,' McPherson tells AU grads

ALFRED—Don McPherson urged the 2018 graduating class at Alfred University Saturday morning to move outside of what makes them comfortable in order to affect positive change in the world.

"To make a difference, you need to be outside of your comfort zone," McPherson said during his keynote address at Alfred University's 182nd Commencement Saturday morning in the Galanis Family Arena. "Anything is possible if you are compelled to do it."

McPherson was speaking from experience. An Alfred University alumnus who earned master's and Ph.D. degrees in glass science in 1984 and 1988, respectively, he is co-founder and chief science officer at EnChroma Labs, a Bay Area company that manufactures lenses that can effectively treat the most common form of color blindness.

Nearly two decades ago, McPherson had developed special eyeglasses use by ophthalmic surgeons to protect their eyes during laser surgery and he himself enjoyed wearing them because they made colors look more vivid. In 2001, he lent a pair of the glasses to a friend suffering from color blindness, and the friend remarked that when he put them on, he could see colors. The revelation led a curious McPherson out of his own comfort zone, and over the ensuing years, he collected data and conducted research, ultimately co-founding EnChroma in 2010.

More than 300 million people worldwide suffer from color blindness; the EnChroma glasses developed by McPherson allow 80 percent of color blind people who wear them to see in full color. The company has sold tens of thousands of EnChroma eyeglasses and is on the verge of developing a contact lens.

McPherson encouraged graduates to

"step up," using what they've learned in their studies to make a difference. Paraphrasing political activist Ralph Nader's recent speech in California, McPherson said, "We all expect to see a few people step up in the name of something bigger: to take on Goliath; defend the defenseless; work for little pay; be selfless."

He closed by remarking, "Being able to speak to you about my Alfred experiences and to hopefully inspire you, the best and the brightest, to go out and do something amazing in the world has been one the honors of my life."

McPherson and Michele Cohen, a member of the University's Board of Trustees, were awarded honorary degrees: McPherson the Doctor of Science, honoris causa, and Cohen the Doctor of Arts, honoris causa. Cohen, who has served as a trustee since 2001 and as chair of the Board's Student Affairs Committee since 2005, was honored for her passion for the arts at Alfred University and her commitment to improving the lives of Alfred University students.

Cohen and her husband, Marty, have been creative and generous supporters of the arts at Alfred, creating the Cohen Art Center for the first-year Foundations program and the Cohen Gallery to spotlight alumni artists; sponsoring several senior shows in New York City for our students, and most recently, establishing the endowed deanship for the School of Art and Design.

She reminded graduates of the importance of taking chances and making the most of opportunities.

"You all took a chance when you came to Alfred. Many more opportunities will come your way," said Cohen, whose son, Adam, graduated from Alfred University

The Mighty Makers 4H club met on Monday, May 14, 2018. At this meeting, the members did archery. In archery, they practiced shooting the bow and then they partnered up and played either tic tac toe or a 21 Point game. Newer members who hadn't done archery before learned how to use the bow properly and practiced their technique. All members started their end-of-year 4H scrapbooks and started thinking thinking about the Fair.

A.E. Crandall Hook & Ladder Co. contributes to safe Hot Dog Day

ALFRED—Alfred volunteers in A. E. Crandall Hook & Ladder Company provided 323 service hours, in addition to an estimated 90 preparation hours, for Hot Dog Day 2018. Nearly 300 hours of service were volunteered in a 42-hour period. This year, Crandall Hooks provided ambulance standbys for Alfred State's concert, Alfred University's Honors Convocation and Pine Hill Derby, as well as staffing the fire hall from 6 p.m. to 3 a.m. on Friday, April 20 and Saturday, April 21 to respond to emergencies. Crews were also assigned to cover 3 to 6 a.m. after "peak hours." Andover Ambulance also volunteered 12 hours of service Saturday night, and Alfred State and Alfred University again provided a paid ambulance from MTS for 84 "peak hours" Friday and Saturday nights. This year, there were three automatic alarms of fire, mutual aid response to a grass fire in the Town of Alfred, and one carbon monoxide fire/EMS call during the weekend. There were 12 ambulance calls, two of which were for a Village resident and ten of which were alcohol- or drug-related involving students and their guests. Three of those calls also involved physical assault. This represents a continued

Your hard-working volunteer fire department sometimes takes time to celebrate. Friday evening, May 11, 2018, saw such an event, with A.E. Crandall members and other friends gathering to celebrate the generous, many years of service of Nick Dosch, as he will soon leave the area.

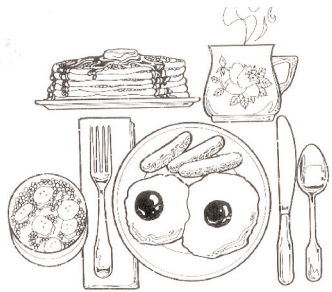

In photo at left, Dosch flanked by two members; Coral Smith on the left, lieutenant on the ladder truck of which Nick, center, has been captain for two years, and Valarie Gregory, right, who was the power behind the wonderful party. The cake features two reminders of Nick's service to the community; a fire truck, and a school, representing his work as a school bus driver.

In photo above, Rare sighting of three Bobs; Volk, Pipal, Rees. At right, Zach Hamm kindly posed for a photo after someone commented that the "equipment" in his shirt pocket is used to put out very small fires. Zach, with member Rebecca Weaver Hamm, are parents of David 2, and tiny Tim (about six months).

Doris Scholes' famous 'book club'

[Editor's Note: Like most of the recipes she shared with our readers over the past couple of decades, Ellen Shultz's Sunny Side Up columns are worth repeating.]

