DR. JAMES A. HAMILTON ADDRESSES ASSEMBLY IN FOUNDERS' DAY PROGRAM

Secretary of State Lectures on "Fundamental Americanism"

FIRST APPEARANCE OF SENIORS IN ACADEMIC GARB

Last Wednesday morning, the entire student body and faculty turned out to take part in the annual Founders' Day program held in Firemens Hall. With the usual formality, the seniors, clad in cap and gown, followed the corps of University instructors into the hall and prepared to listen to the annual address. Secretary of State James A. Hamilton, upon his introduction by President Davis, delivered one of the best addresses ever enjoyed in Alfred assembly on the subject of "Fundamental Americanism."

"The man who makes loose and unsubstantiated statements concerning men in public life belongs in the category of crooks and blacklegs," declared Mr. Hamilton. According to the speaker, it is far easier to throw bricks than to lay them, but that there was a vast difference in that the one was destructive, while the other was constructive.

"Those who oppose adequate compensation for public officials invite corruption and inefficiency.

"The man who wanders off pleasure bent on election day and does not vote, is unworthy of the ballot.

"The man who votes only in presidential years does not perform his full duty.

"Those who would limit office holding to the wealthy are undemocratic and urge a course that would ultimately lead to the downfall of the Republic.

"The man who makes loose and unsubstantiated statements concerning men in public life belongs in the category of crooks and blacklegs.

"It is unfortunate that some of our newspapers," said Secretary Hamilton, "hurl reckless and indiscriminate abuse at men in public life. Virulent and vitriolic attacks are made in primary and general election campaigns. Is it to be wondered at that the reading public is frequently inclined to sneer at their public officials, and in some instances, on mere hearsay, openly denounce them as grafters and scoundrels? From innuendo to foul abuse is the gamut of these traducers of public opinion.

"The citizen is responsible for the government. He is not a mere subject of the state, but an integral part of it. The members of the municipal, state and federal legislatures are his direct representatives whom he may retain or oust from public service as they do, or do not meet with his approval. If he is at any time dissatisfied with existing conditions he can not consistently blame anyone but himself. If reform is needed, it devolves upon the citizen to bring it about.

"It is an easy matter for the business or professional man to sit by the fireside in comfortable slippers, perhaps puffing a good cigar, and whine about evil conditions in political life. While he talks much as a rule, he does little or nothing to remedy the situation about which he so readily finds fault. Real political progress is made only by those who enter the fray in primary and general election campaigns. The political arena is no place for the individual lacking stamina or with a streak of yellow; no place for the spineless weakling or the thin-skinned coward. But the door is wide open for those who are capable, energetic, sincere and who love their country, with the conviction and the courage to uphold their convictions.

"The real danger to the Republic today is not from foes without, but from enemies within, who while professing loyalty, are by word and deed, acting against its best interests. Whoever seeks power or official position for private ends and against public interests, is an arch enemy of the Republic. Private exploitation of public utilities and national monopolies is a hateful and insidious pillaging of the rights of the people. Class distinction and special privilege are incompatible with equal rights, and those who seek them are striking at the roots of American liberty.

"Because of his educational opportunities, the college graduate should render exceptional service, and perform to the full his civic obligations. Instead of standing on the side lines and criticizing those who play the game, the man with the unusual education should jump into the fray and stand his share of the turmoil. The carping critic is always found on the sidelines, loudly proclaiming how things should be done; but the more useful citizen is the one who does things, although he may at times make mistakes."

Last year's team remains intact but the wealth of new material from the Freshman class makes the line up of this season's aggregation rather uncertain. The old combination, however, has been working together well, in the few scrimmages indulged in thus far, and the scrap for berths on the team is sure to be exciting. The

"DOC'S" MEN HANG UP LAURELS

Team Secures Fourth Place In National Meet

SEASON SCORE: A. U. VS. OPPONENTS 105-170

The cross country men who represented Alfred University on the field this year have established for themselves and the college an enviable reputation.

