Posthumous Honors

Alfred Lions scholarships honor Higgins, Ninos

By KATHY BENZAQUIN
Special to the Alfred Sun

ALFRED—The Alfred Lions announce that they have named their annual college scholarships in memory of two special people who passed away during the 2018-19 year.

Each year the Lions award a scholarship for $750 each to the top students from Alfred-Almond Central School who will attend Alfred University and Alfred State College. The club selected Wally Higgins and John Ninos for this honor as they both were long time members of the club and remained active until their deaths.

Lion Wally, who passed away in August 2018, was a 52-year member of the Alfred Lions Club having joined in its initial charter year back in 1966. He was a four time President and named Lion of the Year in 2002 and again in 2016.

Wally designed a number of ceramic pieces sold by the club as fundraisers and for gifts to visiting speakers. He participated in club activities throughout the years and was a smiling and happy presence at the annual chicken BBQ sales. Wally was an Alfred University colleague with, and professor for, many of the club's AU'S INAMORI SCHOOL OF ENGINEERING members. Because of his close relationship with AU, the annual scholarship to the student attending Alfred University will be named in his honor.

John Ninos, who passed away in February of this year, joined the Alfred Lions Club in 1974. He served as president for 1979-80 and was named the first Lion of the Year in 1983. He also won the award in 1985. John was very active with the club over the years and his ever-smiling face and kind demeanor greeted every patron of the annual fall and spring chicken BBQ events.

John had a very close relationship with the Greek community (fraternities and sororities) of Alfred State College. He was truly loved by these students and it seems only fitting that the scholarship to Alfred State College be named in his honor.

The Alfred Lions Club is happy to provide this honor for two great members and community heroes. The club is thankful for the Higgins and Ninos families for naming the Alfred Lions as a recipient for memorials in their honor. Both men valued education and it is a privilege to keep their memories alive through these annual awards to deserving A-A seniors.

Koike Aronson Inc. donates cutting machine

ALFRED—Koike Aronson Inc. has donated to Alfred University's Inamori School of Engineering a machine that uses computer-aided water jet technology to cut through a variety of solid materials. The KoikeJet E60, unveiled at an on-campus ribbon-cutting ceremony Tuesday, will benefit engineering students and faculty, as well as a variety of engineering-related clubs.

"This is not just a showpiece, it will be part of our curriculum," said Gabrielle Gaustad, dean of the Inamori School of Engineering. "A lot of people are going to be using this. It will be showcased in our Manufacturing course, and our machine shop is very interested."

Gaustad said artists have used the equipment to cut materials used in sculptures, and student clubs have used it to cut materials for their projects. Glenn Zwegardt, emeritus professor of sculpture, presented Koike Aronson representatives with a piece of artwork, parts of which were cut on the newly-acquired equipment.

Jim Mighells, technician/machinist in the Inamori School, said the machine, delivered to campus earlier this year, is a welcome addition to the engineering program.

"For five years since I have been here and prior, in senior exit interviews, the students have expressed their desire to have CNC (computer numeric controlled) equipment added to our machine shop," Mighells said. "Acquisition of this machine is a great opportunity to bring that to reality."

The KoikeJet E60 water jet machine, located in the engineering labs in Seidlin Hall annex, uses 60,000 pounds per square inch of pressure to cut through a variety of materials, including steel, plastic and glass. CNC technology, in which the machine's cutting path is mapped out on a computer using specialized software, allows for high-precision cutting.

Koike's donation was made possible in part by the efforts of Alfred University alumnus Zach Pero, who earned a bachelor's degree in mechanical engineering in 2018. About a year ago Pero, then a member of the Baja SAE (Society of Automotive Engineers) Club at Alfred University, approached Koike Aronson, an Arcade, NY-based manufacturer of high quality metal cutting, welding and positioning equipment, to solicit a sponsorship ahead of a competition the club was participating in. In Baja SAE competitions, teams from colleges and universities across the country are tasked with designing and constructing a single-seat all-terrain sporting vehicle. Pero was hoping Koike Aronson would use its equipment to cut some steel to be used on the club's competition car. A year later,

Steuben Academic All Stars complete regular season

Submitted by MARY HARRIS

STEUBEN COUNTY—In the final matches of the regular season, there were highly contested results in three of the four divisions.

Large School Division

After regular play on the night in which Bath (24) defeated Corning Gold (23) and Hornell (76) outlasted Corning Black (55), a tiebreaker was played to decide the Large School Division champion. Hornell and Corning Black (Karen Palmer, coach) were each 4 and 2 on their season and after the 21 question tiebreaker Hornell came through victorious with a score of 5-0 under the guidance of their coaches Gary Kelleher and Jordan Titus.

Medium Large School Division

A tiebreaker was necessary in this division as well. Canisteo-Greenwood (57) took the win from Campbell-Savona (38) in the first match of the evening and Naples (36) toppled Addison (14) in the second. This forced a tie on the season as Canisteo-Greenwood and Naples (coach Jon Betrus) both had 5 and 1 records. After the 21 question tiebreaker, Canisteo-Greenwood (with coach Matt Druin) was victorious 10-4.

Medium Small School Division

Hammondsport (66) won over Arkport (30) in the first match of the evening and Alfred-Almond defeated Jasper-Troupsburg, forcing a tie between the victors. With only one loss on the season for Hammondsport (John Kloiber, coach) and Alfred-Almond (Steve Donlon, coach), the tiebreaker resulted with Alfred-Almond taking the championship 8-4. (not all scores were available at press time)

Small School Division

Avoca 63 - Canaseraga 25
Bradford 67 - Prattsburgh 32

This division was the only one without a tiebreaking round. Avoca dominated the division with an undefeated season and coach Kay Baker at the helm.

Division Winners to Meet

Division winners will meet next Monday night at 6:15 p.m. in Bath where Hornell and Canisteo-Greenwood will face off for the large school division trophy and Alfred-Almond will meet Avoca for the small school division trophy. Congratulations to all teams for a great season.

Genesee Natural Foods recipe

[Editor's Note: Like most of the recipes she shared with our readers over the past couple of decades, Ellen Shultz's Sunny Side Up columns are worth repeating.]

Genesee Natural Foods is celebrating its twenty-fifth anniversary this year (2004). If you have never visited them, I suggest you take an outing down Route 19 out of Wellsville to Genesee, Pa., then Route 499 toward Gold, Pa. and watch for the store on your right.

They offer a wide variety of high quality food, many products certified and organically grown. Diane and Larry Hinrichsen started their organic farm in 1975. Even though they have given up on the animals, the store is still going strong. They also offer free camping and hiking trails and two ponds for supervised fishing and swimming. Please call ahead to make arrangements for these.