Sam Scholes has submitted this delicious recipe which his wife Doris would make for special times such as a bridge party or a summer dinner party on their side porch. He says there must have been other occasions that fit this elegant dessert, maybe the famous Book Club that Doris started. C.D. Smith dubbed it the "reading rots the mind" club. He came home once when his wife Lois was entertaining that group and asked, "Do you discuss the books you are reading?" Silly question...the answer was "Oh, no!"

Lemon Chiffon Pie

2 tsp. gelatin
1/3 c. cold water
3 egg yolks
3/4 c. sugar
1/8 tsp. salt
1/3 c. lemon juice
grated rind of 1/2 a lemon
3 egg whites
1 baked pie shell
3/4 c. heavy cream, whipped

Soften the gelatin in the cold water. Combine egg yolks, 1/2 c. sugar, salt, lemon juice and rind; blend well. Cook over boiling water until thick and foamy, beating constantly with rotary beater (about 3 minutes). Remove from heat. Add gelatin mixture. Cool.

Beat egg whites until stiff, but not dry. Add remaining 1/4 c. sugar, a T. at a time, beating after each addition until stiff. Fold carefully into gelatin mixture until well mixed. Pile lightly into baked pie shell. Chill several hours, or until filling is set. Before serving, spread with whipped cream; garnish with lemon rind, if desired.

ALFRED TOWN TALK

By DAN ACTON
Alfred Town Supervisor

Highlights of the May 10, 2018 Town Board Meeting Wind Turbine Noise and Shared Services

Two issues took up most of the board meeting last Thursday evening. The first of these, brought forward by town residents, concerned a noisy wind turbine on Jericho Hill. The reader is referred to an article in the May 13th Sunday Spectator that fully describes this issue.

Suffice to state here that the residents presented a well-documented complaint to the board, that for now the noise is abated, and the board recommended that if the problem recurs the first action will be to send the code enforcement officer to investigate.

The second time-consuming issue of the evening was the board's response to a Monkey Survey from the county regarding shared services. The survey was part of the county's ongoing work to comply with a state-mandated program for shared services. Currently the town minimizes costs by using part-time employees for code enforcement, tax assessor, dog control, and justices, as well as having recently switched to a municipal energy provider for gas and electricity. After reviewing the survey options the board agreed to sign up for: a county-wide insurance co-op, LED street lighting, centralized bulk purchases, county participation in tax collections, and shared equipment purchases. This was a straw poll and will be followed up with further discussions prior to submission of a county-wide plan in August of this year.

SNYDE REMARKS

As Ella Fitzgerald sang, 'Summertime and the living is easy'

By DAVID L. SNYDER
Editor, Publisher & Janitor

We're trying something new. With the mass exodus of two-thirds of our Alfred population, life as we knows it slows down considerably.

You may have noticed the "Fun in the Sun" centerfold in last week's paper. The idea is to offer suggestions on how our readers might spend some of the "down time" to explore some of the peculiarities of these parts.

Last week, I listed many of the area towns' summer festivals that I've particularly enjoyed. I'm a real sucker for car shows and there are some big ones. While waiting for a Sectional softball game to begin in Houghton last year, I journeyed over to Fillmore where they were celebrating Memorial Day Weekend with the annual "Fillmore Fest." The car show was amazing.

This week, I found a story about President Millard Fillmore riding the train along the old Erie line from New York to Dunkirk in the inaugural 1851 trip. Highest point on that journey was none other than Tip Top right here in the Town of Alfred!

I've also tried to make the center spread "interactive" by offering a Riddle Contest. Unscramble the letters found in the ads for this week's answer and send it in. You could win $500!

CONVIVIAL CONTRARIAN

By SEAN HYLAND
Alfred Sun Columnist

All holidays seem to suffer a similar fate in our consumer culture. The original intent becomes buried and obscured under a mountain of nic-nacs, gew-gaws, floral arrangements, specially shaped sweets, and UNBEATABLE SAVINGS! I suppose Mother's Day has not fared quite as badly as most other holidays, but it's far from untouched by crass commercialism.

This is quite in contrast to the intentions of the woman, Anna Jarvis, who provided the impetus to our modern celebration of mothers. From 1905, when her own mother died, until 1914, when Congress designated the second Sunday in May as set aside for the celebration of mothers, Anna Jarvis tirelessly made it her life's work to bring the holiday into being.

No sooner was that battle won then she turned to wage a more infuriating war. She spent the rest of her life railing against flower shop owners, card makers, and the candy industry for profiting off the holiday. She even put out a news release: "WHAT WILL YOU DO to route charlatans, bandits, pirates, racketeers, kidnappers and other termites that would undermine with their greed one of the finest, noblest and truest movements and celebrations?" One begins to feel that Ms. Jarvis must have barely been restrained by the bonds of propriety from descending upon the hapless florists and chocolatiers of America in a whirlwind of righteous anger, leaving a trail of festive carnage in her wake.

So it seems as though Mother's Day, like most celebrations, was hijacked by the profiteer nearly from the beginning. However, the sentiment behind the day, the motivation which drove Anna Jarvis to dedicate her life to her private crusade, is a bit more universal and enduring.

In the most basic biological sense, we celebrate mothers because they are literally the gateways of life. This awesome power and responsibility has overawed humans since the earliest dawn of time as evidenced by the dominance in the earliest religions of the fertility goddess, themes of pregnancy and birth usually dovetailing with themes of agricultural bounty.

It may be hard to imagine in our era of overabundance to the point of careless waste, but through most of human history, starvation was a bad harvest away and woman's fertility was key for the survival of the family and by extension tribe or nation. So even in our more plenteous modern age, we find this awareness hard to shake. Our reverence for mothers seems to exist on perhaps a more basic, even primal, level than our regard for fathers.