The first meet of the season against the last year's National Intercollegiate champions at Syracuse University, was contested every inch of the way and it was by the small score of 21-34 that Alfred was defeated.

The following week the team journeyed to Colgate where, running over a slippery course, they easily defeated the Maroon to the tune of 15-40. It was by no means a fast race as Alfred finished nine men before Colgate's first counter crossed the line.

In the first home meet of the season, that against Allegheny College, Alfred repeated the Colgate performance of the preceeding week. The Varsity thus far had scored two consecutive victories by the highest possible score, 15-40.

The second home meet against Carnegie Tech caused the Purple and Gold harriers to dig in their toes, but win they did, Capt. Dykeman of Carnegie leading the bunch to the tape. This race threatened to be a great deal closer than any before staged but all the same A. U. came out on the long end of the score 21-34. In Capt. Dykeman and his running mate, Bright, was found remarkable endurance and team work of a superior order.

The Purple and Gold "Hill and Dalers" left directly after the Carnegie meet to compete in the Niagara District Meet of the National A. A. U. where they were again defeated by Syracuse but easily placed second.

By an extremely close margin of seconds only, Case and Gottlieb, both of Syracuse, led H. Herrick to the finish.

From this meet, the runners went to Hobart where they took the measure of that team 20-35. Here again Herrick came in close on the heels of Hillman, Hobart's first man. Closely following Herrick, eight of his team mates tied for second place, showing the perfect balance of the Alfred team.

Having completed an altogether successful season, these loyal representatives went to Philadelphia at the general expense of the student body to run in the National Senior A. A. U. cross country meet. The participants of this race were nearly all men of exceptional ability as Willie Ritola of the Finnish-American Athletic Club, Studenroth of the Meadowbrook Athletic Club of Philadelphia and Hennigan of the Dorchester Athletic Club. Running against these contestants, some of whom possess years of experience in the sport, Alfred's team, with a bare two years of cross country training behind them secured fourth place. Herrick, as an individual, by virtue of his excellent work, claimed fifth over a course of 6¼ miles in 33:27. The remaining Alfred men finished within one and one-third minutes of Herrick. "Doc's" runners scored 66 points against the winners' 44 and the fifth team's 120. This fact alone proves that it was by no means a slow race. The six scoring teams finished as follows:

Meadowbrook A. C., Phil.	44
Finnish-American A. C., N. Y. City	53
Dorchester A. C. of Mass.	64
Alfred University	66
Shanahan A. C., Phil.	120
Nativity A. C., Phil.	121
Enterprise A. C., Phil.	no score

The Alfred team has amassed a total of 105 points to their opponent's 170 in five dual meets.

In teams of all sports there are bound to be stars but in this anyone outstanding figure would be hard to

HERRICK '26 TO LEAD NEXT SEASON'S HARRIERS

Succeeds Navin in Captaincy

Having fully earned his reward, Hollis Herrick, two years a member of the Alfred University Cross Country team, was last Friday elected to captaincy for the coming year.

Herrick has proven himself to be a man of rare capabilities along this particular branch of athletics. His worth has been tested in the various meets of this season and he has always "come through." Finishing first on the Purple and Gold team in the last meet of the national A. A. U. in Philadelphia verified Coach Ferguson's good judgment in selecting him as one of the best five long distance men in the country and probably more than any other event of the season, decided his team mates as to the man for selection as captain.

"Bill" Navin, Herrick's predecessor, a man of exceptional ability in running, an untiring worker, and one respected and admired by all his followers, has captained an unusually successful team this year. His support to the team and his encouragement to the individual men has been one of the large factors in establishing a winning team.