The store offers beverages and juice, breads, including Gluten Free and Lo-Carb, soy products, baking needs, cleaning products, condiments, pastas, rice and grains, fresh organic produce, vitamins and supplements, and other things too numerous to mention. It's an adventure just to wander through the many rooms of their store. Their website is www.gnfe.com. Check them out for something delicious and a little different.

This is a recipe from their catalog:

Tabouli (Taboolie) Salad

Soak for one hour: 1 c. warm water and 2 c. bulgur
1 c. chopped parsley 1/2 c. olive oil
1/2 c. chopped onion 2 T. fresh mint or 1 tsp. dried mint
2-3 med. tomatoes, chopped 2 cloves garlic, minced or pressed
1/2 c. lemon juice

Mix all together and toss lightly. Refrigerate before serving to allow the wheat to absorb the moisture. Serve on a bed of lettuce and garnish with parsley or sliced tomatoes. This salad is a staple in the Middle East.

ECCAAA seeks donations for 2019 'MORP'

To the Editor:

To provide a safe environment for our youth who are attending the Alfred-Almond Central School prom this year, the Evangelical Christian Churches Around Alfred and Almond (ECCAAA) are again sponsoring "MORP", an after-prom party at the AACS gym.

This party will be an all-night event for all those students who have attended the prom and will last from 11:30 p.m. on Saturday, May 4, 2019 to 7 a.m. Sunday, May 5.

We have many things planned for this event including pizza, door prizes, refreshments, and a continental breakfast in the morning. Some of the activities that will be taking place throughout the night include sports such as basketball, laser tag, party games, game show challenges, and much, much more. Our goal is to keep the teens busy with good clean fun and entertainment.

In order to make this event a success, we need the help of local businesses, organizations, and individuals in the community. Due to the generosity of our surrounding communities, we have been able to give hundreds of dollars worth of prizes away each year. We would greatly appreciate if those reading this would consider donating to this event.

Things that we are looking for include gift cards, monetary donations, door prizes, or a donation of refreshments. In appreciation for any donation we will make sure that you will receive public recognition for your generosity!

If you are willing to help through a donation, all monetary donations are being processed through Alfred Almond Bible Church and can be directly sent there. For any other type of donation, or if you have any questions, please contact me at kshutt@aabible.org or call (716) 225-8692.

Thank you so much for your consideration.

In appreciation,
Pastor Ken Shutt

The Transition To Spring Isn't A Slam-Dunk Or, Though This Be April, Yet There Is Madness In't

April is that time of year when seasons duke it out; Spring is on the march, but winter's madness still has clout.

Not meaning to sound hokey—it's a seminal occasion, But one that's sure to bring, to some, unlimited frustration.

Only spartan folks enjoy it; most are cavalier. Not sure it's even fit for ducks and wildcats 'round here.

Racers might enjoy it, running out in springtime airs— Of course, they best watch out for tigers, wolverines, and bears.

Like a terrapin or gator is the rate it's getting warmer? (Choose the latter, cuz it's probably much quicker than the former.)

That spring's around the corner now, is just a bunch of bull; Anyone who'd go fer that is simply pitiful.

Imagine nights around campfire flames with all your troops... Any volunteers for camping? Nah—let's watch some hoops.

Fresh Air Fund seeks volunteers

Dear Editor,

The Fresh Air Fund looks forward to celebrating National Volunteer Week, which is from April 7th to April 13th this year. It is an opportunity to extend my heartfelt gratitude to our inspiring volunteers, hosts and supporters in the Southwest Seneca Lake Area.

The Fresh Air Fund's programs would not be possible without the commitment of our dedicated volunteers, many of whom are also host families, who serve on committees, interview prospective host families, publicize the program and plan summer activities. Additionally, individuals and local businesses give generously of their time and resources to make The Fresh Air Fund's Friendly Towns Program a great success throughout the Southwest Seneca Lake Area each summer.

As we hear from alumni and connect with long standing host families, we continue to learn how Fresh Air Fund summers have impacted lives – and continue to transform lives many years later. We have learned that a summer can last a lifetime.

The Fresh Air Fund, an independent, not-for-profit agency, has provided free summer experiences to more than 1.8 million New York City children from low-income communities since 1877. First time Fresh Air children are boys and girls, from seven to 12 years old, who live in New York City. Children who are reinvented by host families may continue with The Fresh Air Fund through age 18 and can enjoy extended trips.

For more information on how you can get involved, please contact Rachel Beiler, at soaringagle69@frontiernet.net or visit www.freshair.org.

Sincerely,

Fatima Shama, Executive Director, The Fresh Air Fund

HORNELL AREA WIND ENSEMBLE

Young Artist Contest on tap Sunday, April 7

HORNELL--The Hornell Area Wind Ensemble Youth Artist Concert will be held at 3 p.m. Sunday, April 7 in the Hornell Senior High School Auditorium. Admission is free for this and all concerts of the Hornell Area Wind Ensemble.

In January, a group of students from nearby counties auditioned for the opportunity to perform with the Hornell Area Wind Ensemble.

The ensemble's First Place Young Artist Award winner is Emily Willgens from Fillmore Central School. She will perform Sonata for Trombone and Piano by Eric Ewazen.

The Second Place Young Artist Award winner is Josue Escriban, also from Fillmore Central School. Josue will perform Concerto in F Major by Antonio Vivaldi.

Members of the Hornell Area Wind Ensemble are excited to present these young musicians to the audience. They are to be commended for the time and effort that goes into preparing for a solo performance.

The wind ensemble has some special selections for this April concert. A few of the 'teasers' that hopefully will encourage area residents to attend include:

- "March from Symphonic Metamorphosis of Themes by Carl Maria von Weber" by Paul Hindemith.

- "Ballet Parisien" by Jacques Offenbach arranged by Merle J Isaac. The story line of the ballet is set in a French café and has convivial dancing and many amorous, flirtatious adventures centering on two men: A Baron who favors a young woman selling gloves, and a Peruvian who pursues a relationship with a flower girl. It is all quite mischievous fun, and well suited to Offenbach's music of waltzes, a fast Galop, and a Can-Can.

- "Variations on a Korean Folk Song" by John Barnes Chance. While stationed with the U.S. Army in Korea in the late 1950's, John Chance was fascinated by a popular Korean folk melody called The Arirang, which means 'rolling hills' in Korean. It's a traditional song of love and heartbreak found in many variations.

- "Second Suite for Military Band in F Major" by Gustav Holst. Holst composed the Second Suite in 1911, but became preoccupied (and later fatigued) by the details of supervising an opera in London, England for Morley College students. The operatic 'supervising' took so much of Holst's time and energy, that he forgot he had written the Second Suite - until asked to compose a piece for a military band in 1921. It was then that Holst remembered the Second Suite he had written 10 years earlier.