Progressing past the physical, what meanings do we ascribe to motherhood? In our modern society it seems that we can agree less about that than in past times, but as a father of four children I have ample opportunity to develop my own impressions of it.

It seems to me that motherhood gets rather a raw deal out of our modern era. With the proliferation of the "professional" child care industries, extension of the school day and scope, explosion of extra-curricular activities, and the outsourcing to restaurant and package; how is a mother to maintain a sense of pride, of craftsmanship, or of vocation?

I think this is the operative word: vocation. It is a word that almost never enters our modern lexicon, but it is the goal which applies not just to motherhood but to all human endeavors. We are always fixated on jobs, wages, economic value, buying power, but these are utilitarian terms which do not touch the heart or soul. It's a vocation which our souls really crave in life. We long for not just an occupation by which to mark time, but something so vital, so magnificently removed from the trivial, that it becomes essential to ourselves, imprinted in our spirits and minds.

Motherhood is one of those human endeavors which really lends itself to the possibility of vocation. It can be easy to lose perspective of that in the midst of all the commonplace tasks that go along with it, but the work of mothers everywhere is, at its heart, nothing less than the very sculpting of the future. The great is always comprised of the small and seemingly insignificant. The commonplace of the everyday make up the fabric of a life, and this is the space where the mother practices her art and applies her craft.

Where other artists may exult in wood, or clay, or stone, she persistently plies her fingers around the impressionable clay of the human heart, creating space for joy here, kneading in wonder there, and shaping the contours of love, beauty, and compassion across its' surface. The result of the craft well practiced is a fully formed human, who hopefully will give the world even more goodness than was given.

A favorite GK Chesterton quote of my wife's, which I think sums it up nicely: "How can it be a large career to tell other people's children about the Rule of Three, and a small career to tell one's own children about the universe? How can it be broad to be the same thing to everyone, and narrow to be everything to someone? No. A woman's function is laborious, but because it is gigantic, not because it is minute. I will pity Mrs. Jones for the hugeness of her task; I will never pity her for its smallness."

Happy Belated Mother's Day!

WELLSVILLE CREATIVE ARTS CENTER

Slaid Cleaves to perform at Wellsville Coffeehouse

WELLSVILLE—Slaid Cleaves will perform at 8 p.m. Saturday, May 19 at the Wellsville Creative Arts Center. Advance tickets are $22 ($24 at door). Tickets may be purchased online at www.WellsvilleCreativeArtsCenter.com or at the Arts Center Coffee House. For more information visit the website or call (585) 593-3000.

The music of Austin-based singer/songwriter and guitarist Slaid Cleaves is rooted in country and traditional folk songs, but it is unusual enough to have held interest in a sea of singer/songwriters over the past thirty years. While he released a handful of songs during the early '90's, he gained significant notice with No Angel Knows (1997).

Joined by former Lucinda Williams' guitarist Gurf Morlix, Cleaves combined his passion for folk songs, blues, and traditional country music into an amalgamation of styles known as Americana. Not surprisingly, the album rode high in the charts at radio stations around the U.S. and Canada and set the tone for the rest of his career.

During the following decade, Cleaves released Broke Down (2000), Wishbones (2004), and Unsung (2006). After signing with Jimmy LaFave and Kelcy Warren's Music Road label, he issued Everything You Love Will Be Taken Away (2009, featuring liner notes from fan Stephen King) and the two-disc Sorrow and Smoke: Live at the Horseshoe Lounge (2011). Still Fighting the War (2013) was praised as "one of the year's best albums" by American Songwriter. The title song of this album was inspired by Craig F. Walker's Pulitzer-winning photo essay regarding a soldier's post-war civilian life.

Nutrition in a Nutshell

By MARIA ADAM
Nutritional Therapy Practitioner and Alfred Sun Columnist

Local Spotlights: Quail Eggs

Quality nutrition is so important for healing and maintaining our physical body. Embracing this stewardship is my passion as a nutritional therapist. However, when quality nutrition also builds community and local economy, holistic health is truly cultivated. This makes me even more ecstatic! Therefore, this will be my first of many articles spotlighting what our local community has to offer--which I will share from time to time.

This last week, my diet was exotically broadened with the introduction of some nutritional dynamite: quail eggs! Unknowingly, the adventure was in the making when Kristina Snyder, of Sunny Cove Farm, hatched quail eggs from her home this winter. I had the delight of seeing the chicks at different stages of growth. They were quite cute. Soon, her family was enjoying the "fruit" of their labor. Content with my chicken eggs from the Sunny Cove store, it did not occur to me to try her quail eggs. However, that all changed this last week when she personally offered me some of her newest product. I had never tried a quail egg, and was quite surprised by how tiny they are. Honestly, my first thought was, "how impractical." I'd yet to realize the gift I was given.

There are many ways to eat the quail egg. For my first try, I decided to go with the height of nutritional advantage. A local Ukrainian friend, Pavel, educated me on the methods of how to eat a raw quail egg. This is the tradition in his culture as it is recognized that all the nutrients are preserved by not cooking the egg. Although nervous about the texture, I proceeded. No worries! A mild sweet flavor, much like the yolk of a soft-boiled chicken egg. It was delightful and I felt nourished. It's not all in my head. After this new experience, I decided to do some research. Truly, every sustainably raised egg (chicken, duck, quail, etc.) deserves a five-star rating for nutrition. For example, all of these eggs contain high levels of vitamin A, D, B12, selenium, protein and fat--making them a great food for vision and blood sugar handling among other things. However, the quail egg has some unique treasures.

The origin of quail egg consumption can be traced back to Egyptian and Chinese medicines, when it was used to fight respiratory diseases and general immune conditions. This practice soon spread to other Asian cultures--Japan is known for feeding their children 2 quail eggs for a school breakfast. The eggs are also prized in European countries-- I mentioned the Ukrainian traditions shared with me by Pavel, and they are quite common in some South American countries where they are typically served hard boiled.