PLANS FOR COMBINED SUB-FRESHMAN DAY AND BASKETBALL TOURNAMENT UNDER WAY

As a result of a petition presented to the faculty by several representatives of the student group, Pres. Davis has appointed a faculty committee to confer with the student committee for

WEE PLAYHOUSE STAGE FIRST PLAYS OF YEAR

Prof. Joseph Seidlin, Prof. Charles F. Binns, and Dr. Morton Mix
Directors

With its usual great success, the Wee Playhouse presented three one-act plays last Thursday evening. The little theater was crowded to the limit, proving the ever increasing enthusiasm of the public for the excellent work done by the players.

The first play—"The Lost Silk Hat," directed by Prof. Joseph Seidlin, started the program with spicy vim, and the audience was delighted to see the former stars, John McMahon and Irwin Conroe back in action.

"The Rising of the Moon" directed by Prof. Charles F. Binns, gave the audience the delightful feeling that after all the world is a good old place to be in. Bill Navin proved his versatility while Prin. Chester Feig proved his ability to act especially while Navin sang. This play was very well done and showed much careful training and practice.

The last play—"The Medicine Show," was the comedy hit of the evening. Two new stars were brought to light in Director Champlin and Prof. Neiswanger. The play, directed by Dr. Morton Mix, portrayed real art in drama. Every point, every word was made to count for its full value, and the audience could not miss one atom of enjoyment. The acting seemed to indicate many thorough rehearsals.

Between the plays the audience was entertained by the sweet music of the trio, who were Mrs. Seidlin, Harry Okean and Donald Prentice. This music made the whole performance seem like that of a large city theater and gave a professional air to the entire program.

the making of plans for a sub-freshman day to be held in the spring. Although no very definite plan of action has thus far been completed, it is proposed to combine this event with a basketball tournament. Teams representing high schools in eight counties of western New York, will compete. Pending arrangements by the committee, prizes will be awarded to the winning team and to individual high point winners.

These two attractions combined, should attract a large crowd, not only of contestants, but of rooters and of high school seniors, who, contemplating college entrance the following fall, will be given an opportunity for an inspection of the University and a chance to become familiar with some of the college customs.

More complete information will be published later when the committee has had time for getting concrete plans under way.

BASKETBALL MEN START WARMING UP

Face Sixteen Game Schedule

Basketball season opened officially in Alfred last week with three intramural contests in which the Seniors trounced the Aggies, the Sophs defeated the Juniors and the Freshmen in turn, handed the Seniors a sound drubbing. From these three games Coach Kasper picked the men for the Varsity squad. The squad at present consists of seventeen men as fol-

N.Y.S.A.

AG NOTES

The Aggies are indebted to Mrs. A. E. Champlin and Mrs. Truman for the fine entertainment they provided for them at last Monday's assembly. We hope to hear them again in the near future.

The interclass football game having been played to a scoreless tie it is expected the eniors and Juniors will have to decide their athletic supremacy on the basketball court.

At a student body meeting on Wednesday, it was decided that it was not practicable at this time to put out a basketball team to represent N. Y. S. A., and the proposition was decisively voted down. There is some talk of having a team composed of Ag girls, but nothing definite has been decided upon at this writing.

The remarkably open weather has encouraged our long distance hikers to plan some extensive trips, and we hope to have some interesting items to report about them soon.

COUNTRY LIFE CLUB

One of the most enjoyable social events to be held this year at Ag School, was the entertainment and dance last Tuesday evening under the auspices of the Country Life Club. Prof. and Mrs. Camenga and Prof. and Mrs. Lloyd Robinson added greatly to the enjoyment of the evening, the two ladies performing creditably on the piano, while Profs. Camenga and Robinson played the cornet and banjo with their usual skill.

Owing to the fact that for some reason or other a number of the present were unaccompanied by ladies, it was decided to hold a tag dance, so that everyone would have an opportunity to participate.

Born in Paris, son of a wealthy tradesman. As a student won a prize for an essay on lighting the streets of Paris. Held various Government posts. A martyr of the Reign of Terror. Founder of modern chemistry.