- "Selections from Walt Disney's Mary Poppins for Concert Band" by Richard M Sherman, Robert B Sherman, arranged by Irwin Kostal, edited by Alfred Reed. Who feeds the birds, gives a spoonful of sugar to make medicine more agreeable, loves to laugh, flies kites and can spell (supercalifragilisticexpialidocious)? It's Mary Poppins, of course!

- "Eye of the Hawk" by Susan Botti. During a tour of the Hudson Valley, composer Susan Botti, was inspired by the magnificent sights to write Eye of the Hawk.

With both the Young Artists and a nice variety of selections, the April 7 concert looks to be a spring treat!

The Third Perfection

THE THIRD PERFECTION

One afternoon not long ago, my five-year-old granddaughter taught the basics of sitting meditation to her red-haired doll, Pippi Longstocking. Being a rag doll, Pippi is not very good at sitting upright, so after repeated attempts, Allegra allowed her to lie down. "I know you can do this," she explained to Pippi, "but since this is your first day, I want you to be a little comfortable with what it feels like instead of what it looks like." With Pippi lying flat on her back, Allegra proceeded with her lesson. "You just have to listen to your breathing," she advised.

If you are familiar with the stories of Pippi Longstocking, you might agree that Astrid Lindgren's rambunctious nine-year-old heroine, who is physically strong but conspicuously lacking in tact, could use a bit of meditation in her life. But in addition to teaching Pippi how to meditate, Allegra was also demonstrating by example a quality much prized in the Zen tradition. Known by its Sanskrit name of kshanti paramita (pron. kuh-SHAWN-ti pear-uh-ME-tuh), it is the Third Perfection of Wisdom to which serious Zen practitioners aspire. At once conceptually complex and emotionally challenging, it comprises three principal dimensions, each of them integral to the whole.

The word kshanti is most often translated as "pa-

One Time, One Meeting

By BEN HOWARD

tiencence." To practice kshanti is first of all to cultivate a patient attitude toward those forms of suffering that Zen teachings view as natural and inevitable: hardship, aging, illness, and death. No less important, to practice kshanti is to bear with equanimity the harm done to us, intentionally or inadvertently, by others. At the most practical level, the cultivation of kshanti begins with mindfulness of its opposite: the impatience we experience in everyday life, whether we are waiting in line at a checkout counter or driving in heavy traffic. Aware of that state of mind arising, we can remind ourselves to be patient, simply by saying the word to ourselves. Beyond such specific measures, however, Zen teachings encourage us to develop a patient attitude toward the uncertain, contingent, and ungraspable aspects of our lives. To practice kshanti, in short, is to cultivate patience with life itself.

The second dimension of kshanti might best be described as ubiquitous tolerance. In his book The Six Perfections, the Buddhist scholar Dale S. Wright focuses on this aspect of the Third Perfection, while also examining its problematic status in contemporary Western culture. For centuries, tolerance of others has been a cornerstone of liberal democracy. But in an era when "zero tolerance" has become a political rallying cry on both the right and left, and when intolerance of social injustice is widely perceived as a social virtue, the ancient Buddhist practice of cultivating tolerance may seem irrelevant, if not morally objectionable. Suffice it to say that in its original sense kshanti is hardly to be equated with a passive acceptance of societal evils. On the contrary, it is an active practice of tolerating—of training ourselves to tolerate—whatever adversity and misfortune we may encounter. More broadly, the practice challenges us to tolerate the often painful fact of impermanence, the sometimes uncomfortable reality of interdependence, and the radically unpredictable nature of our everyday lives.

The third dimension of kshanti has much in common with patience and tolerance but differs in one important way. Thich Nhat Hanh points to this dimension by defining kshanti as "inclusiveness," by which he means the capacity not only to receive and embrace suffering but also to transform it. Likening this capacity to the earth, which absorbs "fair and foul substances" alike, Thich Nhat Hanh views kshanti as an agent of transformation, personal and social. Rather than suppress the pain we suffer at the hands of others, we can investigate its causes and seek to understand them. Rather than react with righteous indignation to social injustice, we can "look deeply" and examine the "roots" of others' harmful actions. To do this, however, we have first to "make the heart big": to develop a magnanimity of heart and mind sufficient to absorb and transform suffering. In the Buddhist tradition, there are concrete practices dedicated to that purpose, the most prominent being the contemplation and cultivation of the Four Immeasurable Minds (loving-kindness, compassion, sympathetic joy, and equanimity).

"Practice makes perfect," an old saying reminds us. Where the practice of the Third Perfection is concerned, that claim may be less than realistic. Like death and taxes, ingrained habits of impatience, intolerance, and discrimination may always be with us, wreaking their havoc in our personal, familial, and social lives. But merely by becoming acutely aware of those habits, we began to ameliorate their destructive force. And should we choose to persist in the practice, making it an unshakable intention and a component of our daily lives, we may in time catch sight of what Zen calls the other shore: the shore free of delusion, fear, and suffering.

The World of Our Immune System: Introduction

Our immune system is a complex network of cells, tissues, and organs that helps the body fight infections and other diseases. It is our military which protects us from microbial invaders and manages inflammation on the homefront.
The primary components of the immune system include the tonsils, adenoids, lymph nodes, thymus, spleen, peyer's patches, appendix, and bone marrow.
A few weeks ago I shared with you a strategy to strengthen your immune system. This protocol was both to enable you to ward off acute conditions such as colds and flus as well as prevent chronic conditions and diseases that develop from a weakened immune system.
Now, I dive significantly deeper into this fascinating militant network. Together we will journey through the following topics and more:
-The anatomy and physiology of the immune system.

-Acute vs. chronic immune conditions.
-The defense methods of the immune system.
-Differences between a bacteria, virus, parasite, and fungus.
-Inflammations relationship to immune system.
-How our foundations of digestion, blood sugar handling, minerals, fatty acids, and hydration impact the immune system.
-Our gut/brain connection.
In between this bi-weekly series, continue to anticipate "Thriving Recipes and Thriving Tips." I look ahead to a rewarding discussion on this system and welcome your questions and input along the way!

DIY Companion Planting

Companion Planting

It's almost time to get in the garden. As you form your garden layouts and start your seeds are you considering companion planting? Common sense tells us some plants grow best alongside each other while other plants compete and do not thrive. Do you know many fragrant flowers attract beneficial insects while most alliums deter pests with their strong scent? Additionally plants that require the same nutrients or occupy the same level of soil strata may compete with each other significantly, lowering your yield?

I stumbled upon companion planting eleven years ago in one of my first gardens. I mistakenly planted tomatoes next to peppers and only yielded one tiny pepper all season! I was so confused until I did some research and found out they not only compete on several levels but they also share the same pests.

If you would like more information on garden planning or any other topics I discussed- I will be teaching a Companion Planting Class at 5:30 p.m. Friday, April 26 at Sunny Cove Farm. Space is limited so please call/text 716-510-5764 to reserve your spot.