So, what sets the quail egg apart from other eggs? Above, I termed the egg "dynamite" because when comparing quail eggs to chicken eggs, one quail egg contains six times more vitamin B1 and fifteen times more vitamin B2. Also, between 1960-1980, two physicians, Dr. Truffier and Dr. Lucotte conducted separate studies of therapeutic doses of quail eggs which resulted in profound 'cures' of asthma and allergies. (Supporting their historical use in Egypt and China.) This is the result of unique enzymes in the egg white which inhibit trypsin (a protein which causes allergies.) And what about eating quail eggs raw? Well, you certainly can enjoy them prepared any way you would cook a chicken egg. However, unlike chicken eggs, quail eggs contain little to no Salmonella due to an increased amount of lysozyme--an enzyme that kills bacteria. So, if you trust the source of the egg and it is fresh, you can enjoy all these nutrients raw.

Best of all, I don't have to travel far to find more eggs, thanks to our new local supplier. You could say, two to three quail eggs keep the doctor away! I just may find out as I incorporate this delicious "super-food" into my regular diet.

SECRETARY OF STATE DANIEL WEBSTER

FUN in the SUN

An historic look at Tip Top

By DAVID L. SNYDER
Alfred Sun Editor and Publisher
Quite often, when I encounter visitors of Alfred who are considering attending college here, I tell them that "in the State of New York, higher education is at its highest right here in Alfred. Elevation 1800 feet above sea level." Fact is, there is no college campus in New York State at a higher elevation than Alfred University and Alfred State.

I often explain that the Town of Alfred has the highest point between New York and Chicago on the old Erie Railroad. Tip Top, I was told by Allegany County Historian Craig Braack, is 1776 feet above sea level.

So I was shelving books at Herrick Library the other day and, while shelving a local history book titled Genesee Valley Events by Irene A. Beale, I glanced at the Table of Contents and saw "From the Atlantic to Lake Erie By Rail."

I wondered whether the trip followed the old Erie line and began to read. Sure enough, the chapter was all about the rail line being completed in 1851—the same year Alumni Hall was built at AU—and how a train load of high officials embarked on the inaugural ride beginning at 6 a.m. May 14, 1851. Just 167 years ago Monday.

Improved rail service in New York State's Southern Tier was the objective of building the rail line. "Compared to the northern part of the state, which had benefited from the Erie Canal, this region was undeveloped," Beale wrote.

The chapter explained that work on the New York and Erie Railroad, which became the longest in the nation, began in 1835, progressing to Goshen in 1841, to Middletown by 1843, to Port Jervis in 1848, to Binghamton a year later and to Dunkirk on Lake Erie in 1851.

As the story goes, "The celebrating marking the inaugural run began at 6 o'clock on the morning of May 14 when a steamship sailed up the Hudson from New York City to Piermont in Rockland County. Among those aboard were President Millard Fillmore and his entire Cabinet, Secretary of State Daniel Webster, the United States Attorney-General, Secretary of the Navy, Postmaster General, many members of Congress and state officials galore. Two Genesee Valley figures present were Philip Church of Angelica and the Seneca Chief Ely Parker. New York City's most famous caterer and numerous policemen swelled the number to 300.

"Led by the Erie's president, Benjamin Loder, company officials and a crowd of thousands greeted the dignitaries at Piermont as cannons fired the Presidential salute, a band played, bells rang and whistles blew. The excursion train left at eight o'clock. At the controls was Chief Engineer Horatio Allen, a former president of the railroad, who had built and run the first locomotive to operate in the country. In solitary splendor, Daniel Webster occupied a rocking chair securely fastened onto a flat car -- this at his own request, the better to enjoy the scenery."

The train's 300-pound conductor made many stops to take on guests and let people see the dignitaries. Senators Stephen A. Douglas and William Seward entrained along the route. The President addressed the crowds at occasional stops, making such statements as "This great enterprise is the most costly and greatest work of its kind on this continent."

Proceeding along the line, at Binghamton, then a village of 2,000, "President Fillmore gave a political speech extolling peace."

Day's end came at Elmira, population 3,000, where the President led a group to one hotel, and the Secretary of State led one to a second hotel for dinners, followed by a reception for the citizenry...The next day the excursion, passing through Horseheads, reached Corning, a village created by the building of the railroad.

Now here's where the story gets interesting: "Past Addison, Canisteo and Hornellsville (later Hornell), it reached Tip Top, 1,776 feet above sea level. Pusher engines were needed to help the trains climb to this highest place on its route. As he sped by Wellsville, Belmont and Belvidere, one passenger described the area as 'vast lumber regions, showing no evidence of cultivation, except this noble road and now and then a secluded log hut.' The train stopped at Cuba where the last spike in the road bed had been driven several weeks before. Here was another summit, this one 1,699 feet above sea level. As at Tip Top the wood burned to make steam had not been properly seasoned, making the climb difficult..."

"On May 15 at four-thirty in the afternoon (only half an hour late), the engine Dunkirk met the train to escort it into Dunkirk. Again whistles blew, bells rang and a Navy gunboat in the harbor fired the Presidential salute. An arch had been built over the track, and at the end of the line on a pedestal labeled 'Finis,' was the plow which had broken the ground there in 1838. A lavish collation featured barbecued oxen, roasted sheep and buffalo tongues. Many were the speeches on the theme of 'We have reached the goal of our hopes.' After a display of fireworks, Fillmore, Webster and other notables went by steamship to the President's home in Buffalo."