Just before the dancing several contests of skill were decided, one of the most notable being the grinning contest. It was decided that Bill Krastel should be awarded the prize of a bag of peanuts for producing the widest grin. After the contest has narrowed down to a duel between him and Jack Humphrey.

Mrs. Erma Clarke Whitford of Watson town, Pa., was a guest at the Tau Sigma Alpha Sorority, last Friday evening.

Stunt pictures for the Kanakadea are coming in rather slow. Now is the time to get them, and don't wait until its too late. Hand them to he Ag photographer, Joe Laura.

THETA GAMMA

On last Monday evening F. W. Gibson, Jr., of the Eta Phi Gamma, was a guest at the Frat's dinner. "Gibby" is well known by all the brothers and it was a pleasure to have him with us for the occasion.

Si Brookins '23, spent a few days in town. Si will be connected with the Geneva Experiment Station, at Geneva, N. Y. We hope that he will

Dr. Charles F. Wardner came down from Buffalo to see his son, Richard, Saturday morning. The doctor has been down before and he admires the little college in the hills.

Bill Slosson, Gray Rheinbrecht and Jack Humphrey are abstaining from eating pies and cakes. They are doing it for beauty culture. But we all disagree. We believe that it is the sweet things that make beauty. Of course we do not advise the girls to adopt their methods. We all wish them success and may they keep up their pledge for that means extra pieces of the sweets for us.

Curley Anderson claims that a man's beauty is his mustache. We now understand the reason for Curley raising one. We have persuaded Gray Rheinbrecht to raise a mustache. Joe Laura, does not believe that Gray would look good with one, but Joe is urging him to raise a beard.

Fang Tang is getting to be a prominent card game. Boxes of matches are fast disappearing. We have a little suspicion on Howard Taylor. Our cook, Ma Emerson, will be whipping some one of us if she should find matches missing in the kitchen.

FEDERAL BOARD NOTES

Chas. Brittan spent the last week-end in Buffalo. He informed Ye Scribe that he was going on business, but who in the world would drive a Ford 150 or 200 miles for business-sake alone?

Bill Krastel won 35 cents last week matching pennies. He is now thinking of giving up ice cream and taking up penny matching for a business.

Charles Clarke, Jr., ate half a box of dog biscuits thinking they were some new-fangled breakfast food. We fear that the Mrs. had better issue Charlie his rations from now on, for the dog's sake if not for Charlie's.

Joe Laura entertained the Rinkey-Dinks one evening last week.

J. Fennemore Cooper and Pop Wehrle have been spending some pleasant evenings together of late. Pop is now looking for the Last of the Mohicans. Anyone knowing where he is, please drop Pop a line.

After wrestling with a typewriter several nights last week McAhon allows that the editor's business ain't what its cracked up to be. Anyone wanting a job that is all work and no pay, kindly see Mac. (One at a time, please).

President Massey is not going to a hospital in Brooklyn as stated recently. We are all glad that he has changed his mind as we would miss him.

They couldn't destroy the work he did

"The Republic has no need for savants," sneered a tool of Robespierre as he sent Lavoisier, founder of modern chemistry, to the guillotine. A century later the French Government collected all the scientific studies of this great citizen of Paris and published them, that the record of his researches might be preserved for all time.

Lavoisier showed the errors of the theory of phlogiston—that hypothetical, material substance which was believed to be an element of all combustible compounds and to produce fire when liberated. He proved fire to be the union of other elements with a gas which he named oxygen.

Lavoisier's work goes on. In the Research Laboratories of the General Electric Company the determination of the effects of atmospheric air on lamp filaments, on metals and on delicate instruments is possible because of the discoveries of Lavoisier and his contemporaries.

This is the mark of the General Electric Company, an organization of 100,000 men and women engaged in producing the tools by which electricity—man's great servant—is making the world a better place to live in.