ARTISTS FROM IRELAND, SCOTLAND

Keynote speaker for the International Day of Celtic Art 2019 Conference will be Dr. Donncha MacGabhann.

Mike King with geologist Ian Meighan and archaeologist Peter Harbrison inspect Downpatrick Cross.

Andover to host international celtic artists in June

ANDOVER—"There has never been a better time to be a Celtic artist," says Michael Carroll. Carroll is a Chicago-based calligrapher and master of illumination in the traditional Irish Celtic style most often associated with the 8th century Book of Kells. Carroll explains that "The methods have been re-discovered and the road is clear." Resources, training and public appreciation has never been greater in his lifetime. From June 7 to 9 artists, craftsmen and Celtic art scholars will convene on the small village of Andover to study and discuss this mysterious and beautiful artistic tradition. This gathering will bring together many artists who have never met face to face. An online community of Celtic artists has flourished for two decades. A news group was founded on June 9, 2000, Saint Columba's Day. As this 6th century Irish monk is well associated with Celtic art, the group decided to designate his feast day as The International Day of Celtic Art in 2017. Events and exhibits have been held worldwide. The art form, with its characteristic abstract designs of knots, spirals, interlaced animals and geometric step and key patterns has become emblematic of the heritage of the various Celtic ethnic groups. These include the Irish, Scots, Welch, Manx, Cornish, Breton and even some regions of the Iberian Peninsula such as Asturias and Galicia. The artform reached its Golden Age from the 7th to 10th centuries AD and then has undergone numerous revivals. In the 1850s the style reemerged in a way that was strongly associated with Irish and Scottish national identity. Since the 1990s a renaissance in Celtic art has blossomed, fueled in part by several high-profile museum exhibitions and the publication of a plethora of books on the subject. With presenters coming from as far as Scotland, Ireland, and Canada, one may well ask, "why such an unlikely place as Andover, New York?" In 1959 a young artist, William "Scotty" MacCrea was hired as the art teacher at Andover Central School. MacCrea was from a Gaelic speaking Scottish Canadian family. His art included Celtic elements and his enthusiasm infected many of the hundreds of students he mentored over the thirty-one years he taught at Andover. MacCrea, now aged 86, will be one of the presenters at the conference. Gregory Hardy, a former student of MacCrea's will present a lecture about the local tradition of Celtic art, involving dozens of artists and spanning over fifty years, that began with MacCrea's art classes. Dr. Donncha MacGabhann from Ireland will also address the conference. Like MacCrea, MacGabhann was an art teacher in a rural high school. After retiring from his teaching job in County Limerick, MacGabhann went on to get his PhD in art history and has emerged as an expert on Celtic manuscript art, having spent time as a research associate at Trinity College Dublin studying the Book of Kells. Also from Ireland, Mike King, will give a presentation on the conservation of Saint Patrick's Cross and the Downpatrick Market Cross. These two medieval stone monuments were also copied in stone to replace the originals in their additional locations so that the older monuments could be protected from further weathering and deterioration. King is the former curator of Downpatrick Museum.

Other presentations will include artists doing show-and-tell presentations of their own art like Scottish fiber artist Ruth Black. Her presentation is titled Embroidering the Past - using textiles to explore the Pictish Stones of Northern Scotland. Ed Rooney of Philadelphia will expound on the computer graphics he creates in the Celtic style. Michael Carroll will give a presentation on his own work as well as a second lecture on the history and construction methods of key patterns. Walker Metalsmiths Celtic Jewelry, based on Main Street in Andover is one of the sponsors of the gathering. Owner Steve Walker will give a presentation on medieval metal casting techniques that will be a digest of several lectures he has given in Ireland and the UK over the past twelve years. Canadian enamel artist Catherine Crowe will also be addressing jewelry as she delves into the history of Celtic enamels. Lectures, presentations and discussions on Friday, June 7 and Saturday, June 8 will alternate with an exhibition, open to the public, of the artwork of the visiting artists and Friday evening from 6 to 8 p.m. at 1 Main Street in Andover. On Saturday evening there will be a banquet with traditional Celtic Music provided by The Jameson Sisters of Philadelphia. On Sunday afternoon Michael Carroll will offer a three hour class titled Key patterns by hand and eye. More information on the conference and registration details can be found at <https://www.celticartday.com/2019-conference> or phone Walker Metalsmiths at 607-478-8567.

AGRICULTURAL ENTREPRENEURSHIP

Alfred State to launch baccalaureate agriculture program

ALFRED—Alfred State College is excited to announce that it will soon launch the first four-year agriculture program in the school's history.

Classes for the new Bachelor of Technology degree program in agricultural entrepreneurship will begin in the fall of 2019. This new program is designed to provide tomorrow's agricultural entrepreneurs with the skills to make local agriculture economically viable through the application of traditional production practices and the development of value-added (VA) products.

Students will take production courses to build a strong foundation in agriculture, value-added courses to develop non-traditional agriculture skills, and business courses to understand marketing and financial management.

The program will appeal to both traditional students who come from a farm background, and to those who are new to agriculture. Students will become prepared to be successful in their efforts to improve the profitability of an existing farm, or start a new agricultural venture of their own.

A variety of different jobs will be available for Alfred State agricultural entrepreneurship graduates, including manager or owner of a commercial farm; agricultural credit officer; warehouse manager for farm chemicals, feed, seed, and fertilizers; and more.

Dr. Phil Schroeder, chair of the Agriculture and Veterinary Technology Department and coordinator of the new program, stated, "We are very excited to offer a baccalaureate degree in agriculture and believe it will greatly enhance educational opportunities for students from western New York and beyond."

Dr. Skip Sullivan, president of Alfred State, said, "Exciting things are happening in our Agriculture and Veterinary Technology Department, from the addition of in-demand majors such as agricultural entrepreneurship, to the diversifying of our College Farm. I thank everyone who made this new program possible."

Dr. Kristin Poppo, provost at Alfred State, said, "The agricultural entrepreneurship BTech is an innovative new program that prepares students for a wide range of opportunities, from focusing on value-added products on the family farm to being part of the corporate agricultural industry. The college's largely renovated farm, including an organic dairy and meat production, will provide exceptional applied learning experiences."

Dr. Daniel Katz, dean of the School of Arts and Sciences, said, "This landmark program enhances Alfred State's historic mission to support the agricultural economy of our region and beyond as it increases the opportunities for our students. The BTech in agricultural entrepreneurship grounds us in our traditions and highlights the future for the college."

Earth Month screenings scheduled

ANGELICA—Concerned Citizens of Allegany County (CCAC) is proud to co-sponsor several documentary film screenings during April, which is Earth Month. Earth Day will be celebrated April 22. Visit earthday.org to learn more.