THE GLORY OF AMERICA

Thursday, May 17

In the wake of the fortification of Dorchester Heights which forced the British to leave Boston, American confidence ran high--so high that the invasion of Canada was attempted, with disastrous results. Sobered, the Continental Congress heeded the admonitions of many clergymen and declared this day in 1776, a day of fasting, humiliation and prayer. In his sermon for the occasion, John Witherspoon began:

"While we give praise to God, the supreme disposer of all events, for His interposition on our behalf, let us guard against the dangerous error of trusting in, or boasting of, an arm of flesh."

ECCAAA hosts 5th Annual Post-Prom Party

By KEN SHUTT

Special to the Alfred Sun

ALMOND--This is the 5th year that students from Alfred-Almond Central School were invited to come to the school after prom to have an all-night party full of food, fun, friends, and amazing prizes.

After one inaugural year in which 8 students attended, now at the 4th annual "MORP" there were a total of 23 students who came to the school to take advantage of this safe and fun event. As always, the night began with an all-you-can-eat pizza buffet while students were entertained by an illusionist who left the students and chaperones in wonder and amazement.

Following this, for the third year in a row, MORP again featured Alfred-Almond's very own "Price is Right" game show experience in which students had an opportunity to win $1000 worth of prizes! Among many other things, these prizes included a 39" Smart TV, a mini-refrigerator, and a Chromebook laptop. The students had a blast as they guessed prices to win these prizes and many walked away as huge winners!

The fun continued all night long as the students had the opportunity to play active and board games, watch a movie, play BINGO (for prizes), or participate in this year's escape room experience called "Prom Night Heist" in which students had an hour to play detectives and find the stolen crown and tiara of the prom king and queen as well as discover the identity of the thief. Each group of students successfully recovered the stolen items and found the identity of the thief with time to spare!

Later in the night, this year's

These students were able to "escape" from the "Prom Night Heist."

MORP included a "Bubble Soccer" tournament that proved to be one of the highlights of the night. In the morning after all the fun was over, the night ended with a continental breakfast.

Throughout the course of the night students were given over $2500 worth of products, drinks, food, and prizes. None of this could have been made possible without the extremely generous support of many community churches, businesses, and individuals who deeply care about the students of AACS. MORP was 100% supported by donations of money, time, food, and merchandise. A very special thank you to all of those who helped make MORP a huge success which included:

Alfred-Almond Bible Church, Alfred-Almond Central School, Alfred-Almond Teachers Assn., Alfred State College, Alfred

Pharmacy, Alfred Station Seventh Day Baptist Church, Almond Union of Churches, Andy's Sub Shop, Barb's Creative Cuts, Bicycle Man, Big Dipper, Burdick Building Services, Canacadea Country Store, College Suppliers, Doug's Flower Shop, Duke's Main Street Pizza, Dunkin Donuts, ECCAAA, Hair Care, Hair Zoo, Lighthouse Christian Fellowship, L'italia, Little Sicily, Maple City Bowl, Maple City Dodge, Muhleisen's, Mullen's Factory Direct Carpet, Nana's Cafe, Perk's Auto Care, Pizza King, Pujari Mart, Soho Clothing Exchange, Southern Tier Concrete, Spotlight Theater, Susan Bain-Lucey, Terra Cotta/Jet, Texas Hot, The Ryan Agency, The Scoop, Tops Friendly Market, Uncle Alfred's Sub Shop, Village of Almond, Way to Gro, and Wegmans.

Alfred-based publishing firm releases first illustrated novel

ALFRED—Jericho Hill Publishing, an Alfred-based publishing firm, released its first illustrated novel this week. Amy's Eyes by author Richard Kennedy, is a fantasy adventure tale for juvenile audiences. The book contains more than 100 illustrations by Japanese artist Chihiro Nakagawa.

Amy's Eyes was first published in 1985 and translated into several languages, including German and Japanese. In addition to more than 100 original illustrations from the Japanese edition, the new second edition of Amy's Eyes includes more than a dozen new illustrations by Nakagawa.

The first edition of Amy's Eyes recieved very positive reviews.

“Richard Kennedy has all the wacky charm and rakish humor of a Roald Dahl; the pathos and irrepressible optimism of Frances Hodgson Burnett; the fantasy, recovery, escape, and consolation of C.S. Lewis or L. Frank Baum.” the San Francisco Chronicle said.

Lloyd Alexander, Newbery Award-winning author said: "Amy's Eyes, in my opinion, is indeed an extraordinary work. I think it's a brilliant novel in every way, and filled with inexhaustible riches: rich in conception, in language, in wise humor, in excitement. Richard Kennedy sets a new high standard for all of us concerned with quality in literature for young people. Writers, surely, must envy his achievement—and above all, admire it. I found the book altogether wonderful, and a permanent treasure."

Peter von Stackelberg, founder of Jericho Hill Publishing, said the release of Amy's Eyes is another step towards expanding its list of books from authors across the United States. The firm plans to publish four more books over the next twelve months.

AU SPORTS ROUND-UP

AU honors its senior Saxons at year-end banquet

ALFRED—Several Alfred University student-athletes were recognized for their achievements during a year-end luncheon ceremony Friday, May 11.

Among those honored were seniors A.J. LiCata (Lake View/Frontier), Seth Spicer (Corning-Painted Post) and Beryl Torthé (Pretoria, South Africa/St. Mary's Diocesan-South Africa), who were named 2018 recipients of the AU Ideal Saxon awards.

The Ideal Saxon award, established in 2013, is an annual honor that recognizes the achievements of a male senior and a female senior student-athlete at AU who "displays excellence in both academics and athletics while providing service and leadership of distinction to the AU Community."

LiCata, Spicer and Torthé were honored as the sixth annual Ideal Saxon award winners during the Senior Student-Athlete Recognition Luncheon on Friday. The luncheon, sponsored by Saxon Nation, is held each year on the Friday before Commencement.