ENFORCING THE HONOR SYSTEM

This subject is one which needs to be considered carefully in the light of all the specific information we have at this time. One hears frequent rumors of wholesale violation of the Honor System. More pessimistic upper-classmen speak frankly before the Freshmen of violations, of the helplessness of the organization attempting enforcement. Members of the faculty came right out with their conviction that student-self-government is falling down. Obviously there is something wrong and obviously we need to do some honest, conscientious, purposeful introspection. If there is something wrong with our attitude or our machinery we want to know it and correct it.

Briefly our machinery is this: A student noticing actions which make him suspicious of cribbing, is supposed to rise and say to the class "There is cheating going on." If the suspicious actions are continued, he is supposed to report the case to the Senate.

The Senate studies the case, collects all the evidence it can, and then tries the accused. If found guilty, his guilt is proclaimed by notices on the bulletin boards. Public opinion is then supposed to act to inflict the punishment. Evidence of absolute moral depravity, of absolute inability to be honest would probably be considered as just cause for expulsion from college. Such evidence has never been found and only in three cases in the writer's memory has evidence been given the Senate to warrant conviction and proclamation of guilt. The fact that only three students have been found guilty of violation of the honor system in three years would lead the casual observer to glowing praise of our institution but we have got to face the fact that we know there have been dozens of violations, even wholesale violations, that should make us feel like hypocrits when we talk of our honor system.

From this consideration of the machinery, it is plain that it is the Senate's duty to:

1. Hear cases as a jury.
 2. To execute the punishment of the guilty according to the constitution.
 3. And, if we profess to have any high conception of our duty as the Senate of the Alfred Student Body, we have the moral responsibility to awaken the moral consciousness of the student body and to create a public opinion which will make the students live up to their duty as outlined in the Constitution of the Honor System.
- Therefore any failure, partial or whole, of the honor system is due: first—to a disinterested, careless, irresponsible, student public, and secondly—to a Senate which has idled along without the high conception of its duty, or the nerve to bring the student public to task in an effort to MAKE them interested and responsible.

It is to take the bull by the horns that the editorial by the president of the Senate, published two weeks ago, and this article are written.

The Senate has had some discouraging but perhaps enlightening experiences this year in its efforts to handle the situation. They may be briefly summarized in this way:

1. One member of the faculty reported violation and a written warning was sent, which apparently has been effective.

2. No cases of this warning "Cheating is going on" being given have been reported.

3. There have been many reports of general cribbing given by students to the Senate without names or anything else to work on.

4. One man was brought to trial and found guilty. Action in this particular case was deferred in consideration of the circumstances attendant to the violation.

The significant and discouraging fact is that the members of the student public remain bound up in their own private interests or haven't the courage to take the steps necessary to bring about action by the Senate to remedy the situation. This would indicate that there was something wrong with the student public. This should be a real challenge to them.

The evidence in the trial mentioned brought out some defects in the machinery of enforcement that we ought to remedy. In the first place there should be a careful consideration of the suggestion made in the editorial by the president of the Senate that Freshmen may not be ready to shoulder the full responsibilities of the Honor System. A certain F stared this man in the face and not because (according to him) he hadn't made a decent effort to get the subject. About half the class seemed to be freely discussing the exam around him. He knew it was wrong but he did it too. Unfortunately he was caught and received an F besides. This situation, one of wholesale violations in which the machinery of the honor system failed miserably to function, may have been the fault of the course and it may have been the fault of the system or both. However, it was the cause of the president's editorial which seems to have been pretty much misunderstood.

In this trial it was forcibly brought out that to rise and say "Cheating is going on" was impossible for the person who brought the evidence because it would have made further work on the exam very difficult, due to the nervous reaction. That this is a general condition is nearly established by the fact that in a year and a half of trial, only one has had the nerve to do it though afterwards students have admitted that they knew others were cheating. Also in this case such a warning would have stopped the cheating after the cribber had gotten almost all he wanted. This cog in the machinery, then, is ineffective for two reasons:

1. That psychologically, it is impossible for most students to take this action.

2. That should the action be taken, the damage is most likely to have been done already and the person guilty of violation, is not brought to trial if he heeds this obvious warning.