First up is the new documentary film Denying Access: NoDAPL to NoNAPL to be shown at 7 p.m. tonight (Thursday, April 4) as part of a weekly Critical Cinema Film Series, a student-led film series curated by senior Emma Hilderbrant. The screening takes place in Holmes Auditorium, in Harder Hall on the Alfred University campus. Doors open at 6:30 p.m. A discussion with the filmmaker will follow.

Dr. Jason Corwin, Executive Director of the Seneca Media and Communications Center located on the Seneca Nation of Indians in Salamanca, is one of the filmmakers of Denying Access: NoDAPL to NoNAPL. Dr. Corwin will take audience questions after the screening.

CCAC's own documentary, "My Name is Allegany County" will be screened at 2 p.m. Monday, April 15 and Wednesday, April 17 as part of the Soils class (Ag and Vet Tech dept.) taught by Lecturer Jessica Hutchison. These screenings are free and open to the public and begin at 2:00 p.m. in Room 102, Agriculture Building on the Alfred State College campus, 10 Upper College Drive, Alfred. CCAC members who participated in the 'Bump The Dump' movement are expected to attend.

This year marks the 29th anniversary of the successful grassroots battle to 'Bump The Dump' in Allegany County. Faced with the siting of a low-level radioactive waste dump in the county, people mobilized quickly. When 5,000 people attended the first public meeting, the NYS Siting Commission got a taste for the fierce, unyielding opposition they were about to endure.

A third screening of "My Name is Allegany County" will be held Thursday, April 25, also at Holmes Auditorium in Harder Hall at Alfred University. Once again, the film is hosted by Critical Cinema. Doors open at 6:30 p.m. CCAC members who participated in the 'Bump The Dump' movement are expected to attend.

KoikeJet machine donated

Koike did Alfred University one better, donating the KoikeJet E60 water jet machine.

Already, the Baja SAE team has used the KoikeJet E60 to cut parts for the vehicle that will be used in this spring's competition. Alfred University's Design-Build-Fly team, which participates in the spring in a competition sponsored by the American Institute of Aeronautics and Astronautics, has also made use of the new equipment.

"We are happy to help any other clubs or classes that may need our assistance," said Mighells, who manages the engineering STEP Lab and serves as advisor to the Baja SAE club.

Ron Krasnek, International Sales and Marketing manager for Koike Aronson, said his company was happy to provide the equipment to Alfred University.

"We are grateful to be able to work with you to educate young students as they come in and grow," he said. "We're proud to be able to work with you and do this together."

In addition to donating the equipment, Koike provided assistance in getting the machinery set up, and has been putting engineering personnel in touch with third party vendors who have provided materials—such as steel, to cut on the machine; blasting media (abrasives added to the water)—as well as computer software.

Mark Zupan, Alfred University president, thanked Koike for its generosity. "We pride ourselves on having a maker culture at Alfred University. This allows us to build on that," Zupan said.

New smoke detector law goes into effect statewide

ALFRED STATION—On Monday, April 1, a new law went into effect in New York State, requiring all battery-operated smoke alarms to have a 10-year sealed battery. This ensures that the smoke alarm will operate for the lifespan of the alarm, so individuals do not need to worry about replacing the batteries.

Curtis and Randi Corkey of Almond, owners of Tinkertown Hardware, Alfred's independently owned local hardware store, said the store has a good supply of the smoke alarms that are compliant with the new law.

Here are some Tips to Check Home's Safety:

- Practice a fire escape plan. According to a recent study conducted by First Alert, only 43 percent of Americans report having a home escape plan in place. However, only a quarter (26 percent) have ever practiced it. After planning an emergency escape route, practice it at least twice a year.

- Test alarms to ensure they are in proper working condition. All alarms—regardless of the power source—should be tested monthly.

- Equip your home with the recommended number of smoke and CO alarms. The National Fire Protection Association suggests having at least one CO alarm on each level, including the basement, and one in or near every bedroom. For smoke alarms, homes should have one installed on every level of the home and inside each bedroom.

- Update alarms. If you don't know how old an alarm is, the safest bet is to replace it immediately, as all alarms expire beyond 10 years. Smoke alarms should be replaced every 10 years, while most CO alarms should be replaced every five to seven years (some new CO alarms are tested to last 10 years).

- Dust off alarms periodically to maintain a clear pathway for detection.

Works begins on Rt 19 bridge in Village of Belmont

BELMONT—The New York State Department of Transportation announced last week that beginning this week (April 1), work will begin on a bridge rehabilitation project of state Route 19 over Plumbottom Creek, between Maple Street and John Street in the village of Belmont, Allegany County.

Work to replace the existing concrete slab will progress in stages, with traffic being reduced to a single lane controlled by temporary signals. Work is anticipated to be completed in December 2019.

Motorists may experience minor travel delays. It is imperative that motorists remember this season to drive carefully through the many highway and bridge construction zones they will encounter.

Motorists are reminded that fines are doubled for speeding in a work zone. In accordance with the Work Zone Safety Act of 2005, convictions of two or more speeding violations in a work zone could result in the suspension of an individual's driver license.

mation, call 511, visit www.511NY.org or contact the NYSDOT on Twitter @NYS-DOTHornell.

Str8 Eight tournament 8 pm Monday, April 8 at Terra Cotta

ALFRED—Due to an unforeseen scheduling challenge, the monthly Str8Eight Tournament for March was withdrawn.

However, February's tournament saw local high school student, Ben Carstens, storm out with strong scores in the first two rounds then coast into the final round with a commanding lead. But, that is when his luck ran out as Andover resident (and mother-in-law of the game's inventor), Linda Sootheran, who started the evening with a negative first round score, came all the way back to snatch the gift card with an extremely Alfred total of 587 points!

Can Linda defend her title after a month's respite or will Ben be able to put together four solid rounds of Str8 Eight? Come on out to the Terra Cotta

Coffee House at 8 p.m. Monday evening, April 8 to find out or see if you can topple them both and go home with the $25 gift card.

Visit <http://str8-eight.com> for more information on how to play.

The Ceramic Association of New York was the first to contribute to the campaign to raise funds for the preservation of the "Terra Cotta," a unique structure built almost entirely of terra cotta produced by the Celadon Terra Cotta Company. The Celadon plant operated in Alfred Centre, New York from 1889 to 1909 when it was destroyed by fire. The building was built in 1892 and served as the plant office and as a standing advertisement for its products. The Ludowici Tile Company (now Ludowici-Celadon Company) acquired the Celadon Terra Cotta Company in 1906 and relocated the operation in Ohio after the 1909 fire. The presence of the Celadon plant in Alfred was a major factor in locating the New York School of Clayworking (SUNY College of Ceramics) at Alfred University. The Terra Cotta building stands in the way of a new physical education facility and the Alfred Historical Society has undertaken its preservation as a landmark and a representation of an era of ceramic industry. According to Dr. Daniel E. Rase, chairman of the preservation committee, the Society will relocate the Terra Cotta near the SUNY College of Ceramics complex. It will serve and house a specialized educational museum dedicated to terra cotta. The cost of relocation has been estimated at $12,000.