"Our senior student-athlete luncheon is without a doubt my favorite event of the year," Paul Vecchio, Director of Athletics, said. "It is our chance to give a most heartfelt thank you to our seniors for the incredible memories they have provided to all of us. This year's winners of our Ideal Saxon Award—Beryl, Seth and A.J.—are truly indicative of the tremendous student-athletes and people that AU produces. We can take great pride in the lives these seniors have already affected and the many more they will impact in the coming years. They have truly embraced the adage that 'Every day is a Great Day to be a Saxon!'"

LiCata was a four-year starting outside linebacker for the AU football team, earning a

Honored seniors were A.J. LiCata (Lake View/Frontier), Seth Spicer (Corning-Painted Post) and Beryl Torthé (Pretoria, South Africa/St. Mary's Diocesan-South Africa), who were named 2018 recipients of the Alfred University Ideal Saxon awards. Pic-

On being considered for the Ideal Saxon Award LiCata said: "Being in consideration for the Ideal Saxon Award is a great honor and one that I could have never imagined stepping on campus four years ago. Alfred has helped me grow throughout my four years and has shaped me into an overall better man. Being an Ideal Saxon to me means being accountable on and off the field while also providing mentorship to those in need. I am extremely proud and honored when people ask where I went to school because without Alfred I really have no idea where I'd be today. The groundwork for being an Ideal Saxon is laid out from day one, and I am privileged to say that I did my best to follow through."

Spicer, a two-time All-American already—with hopes of adding another honor later this month at the 2018 NCAA Division III Outdoor Track & Field National Championships—has been amongst the top multi athletes in Division III track and field over the past three years.

In his personal statement, he noted: "The Ideal Saxon Award stands for everything that I have tried to be in my previous four years here as a student-athlete. I'm honored to be considered and hope that my standards of academia, and devotion to our teams, has been enough to qualify me for it. The summary of my time here is riddled with ups and downs due to tough academics, personal life difficulties, and falling short of my own expectations. I found a quote from Vince Lombardi a while back that said, 'The measure of who we are is what we do with what we have.' What I've been blessed with at Alfred has undoubtedly made me into the person I am today. I attribute my leadership qualities, my obsession for the truth in the fine details, and my compassion for all who treat me with respect to the workings of our programs. I hope to someday be able to give back to the rising programs I came from."

Torthé has twice served as the captain of her tennis team and was awarded the Empire 8 sportsmanship honor this past season. In the classroom, she boasts the highest GPA in the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences.

Torthé said about the opportunity to be the Ideal Saxon: "I am honored and humbled to be considered for the Ideal Saxon Award. As a senior, I am able to look back at my time as a member of the tennis team with a profound sense of accomplishment and value my time spent on the courts. Regardless of the outcome of the game, I feel a sense of pride sharing the courts with teammates who have worked exceptionally hard."

There is an Nguni word, native to South Africa, which has followed me throughout my journey at Alfred. It describes our common, intangible purpose: Ubuntu. In brief, Ubuntu can be summarized as 'I am who I am because of who we all are.' This sense of interconnectedness — Ubuntu — is the magic that results from playing for the love of the game. My involvement and experience as a student-athlete enabled me to experience a different dimension of Alfred and connect with peers from different walks of life...that's the magic of athletics at Alfred."

Other female finalists for the Ideal Saxon awards were: Jacquelynn Hicks (Greenville), women's volleyball and women's lacrosse; Sammy Jo Shanahan (Valley Stream South), women's soccer; Heather D'Andrea (Erie, PA/Mercyhurst Prep), women's volleyball; and Shannon Gray (Rochester/Churchville-Chili) women's lacrosse.

Other male finalists for the Ideal Saxon awards were: Sam Craver (Great Falls, VA/The Field School), men's soccer; Jake Lynch (Whitney Point), men's lacrosse; and Trevor Monk (Liverpool), football.

ALFRED STATE SPORTS ROUND-UP

Track & field team ready for ECACs

The Alfred State outdoor track & field will look to cap a successful season as they compete in the ECAC Championships at Johns Hopkins University (Baltimore, MD) this week. A total of 14 athletes will compete in the two-day event that begins tomorrow (5/16).

The Pioneers multi team will be well represented in the event. The quartet of Tim Berry (Midlakes), Alex Brown (Wellsville), Joe Richardson (Geneva), and Andrew Ruebenstahl (Washing-tonville) will compete in the decathlon. Berry enters the competition with the best score of the season for Alfred State. He scored 4,834 points at the Hilldale "GINA" Relays. Brown scored 4,743 at the Cortland Classic, Richardson 4,654 at the "GINA" Relays, and Ruebenstahl scored 4,378.

The trio of Holly Fiore (Niagara Falls), Emily Brigman (Lancaster), and Marissa Sly (N. Tonawanda) will compete in the heptathlon. Fiore leads the team with a performance of 3,154 points at the "GINA" Relays. Brigman scored 2,915 points at Cortland while Sly scored 2,358 points at Hillsdale. Brigman will also compete in the high jump. Her top performance this year is 1.46 m.

Paul Kemsley (Lancaster) and Anders Presthus (Lansing) will try to score some team points in three events. Kemsley has solid performances all year long and will compete in the shot put (14.41 m), the discus (49.79 m), and the hammer throw (48.93 m). Presthus caps his collegiate career in the shot put (13.52 m), the discus (42.07 m), and the hammer (44.60 m). Dylan Perlino (Holland) will compete in the hammer (43.87 m) and the discus (39.61 m) while Isiah Richardson (Geneva) will compete in the discus (37.80 m).