Probably it is useless to make an appeal to those who make a habit of cribbing, from the standpoint of justice, of honor, of the good name of our institution. They should realize that cribbing is harmful to themselves in a very real and vital way. It destroys their initiative and independence. It does not permit them the knowledge and training which will make them a success. After all they don't fool the faculty long and the Fs come just the same. If for no other than these selfish reasons, they ought to see the desirability of strict honesty in every bit of work they do.

To the rest we must appeal to your loyalty to the institution to take the interest that will make you work to remedy the situation. To those who see the violations and haven't the courage or maybe the conviction to report them, we throw out this challenge:

"Will you allow your sense of duty to this great institution of ours, the Honor System to be dulled by conformity to those misconceived ideas some have that you are tattling on your school boy companions?"

A SENATOR.

BASKETBALL MEN START WARM-IN UP

veterans will be forced to their utmost to retain their positions while the new men will have to step to displace them.

The practices so far have been concerned mainly with fundamentals of the game. There is plenty of time for the squad to get in prime condition before the opening game with Rochester School of Optometry on January 17. Five teams, not on the schedule last year, appear on the list for this season. Hobart will be met at Geneva on January 19, while athletic relationships with Mansfield will be reopened with two basketball games. The Normalites will be met at Mansfield on February 2, and an attempt to secure two games on preceding days is being made. Niagara, old football rival of Alfred, will oppose the Purple court stars as will Canisius, at Buffalo. Davis-Elkins will come up from West Virginia to try to atone for the defeat handed Salem last year on their trip north. Altogether the schedule, when completed, will contain sixteen games, all with teams of high calibre. However, prospects are bright for one of the best court seasons ever enjoyed by the college.

The Freshman team is fast rounding into shape and will probably play their first game the last of this week. A schedule, which will give to the Frosh an average of one game each week, is being made up and will be composed of some of the best high school teams in this section. Games with some other college freshman teams are also to be arranged.

With such excellent prospects for two winning basketball teams, the court season promises to be an exciting one in Alfred.

The Varsity schedule follows:

Jan. 17	Rochester School of Opt.	Rochester
Jan. 18	Mechanics Institute	Rochester
Jan. 19	Hobart	Geneva
Jan. 26	Mansfield	Alfred
Jan. 28	Niagara University	Alfred

SOME GAME

The annual football game between the Ag Juniors and Seniors, took place at the athletic field last Thursday afternoon and resulted in a scoreless tie. Owing to a muddy and wet field, the speed of both teams was slowed up somewhat but never the less, it was a well played and hotly contested game. The Juniors outweighed the Seniors slightly, but the fact that only two Junior line men had ever played football before, evened up matters somewhat.

Both teams had chances to score but failed to have the necessary punch at the critical time. Several times the Juniors started a march down the field only to lose the ball within two feet of the goal line, but lost the ball on a pass that grounded in the end zone.

The Seniors made some spectacular runs which availed them nothing as they could gain very little on plunge and line plunges were necessary as the field was too wet to permit much running.

Both teams played good football and there were really no outstanding stars on either team. The work of Krastel and Gardner of the Juniors, who made good gains around the ends, was very good, while Mac Kinnon and Schoefer of the Seniors, made good gains at times by off tackle-plunging. McAhon of the Juniors made several first downs diving through center.

name. Perhaps Hollis Herrick best fills that position. Closely following him are Gordon Borden, Bill Navin, F. Bennett, Ralph Smith, Travis, Lampman, Wood, Witter, and Button. All these men except Witter and Bennett have had some previous experience in this line but to every one is due great praise for hard, steady and consistent work.

Standing back of all of Alfred's victories is Coach Russell Ferguson, to whom belongs the credit of turning out for Alfred the best cross country team ever known to the school. The wonderful training and care which he has given his men is the most important factor in establishing their success.