Johnston and Joseph Fasano of Alfred have already announced intentions to run for the post of legislator for the district. The registered Republicans outnumber the registered Democrats in the district, 978 to 958. Under the reapportionment plan approved by the voters, three legislators will be elected from each of the five districts in the county, but no more than one legislator in a district can be elected from any one township, regardless of the number of votes he receives in the primary.

(Photo) Clearing the Way—The building site has been cleared for the first stage of construction for the Miller Performing Arts Center at Alfred University. As trees were cleared by Christa Construction, an erosion control fence was installed. Now the contractor is working on re-aligning State Street to accommodate the building. At the site itself, drilling has begun with the goal to install rock anchors. Following that, installation of the building caissons can begin. The building is slated for completion in 1995.

March 10-11....Daniel Schwert, son of David and Trudi Schwert of Alfred, has been named to the dean's list for the winter quarter of the academic year at Rose-Hulman Institute of Technology in Terre Haute, IN....

Notes from Palmiter Hill—It was dark still when church people gathered at our neighbor's pond to sing Easter hymns and give thanks for winter's passing. Thirty or more hardy Christians repeated this age-old ritual. A sore throat warranted me staying close to the house, but friend wife represented us. On Easter morning we always remember the thousands who gather Easter morning at the Red Rocks amphitheater some miles west of Denver....My neighbor has a tree in his hillside woods that attracts my attention. Some thirty feet from the ground its branches abruptly turn right and left. Apparently some years ago the sapling's upthrust was nipped off and two side branches by natural growth stretched upwards on both right and left to take its place. The main trunk is now twenty inches or so in diameter, and the side branches have turned upward to make a giant "U." So mother nature accommodates herself to the woodlot accidents that happen without any help from us humans....

Coach Al Brown's Alfred laxers aren't moving up in the national rankings but the Saxons rolled to an 8-0 record as they won two straight EAA contests, 13-10 over Clarkson and 17-6 over St. Lawrence....

An investigator from the federal Department of Education's Office of Civil Rights will be conducting a routine investigation into Alfred University's compliance with Title IX, the Equal Opportunity for Education Act, adopted in 1972...The complaint arises from a letter sent by an attorney representing an anonymous group that identified itself as "parents of Alfred University female student-athletes" last June....

(Photo) Alfred University President Charles M. Edmondson has signed a licensing agreement with Santanoni Glass in Alfred for a process, developed by Dr. William C. LaCourse, professor of glass science, to make super-strong glass. LaCourse and his wife, Patricia, are owners of Santanoni Glass. They display some of the household items, from drinking glasses to wine goblets and sports bottles, that can be made nearly unbreakable by the strengthening process.

Andover Lions are having a record year for maple syrup production. Under the leadership of Sugar Shack chairman Ed Derowitsch, the Lions have been harvesting maple sap in the Village of Andover from 250 taps. Alternating warm and freezing weather throughout the month of March has been ideal conditions for a bountiful harvest. THE GLORY OF AMERICA

Thursday, April 4

William Henry Harrison died on this day in 1841, one month after placing his hand on the Bible and repeating the oath to office to become the 9th President of the United States. In his Inaugural Address, he declared:

"I deem the present occasion sufficiently important and solemn to justify me in expressing to my fellow citizens a profound reverence for the Christian religion, and a thorough conviction that sound morals, religious liberty, and a just sense of religious responsibility are essentially connected with all true and lasting happiness."

Church to host coffeehouse April 5

SCIO--Area residents will have an opportunity to rejuvenate from winter doldrums Friday night, April 5, when a local church hosts a free coffee house with beverages, refreshments, music, games and other fun activities for children and youth, individuals, couples and families.

This First Friday gathering, which alternates monthly with a free movie night, will be from 7 to 9 p.m. at Knights Creek Church, 2987 Knights Creek Road (County Road 9).

The event coincides with the church's growing Friday night children, youth and young adults group for school children and post-school youth which starts at the same times each week.

The church also hosts a number of other community activities, according to Pastor Carl Kemp.

It is offering a six-week series on "What On Earth Am I Here For?," a DVD/discussion study on determining one's purpose in life from teen to elder years. It is narrated by Rick Warren, pastor of Saddleback Church in California, author of the long-running best selling book "Purpose Driven Life" which has sold millions of copies and been translated into dozens of languages. The church also is the developer of Celebrate Recovery, a Saturday night ministry offered weekly at Knights Creek.

A free Community Dinner is offered every Sunday following the church's 11 a.m. worship services, followed by free music lessons for children and adults. A 6 p.m. evening service follows.

The church offers public prayer for individual, community, county, state, national and world issues from 6:30 to 7:30 a.m. weekday mornings. A weekly Bible study is provided at 6 p.m. Wednesdays. Knights Creek is joining with the congregation-supported Hope Center in Wellsville during April for a prayer focus on Kids Dangers.

From 7 to 9 p.m. Saturdays it hosts Celebrate Recovery | Celebrate Victory, an ongoing support for individuals and youth who are struggling with all types of hurts, hangups, habits and negative life issues, with group facilitators also part of the Celebrate Recovery Inside team that offers similar support groups Tuesday nights for men and women in Allegany County Jail.

Further information on these activities is available at www.facebook.com/KnightsCreekChurch or from Casey Jones, church outreach assistance, at bps461@msn.com or (484) 435-0503.

RILEY LECTURE

AU alum fights gunfire with fire

By TALULLA BORTHE
Alfred University student

ALFRED—Alfred University alum Pearl Dick is helping fight gunfire with fire through the medium of glass, she told an AU audience March 27 in Holmes Auditorium.

“We [Dick and her colleagues] combine glass arts education, mentoring and trauma psycho-education to support trauma recovery and create jobs for youth injured by violence,” she said.

Dick, the Chicago based artist and activist who delivered this year’s annual Women’s and Gender Studies Riley Lecture, graduated from AU in 1998 with a bachelor’s of fine arts degree in glass and painting.

Dick says she fell in love with glass when she first visited Alfred and experienced the collaboration and harmony in the “hot shop,” where glassblowing takes place. She has been working with glass for over 20 years, and discovered her passion for teaching about 15 years ago.

Today, in addition to showing her work in galleries all over the US, she manages a public glass studio and is the artistic director of ArtReach Chicago, a nonprofit organization offering glass and ceramic art programming, with a focus on social justice, to youth and adults. She is working to expand Project Fire (Fearless Initiative for Recovery and Empowerment), a program she co-founded in 2015 that combines glassblowing, mentoring and trauma psycho-education for youth in Chicago who have survived gunshot wounds.