Berry (4.00 m) and Ruebenstahl (3.90 m) will also compete in the pole vault competition while Isiah Richardson (6.37 m) will compete in the long jump. The Pioneers 4x800 relay team will also compete boasting a time of 8:36.74.

Softball players earn ACAA honors

Alfred State softball players Zoe Derr (Elmira Heights/Thomas Edison), Morgan Franklin (Wellsville), and Ashley Peterson (Maybrook/Valley Central) have been honored with All-ACAA honors. Derr and Franklin were named to the first team while Peterson was a second team selection.

Derr, a senior outfielder, was second on the team with a .271 batting average (13 for 48). She collected three doubles, a triple, and drove in three. She played and started in 19 games for this spring.

Franklin, a freshmen outfielder, led the team with a .299 batting average (20 for 67). She led the team with eight runs scored this season. She also collected two doubles, two triples, and drove in five. Franklin started in all 25 games this season.

Peterson, a freshmen first basemen, started in all 25 games this season and finished with 13 hits, two doubles, and 5 RBI. Defensively, she only committed one error in 142 chances (.993 fielding percentage). The Varsity baseball team traveled to Addison on Friday and came away with a 5 - 2 vic

HITS AND MISSES:
It is quarter-final and semi-final action on tap this week in the NCAA Division III men's lacrosse playoffs with the undefeated and #1 ranked RIT Tigers (20-0) rolling along with two tourney wins. RIT drubbed New England College in their opener, 26-3 and then topped E8 champ Stevens after, 17-9. The Tigers will next tangle with York College.

Elsewhere in D3 men's lax play it was Longman's Bombers beating Stevenson by a 15-12 tally before falling to a tough Tufts program, 18-11 in MA. Believe "Hilly" Moses took in that contest over the weekend past! Ithaca finishes up at (16-4) on the year. Cortland lost their opener to Wesleyan out of CT, 16-12. So, it'll be: Tufts-Wesleyan, Salisbury-Dickinson and Gettysburg-Ohio Wesleyan, along with the RIT contest, with slots in the "Final Four" upcoming. Ohio Wesleyan used to be a power for years as they have rejoined the top programs.

In the NCAA D1men's lax tournament, the Big Red from Cornell defeated the Syracuse Orange for the second time this year as they prevailed, 10-9 at SU. Cornell previously won in Ithaca during regular season action, 13-8. The Great Danes from Albany are still alive as well as they thumped Richmond, 18-9. Up next is a strong Denver team. Cornell ... somehow the alma mater of Randy Beale (Penfield) ... has to go against #1 seeded Maryland next. Ouch.

In the NLL pro indoor lacrosse playoffs the Rochester Knighthawks continued their late season run with a 9-8 victory over the Georgia Swarm in the East Division finals. The K-Hawks will now face the Saskatchewan Rush in a best 2-of-3 championship series, which will go forever! Games are set for 5/26, 6/2 and 6/9. Why not have games this weekend? So, the "indoor" pro lax league will finish in early June while the outdoor MLL schedule is well underway. "Guessing" many players do both but teams probably won't have full compliments until they have played 5-6 games. Crazy.

Oops ... the Lilac 10K in Rochester is this coming Sunday and it wasn't held on Mother's Day. A little history as A-A's Olympian, John Tuttle won this in 1985 and 2000 ... the longest gap between winners. Tuttle's Auburn teammate, Chris Fox prevailed in 1989. Fox is now the cross country coach at Syracuse University. Steve Pulos of Bath/Alfred University won in 1980 and future Olympian Keith Brantley prevailed in 1988. L'Houssine Silba had quite the stretch when he won it for five-straight years, 1993-97. Tuttle competing one year for the famed Torrey Painting Striders.

Derck Frechette, another member of the elite Torrey Painting Striders, along with Alfred State College legendary track coach Gary "Doc" Moore, took in the recent PBA50 National Championship which was presented by the Spanish Springs Lanes in The Villages, FL. Big names galore were there, like: Norm Duke, Pete Weber, Parker Bohn III, Walter Ray Williams and the back-to-back winner was ... Lennie Boresch, Jr. as he beat Duke in the finals. Big D saw Bohn roll a perfect 300 game in the preliminary rounds. Great "leaderboard" as Bohn, WR Williams and Duke in the Final Five with Weber just outside in sixth. Had the opportunity to (briefly) meet Duke once ... on the golf course! He in group behind us at the sweet Mount Dora CC, "thanks" Len Stillings and we let his threesome play thru.

Took in the SUNY Geneseo - SJ Fisher softball game on Sunday in the NCAA Rochester Regionals during the sunny, early afternoon. Wanted to see Fisher's ace, Lindsay Thayer pitch and with Geneseo there, a bonus. It was soon pretty apparent the Blue Knights weren't going to touch the SJF hurler as she K'd something like six or seven of the first ten batters! SJF prevailed twice, 8-4 and 7-1 to advance to the Super Regionals where they'll face old E8 foe, Ithaca. Happened to be standing by the third-base fence side next to an incoming Geneseo soccer recruit, Nicole Bell from Mercy. Chatted with Bell and her dad. Spotted Geneseo men's hoop coach, Steve Minton and talked with him for awhile. The Cardinals should continue to do well (again) in the NCAA's with Thayer in the circle.

ALFRED SAXON FOOTBALL

The Alfred University football team will play (with Canadian rules) the Quebec Major Junior Football League All-Stars in the Montreal Allouettes' Molson Stadium at 7 p.m. Saturday, May 19. The All-Star squad consists of free agents looking to make their way into the Canadian Football League.

AU to play Canadian All-Stars

ALFRED—The Alfred University football team will head to Canada this week to take on the Canadian All-Star team in preparation for the 2018 season.