In her lecture, titled “Glassblowing and Healing Trauma: a Queer Woman of Color’s Feminist Approach,” Dick spoke about the impact that glass art can have on a community. As a queer woman of color, Dick uses glassblowing as a platform to grow human connections, recognize similarities and embrace differences.

Dick began the Riley Lecture by stating society still has light years to go in terms of fighting racism, sexism and xenophobia. As a queer woman of color coming from a conservative town, Dick sees art as a platform where seeds for change can be planted.

Dick called gun violence an epidemic in the US, with more children killed by firearms in 2017 than police officers in line of duty and active duty US military based worldwide combined. Project Fire offers healing through glassblowing to youth injured by gun-violence and focuses on the creation of a safe space and empowerment. Glassblowing shifts the youths’ narratives from victims, to survivors, to advocates, says Dick. In so doing, Project Fire helps young people become more positive about their future, she adds.

Dick is currently working on expanding her services to all women, especially women of color, who have been injured by gun violence. She stated her strong belief that women and men working together with hot glass can build an environment of mutual respect in her studio and beyond.

Dick concluded with a Q&A, in which she described how she merged her art and activism. “I just started exploring ways to give back with my art, and am constantly looking to connect with people,” she said.

Dick’s lecture was the 24th annual Elizabeth Hallenbeck Riley and Charles P. Riley Lecture-ship in Women’s Studies. Charles Riley (’35) and Elizabeth Hallenbeck Riley (’36) were AU graduates, and Elizabeth was a local activist involved in women’s rights issues. Their three daughters, Pamela Riley Osborn (’62), Patricia A. Riley (’65), and Melissa Riley sponsor the lecture in memory of their parents.

ALFRED UNIVERSITY SPORTS ROUND-UP

Saxon lacrosse team pulls away with 10-goal fourth

The Alfred University men's lacrosse team hosted Utica College Saturday in its first home Empire 8 game of the season. After a tight first three quarters, the Saxons (6-2, 2-0 Empire 8) pulled away late for the 16-5 victory.

Cale Donegan (Corning-Painted Post) was on fire once again as he totaled six points on the day to lead AU, including five goals and an assist.

Jack Chapman (Elmira/Notre Dame) and Joe Fornataro (Rochester/Greece Athena) each recorded hat-tricks for Alfred. Fornataro also assisted on two goals.

Kyle Landrigan (Canandaigua) and Jake McNaney (Corning-Painted Post) both scored one goal and assisted on two others.

Anthony Ricottilli (Cortland) scored one goal and had one assist while Frank Gavigan (Yorktown) and Peyton VanBibber (Canton/H.C. Williams) each scored a goal.

Ian Chedzoy (Watkins Glen), Shane Weber (Hull, MA/Hull) and Noah Soriano (Valley Cottage/Nyack) all assisted on goals. Weber caused a team high five turnovers.

Garrette Briggs (Horseheads) was 17-22 on face-offs and picked up a team high 16 ground balls.

Scott Kimiecik (Randolph, NJ) was impressive in the net to pick up his second win of the season. Kimiecik played all 60 minutes and finished with 13 saves on the afternoon.

Alfred scored early in the third quarter to take a four goal lead before Utica stormed back with two straight to make the score 6-4 at the end of the third quarter.

The momentum shifted in the fourth quarter, as AU outscored the Pioneers 10-1 in the final period to run away with its second Empire 8 victory of the season.

"We had guys step up today and lead this team which was great to see," Head Coach Jason Lockner said. "Kimiecik was great in goal and Donegan, Riccottilli, and Gavigan took over when we needed them to. I've never seen a team hit so many pipes when shooting as we did today. Happy for the guys to not get frustrated and stay focused to win the game. Shows a lot of character which is a mark of good team."

AU will host E8 foe Stevens Institute of Technology at 1 pm Saturday, April 6.

Softball splits with Utica

The softball team (8-10, Empire 8 3-1) split with Utica College Saturday afternoon at Harrington Field. Junior Jessica Wilcox (Forestville/Pine Valley) tied Nicole Hedrick's '12 career strikeout mark, ranking fourth all-time in AU history with 239 strikeouts.

Sophomore Moreta Dyke (Milesburg, PA/Bald Eagle Area) earned her second win of the year in game two, pitching five innings, allowing only one earned run. Both junior Jillian Murray (Eden) and Wilcox pitched one inning each.

"We know this team can hit. It was just a matter of time before they broke out and started hitting the ball and scoring it up while working counts," Head Coach Luke Wesneski said. "We were able to put 19 runs on the board today. Some of the players who were getting a little bit frustrated were turning it around today. We're excited about playing Utica tomorrow in a conference doubleheader. Hats off to our grounds crew for getting the field ready for today as we had a lot of rain last night and they were able to help us out."

AU is at Elmira Friday and at Stevens Saturday in E8 play.

ALFRED STATE SPORTS ROUND-UP

A-A's Colin Johnson goes 3-for-4

Baseball: 7-10, 1-3 AMCC

The hitting of Colin Johnson (Alfred Almond) and the pitching of Garrett Mack (Avon) led the Alfred State baseball team to a split of a AMCC doubleheader at Pitt-Bradford on Wednesday afternoon. The Pioneers won the nightcap 3-1 after falling to the Panthers 3-1 in the opener. A scheduled doubleheader vs. Pitt Greensburg was postponed on Saturday.

The Pioneers started off fast in the nightcap. Connor Pingitore (Amsterdam/Broadalbin Perth) singled, Samuel Dickerson (Cutchogue/Mattituck) was hit by a pitch, and one batter later Colin Johnson (Alfred Almond) hit a three-run homer to give Alfred State the early lead. Mack made that lead stand with a complete game three-hitter. He allowed an unearned run in the 7th inning but didn't allow the Panthers any closer. He walked five and struck out 11.

Johnson finished the game 3 for 4 with 3 RBI. Pingitore was the only other Pioneer with multiple hits finishing 2 for 4.

In the opener, Pitt Bradford got on the board first in the 3rd when they scored an unearned run. The Pioneers tied it up in the 5th on a RBI single by Dickerson to score Mike Gibson (Schenectady) who had led the inning off with a single. The Panthers took back the lead in the bottom of the inning with a two-out single and added an insurance run in the 6th. The Pioneers had chances but could not capitalize to tie the game up. Pingitore was the lone Pioneer with multiple hits. He finished 2 for 4. AJ Gartland (Irondequoit) allowed just four hits and one earned run in 4.2 innings but took the loss.

Lacrosse: 3-6

AJ Soto (Churchville) and Joe Johnson (Churchville) both registered eight points as the lacrosse team battled in three contests this past week. The Pioneers fell 22-6 to Cazenovia, 10-8 at Houghton, and 19-7 vs. SUNY Poly.

Soto and Johnson both recorded five goals and three assists on the week while Eric Passeck (Thomaston, CT) had three goals and four assists. In net, Matt Cobb (Churchville) made 47 saves.

The softball team had the week off but get

As I awoke on Monday morning past, I was hoping the results from the evening before in the NCAA tournament were indeed an April Fools joke and the Duke Blue Devils were off to the "Final Four" in men's basketball this weekend. As the ground outside was covered with snow, this all had to be a nightmare! Unfortunately, it wasn't.

Sunday (3/31) started out as a promising day. Leo Nealon and I headed over to a place called Shadow Hill Farm for a pancake breakfast in nearby Ontario, east of Webster. Very similar to Cartwright's Maple Tree Inn outside of Angelica. An excellent breakfast! After that I watched the UConn women advance to their "Final Four" with a victory in Albany as they topped Louisville. Good game. Then Kentucky loses in OT in men's hoop action. The day is going well. It was all downhill from there as Duke fell to Michigan State in a game worthy of the last grouping and then, after a rain delay, the NY Yankees lost to the lowly Baltimore Orioles.

So, it'll be Texas Tech-Michigan State and Virginia-Auburn in the semi-finals this weekend in the NCAA's from Minneapolis. Absolutely no clear cut favorite, I wouldn't think. For the record, my original picks had: Michigan State, Texas Tech and Virginia all losing in their respective regional finals. As well as Kentucky. Not too far off! Anyhow, for no reason, will go with the Spartans of Michigan State over Virginia on Monday nite.

April Fools ... I guess, with a sad ending to the Duke campaign. And worse, the frosh stars move on. Hate this. Either let them go to the NBA directly and/or stay in college for 2-3 years to play. Can see why Zion will go and RJ Barrett as well, but does Cam Reddish look "ready" for the NBA? Tre Jones? Both would look good back in Duke togs again next season ... like the "old days!" No foolin.

HITS AND MISSES:

Ron & Bonnie Caskey of Port Allegany, Pa. plus Gary and Mary Moore of Geneseo were at the Albany women's NCAA basketball games.

UConn advanced on Sunday as all four regionals were 1-2 matchups. Look for the Huskies to play Notre Dame this weekend in Tampa as the Irish stunned UConn last year in the "Final Four." Not this year, as it'll be Baylor beating UConn in the finals on Sunday.

The men's NIT "Final Four" is this week as well with Wichita State and Lipscomb in one semi-final at MSG, then an all-Texas outing in the other, TCU versus the Longhorns. Yankee scout Brad Del Barba picks Wichita State to win it all.

It is the men's "Frozen Four" in Buffalo this weekend at the Key Bank Center with Denver, UMass, Providence (who beat Cornell) and Minn-Duluth there.

Jake Taft, Our Man Frank and "Swanson" from Syracuse watched NCAA hoops last Friday nite at the Courtside Grille in Pinellas Park, FL. Scummer unable to stop by as he lives hours away, Stubb soon will be transferred to the east coast and Swanson ... a twin of Gids, is back in the 'Cuse by now.

Did watch some WGC golf action on the tube this past extended weekend, mainly to see Jordan Spieth and Tiger Woods. Spieth continues to struggle, not advancing and Tiger was stunned in the quarters after beating Rory McIlroy in the round of 16. Virtually never root against a golfer, just for ones to do well, but can make an exception with Sergio Garcia as he was in "jerk mode" in his match against Matt Kuchar.

Happened to be listening to the Jim Rome show on my way to North Carolina recently and he had Buffalo Bulls HC,

ALLEGANY COUNTY SPORTS HALL OF FAME

AU alum among sports inductees

HOUGHTON—Alfred University alumnus Bryan Karl '86, a former soccer player for the Saxons, was inducted into the Allegany County Sports Hall of Fame recently.

Karl was one of nine members of the 2019 Hall of Fame Class inducted during a ceremony Saturday, March 23, at Houghton College.

Before graduating in from Friendship Central School in 1982, Karl starred in soccer and basketball. He started three years on the varsity in each sport, earning All-County honors twice in soccer and once in basketball. As a senior, he was named the Allegany County Most Valuable Player in soccer.

Karl went on to Alfred University, where he played three seasons on the men's soccer team (1983-85) before earning a bachelor's degree in accounting in 1986.

Also inducted during the ceremony were Neil Van Name, Mary Kay Hayes, Chad Green, Dave Evans, Tom Brush, Jim Smith, Dan Williams and Bruce Voorhis.

Nate Oats on talking about his men's hoop team prior to the NCAA tourney and the contract extension he just signed. "Hoping they'll have me here (UB) for quite awhile." That lasted until the Bulls were bounced in the tourney as Oats promptly became the head coach at Alabama in the SEC.

Coach Skip Sherman (A-A) and his Genesee CC baseball team is at (9-7) this spring after a trip to Florida as they'll play the Alfred State College JV squad this weekend.

The Alfred State baseball team (7-10) has three local players on it with: Colin Johnson (A-A) ... currently hitting .366!, Gabe Lewis of Arkport and Jack Henby from Hornell.

Coach Tim Mead (Andover) and his Walsh Cavs baseball team in Ohio is (11-12) on the season after taking four-straight from Ohio Valley.

The Alfred University softball team is at (8-10) on the season with E8 play just underway. The Saxons are at SJ Fisher a week from Saturday. Might just wander over and see some of the DH.

Things aren't exactly "rolling along" for former Alfred head coach, Gino Olivieri as his Coppin State softball team stands at a nifty (3-16) as of Sunday past.

"Congrats" to former Alfred State baseball coach, Tom Kenney as he will be inducted into the Hall of Fame at the school. Richly deserved!

Bill Hardy (A-A) is a season ticket holder for the FC Cincinnati soccer team as they are now playing in the MLS.

"Congrats" are in order to SUNY Geneseo athletic director, Mike Mooney as he has been named the Under Armour AD of the Year.

MLB is underway and here are my picks for the 2019 season: Boston, Cleveland and Houston win their divisions in the AL with the Yanks and A's as wild cards. Over in the NL, a tougher call, with the Phillies winning a very tight East, the Cards and Dodgers the other two divisions. Wild cards to the Cubs and Nationals. Yanks over Cards in the World Series although it'll be tough to get by the BoSox/Astros from that wild card slot.

On Saturday past I went over to the "pre-opening" of the new Cheesy Eddie's in the Regional Market in Rochester as John & Colleen Baker are opening site #2. Had a chance to chat with the Baker's and Ryan's there, catching up and debating with Bill Baker who has been to more MLB stadiums. Plus, Donna Ryan and her "flying adventures!" Absolutely can't beat the desserts at Cheesy Eddie's ... no matter at which location!

Not much on tap this weekend at the moment. Might head over to Nazareth (4/3) to see Longman's Ithaca laxers play and then just watch hoops-golf this weekend.