The Saxons will take on a Canadian All-Star team consisting of free agents looking to make their way into the Canadian Football League (CFL) at Molson Stadium in Montreal, Quebec at 7 p.m. Saturday May 19. Molson Stadium is the home of the Montreal Allouettes.

"This is a great opportunity for our football team to go up against some great competition," Head Coach Bob Rankl said. "I can't think of a better way to get us prepared for the season."

The game will be played with Canadian rules, including 12 players on the field, a 110-yard field and an additional 10 yards from sideline to sideline.

The game is being sponsored by the CFL's Montreal Allouettes and other CFL team scouts that will be assessing the game. The Allouettes will also supply their pressbox staff, mascot and cheerleaders for the game to create a true football atmosphere.

Overall, the trip to Canada consists of three days to Montreal including a sightseeing tour of the historic city.

"I am excited for the game, but I am also excited about getting our players the opportunity to tour and do some sightseeing in Montreal," Rankl added. "It is a beautiful city and I know they will really enjoy the unique cultural experience."

AU will open the 2018 season at home against Thiel College on Sept. 1 in Yunevich Stadium.

Former Buffalo Bills head coach Chuck Knox, who is most famous for his stellar teams with the LA Rams, passed away over the weekend at the age of 86. Knox coached the Bills starting in 1978 until 1982. He coached the Seattle Seahawks after that and then returned to the Rams late in his coaching career. He compiled an overall NFL record of 186-147-1.

Dwane Casey of the Toronto Raptors was named the Coach of the Year in the NBA by the NBCA and then was handed his "pink slip" three days later by the franchise. They should've handed the walking papers to their two All-Star(?) guards DeMar DeRozan and Kyle Lowry for their play against the LeBron Cavs. Obviously that wasn't going to happen but those two had more to do with the 0-4 sweep against them than Coach Casey did!

And the Boston Celtics with (perhaps) the AP Coach of the Year in Brad Stevens, took it to the Cavs in their Eastern Conference opener, 108-83. At the beginning of the season, with All-Stars Gordon Hayward and Kyrie Irving still healthy, took the Celts to beat the Cavs in this round and to then face the GS Warriors. Might happen! No Hayward all season, no Irving down the stretch and playoffs, "think" Stevens just might be Coach of the Year?

With Stan Van Gundy out as Coach/President of Basketball Operations for the Detroit Pistons, it is also the end of the line there for assistant coach Bob W. Beyer (AU) as his contract runs out June 30th. Beyer, who began his college coaching career at Alfred State under the tutelage of the once-legendary Kaz, has been in the NBA for years and should be able to latch on somewhere ... if he so chooses. Was hoping to win the NYS Lottery by now so he and I could buy Druthers in Saratoga, then have Lauren and Jason run it for us! Beyer from LeRoy, perhaps on staff with Patrick Ewing at Georgetown? Or head coach of the Batavia Notre Dame (recruit school) boys basketball squad, where it all started? Or maybe a "gate guard" at Saratoga Race Track like his former ASC fellow coach does in a Virginia RV Park, Joe Q. French?

Audrey Connell ... still spry at 99!, and the "Traveling Sports Fan" from Almond were surprised at the Country Kitchen in Hornell on Sunday past with a visit from MLB Hall of Famer, Rich "Goose" Gossage at breakfast. The former Yankee great in town for the annual Sports Night festivities as "Hair" got autographs (of course!) from Gossage, former boxer Earnie Shavers and ex-NFL receiver James Lofton who had a stint with the Bills.

Sunday, Mother's Day past was a great day personally for sports on the tube. DVR'd the golf action from The Players, the Yanks were on YES and the Celtics on ABC. Really wanted to see the Jordan Spieth-Tiger Woods pairing and was great seeing Woods mount a charge, although second-place was best he was going to be able to finish with the way Webb Simpson was playing. Woods had it going until a late bogey and then a double on the island 17th. He looks to be "not far off" from victory lane, again! Spieth, meanwhile, looked like he was on the Sumo Tour at the Alex Bay Open with a "lovely" (8) on the 4 par 18th hole. He has been erratic ... at best, all season long.

The New York Mets somehow convinced the sad Cincinnati Reds to take pitcher Matt Harvey off their hands in a trade for a catcher. Maybe the NY Yankees can do the same with the Reds and pitcher(?) Sonny Gray! Not sure how the three prospects the Yanks shipped to Oakland for the mediocre Gray will turn out, but would rather still have them than watching Gray attempt to stay in the NY rotation.

Coach Tim Mead's (Andover) Walsh Cavs baseball team in Ohio went 2-2 in the GMAC league tourney to complete a (26-23) campaign.

Coach Skip Sherman (A-A) and his Genesee CC baseball program dropped "double dipers" to Erie CC and Niagara County CC last week to finish up regular season action at (22-19) At least, I believe he is done for the year!

Former AU softball coach, Gino Olivieri and his Coppin State softball squad (14-26) lost both games in their conference tournament, to Bethune-Cookman and Hampton. Not exactly having same success there as at AU with the Saxons. B-C went on to grab the championship over four-time defending champ, Florida A&M.

Gary and Mary Moore off to Maryland-DC this week where they'll take in ECAC track action at Johns Hopkins University and hopefully a Yanks-Nationals MLB game on Tuesday or Wednesday (5/15-16) from the stadium in Washington. Great place! They'll potentially of seen pitcher Max Scherzer in action as he is off to a great start in another quest for a Cy Young Award.

Timeless (NBC) ... great season finale and hope not finished, period!

Finally, this weekend marks the anniversary of the epic Log-blasters event from Cedar Lake, NY as Stub took on The Thunderbolt in the main event with Mike Jackson ... perhaps from Andover, pitted against The Thunderbolt - also - Mike Jackson vs. The Screw Blaster Sunday May 19, 1:00 pm
